Sea Cadets Whip Welland 12 to 3

MINNICOD ISLAND, July 31.— Jellico Division of the Peterborough Sea Cadets swamped the Welland Sea Cadets to the tune of 12 to 3. Turcotte starred in the field while Shwier pitched an effective game. Heavy hitting was done by R. Brand who had three for three times up, Santomero had three hit also. Revoy did a swell job behind the plate and P. O. Genge managed and coached the team in great style. The line-up:—

Peterborough—Revoy, c; Syvertseh, lf; Shwier, p; Santomero, 2b; Turcotte, cf; Wagstaff, 1b; B. Brown, ss; Savage, ss; Brightman, rf; R. Brand, 3b.

Falcons Defeat Giants 9 to 8

The Falcons (St. Peter's) defeated the Giants 9 to 8 in a Catholic Junior League game played at the Memorial Park on Friday night.

G. Sullivan started for the Giants but was relieved in the fourth by R. Fitzgerald. F. Sullivan pitching for the Falcons went the whole route and hurled fine ball.

For the winners F. Lynch and Sheehy lead at bat with three for five. For the losers, G. Sullivan was topman with three for five, being followed by B. O'Rourke with two for five.

The game was featured by smart plays particularly the defensive play of the outfield. The youngsters are now dishing up a nice brand of ball and the Junior League although still in its early stages is beginning to produce its effects.

Bucky Harris Said Victim Of Doublecross

PHILADELPHIA, July 31—(AP)— Bucky Harris said yesterday that only a few weeks before he was dismissed without notice as manager of the Phillies he had helped put through a $20,000 yearly salary increase for President William D. Cox.

In addition, Harris said in an interview after his return from St. Louis, he was assured by Cox July 20 that "no changes will be made," whereas he learned definitely that his dismissal was decided upon at a secret board of directors meeting in New York the night of Sunday, July 18.

"In my opinion," Harris declared, "Cox told me a deliberate lie when he assured me no changes would be made. I can't digest that type of person."

Cox could not be reached for comment.

The news of Harris' dismissal and the appointment of Freddy Fitzsimmons as his successor astonished the baseball world last Tuesday night. The change became known when Brooklyn Dodgers released Fred Fitzsimmons to take the job.

"I asked Charlie Grimes (Cox's attorney) why I was not asked to the July 18 directors meeting since after all I was a director and the subject of discussion . . . Grimes said he didn't know, he wasn't there himself, Harris said.

"The players learned in some way of the meeting and when I arrived in Pittsburg for our July 20 night game, Hagan told me the players were upset and asked permission to telephone Cox about the rumors that Coach Earl Whitehill and myself were through. Later Cox telephoned me and asked "Where did all those rumors start?' He admitted, however, that one of the matters discussed at the July 18 meeting was whether the management was satisfactory. He then asked me to tell the players that no changes 'will be made.' In my opinion this was a deliberate lie."

Harris also disclosed he had worked without a contract at "the lowest terms I ever had," but had been promised a share in the profits.

"The Phils are a fine bunch of fellows," Bucky said. "And they'll give Fitzsimmons the best there is in them."

In Chicago, Cox asserted last night that Harris had promised not to make any independent statement, and added "Now you can see how Mr. Harris keeps his word."

Cox said he would issue a formal statement in Philadelphia Monday in reply to any charges Harris makes.

"In the meantime," fumed Cox, "I'm acting on the theory that if you give Harris enough rope he'll hang himself.

"The only way Harris could help put through a $20,000 yearly salary increase for me was to vote on it at the directors' meeting. He voted on something as his job as a director required him to do."

LAWN BOWLING

Thanks to the bowlers who came out and played. Thanks to the bowlers who contributed and yet were unavoidably absent. And thanks to the many friends that helped swell the sale of stamps. The money to be used in buying 'Depth Bombs.'

By the combined efforts of all the magnificent sum of $107.00 was raised in one night. That not only buys one 'depth bomb,' but it is a good start on a second one. We understand that there are some more stamps to be sold, and if any of our members would like to assist in the worthy cause, they should contact the secretary, Mr. F. Brown.

On Monday, Civic Holiday, we will hold a mixed tournament, draw from the board, at 1.30 o'clock. Two twelve-end games will be played in the afternoon and one in the evening. 25c fee.

Ruthless Katan Will Extend McCready Plenty

Unbeaten but still uncrowned, Earl McCready whom many regard as the best wrestler in the world today, will go to the mat here on Monday against one of the hardest and most ruthless opponents he could possibly come up against. John Katan has several times given the absolute top-flight matman a very close shave and in fact holds a decision over McCready which he obtained in New Zealand where they wrestle under the "rounds" system. But on Monday night here the two big fellows will follow the North American rules of two out of three falls or one hour time limit. It should be a whale of a match in every particular with close to five hundred pounds of muscles and might tearing at each other.

Action that may border on the explosive will likely result when Hogan the Housepainter tacles Irish Pat Flanagan. Flanagan is one of the most popular wrestlers to ever appear here and he has the clever speedy style to make him a perfect match for Hogan's rugged tactics.

Another match that will no doubt produce some heated reactions not only from the wrestlers but also from the fans will be the bout between Jumping Joe Maich and Bunny Dunlop. Dunlop is much the bigger stronger man but the hustling Maich has a way of getting out of bad spots and countering swiftly that may make Strongman Dunlop plenty miserable.

DOROTHY DIX

WIVES WEARY OF HOUSEWORK MAKE WAR EXCUSE FOR FLING

Succumb to Brass Buttons, Being Dated, Excitement of Crowds, Working with Men

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have been happily married for twelve years. I am 39 and my wife is two years my junior. We have a son 8 years of age. I have always been a good husband. We have our own home which I keep in top shape and I do most all the work myself. My family and home are all that interest me.

When our country entered the war, my wife insisted that it was her patroitic duty to get a war job, which she did against my wishes. I felt our boy still needed her care. But what is causing the trouble with us is the fact that she is working in an office where most of the force are officers in uniform, and when she is at home all she talks about is how nice they are to her, and how handsome they are. They take her to lunch, and several times she has called me to say she was being taken out to dinner, and she would not get home until all hours of the night.

Most of my friends and hers are talking about the way she is running about with these officers and have warned me of what is likely to happen. She tells me she still loves me and that these men do not mean anything to her; that they are away from home and lonely and she is trying to cheer them up, and she calls me a jealous fool because I object.

I have always loved my wife dearly, but have now lost faith in her and respect for her. I would have left her a long time ago after my first warning to her, but hesitated because of our boy. What do you think of the situation? WORRIED HUSBAND.

War Breaking Up Many Homes

ANSWER: I think that without intending it Uncle Sam has become first aid to divorce and that the war is going to break up about as many homes in this country as bombs are going to break up homes in Germany and Japan.

The war has given all of the restless, dissatisfied wives, who are fed up with domesticity and a little tired of their good, unglamorous husbands, a chance to get away from home and have a little fling, and alibi it all by calling it patriotism. And have they leaped at the opportunity? By the thousands. And it is going to be just about as hard to get them back into the home fold after they have had a government job as it was to get the boys back on the farm after they had seen gay Paree, as the old song used to tell in the last war.

Maybe these discontented wives had been doing a little wishful thinking about Reno, anyway, but they didn't have the nerve to risk what the neighbours would say if they left a perfectly good husband for no reason at all except that they were bored. And also they were restrained by their common sense from voluntarily throwing a good meal ticket into the discard. But working for their country was a Heaven-sent excuse for chucking the home job and leaving husbands and children to shift for themselves. And they jumped at it.

And the inevitable has happened. They have succumbed to the glamour of brass buttons, and being dated again as if they were girls, and the excitement of working in crowds and going places and doing things has swept them off their feet. And a little love-making, even from married men, sounds good to them after long years of being taken for granted. And they are not counting the cost of what they are doing. It is a short life and a merry one, and let the consequences look out for themselves.

Naturally the stay-at-home husbands don't relish the situation. It doesn't thrill them to hear about handsome officers and gay parties. They think it is their wives' duty to serve their country on the home front instead of abroad, and that it is just as patriotic to look after a small boy and rear him to be a good citizen as it is to comfort soldiers. But what the husband is to do about it all isn't so clear.

My advice to my correspondent in this case is not to break up his home at present. Keep some place for the boy where he will feel that he belongs and is secure. Don't turn him out to shift for himself, as his mother has done, and try to be both mother and father to the lad. And perhaps after a while the mother will get tired of wandering and come back home. It is a nice thought, anyway.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My husband is a swell guy and very nice looking and I love him the way a woman loves but one man, but the other night he told me that he had fallen in love with a woman who works beside him in a big defense plant, and he said she returned his affection. This nearly broke my heart, but I immediately told him I'd step out of his way and get a divorce so he could find his happiness with her.

But the next day he told me that he found he had made a mistake and that the home and our little girl meant more to him than the other woman, and he said that this other woman told him he was right to stay with me and that he shouldn't break up his home. She has a husband and a little baby girl, too, but she is thinking of getting a divorce. Now what shall I do.

Wives Fighting For Mates Prevent Divorce

ANSWER: Well, I'd say not to be so quick about handing out a divorce. It is no pass the biscuit, Mama. Don't rush out and get a decree absolute from your husband the first time he intimates that he would like one. He may not really want it, after all. Make him wait for it. Give him time to think it over and decide whether he is really in love with the other woman and wants to ditch you and your little girl for her, or if he merely has a passing fancy for her because she works next to him and makes eyes at him.

A lot of divorces could be prevented and many homes saved if wives would fight to hold their husbands, instead of just handing them to any predatory lady who comes along and casts covetous eyes at them. A wife may think she is acting noble when she tells her husband that she will not stand between him and his happiness, and turns him over to some love theif he is temporarily enamoured of, but, ninety-nine times out of a hundred, she is only being silly. She is not only making herself unhappy, she is making him miserable, for generally as soon as he has gotten over his passing infatuation he longs for the old wife to whom he was adjusted in his youth, whose ways and habits he knows, whose cooking he likes, and his heart breaks for the children from whom he is separated.

Cost of Living Skyrockets For Missionaries in China

One of the problems that will face Dr. and Mrs. James M. Menzies, visiting in Peterborough, when they return to China is the increased cost of living, particularly for food, which is from 60 to 100 per cent. what it was when they were there in 1937. It costs from $5.00 to $6.00 a day for each individual.

Rev. James M. Menzie, Ph.D., was formerly the Professor of Archaeology at Cheeloo University in Tsinan, Shantung, China. Mrs. Menzies had gone out to China before her marriage as a missionary under the Anglican church and was married in China. While Dr. Menzies carried out his work in other large fields, Mrs. Menzies worked among the children and women of nearby villages.

Mrs. Menzies recalls many interesting things about her Chinese friends. She remembered Wang Ju-yu, principal of a girls' high school, who married but whose husband died, and she went to the Theology College at Cheeloo University and graduated with the same status as a male minister. She returned to North Honan to work among her own people and is still carrying on this task of Christianizing the homes, although working under very difficult conditions due to Japanese occupation. The headquarters of the church is now in the Tai-hang mountains where the Japanese have never had permanent control.

Japanese Raids.

Accurate information is difficult to obtain, but it is known that two extensive raids were made in this territory, one last year and another this spring. Paratroops were used and planes bombed the villages where land troops could not go, killing several of the Christian students in the schools and scattering the church leaders further into the mountain fortresses, Mrs. Menzies declared.

Yet, this young woman stays and carries on her work that her Canadian colleagues were forced to leave. She passes through the Japanese lines by round-about ways and lonely roads to read to the women of the many Christian groups in Japanese territory. Timid and retiring as she is, she is yet brave enough to carry on this work.

"Pei Yu-fang, another Honan student girl, was at high school in Peking preparing for theology when the Japanese wrecked the city. She fled south and finished her high school work in Kaising, Sian, and at a temporary government high school in the mountains of South Honan.

"When the Japanese came she went further to Hankow doing Red Cross work for the wounded soldiers, then as the Japs pushed further up the Yang-tsi river she went on to Chunking, present capital of Free China in the extreme west, where she again got in touch with the Canadian missionaries.

"She went on to West China Union University in Chung-tu, graduating from the school of Theology there. The latest report is that she is working among the Christian people. It is interesting that the persecution of the church has sent forth missionaries from the Chinese church in Honan into these long neglected areas among the tribes on the borders of Tibet."

Their Nurse.

Mrs. Shen, the friend in the story, was the nurse for the Menzies' children and personal friend for twenty-five years. When she first came to rMs. Menzies she was a heathen, worshipping idols, totally illiterate, not even knowing her own name when she saw it. She had very small bound feet, had been married as a girl of fourteen, and had had such a hard bitter life from poverty and ill treatment from her husband and his people, that at two different times she had tried to commit suicide.

Of her four children only one lived so great is infant mortality in China. Shen-Ta-sao was so unhappy, so poor, and so hungry that she coaxed Mrs. Menzies to take her on as her servant and nurse.

Breaks Traditions

First of all she was persuaded to loosen the bandages on her feet to allow better circulation. (All the women of China, save Christian women, have their feet bound.) She was gradually taught to read and in time became an earnest church woman. When Mrs. Menzies was coming home during the last war, when her husband was going to France with the Chinese Labor Corps, she had three small children and was in poor health herself so brought Shen-Ta-sao with her.

She was in Canada four and a half years with Mrs. Menzies and was so thrilled with Canada and the Canadian people and was amazed at people having so much. She went back to China with her "adopted" family in 1921 and continued living with them as Mrs. Menzies' right-hand helper, nurse and friend, working with her among the women and children in the villages.

Under Japanese

When they were again coming back to Canada on furlough the missionaries thought that it would be nice for Shen-Ta-sao to visit with her own people for a year and to be with her child, and she was to be waiting for them again on their return. It was during the period of this furlough that war broke out with the Japanese in North China.

Shen-Ta-sao is now in occupied territory and recently Mrs. Menzies heard indirectly that the Japs have been billeted in her court-yard. When they came first they demanded that Shen-Ta-sao give up all her pans and cooking utensils, whether to make ammunition or to use for cooking is not known. She gave them everything except one iron pan and asked if she could not keep this particular pan to use for cooking. The soldier grabbed the utensil and proceeded to hit her over the head with the iron pan and in warding off the blow with her hand, Shen-Ta-sao's thumb was practically broken off. That is the last they have heard of their little nurse. She is not allowed to write to Dr. and Mrs. Menzies and they cannot write to her.

Ready To Leave

Dr. and Mrs. Menzies have been packed several times expecting to go back to China, but due to war conditions and inflation, this has not been possible. The Mission Board of the United church are having to send twice the amounts they would ordinarily send in order to attempt to support the missionaries who are already on the field. It is almost impossible to send over any new personnel. According to Dr. Menzies, the only solution of the problem at present seems to be to bring back the Canadian missionaries via India and Africa though travel by this round-about way is exorbitant.

Dr. and Mrs. Menzies are at present staying with their nephew, Mr. Maurice E. Holt and Mrs. Holt, in the Coronation Apartments.

Fine Lady Astor For Breaking Ration Laws

LONDON, July 31 (CP).— Lady Astor, Virginia-born member of parliament, was fined £50 and assessed costs of £10 in Bow Street Court today after pleading guilty to a technical violation of rationing regulations.

A statement by Lady Astor that she had no idea she was doing anything wrong or anything to hamper Britain's war effort was given favorable consideration by the magistrate.

The attorney prosecuting the case for the board of trade said lady Astor wrote a letter to Lunsford P. Yandell of the American Red Cross, asking him to have his wife look at a fur jacket with the possibility of buying one for her to be brought back by Yandell on his return from a journey to the United States.

The attorney said the letter also listed several other articles, including silk stockings, gloves, evening shoes, a dress with fur collar, an evening gown and a white skirt as things Yandell might bring back.

In passing sentence, Magistrate Harold McKenna called the case "unfortunate" and added:

"The height of Lady Astor's principles are exceedingly well known and I think I ought to accept the statement that she did this in ignorance."

At Red Cross headquarters it was said Yandell was in charge of the clubmobile section when in Britain but that he was not serving here now. His home is in New York.

GLYPTAL SYNTHETIC PAINTS

BURSTING shells and machine gun fire are not the only enemies of Canada's planes, tanks, ships and guns. Weather is a destroyer, too; rust and corrosion must be guarded against constantly. That's where Glyptal Alkyd Resins help. These specially developed synthetics are produced by Canadian General Electric, and are used by Canada's leading paint manufacturers. Employed as the base in paints, they make possible the production of weather-resisting finishes which save Canada's vital war equipment from attack by heat, corrosives and severe climatic conditions. Glyptal, too, makes paints and varnishes fast drying — it speeds production of war supplies.

MANUFACTURERS OF WAR EQUIPMENT interested in the application of Glyptal to their war production problems are invited to contact their paint supplier or their nearest C.G.E. office.

South Africa Wants To Fight

PRETORIA, July 31 (CP).—Final returns from the general election held July 7 in the Union of South Africa to-day showed that Prime Minister Smuts' government won a sweeping endorsement of its war policy, increasing its parliamentary majority from 21 to 67.

The Coalition Government won 107 of the 150 seats at stake in the election, and also holds the three seats, representing Cape Province natives, which were not up for contest this year. Field Marshal Smuts thus has a total of 110 members in a House of 153.

The combined Opposition, which campaigned on a platform of withdrawal of the Union from the war, took 43 seats compared with 66 in the last House.

The Prime Minister's Coalition is made up of his own Union Party, together with the Dominion, Labor and Native Parties while opposing him were the Nationalist Party, the New Order Party and the Afrikaaner Party, under the general leadership of Dr. D. F. Malan, Nationalist.

Italians In Britain Big Help On Farms

LONDON, July 31 — Britain's manpower problem, already acute, would be aggravated if Italy surrendered on Gen. Eisenhower's terms allowing Italian prisoners to go home.

The Italians in Britain have been a big help on the farms, and many of them have been so happy they would like to bring their families here instead of returning to Italy.

Their release would force Ernest Bevin, Minister of Labor and National Service, to reconsider his decision to stop recruiting for the Women's Land Army.

Fascist Council Reported Jailed

LONDON, July 31—(CP)—Transocean, German propaganda agency, reported today all members of the Italian Fascist Grand Council except one had been arrested.

It did not identify the exception, except to say he was "particularly radical," nor did it give any reason for his escape.

Members of the now outlawed council included Benito Mussolini, Count Galeazzo Ciano, his son-in-law; Carlo Scorza, secretary of the Fascist party; Roberto Farinacci, former secretary of the Fascist party; Count Dino Grandi; Marshal Emilio de Bono; Giuseppe Bastiani, former secretary of the Grand Council; Luigi Federzoni, and other widely-known Italians.

House To House Fighting Captures Leonforte

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Corespondent.

LEONFORTE, Sicily, July 24 — (Delayed) —(CP Cable). Through shattered streets and past battered houses of this mountainside town, Canadian troops fought their grimmest battle of Sicily and successfully completed the assault by clearing out every German.

After they had shaken the Nazis up in attacks Wednesday day and night (July 21) the troops in mid morning of Thursday (July 22) attacked Leonforte supported by a large number of field guns. Bloody and confused fighting raged all day in boiling heat.

A Canadian regiment with a fine record in the first Great War lived up to its highest traditions. By nightfall German resistance in Leonforte had ended and we were in hill positions to the north of the town.

I drove all over Leonforte as the Canadians pushed on past the town and on the main street and down sinister alleys there was evidence of no-quarter struggle.

Many Dead Germans

Piles of dead Germans at street corners were awaiting burial and German soldiers lay dead by their machine - guns on the hilly outskirts. Hundreds of them must have been killed around here as they resisted until the Canadians swarmed over them.

The first company into town was commanded by Capt. Rowan Coleman of Montreal who served with the British 1st Army in Tunisia last winter. Tanks advanced first and infantry followed along the road which curves along the hillside and dips in to a gulch where the Royal Canadian Engineers had rebuilt a bridge the night before under fire, then rises gradually to Leonforte which at the time was filled with Germans.

Capt. Coleman and his men moved into attack standing, sitting and crouching on anti-tank guns and the trucks which were hauling them. Some were hanging onto the barrels of guns being rushed up to give the infantry and tanks immediate support.

Germans sniped and machine-gunned the Canadians all the way along the mile stretch of deathly road to Leonforte.

The Canadian tanks thundered into the town in a cloud of dust and the infantry rode into the outskirts of anti-tank guns and vehicles, then jumped off and scattered through the streets.

Riflemen stalked Germans from door to door, creeping along ditches and walls of houses. Snipers were in upstairs windows, behind shutters and back of iron railings of the tiny balconies which jut out of the second storey of practically every Sicilian house.

A Grim Task

The commanding officer who was a school teacher of Medicine Hat, Alta., described the action. He said:

"The street fighting was a grim, real scrap. Coleman and his company did a magnificent job."

The Canadian tanks pulled off into the reeking chasm of a side alley running from the main street. Down the main street came three German tanks going in to attack the infantry with rapid-fire machine-guns and cannon. One Canadian tank crew held its fire until the leading German tank was 20 yards away and then blasted its turret off with gunfire.

I saw the wrecked tank in Leonforte this morning (July 24), a charred ruin with its turret 50 yards away from the wreckage. The other German tanks beat a speedy retreat and Canadian infantry continued their house-clearing street fighting.

Germans shelled the town at frequent intervals. Leonforte was an inferno of gunfire and close-in fighting. In the centre of the town infantry came to the relief of the two companies with the commanding officer and Maj. Bill Cromb and Maj. Bill Bury, both of Edmonton, who had been cut off in Leonforte and fought the Germans all around them throughout the night.

Saved in Time

They were being hunted down by German tanks and infantry and were making their last stand in three houses when the infantry rushed up the streets to raise the siege.

Coleman said the unit piled out of the wrecked houses, patting infantrymen on the back and shouting their thanks. "Bury even pushed a bottle of Vino into my face," said Coleman.

A lone company of infantry pressed up the streets and fought its way to the station on the other side of the town. One group battled over the hills on the northern fringe of the town and got to the station.

Canadian tanks were blocked by enemy mines north of the town and Coleman's company hung on till the rest came up. Maj. J. R. G. Sutherland of Georgetown, Ont., brought his company up in trucks and they fought their way onto the ridge overlooking the town. A platoon commanded by Lieut. Rex Carey of Victoria attacked and overran three machine-gun posts and an anti-tank gun.

Pushed Back Twice.

Twice Sutherland's company was driven off the ridge, but they attacked again and again, forcing the Germans back.

On these ridges there were scores of German dead. Another company, led by Capt. Don Bain of Montreal, also joined in the Leonforte attack and had perhaps the hardest fighting of all. It took another ridge near the town.

The leading platoon, commanded by Lieut. W. L. Smith of Toronto, got down on the foreward slope in a vineyard when it was attacked at point-blank range by two German tanks firing incendiary shells and using rapid-fire machine-guns. Smith and his platoon had to fight like inspired men to hold the position.

Finally Maj. E. T. A. Paquet of Quebec City brought his company into the town to mop up. They cleared the last of the snipers out of the houses and ended the confusion. Second-in-command of the battalion in this action was Maj. Cameron Ware of London, Ont.

Praised Doctor.

After telling me the general story, the commanding officer praised the work of Capt. George Fairfield, the Winnipeg regiment's medical officer, and members of the medical section which evacuated casualties for hours under machine-gun fire and shelling. They moved the wounded from the front down the street to the local hospital where Fairfield treated the cases.

Walking around the town, looking at the damage and trying to piece together the story, I talked with one group who had been through the assault. The group included Alex Hodgson of Port Arthur, Ont.

They said the sniping was fierce all the way and made for slow going down the streets as they had to keep under the cover of walls and keep banging away at upstairs windows. Several men had to chase the Germans to the top floors before capturing them. They were very surprised at the youth of the German soldiers, some being 16 and 17.

They also said the prisoners were greatly impressed by our artillery barrages, and one veteran of the Russian front said it compared with some of the shellings he had undergone at Stalingrad.

Met Germany's Best

A triumph a few miles to the right of Leonforte completed the success in this sector after four days of fighting. Now the civilians are crowding back into Leonforte after fleeing to caves and leaving the town deserted except for the Germans when the battle raged.

Canadians at Leonforte were up against the best part of the 1st Panzer Grenadier regiment which includes three battalions loaded down with machine-guns and mortars. They have strong supporting arms too, and in confined country like this the Canadians cannot bring the whole weight of their force to bear on the enemy at one time, according to staff officers.

Infantrymen in the assault said the toughest job of all was getting

Capture Of Town Delayed Week

LONDON, July 31 (CP Cable)—For reasons best known to the Allied high command the announcement of the Canadian capture of Leonforte in Sicily was delayed a week.

Yesterday's communique from Allied headquarters in North Africa announced the capture of the mountain town but did not give the date. However, dispatches from Ross Munro, Canadian Press War Correspondent, disclosed Leonforte fell July 22, about the time the Americans were entering the City of Palermo, capital of Sicily.

Queried as to the reasons for the delay in the announcement, London sources said they did not know "but they must have been good."

Some observers thought the high command withheld the announcement until actions around the town had been completed and there was no possibility of a successful Axis counter-attack.

WEEKLY WARTIME NUTRITION HINTS

Tricks with Franks

Delicious at any time, the 'Frank' is an easy to prepare, economical and nutritionally valuable hot-weather treat

Good as they are steamed, spread with mustard and eaten in a long bun, 'Franks' are much too versatile to serve only in that way! Actually, they are one of the most economical of meat dishes because they lend themselves so readily to meat 'extenders', such as macaroni, spaghetti, rice, noodles, beans and so on. Take it from me, dinner size 'Franks' topping a casserole of Macaroni au Gratin, a piping hot bowl of Spaghetti Creole, or a plate of baked beans, are dishes that everyone applauds.

Or here is a menu for a summer evening meal which is easy to prepare, (soaking and simmering can be done in advance), easy on the budget, nutritionally tops and bound-to-be-popular:—

Lentil Soup with 'Franks'
Leaf Lettuce and Watercress Salad
Brookfield Cheese and Canada Approved Bread
Fruit Punch or Iced Tea
(if your ration permits)

LENTIL SOUP WITH FRANKS

½lb. 'Franks'	¼ cup diced fat
1 cup dried lentils	¼ cup sliced onion
6 cups water	¾ cup diced celery
1½ tsp. salt	2 cups milk

Soak lentils overnight. Drain, add water and salt. Pan fry diced fat, onion and celery. Add to lentils, cover and simmer till lentils are soft, then put through sieve. Add milk and more salt to taste. Add 'Franks' cut in ½-inch slices.

Simmer over low heat for about ten minutes. Navy beans, black or lima beans may be used in place of the lentils.

Special to The Peterborough Examiner

By CAPT. F. H. WOODING
Public Relations Officer, M.D. 3

CONNAUGHT CAMP, July 31—Nearly 200 members of the Second Battalion, Prince of Wales Rangers, under the command of Lieut. Col. M. Park, are putting long months of intensive training into practice here at Connaught Camp as they near the completion of the first of their two weeks under canvas with over 2,000 other reserve army soldiers from all sections of M.D. 3.

The Rangers form a part of a small but competent force that could give a good account of itself should the situation ever demand it. They are typical of thousands of other reservists who are presently undergoing similar training throughout Canada.

At this ideally located military camp, which has been the scene of important annual militia activities both during peace and war, business and professional men work shoulder to shoulder with their own employees, with labourers, farmers, and others whose occupations include almost every civilian pursuit. All ranks, by their conduct and enthusiasm, are showing that they fully appreciate the responsibilities that rest upon their shoulders as members of a "people's army" whose primary job it to ready to defend their own country should the need ever arise.

Assisting Colonel Park in the administration and training of the unit are Major V. M. Eastwood, M.C., who is adjutant and second-in-command; Lieut. G. H. Eastwood who is messing officer; Lieut. N. E. Elliott, who is intelligence officer; Major J. P. McGrath, M.M., who is training officer; Lieut. D. J. McLellan, who is quartermaster; Capt. H. C. Sootheran, who is paymaster; Maj. G. R. Scott and Capt. R. F. Nott, who are medical officers, and Captain G. S. Easton, who is padre.

Company commanders are as follows: "A" Company, Major C. Stuart; "B" Company, Major G. Monkman, M.C.; "C" Company, Capt. G. L. Dobbin; "D" Company, Capt. D. T. Crawford; Headquarters Company is under the temporary command of Lieut. C. R. Payne.

The Regimental Sergeant-Major is H. Chate. Regimental Quartermaster Sergeant-Major is Sydney Whatley.

Ranks Confirmed

Colonel Park announced today that several promotions have taken place since the P. W. R's moved into camp. L/Cpl. J. M. Watson and Acting Corporal C. Crouter have been both promoted to the rank of sergeant; Cpl. I. Black has been promoted to rank of Lance Sergt. and Pte. H. J. Temple has been promoted to the rank of Lance Corporal.

Confirmed in the rank of Company Sergeant-Major are F. T. Sanders, R. F. Kitchen and D. Menzies. J. E. Gaskell, son of Joe Gaskell, former R.M.S. of the 1st Battalion, Stormount, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders (AF), of Cornwall, has been promoted to the rank of Acting Corporal. He has been a member of the unit as a boy and his promotion came through on his 18th birthday, July 27.

With the P.W.R.'s at Connaught are the following units from this section of the district: 5th Field Company, R.C.E., Kingston, under command of Capt. Ian McLaughlin; "A" Troop Cavalry Signals, Kingston, under Captain R. G. Allan; 2nd Battalion, Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, Picton, under command of Lieut.-Col. A. V. Yeats; Argyle Light Infantry, (Tank), Belleville, under command of Lieut. Col. V. C. Donnan; 2nd Battalion, Midland Regiment Millbrook, under command of Lieut. Col. A. H. Bounsall; 1st Armoured Ordnance Field Park, Kingston, under command of Captain P. G. Otten and the 1st Field Ambulance, R.C.A.M.C., Kingston, under command of Major R. C. Burr. Other units are from Ottawa, Brockville, Cornwall, and Smiths Falls.

Conditions Improved

Training, as well as living conditions this year at Connaught excel by a wide margin that of other years. Under a new training program all units are kept busy from early morning until late afternoon learning to operate the various weapons of their arm of service. This strenuous activity, coupled with the abundant supply of equipment that has been made available to the Reserve Army during the last year, has won the enthusiastic approval of all officers and men who feel that the time spent in camp has been both profitable and interesting.

Probably the most widely appreciated renovations here are the newly constructed ablution rooms and the systematic plan of messing. Antiguated toilets, showers and washrooms are now things of the past, as are cook houses under canvas where burning the roast of beef was not nearly as serious a problem as the fly nuisance. Today, clean frame buildings equipped with modern shower apparatus are available for all units and similar buildings, with special emphasis on screened windows, house the cookeries. Sanitation, as well as the maximum comfort, for all ranks, are major items in the camp policy.

No Lining Up

Gone also are the days when the troops had to line up for their meals and wash their own dishes. To-day, under canvas, the men sit down to their food which is brought to them by shifts of orderlies. After meals the dishes and cutlery are collected, washed, dried and stacked for the next sitting. This system avoids waste of time and allows the men to get on with their training without being hampered by fatigue duties that add nothing to their military knowledge. The fatigues are themselves constantly changed so that all get an equal spell at this particular duty.

"These improvements have already paid dividends," Colonel L. W. W. Slack, M.C., V.D., commander of the Reserve Army of M.D. 3, said to this special Examiner representative. "We realize that where reasonable comforts exist and where cleanliness is practiced, morale is raised and interest in the job at hand is increased. And that is what has happened. It is a pity we were not able to effect these improvements years ago."

Only experienced military men would be able to tell that it is the reserve army that is in camp at Connaught to-day. And even they might be mistaken. Everywhere ones goes, companies, platoons or sections of units can be seen at work. This training is extensive and is identical in most respects to that of the active army.

The health of all members of the P.W.R.'s is high, according to Colonel Park, who said that there were even fewer complaints about sore feet than in other years.

"The lads are learning a great deal at this camp," he added. "They are all fit and are showing an unusually strong interest in their work."

No Criticism Gov't Record

TORONTO, July 31 (CP)— Arthur G. Slaght, Liberal Member of Parliament for Parry Sound, said in a radio address last night that proof of the record of Ontario's Liberal government in the last nine years "lies in the fact that neither opposing party or their leaders have been able to criticize in any respect the record of the Ontario Liberal Government, and the talk about everything else in this campaign.

Speaking over a network of Ontario stations, Mr. Slaght praised Premier Nixon through whose 22-year political career "there has never been a breath of suspicion as to his integrity and high purpose."

Attacking the C.C.F. party, Mr. Slaght said: "I am not making an attack on the Provincial Leader, whose name I do not recall, nor upon their Federal Leader.

"I do suggest to this audience that their Provincial Leader—so far as I am aware—has absolutely no experience whatever in public affairs and to make such a man Premier of this great province of Ontario, with $100,000,000 to expend of your taxes and the important and grave problems of the next four years to deal with—would be the part of folly."

The Progressive Conservative party in the election campaign "appears to consist of one man in the person of their leader"" and "one must look in vain for cabinet material, if they should win."

Advance Poll

TORONTO, July 31 (CP). Railwaymen, truck drivers, bus drivers, mariners, travelling salesmen and members of the reserve army who will be in camp on polling day are eligible to vote at advance polls in connection with the Ontario election August 4, it was learned today from the office of Major Alex. Persons going away on holidays are not entitled to vote at advance polls, it was stated.

the Germans out of caves and houses, Pte. John Fofonoff of Calgary who participated in the attack on Leonforte said it was a wild business.

"We had a real fight in the town," he said. "We were going along fine until we ran into two German tanks at a corner with a flock of Grenadiers behind them. There was a lot of shooting in the darkness. We made quite a mess of the place."

A few miles east of Assoro which is on top of a cliff a Canadian regiment went over a blown bridge and clambered up steep cliffs to get at the enemy. They were cut off for a while when their vehicles could not get over the bridge but finally linked up with other units. Assoro now is in our hands but pockets of resistance around it are being shelled by our guns.

The Royal Canadian regiment was supposed to be resting, but during the night the battalion acted as ammunition carriers, lugging ammunition to the Leonforte assault units.

Sixth Inning Rally Gives Yankees Win

In a well played game on the Quaker diamond on Friday night the Yankees staged a sixth inning rally to score four runs and defeat the Falcons 8 to 4 in the Catholic League.

Spencer and Conroy on the mounds for their respective teams both hurled good ball. However Conroy became a trifle wild in the big sixth and was pulled for Sullivan.

Donoghue and Mongraw led the Yankees at bat while Conroy had two doubles for the loosing Falcons.

Drew Defends School Tax Plan In Speech

STRATFORD, July 31 — Here in Perth County last night after receptions in North and South Waterloo, at Galt and Kitchener, George Drew, Progressive Conservative Party Leader, was welcomed by a large crowd in Lakeside Park, J. F. Edwards is the candidate here. Mr. Drew was escorted to the park by the Stratford Boys' Band and was acclaimed en route along Stratford's main streets.

"That sort of gaga doesn't work," was Mr. Drew's comment on the criticism of his school tax plank—that it would benefit large buildings like the Globe and Mail. As to Harry Nixon's concern about whether his housing program would bankrupt the Province, Mr. Drew pointed out that Britain had built three million homes without one dollar of public money.

Attractive Investment.

He aimed, he said, to make the building and owning of homes attractive and not burdened with heavy taxes. All that was necessary to open the door to the vast savings in Victory Bonds and compulsory war savings was to offer an investment in homes that was attractive and not overburdened with taxes. This would result in a tremendous increase in employment after the war in every line of endeavor having to do with building and furnishing homes, Mr. Drew said. His plan, he assured his hearers, would not result in one cent of extra taes, but woxuld stimulate business. There was no single thing that would do so much good as the building program he envisaged, he said, amid applause.

..He reaffirmed his faith in the Atlantic Charter and repeated that Canada was entering after the war a period of opportunity unheard of before. But there was danger if Ontario did not have a Government with this faith and vision to put Ontario's resources to work for the benefit of all its people.

It was imperative, too, he said, that the next Government should be composed of men who understood the problems to be dealt with after the war in regard to the men and women now serving. More than half of the Progressive Conservative candidates had that service and understand the service man's point of view.

He aimed, he said, to make Ontario the strong sheet anchor of the British connection in Canada. He visioned Canada as the centre of air commerce of the world.

At Galt, Mr. Drew spoke to several hundred in the Market Square adjoining city hall in support of Norman Macrate, who spoke by radio from his bed where he is recovering from an accident to his back. He is contesting South Waterloo against Hon. N. O. Hipel, Minister of Lands and Forests.

Mr. Drew spoke at Kitchener later on behalf of W. D. Brill, contesting North Waterloo. Here at Stratford Mr. Drew reiterated his pledge to bring employers and employees together on a basis of industrial good will "exactly as they have created it in Britain."

The Stars Say

Brilliant ideas and plans may be set in motion now which require sturdy application and industry to put them on a sound and enduring basis. Elders and superiors may be substantially co-operative and strange contacts also may assist.

Those whose birthday it is should devote their most stable and sturdy efforts to putting on a firm and enduring basis, of programs already begun. Some sort of windfall seems to be involved, and requires prudent development for making it enduring, safe and secure. Serious thought and diligence are urged for permanency.

A child born on this day may be serious, prudent, painstaking, with system and detail to attract firm friends and supporters. It should also enjoy its share of good will and good luck.

For Tuesday, Aug. 3

THE LUNAR aspects dominant on this day give promise of many ways and means to advancement of personal power and popularity, with openings for increased finance, credit, and heightened objectives of scope and influence. All these should expand with generous proportions and values. Domestic, social and professional contacts should be friendly, possibly emphasizing hospitality. However, there may be a lot of surprise of a disintegrating nature, so be wary of strange or erratic persons or propositions. Work for sound ambitions.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year in which their general welfare, both financial and social, will improve. Superiors, the public and those in power may be amendable to prudent and gracious approach, with the personal factor having a large place in achieving cherished ambitions. Nevertheless, there may be one disruptive note with surprise or curious development to be suspicious of. This may also exist in family, social or affectional matters.

A child born on this day may be efficient, generous, kindly and quite capable of attaining its richest desires, through this, its good luck and the cooperation of friends in high places.

Develop a Lily Pool or Rock Garden in Your Yard

PRETTY POOL AND GARDEN

What could be lovelier than a cool lily pool set in a pretty rock garden. Like a beautiful mirror in a small room, a lily pool makes the rock garden seem larger. The surface of the water captures the reflection of rocks, ferns and the glowing sunset clouds.

So many think it is difficult to develop a garden like this. But it definitely is not, if you have a love of beauty, patience, and really want a distinctive garden.

Our 32-page booklet will help you to succeed with either a rock garden or a lily pool, whichever you prefer, or maybe you prefer to combine the two. Whatever you do, you can not help having a charming garden, all with the aid of a gardening expert, who gives her points of view in the booklet.

The lily pool and the rock garden have a special appeal for the amateur gardener—the pool because it quickly yields a return in loveliness and the garden because it is a challenge to the gardener's skill.

For your copy of HOW TO MAKE ROCK GARDENS AND LILY POOLS send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHEN NO RISK EXISTS

REFUSING to try for extra tricks, by methods which endanger your contract, is ordinarily sound bridge. But failure to seek them, when no risk is involved thereby, is merely foolishness. In the long run, you can pick up quite a number of extra points by doing that, as your finesses, efforts to set up long cards and other devices will pan out part of the time. Points gained that way are "pure velvet" if the attempt for them costs not a solitary thing, but are a clear matter of "heads I win, tails I don't lose."

After the heart A took the first trick and the Q the second, East scored the diamond K, finessed the 10, dropped the Q with the A, ran the rest of the suit, discarding a spade and a heart and then took in the club A, K and Q, plus the heart J, giving up the last two tricks. Having made an extra trick, he looked to his partner for commendation on his soundness, saying first, "I didn't dare try the club finesse after the spades and hearts were unguarded."

There was no need to take any such risk in order to seek an additional extra trick. After scoring on the second trick with the heart Q, the third with the diamond K and the fourth with the finesse of the diamond J, he should have tackled the clubs before he ran the other diamonds. At that time, he had the heart J left for a stopper, and the guarded spade K. The club finesse would have been toward South, who could have done no harm, even if he won that. He could not have led through the spade K. The one extra trick already assured would still have been safe, and the chance for a second extra in clubs would have entailed no danger to even the extra trick.

After the club finesse had worked, the K and Q could have been taken, also the heart J and then the diamond remainders could have been run, making a total of 11 tricks instead of 10.

Vitamins Are Important To Be Healthy

TOMATOES GOOD FOR YOU

Vitamins: what are vitamins and why are people so conscious of them in recent years?

Vitamins are those rather elusive nutritive elements found in small quantities in our food which are so vital to life. Different vitamins are particularly good for difference deficiencies—for example, the tomatoes above, are an excellent source of vitamin G, or ascorbic acid.

If your teeth are fragile and your joints are sore and stiff, you're not getting enough vitamin C. With little vitamin C in your diet, you can also develop scurvy.

This is just one example of one power of a vitamin and you can see how necessary to life the vitamins are.

Our 32-page booklet tells the meaning of vitamins and the enthusiasm for them. It also tells what they all can do, and it will answer your question and tell you how to get the maximum vitamin values from the food you eat every day.

Become vitamin wise and you'll be health-wise!

For your copy of VITAMINS TO KEEP YOU FIT send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

RIGHTS AND WRONGS

WHAT IS right and what is wrong, what is ethical and what is unethical, what is sportsmanlike and what is not—all of these are dealt with as "proprieties" of the game in the new Laws of Contract Bridge. Here are official guides which any player should know:

While it is improper to play out of turn, carelessly or otherwise, it is proper for a defender to play out of turn, if declarer has played from both hands.

While it is reprehensible to allow partner's hesitation, remark or manner to influence a call, lead or play, it is proper to draw inferences from an opponent's gratuitous hesitation, remark or manner, but such inferences are drawn at one's own risk.

It is proper to warn partner against infringing a law of the game; for example—against revoking, or against calling, leading or playing out of turn; except that it is illegal for dummy to warn declarer against leading from the wrong hand.

While it is proper to keep silent in regard to irregularities, subject to penalty, committed by one's side (including established revokes), all four players are equally responsible to see that each hand plays a card, and but one, to each trick, and should forthwith correct such an irregularity.

It is improper to employ an unusual convention in play without informing the opponents of its significance.

It is improper to use, in calling, a convention the significance of which has not been announced. The term "convention" covers a call designed to convey an abritrary or artificial meaning, or used by a player with the assurance that his partner will not accept it in its natural sense. Such a call is not subject to penalty (as an informative remark).

It is necessary that a convention so used should be fully understood by the other side, and players using convention calls should be ready to reply fully to a proper inquiry by an opponent as to their meaning and use. Should it be necessary to make such an inquiry during the auction, the partner of the player who has made the convention call should reply. The maker of the call may be requested to leave the table while the answer is given.

The committee of any association, tournament or club, or a group of persons playing Contract Bridge, may prohibit or restrict the use of conventions which are both generally unrecognized and sufficiently intricate to cause unreasonable delay.

Bystanders or members not playing should refrain from making gratuitous remarks. They should not call attention to any irregularity or mistake, or speak on any question of fact or law except when requested to give an opinion.

What the Progressive Conservative Program MEANS FOR PETERBOROUGH

CAPT. HAROLD R. SCOTT
PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATE

What would happen to the merchants and business men of Peterborough, the factory worker who owns his own home, the farmers of Peterborough county under the C.C.F.? It is worth thinking about. The war-time controls would be continued and expanded and you would become slaves to the whims of the C.C.F. and its strange bedfellows, the communists and the isolationists. Peterborough has been built on free enterprise. Class warfare, state capitalism and regimentation have no place in our plans for the future. Ontario can go forward to better things without sacrificing free enterprise. The dynamic program of the Progressive Conservative party, combining free enterprise with security points the way.

Reap the Reward of Your Labor

Progressive Conservatives believe that free enterprise, with the state as a balance wheel, will provide our people with the greatest possible measure of employment at good wages, produce the greatest possible provincial income, and provide economic security for every economic group in the community.

A SWEEPING REVISION OF TAXES

Under the Progressive Conservative program the whole system of real estate taxation will be revised so that the owning of homes, home improvements, and farm lands, which are the very foundation of our society, will not be discouraged by excessive taxation. Real estate will become marketable—people will be encouraged and assisted in the building of homes, and builders will be encouraged to meet the demand, and our housing problems will soon disappear.

Drew Will Assume 50% of School Taxes

The Progressive Conservative party stands pledged to reduce the local cost of education by half. School taxes amount to about one-half of Peterborough's mill rate. A vote for Capt. Harold R. Scott will reduce your tax burden.

Drew Will Eliminate Duplicated Federal Services

Many of the Provincial Services are duplicated by the Federal Government at Ottawa—help eliminate this waste and further reduce he cost of government.

GREATER PROTECTION FOR THE PROPERTY OWNER

The Progressive Conservative Leader, George Drew, and every candidate of the Progressive Conservative Party is pledged to repeal all legislation which denies any individual the right to defend his person and property before the courts.

Property owners now in the Armed Forces, and their dependents, will be given full legal protection against mortgage foreclosures, insurance cancellation and other unjust financial embarrassments. Creditors, of course, could be reasonably protected by the courts.

GREATER SOCIAL SECURITY FOR EVERYONE

The Progressive Conservative party is pledged to appoint, immediately, a rehabilitation and social security committee with instructions to draft plans which will assure social security for all our people. Mother's Allowances and Old Age Pensions will be increased. There will be an immediate repeal of the shameful provision that old people who have a home of their own, must dispose of their home before they will be granted the very limited allowances they are entitled to receive.

VOTE SCOTT and a New Deal for Ontario

Only the Progressive Conservatives can win. Ride with the winners on August 4 by voting for and helping

Hamburg Has 8th Raid In Ten Days

Big Gemman Port Marked For Obliteration

LONDON, Aug. 3—(CP). — The mighty bombing fleet of the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. last night gave Hamburg its eighth pounding in 10 days, and also raided other targets in northwest Germany. Today's announcement of the resumption of the European offensive said the night's activities cost 30 bombers.

A great fleet of the biggest bombers returned to battered Hamburg to break all records for sustained attacks upon a single target. A large number of Canadian bombers took part in the raid.

Fires set in the last assault on Hamburg Thursday night were still burning as the R.A.F. and Canadians swept over the city to add to the havoc created by some 8,000 tons of bombs dropped in the seven previous raids.

30 Bombers Lost.

Thirty bombers were reported lost in the raid, which was carried out in great force and was accompanied by attacks upon other objectives in northwest Germany, an announcement said.

The assaults broke a two-night lull in the great Allied aerial offensive which was launched on Saturday, July 24.

Th smashing blows at Hamburg, which apparently represented an experiment in obliteration bombing technique, were begun by the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. that night, when 2,300 tons of high explosives were unloaded on Germany's second largest city.

United States Flying Fortresses struck at Hamburg again the next day and R.A.F. and Canadian bombers followed up with a night attack. The same procedure was followed on Monday, and on Tuesday the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. made its second 2,300-ton night assault. Mosquitos maintained the offensive Wednesday night and on Thursday night the

Ten Divisions In Sicily Army

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North 9frica, Aug. 3—(CP).—Prime Minister Churchill's announcement at London today that the British 78th Division has been in action in Sicily, meant that Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's 8th Army now is composed of at least five divisions, including the Canadian 1st Division.

This was the first time that the 78th Division has been mentioned since the invasion started. Mr. Churchill disclosed it had captured the town of Centuripe, about five miles to the east and south of Regalbuto, which fell to the Canadians.

It had been announced earlier that three British divisions, the 5th, 50th and 51st, and the Canadian 1st Division were included in the 8th Army.

As at least five American divisions make up the U.S. 7th Army, there are at least 10 divisions in all in operation in Sicily, four British, one Canadian and five American, with an unofficially - estimated total strength of around 175,000 men.

Mr. Green started on a small scale last year with 1,100 cocoons obtained through the Government and raised enough silk for at least three parachutes. Next year he plans on looking after about 5,000 cocoons.

Canadians Take 19 Towns; Drive 200 Miles

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE 8TH ARMY IN SICILY, Aug. 1— (Delayed)— (CP Cable)—Along a 60-mile front sweeping like a scythe from the Catania plains through the mountains of the north coast the Anglo-Canadian 8th Army and the American 7th Army are edging their strong formations into strategic positions to claw through the German Mount Etna defence line.

When the line collapses before this massive array of British, American and Canadian troops, the Sicilian campaign is likely to be over except for mopping up. It is doubtful if the Germans can make another stand in Sicily, pinched in as they already are around Etna.

Along the front here the troops wonder where the Allied blow will fall—possibly on the plain before the bombed city of Catania, possibly a thrust from the Canadian-British sector in the centre, possibly a speedy push by the Americans in the north.

Move Together

Possibly it will be a gigantic push on all fronts.

It developed that the last prediction was correct, that Gen. Sir Harold Alexander as commander-in-chief of all ground troops in Sicily sent all three forces into the attack together. The British penetrated the Catania plain, taking Centuripe after bitter street fighting; the Canadians captured Regalbuto where opposition was particularly fierce, and the Americans captured Troina, continuing their advance along the coastal road. These successes were announced by Mr. Churchill.

During last night (Saturday) and today fresh British infantry carried out a surprise attack on the Germans, gaining high ground. (This was presumably a reference to the 78th Division, which Mr. Churchill has just announced is in action in Sicily as part of the 8th Army.

Surprise Attack.

The Germans had not expected this attack, for many prepared demolitions were not set off. Canadian infantry was on the flank of the advance but not in action.

Evidences at the front show the Germans are becoming jumpy about the major push they are expecting the Allies to make anywhere from the northern coast of Catania. Since the landing the Allies have flooded troops, tanks, guns and supplies into Sicily and now have considerable ground superiority as well as "owning the air" as Gen. Montgomery says.

It is estimated there is the equivalent of three German divisions holding northeast Sicily. The Nazis have not made any great attempt to reinforce their Sicilian garrison although some formations have been added. Apparently the German high command believes the best it can hope for here is to gain time by sacrificing the forces on the Etna line.

Soviet Army Captures Orel Suburbs

Only One Avenue Of Escape Remains To Nazis

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Aug. 3 — (AP).—The Red Star reported today that the Soviet army has captured two main roads leading from Bolkhov south to Orel and southwest to Karachev threatening the German communications with Bryansk and leaving them only one unmenaced highway from Orel southwest to Dmitrovsk.

The Germans had concentrated large forces northwest of Orel and established a strong system of fortified points in an effort to hold the two roads, the Red Army newspaper said, but intensified Russian attacks broke the enemy line and it now appeared that Orel itself would be in danger of complete isolation as the Germans continued to withdraw westward from their shattered positions.

The Red Army advanced within a few miles of the town of Karachev, occupation of which would finally cut the highway running northwest from Orel through Karachev to Bryansk, German supply base.

Attacking Rear

On this front the Russians have fanned out from the recently captured base of Bolkov in a widely developing movement against the rear of the German defenders of Orel.

The lines of retreat for some German units were cut by the swift Russian pursuit and outflanking manoeuvres. Red Star reported one entire German regiment surrounded by the Red Army thrust through the defence line along an unidentified river, north of Orel, severing its communications with the rear.

The enemy tried to fight its way out of the encirclement, the dispatch said, but the Russians trapped them in a ravine and nearly wiped out the regiment.

German defences northwest of Orel were reported being dismembered gradually by the Russian assaults. The Red Army launched a series of simultaneous attacks against individual German bases and broke through junction points and mopped up the enemy defence zone in separate parts.

Pressure Increases

Occupation yesterday of Znamenskoye, about midway between Bolkhov and Orel, liquidated one of the German's most important lines north of Orel.

Red Star said the enemy suffered a serious defeat in that sector being driven out so quickly they left a large amount of material.

The Germans increased their pressure steadily southwest of Voroshilovgrad where they were attempting to regain the Donets Basin defence line.

The Russians nevertheless continued to beat off the attacks, inflicting severe losses on the enemy, the dispatch said.

In one sector the Russians reported they had repulsed seven assaults destroying 95 tanks of 114 employed by the Germans.

First Paramouse

OTTAWA, Aug. 3—(CP).—Ottawa's first air-borne field mouse hit town last week, brought by a tired bird which set it down on a Bank Street sidewalk before continuing its flight. No sooner on terra firma than the "paramouse" staggered away, a bit air-dizzy, to the safety of an open drug store door. Pedestrians frightened the bird away before it could recaptue its prey.

Liberals Have 34 Candidates War Veterans

BRANTFORD, Aug. 3.—(CP). — Premier Nixon today issued a statement from his farm home at nearby St. George saying that 34 of the 89 Liberal candidates in tomorrow's Ontario election either served in the First Great War or are serving in the present war, while 44 others have members of their families or close relatives now in the armed forces.

The statement referred to the final radio speech of the election campaign by Lt.-Col. George A. Drew, Progressive Conservative leader. It said, "I regret very much to note... that he is endeavouring to seek votes on the basis of claiming a greater measure of patriotism for his party followers than for the opposing candidates."

A Sacred Thing

The loyalty and patriotism of the people of Ontario "is a little too sacred to be bandied about as a vote catcher in an election campaign," said the Premier's statement.

"However, as Col. Drew, by a none too subtle inference, has suggested that the Liberal candidates are not the equal of the Conservative candidates in this regard, he has forced me to reply to this insinuation."

"Many of the Liberal candidates in the present election were outstanding heroes of the First War, such as Capt. Arthur Roy Brown, D.S.C. and Bar, the famous air ace who shot down Baron Richthofen, and it seems a curious suggestion to imply that men of this calibre would be supporting a government which was not doing everything within its power to protect the interests of our boys and girls in the armed forces and provide adequate measures for their rehabilitation on their return to Canada," the statement concluded.

EXTRA!

LONDON—British warships and planes sank two of a force of between 25 and 30 U-boats trying to intercept a big Allied convoy and probably destroyed another, an Admiralty communique announced today.

ANKARA, Turkey—At least three of the American bombers which raided the Ploesti oilfields in Rumania Sunday were forced down in the Izmir district of Turkey. Other were reported to have landed in Turkish Thrace. The crews of the bombers—some of whom were wounded—were interned.

Germans Reel Under Attack As Powerful Offensive Narrows Sicitian Corridor

Blockbusters Rip City Of Naples On Sunday Night

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 3—(AP)—Night-flying Wellingtons of the R.A.F. again pelted Naples and its vital railway targets on the Italian mainland with blockbusters and incendiaries, and Allied air power dumped destruction on enemy ports and communications on the shrinking Messina bridgehead in Sicily, Allied headquarters announced today.

Six Axis aircraft were destroyed and seven Allied planes were lost.

New havoc was produced in the semi-paralyzed railway centres of Naples Sunday night by the Wellingtons.

Randazzo, supply base of the enemy's Mount Etna line, was severely shaken by a heavy weight of explosives the same night.

American fighter-bombers and bombers in a series of attacks, damaged and disorganized enemy supply lines by smashing at Adrano at the western base of Mount Etna and the reinforcement ports of Milazzo and Messina in Sicily and Reggio Calabria across the strait.

Strafe Destroyer

R.A.F. Beaufighters strafed a destroyer and three motor torpedo boats off Cagliari, Sardinia, in exercising their continuing superiority over the Tyrrhenian Sea and almost up to the coast of France.

Three Axis planes were destroyed by American fighters escorting R.A.F. flying boats on missions to rescue Allied airmen.

Adrano, northwest of Canania and in danger from the 8th Army's offensive, was subjected to a pelting of bombs for several hours, with American and South African planes going over in seemingly endless waves.

Concentrating on direct support of the advancing Allied troops, R.A.F. Baltimores also bombed gun positions and trenches in the Etna line.

Amercian planes swooped down on enemy truck convoys in the Randazzo vicinity, destroying 11.

Beaufighter crews also reported the destruction of a large enemy tanker of Cagliari, but they did not claim to have caused it. They said the tanker blew up just as they were swinging into their torpedo run.

Relieved of the necessity of attacking her, the Beaufighters raked the escorting destroyers and torpedo boats with cannon fire.

11 Hours To Vote

WEDNESDAY is election day in Ontario. The party leaders have wound up their campaigns, and with the exception of a few local meetings being held this evening nothing is left for the electors but to vote. All radio speaking ceased on Saturday night as regulations prohibit the broadcasting of election speeches forty-eight hours prior to election day. Polls open tomorrow at eight o'clock and remain open until seven in the evening.

Terrific Fires Raging In Ploesti Oilfield

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Aug. 2 — (Delayed) — (AP). — Rumanian and German fire fighting services are battling a great fire which has been raging in the entire petroleum area near Ploesti hit Sunday by American bombers, according to the first eyewitness account reaching neutral Turkey to-day.

The latest information was that seven bombers participating in the raid were forced down in Turkey, while an eighth was reported to have crashed in the sea near enough to the Turkish shore for the crew to make its way to land in rubber boats. All the crews were interned.

Three of the bombers came down in the Izmir district of the west Turkish coast. There were no details concerning the others.

The first report of the Ploesti fire came in a telephone conversation with an eyewitness who was near hysteria and obviously awed by the terrific destruction the raid had inflicted.

He said the fires were the biggest he had ever seen anywhere.

He said the bombers hit just about everything worth hitting in the entire mile-long oil pumping and refinery district in and around Ploesti.

Nazis Waiting

A terrific air battle raged during the attack. Swarms of Rumanian and German fighters were waiting at high altitudes for the American bomber fleet and pounced as it neared the target.

The defences had been on the alert approximately an hour, as the flight of the Americans had been charted while they were crossing Bulgaria.

The eyewitness said he saw some big bombers crash but that many more of the attacking fighters came down.

The raiders headed straight for their individual targets heedless of the fierce opposition, while the gunners poured steel into Focke-Wulfe 190s flown by Germans and Messerschmitts piloted by Rumanians.

The low height at which the American airmen flew to the attack threw the ground gunners off their aim.

Mount Etna Line Buckles As Tanks Attack

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Aug. 3—(AP).—Canadians captured Regalbuto yesterday to breach the Mount Etna line and American troops routed the Germans from Capizzi and Cerami in the decisive Sicilian offensive, it was announced today.

German divisions backed into Sicily's "Cape Bon" reeled under fiery, concerted attacks by British, American and Canadian troops heavily supported from the air.

Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's men established a substantial bridgehead north of Dittaino River and entered the western end of the Catania plain.

These successes were but the highlights of a series of vicious Allied jabs which headquarters said had cost the Germans many dead.

("It is doubtful," Ross Munro said, "if the Germans can make another stand in Sicily, pinched in as they already are around Etna." He said the Germans apparently had decided the best they could hope for in Sicily is to gain time by sacrificing the estimated three divisions on the island.)

San Stefano Falls.

Fighting between the Germans and American troops was reported raging on from Capizzi and Cerami to within five miles of the strategic inland road junction of Troina, between the sea and Mount Etna 20 miles southeast of American-held San Stefano.

(Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons that the American 7th Army was reported to have entered Troina yesterday evening).

Canadians and British troops manning the bridgehead north of Dittaino fought the new 15th German Armored Division—successor of the 150th which was lost in Tunisia—in the area of Catenanuova, on the north bank of the river five miles south of Regalbuto and 22 miles west of Catania. The struggle was fierce.

The seizure of Regalbuto gave the Canadian and British left wing of the 8th Army command of the crucial angle of the Mount Etna line where it guards the western Catania plain.

No information was given by official sources on the progress of British attacks across the plain. British artillery batteries, however, were reported to have outshot the German guns defending the southern approaches to Catania on the coast.

Washington-Ottawa Airline A Reality

NEW YORK, Aug. 3 — (AP) — American Airlines, Inc., announced it had filed an application Monday with the Civil Aeronautics Board to extend its routes from Syracuse, N.Y., to Ottawa, declaring that direct air service between the Canadian Capital and Washington was a war-time need.

The Airline said that the proposed new route between Syracuse and Ottawa would permit America to operate directly from Ottawa to Washington via Syracuse and New York.

The company has also applied for a route between Syracuse and Montreal, via Watertown and Massena, N.Y. The company claimed that the latter two towns are important war industry centres and that now there is no direct air routes linking Montreal and Syracuse.

Cabinet Post Promised Alex Elliott

Premier Nixon Plans To Elevate Local Man To Cabinet

Peterborough will be represented in the provincial cabinet for the first time in nearly forty years if the fortunes of this campaign permit.

If the government is returned to power with its member from this riding, Alex Elliott will be advanced to a place in the executive with or without portfolio, according to the promise of Premier Nixon at the Libedal rally Saturday night at Brock Street Summer Gardens.

"I have made one definite commitment so far," Mr. Nixon told his audience of four or five hundred men and women, many of them from the townships. "I have said that Lieut.-Col. Colin Campbell will be taken into the Cabinet. He enlisted as a private early in the war at $1.30 a day with the Royal Canadian Engineers, and has worked his way up to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel.

And, now in Peterborough I can say to you that if Alex Elliott comes back to us, and I am in power, he will be sworn into the Government. My thought is that if the war is not ended by the next session, arrangements might perhaps be made for a furlough that would enable him to return for a time at least. I do not know about that, but if it could not be done then he could be made a member of the Government without portfolio, and that capacity he could thoroughly represent the soldiers overseas."

Stratton Last

The last Peterborough member to attain Cabinet rank in the Ontario Legislature was the Hon. J. R. Stratton as Provincial Secretary.

Premier Nixon's announcement was warmly greeted. Verbal acknowledgment of appreciation was expressed on behalf of the audience by the chairman, T. J. Carley, K.C.

"It is very gratifying to the friends of Alex Elliott in his own constituency to know that their opinion of him is subscribed to by the Premier of Ontario," Mr. Carley said. "He has told us, 'you do your part in electing Alex Elliott and I'll do mine, if it is then within my power.' That sounds characteristic of Mr. Nixon. His attitude to the people of Ontario has been that—'I will do my part, if you do yours.' And so the challenge is before us on Wednesday."

Hamburg City Pile Of Ruins

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 3—(AP)—An indication of the way in which the wheels of Hamburg's war industry have been halted by the Allied air attacks was given today upon the arrival of the Danish consulate secretary in Copenhagen from the stricken city.

"All obligations to work are suspended at the moment," he said.

Another eyewitness report of the shambles to which Germany's greatest seaport has been reduced was given by a Danish worker quoted in the Svenska Dagbladet, who said:

"After the attack nothing was the same as before. I saw only ruins. The city was burning everywhere—even the streets. Many persons were as good as naked. Some wore only underclothes.

"Whoever didn't see this devastation can't begin to imagine it. Bo-

Hitler Establishes New Defence Line

Has Quarter Million Men Near Po River In Northern Italy

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Fast moving crises on all fronts combine to give the impression of a Europe which is rushing headlong for the show-down—not that the end necessarily is imminent but that the final phase of Armageddon is close at hand.

Italian Marshal Badoglio's delay in dealing with the Allied demand for surrender is reported to have given Hitler the opportunity to establish a line of perhaps 250,000 German troops right across Northern Italy as a buttress against an Allied drive from the south. The Nazis also are saaid to have occupied the port of Trieste at the head of the Adriatic, thus closing the important gate to the Balkans.

It isn't clear whether Badoglio connived at this, or whether he was forced into it unwillingly by threats of reprisals against the Italian population by the Nazi War Lord. However, that's muddy water over the dam. Of more immediate concern is the fact that the Allies have a large problem on their hands, assuming that the reports of German troop movements are accurate.

The Fuehrer's move is, of course, purely defensive. He expects the United Nations to [illegible] the lower two-thirds of the Italian Peninsula. However, that no longer is useful to him and he probably doesn't intend to offer much opposition until the enemy reaches his first line of defence, which Madrid reports may be anchored at the naval base of La Spezia on the west coast and run eastward to the Adriatic. That would be about 200 miles north of Rome.

Hitler's main line will be 100 miles farther north, taking advantage of the strategic fortifications along the River Po. Here he will dispute the Allied rights of way to France, Germany or the Balkans.

With this concentration of power and a vast shortening of his now interminable communications, he will battle to force a stalemate. The all highest's plan is a scheme of desperation. This is emphasized today as the Anglo-American forces race for the coup de grace in Sicily as the amazing Russians continue their slaughter of Nazis in the fierce Orel offensive, and as the Allied bombers deal crushing blows to great German cities while fear spread throughout the Reich.

A Grim Reminder.

Foreign Secretary Eden yesterday handed Hitler a grim reminder of the Nazi position by quoting the Fuehrer's own words of January 30, 1939:

"As regards National Socialist Germany, she is well aware of the fate that will befall her if ever an international force, whatever its motives, succeeds in overwhelming Fascist Italy."

But in Germany the fate of Italy has been pushed into the background by the terrors of the round-the-clock bombing to which the Reich is being subjected. Daily it becomes more apparent that this rain of death and destruction is playing a major role—perhaps the major role—in forcing Hitler to his knees. We have now reached the point of speculation as to how long he can endure the ordeal without collapse.

Krug Escapes Second Time

Police Search Border For German Pilot

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 3.—(CP).—Possibility that Windsor has again been the avenue of escape to the United States for Over-Lieutenant Hans Peter Krug, a German bomber pilot, missing for a second time from a Canadian prison camp, was being investigated to-day by military and police officials on both sides of the Detroit river.

The report that a man at about three a.m., to-day ignored shots from a guard of the Ambassador bridge, plunged into the river and started swimming for Detroit, started hundreds of Detroit, Wayne county police and United States coastguardsmen searching the American shore for the swimmer.

Krug first escaped to Detroit from Windsor in a stolen rowboat, when he fled from a prison camp at Bowmanville. Yesterday's escape was made from an officers' camp at Gravenhurst.

Krug is reported to have failed to answer roll call at three p.m. yesterday after he had been swimming with other prisoners near the camp. The man who dove into the river from the Canadian shore this morning was wearing swimming trunks and a shirt.

Negro Riots Sweep Harlem

5 Killed After Policeman Wounds Soldier

NEW YORK, Aug. 3—(AP)—Order returned to New York's Harlem today but authorities remained on the alert to prevent a possible recurrence of yesterday's rioting which left in its wake five Negroes dead, 54 injured, 509 arrests and an estimated $5,000,000 in property damage.

As 6,000 police and 1,500 members of the city patrol corps patrolled the streets only a few isolated disturbances were reported last night in the heavily-populated Negro section.

Nearly all of those arrested yesterday were arraigned before four magistrates, two of whom sat until midnight last night, the majority accused of burglary—outgrowth of the looting. Matthew J. Eder, executive secretary of the uptown chamber of commerce, estimated that looting and damage caused to stores would cost merchants $5,000,000.

The widespread disorders were touched off early Sunday night after a policeman shot and slightly wounded a Negro soldier who, police said, attempted to interfere with the arrest of a Negro woman.

Hepburn Warns CCF 1-Way Ride

ST. THOMAS, Aug. 3.—If Ontario citizens want to experiment and go for the first political buggy ride in a Nazi-Fascist vehicle, they can do so by voting C.C.F. on Wednesday, Mitchell F. Hepburn, running as Independent Liberal in Elgin, told a gathering of electors at the historic village of Fingal Monday evening. He warned Ontario citizens that they would not enjoy that C.C.F. political buggy ride.

"Like the famous one horse 'shay' of ditty and song, they would not find that vehicle very comfortable and they'd find themselves being taken for a one-day ride," Mr. Hepburn said.

Mr. Hepburn declared that the election on Wednesday is a most important one as it will decide whether Ontario is to continue under a democracy or have a socialistic form of government with the characteristic of the Nazis and Fascists.

Mr. Hepburn challenged the C.C.F. to prove that is is representing such responsible labor organizations as the Trades and Labor Council, the American Federation of Labor or the Canadian Congress of Labor. He challenged officials of those organizations to show that the C.C.F. is representing them in the political field.

capture of 70 villages in fierce fighting near Orel in which Red Army was said to have slain 2,500 Germans and destroyed many Nazi tanks.

A Berlin radio broadcast recorded by Reuters News Agency and several London morning newspapers indicated the Russian Army had entered Orel itself. The broadcast said the Russians were "attacking with great violence, especially in the southern part of the town" of Orel, but claimed stout German resistance had enabled the Nazi command to "erect new defences which will stand up to all future Soviet attacks."

The broadcast suggested the Germans were trying to prepare the Home front for possible loss of the base.

British Find Planes Intact

LONDON, Aug. 3—(CP Cable).—A Reuters News Agency dispatch from the Sicilian front today said that when the British 8th Army crossed the Dittaino River in the first stage of the new offensive it found hundreds of intact fighter planes abandoned on 13 airfields of Gerbini.

(Today's Allied headquarters communique said a substantial bridgehead had been established on the Catanian plains north of the Dittaino River).

There were Messerschmitts, Focke-Wulfs and Macchis, many of them in perfect condition, the dispatch said.

There was every evidence the Axis hrad based its entire fighter force on Gerbani for strong resistance but that the Allied bombings had made Gerbini untenable.

British troops found runways torn up in the entire area, pockmarked by thousands of craters.

Millions of gallons of aviation gasoline were left intact in dumps. Many of the abandoned aircraft can be converted to Allied use.

Meanwhile the German press, as quoted in Swedish dispatches, admitted that "we face the question of whether the German people are invincible."

Invincibility of Germany on all fronts was stressed in this comment.

55-Mile-Long Battle Line Flames Into Activity In Final Concerted Advance

Roosevelt Proposes 7-Point Plan For Italian Peace

LONDON, Aug. 3—(CP).—A D.N.B. broadcast of a Geneva dispatch to Il Popolo di Roma, recorded by Reuters news agency, declared today President Roosevelt had advanced a seven-point armistice proposal to Italy.

The Axis account, without confirmation from Allied quarters, listed the points proposed as follows:

1. The Italian army and navy are to cease all resistance.
2. Collaboration with Germany must cease at once.
3. Italian troops in Greece, Albania, France and former Yugoslavia are to be withdrawn at once.
4. War materials must be handed over to the Allies undamaged.
5. An Anglo-American-Soviet military government will be established in Italy until the end of operations.
6. The arrest of all war criminals.
7. The release of all Allied prisoners of war on Italian soil.

The roundabout report through Axis channels followed repeated German and Italian rumors of negotiations for an armistice, as opposed to the Allied demands for unconditional surrender.

Badoglio Silent.

Premier Badoglio continued his silent defiance of the Allied warnings of air bombardments and invasion to come.

Anti-Fascist forces inside Italy were reported gathering strength to aid Allied divisions when defences of the Italian mainland are finally breached.

That an Allied landing on the southern shores of Italy is not far distant was promised the Italian people yesterday by broadcasts from radio Algiers, which coupled the names of Mussolini and Bodoglio as 'those evil forces," responsible for the betrayal of Italy.

Evidence of the growing strength of the anti-Fascist, anti-Badoglio movement in Italy came from Madrid where talk of an impending "peace march" on Rome was reported in Italian quarters in the Spanish capital.

The Madrid dispatches asserted that if Badoglio stalls much longer, Italian Leftists may organize a people's march on the Italian capital, Milan and other centres from all points in Italy. This was strategy by which Mussolini succeeded in grasping power for his Fascist party on Oct. 30, 1922.

People Favor Allies

Regardless of the situation inside Italy, the prelude to Allied ocupation of the peninsula was in full swing today, with the combined British, Canadian and Amercian armies launching the final push to drive Axis forces from the Sicilian northeastern triangle—an area no larger than Cape Bon, where the Germans and Italians met their final disaster in North Africa.

Badoglio apparently was striving feverishly to maintain his government at all costs—telling the Italian people that he is doing everything in his power to obtain a fair peace, while issuing veiled threats of continued defiance for consumption abroad.

C.N.R. Tracks Cleared After Freight Crash

NAPANEE, Aug. 3—(CP)—Traffic was resumed over both tracks on the C.N.R. main line at 3 a.m. today after a derailed engine had been righted and several rails replaced. Workmen are now engaged reloading the cargoes of western wheat strewn from six cars at the time of the collision Sunday night. Traffic was held up for 17 hours after the accident but a one-way passage was opened on the west track Monday noon. A rear-end collision between a standing and east bound freight three miles east of here Sunday night, demolishing nine cars, caused the tie-up.

Allies Reach Edge Of Munda Airport

By C. YATES McDANIEL
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, The Southwest Pacific, Aug. 3—(AP)— The Battle of Munda neared its climax today with United States forces breaking down final Japanese defensive positions after a general advances of 500 to 1,200 yards carried them almost to the edge of the strategic New Georgia airfield.

Supplementing Allied headquarters' Tuesday communique which announced the advance, a naval spokesman for Admiral William F. Halsey's command in the South Pacific said American troops reached a point "close to the eastern edge of the field."

A portion of Biblo Hill, enemy strongpoint defending the northeast approach to Munda, was captured. The spokesman disclosed that tanks, flame throwers and artillery supported Marine and Army units in their advance.

Simultaneously, Allied forces in New Guinea brought the Japanese stronghold at Salamaua under artillery bombardment for the first time.

The Munda advance, a general movement along the whole line, took the Americans to within at least 1,400 yards of the airdrome. The communique said considerable quantities of materials were captured.

Medium artillery blazed away at the Salamaua airdrome, destroying grounded planes, demolishing a 60-foot section of the adjacent Francisco River bridge, and dropping shells directly on anti-aircraft batteries. Heavy bombers dropped 84 tons of explosives on the town itself.

Bag 11 Zeros

Fourteen fighters escorting bombers hunting barges along the southern coast of the Huon peninsula pounced upon an equal number of enemy fighters. Eleven Zeros were shot down, one more was listed as a probable. Two escaped.

Army and Navy planes joined in a heavy blow at the Buincaisi-Kahili triangle. A large freighter-transport was set on fire, many grounded planes were damaged, eight barges sunk and a tanker hit.

A night reconnaissance plane set fire to a Japanese destroyer off New Britain. Australian-manned planes destroyed and damaged anti-aircraft positions at Gasmata, New Britain, and attacked barges and jetties along the coast.

American Troops Closing In Against Messina

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Aug. 3.—(AP).—Allied armies have entered the western end of the Catania plain and Canadian forces have captured Regalbuto, an Allied Headquarters communique announced to-day.

"A substantial bridgehead north of the Dittaino has been established," the communique said.

U.S. Seventh Army troops advancing east from the Nicosia-Mistretta roadline have seized Capizzi and Gerami in the push toward Messina. Other significant gains were scored in other sectors of the 55-mile-long battle line.

(Prime Minister Churchill announced in London that the Americans have also captured Troina).

"Many German dead are reported," the bulletin said.

(Mr. Churchill also announced in the House of Commons that the 78th Division of the 8th Army had taken Centuripe, five miles southeast of Regalbuto, which itself lies almost in the shadow of Mount Etna.

("The 78th Division has captured Centuripe after some very bitter fighting in the streets," the Prime Minister said. "The 51st Division are making progress on their right. To the left the Canadians have captured Regalbuto, where opposition was particularly fierce. Further north, the American 7th Army is reported to have entered Troina yesterday evening.")

Naples Suffers.

The mighty ground offensive was accompanied by fresh aerial blows at Naples railway communications and the dwindling Messina bridgehead. Six enemy aircraft were destroyed and seven Allied planes failed to return.

Headquarters reported that stiffening of enemy resistance continued all along the Sicilian front, but "our troops, fighting hard, are forcing their way through rugged and roadless country."

Eighth Army gunners reported they had out-shot the Germans in artillery duelling along the coast south of Catania.

"Pushing north from Ramacca (20 miles south-west of Catania), we have entered the western end of the Plain of Catania," the communique said.

"Further west our advance from Raddusa (28 miles west of Catania) continues in spite of strong enemy resistance. A substantial bridgehead north of the Ditaino (which flows between Raddusa and Catania) has been established.

"After an advance through most difficult country, with much fierce fighting, our troops gained positions overlooking Agira (32 miles northwest of Catania and 25 miles south of Coastal San Stefano, newly captured by the Americans.")

Agira fell to the Canadians last week.

Take 20 Sq. Miles.

The 7th Army blocked out a bulge of some 70 square miles in North Sicily by the capture of Capizzi and Cerami.

Striking from bases at Mistretta, six miles due south of San Stefano and Nicosia, 12 miles farther south, they forged a triangle of steel to Cerami, about seven miles east of the Mistretta-Nicola Line. Capizzi lies between Mistretta and Cerami.

Fighter-bombers and medium bombers attacked enemy ports and communications behind the Axis battle line. Fighters maintained their sweeps and patrols. Adrano, Milazzo, Messina, Randazzo and enemy troops positions all felt the weight of Allied explosives.

Prior to to-day's announcements it was disclosed that in furious fighting the American 7th Army had cracked through the enemy's right flank and then captured San Stefano, Mistretta and 10,000 prisoners, while the Canadians pushed ahead over mountainous terrain in the Regalbuto sector at the centre of the line, and the 8th Army in the South had stormed into the Catania defence line to fulfill Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's promise that "we will drive the Germans from Sicily."

The Germans were falling back along the coast toward Messina, the only avenue of escape to the Italian mainland, and the fall of San Stefano opened a new road communication system to the Allies.

The Canadian forces in battering their way through rocky mountains toward Regalbuto and base of Mount Etna met stubborn Axis resistance in every foot of the half-mile high hills. Front line dispatches said the Germans launched numerous counter-attacks, all of which broke against the hard core of Canadian resistance and receded leaving the field scattered with dead.

The Canadians reported that the Germans have adopted a system of hedgehog defences, carefully utilizing elevated ground for strong points and that the gains, although steady were sometimes registered in yards.

Stiff Battle

The British forces were faced with similar stiff resistance at the southeastern end of the line.

San Stefano at the northwestern end of the battle line on the Tyrrhenian Sea fell to the American forces without a shot being fired in contrast to the heavy going which they had previously experienced in taking Castel di Tusa immediately to the west.

The Germans had evacuated the base before the American arrival, first sprinkling the approaches with mines which considerably slowed the occupation.

Most of the prisoners were taken at Mistretta, six miles directly south of San Stefano.

The troops captured were mostly Germans and brought the Axis prisoner total thus far in the Sicilian campaign to 90,000 of which the Canadians have taken some 8,000.

The day's advances signalling a general Sicilian offensive had their counterpart on the Italian mainland where Royal Navy units turned their guns on the ports of Vibo Valentia, Crotone, and a coastal railway bridge crossing the Oliva River. Ships of the fleet also slipped close to the Sicilian shore in the Tyrrhenian Sea area to plaster retreating German columns and defence positions impeding Allied progress.

To The Electors:

I have been unable to continue the active part in support of Alex Elliott and the Nixon Government with which I began this election campaign. My doctor advised me to take a rest in hospital, and I am glad to say that his examination indicated that was all I required.

I consider the present Government has done more for Ontario than any other government ever attempted and especially in the Departments of Public Health and Welfare, Labor and sound financing by the treasury.

In Alex Elliott we have a splendid representative and candidate, and I sincerely hope the people of Peterborough will show their appreciation of him by re-electing him on Wednesday.

He was elevated to the bench in 1931 as a judge of York County, Toronto, and retired five years ago. He is survived by his widow, who was Abbit McGlennon of Colborne; three sisters, Miss Clara Field, Cobourg; Mrs. Alice Alloway and Mrs. Hugh Pedley, Montreal and a brother, Dr. George Field of Roseneath.

Conservative, Liberal Rallies Are Held In Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 2.—(ENS).—The twenty-two points programme offered by Col. Drew ats head of the Progressive Conservative party in Ontario was not something just pulled out of a hat for the present election, but was a far sighted plan for advanced social legislation formulated at the Port Hope Conference, one which was tabled the party convention at Winnipeg, when Mr. Bracken was chosen the leader and one that is designed to be put into effect throughout the entire Dominion once the Conservative party is elected. So declared Cecil Frost, Lindsay, President of the Progressive-Conservative Association for Ontario before a gathering of more than two hundred people here on Saturday evening.

Mr. Frost was the principal speaker at a meeting held in the interest of W. A. Goodfellow, Progressive Conservative candidate for Northumberland and as chairman of the resolutions committee at the Winnipeg Convention he outlined the steps taken in formulating the party's platform.

It was the moving declaration made at the Port Hope Conference which inspired Mr. Bracken to take the leadership of the reconstituted Progresive party. The platform recommended at the Port Hope Conference had been reached in what the speaker described as 'a non-political atmosphere." From there it was taken to Winnipeg for adoption by the national party "and now we have that inter-locking platform in the Federal and Provincial field. George Drew's 22 points are the first step to the application of that policy all across Canada."

The speaker then went over the various points of the program emphasizing the importance of the British partnership, of security and freedom. He pointed out that security was a fundamental of the platform since it had been assured it would give freedom. "We believe it is the function of government to see that every Canadian has equality of opportunity" and once the whole population has been encouraged to improve its position they will create work and wages by themselves in contrast to the C.C.F. program of regimentation. "This is all bound up with the British partnership and this is essential because Freedom is its foundation. I say 'partnership' because partners must be willing to accept the responsibilities, as well as the advantages of a partnership."

Addressing himself to labour he said collective bargaining was both desirable and necessary "and we will protect the unions provided they conduct themselves within the meaning of the laws of this country. Our party is committed to just labour laws. As to agriculture it is the function of government to see that the farmer receives parity prices and by that I mean prices that bear a fair relation to the prices of commodities he needs on his farm. We propose to take over the Union Stock Yards so that farmers can have the power of combined selling and better facilities for marketing. Under the present system the farmer has to take what he can get with the buyers setting the price. They meet in the morning and decide what they will pay without regard for farm costs of production but our aim will be to see that the farmer gets a fair price.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 3 (ENS)—Charges that the Tory party was 'through' and that the C.C.F. was tied to Communism were made at an enthusiastic meeting held in the Masonic auditorium here on Monday evening.

The Liberal candidate, John Callahan of Wooler and Toronto, told his listeners that despite criticism of holding an election at the present time it was one of the principles of constitutional government to hold an election when the term of a government had expired and there was not complete unanimity on the matter of extending the life of the house. He said the Liberal Government has always stood for the maintenance of the principles of constitutional rights.

In Mr. Callahan's opinion Col. Drew's proposal to take over the Union Stock Yards would in no way overcome the difficulty of the farmer in marketing his livestock. A few years ago a half dozen drovers canvassed the farmers for business, visiting first one farm and then another, watching to pick up cattle and other livestock as soon as they were marketable, he said. Today these men are being replaced by the commission men who operate the stock-yards and "it is not the fault of these men that the farmers are not getting a square deal. The fault lies with the packers and the combine which now exists."

Mr. Callahan explained that he had talked with the president of the Union Stock Yards and learned how operations were conducted. From approximately two thousand head of cattle and livestock reaching the yards on Tuesday morning the independent butchers probably pick up five hundred leaving the balance for the packers. First one buyer representative of the packers then another will be asked for a price on the balance, but all register indifference.

Special Arrangement

Finally, according to pre-arranged plan one of the buyers offers a price which the commission men must either accept or ship the cattle back where they came from. In the speaker's opinion the only answer is "to put more teeth in the anti combine laws.

The payment of premiums on select grade hogs was another racket exposed by the speaker. He explained that under this system the farmer was paid a bonus on one or two hogs and got "gypped on half a dozen" to make up for it, for those that do not come up to standards are docked.

Better Finances

A review of the work of the government during the past nine years was given by the retiring member, H. N. Carr, who recalled how the Liberals had improved the financial status of Ontario since 1934, and had increased revenue—not taxes.

Mr. N. C. McEachren of Grafton, president of the Northumberland County Liberal Association, also spoke, forecasting that the Conservative party was on the way out because the reason for its founding ceased to exist.

W. A. Fraser, M.P., of Trenton, spoke on behalf of the candidate and referred to George Drew and George McCullagh as "the glory boys" who have no monopoly on the loyalty of the Canadian people. He charged both of these men has "Fascisti minds" and cited the newspaper owner's cry for compulsory selective service "for the other fellow" as an example.

Labor Shortage Of 30,000 Arthur MacNamara Says

OTTAWA, Aug. 3 — The labor shortage in the higher priority group of essential war industries is around 30,000, with the requirements almost evenly divided between men and women, Arthur MacNamara, Director of Selective Service, said today.

Toronto, it was learned, had a pressing need for at least 7,000 before the end of the year — they could take 2,000 more in two industries alone. In one classification, with a priority second to none, it was stated there was an urgent need for approximately 500 deft and able girls in the radio tube industry.

In comment on industries' needs, Mr. MacNamara stated that the response and the results of the part-time work program started recently in Toronto were stimulating and "most encouraging." Under it, he said, 2,000 women were enrolled inside of 10 days, each to take her turn in an essential job for four hours per day.

"With the results we have gained from Toronto, we propose to encourage housewives in other centres to take part-time jobs," he said. "They represent a pool of workers that has been tapped for the first time."

The director said available manpower to make up, or help to make up, the 30,000 shortage lay in three places. He cited first, men and women working in less important occupations, and said the compulsory work transfer orders, of which the fifth was issued last night, would tap this pool of the available male workers; secondly, there was the survey that is being made of highly essential industries to determine the number of men engaged at work that women can do, with the objective of transferring them to other jobs; and finally — the part-time workers as represented by housewives.

What Russia Thinks About Italy

The Russians are as pleased as anyone about the downfall of Mussolini, but like the hard-bitten political realists they are, they refuse to believe that Fascism is dead or that Italy has ceased to be a menace to the United Nations. The army newspaper, Red Star, is loud in its approval of Mr. Churchill's statement that our job is to increase military pressure on Italy until we have received her unconditional surrender. The Soviet Union never believes that a fox is dead until his tail is hanging on the barn door.

"Present conditions insistently demand an increase in the number of blows against Fascist Germany with the purpose of approaching the hour of complete victory", said the army paper, and went on to point out the hopefulness of those who said that Italian Fascism no longer existed; the alliance between Germany and Italy still exists, and that is enough for the Russians.

Russian views on Mussolini were much what might be expected. He is condemned as "the first to begin to unwind the forces of the new world war", and as the traitor who sold Italy to Germany. His action in invading Ethiopia, in aiding the Fascist forces in Spain, and in swooping upon Albania were all precursors of this great war, and the Russians do not mean to forget it.

On this continent we have tended to treat Mussolini as a joke, for his personal appearance and his highly theatrical manner do not conform to the North American idea of a powerful man. History will tell our descendants just how powerful Mussolini was, and what fools we were to laugh at him when we should have been opposing him. Hitler will go down to posterity as a vile and warped character who achieved power by desperate means, but Mussolini is much more the typical adventurer and conqueror; no one with an ounce of intuition could trust or like Hitler, but many very intelligent people have been taken in by Mussolini. The Russians, who are shrewder in these matters than we are—having seen many conquerors rise and fall—know how dangerous a man Mussolini was and may still be, and they want to see every trace of him scoured from the surface of Italy before they rejoice.

A Newspaper Changes Hands

When Mussolini fell he did not fall alone; a number of important men of the Fascist organization, who were not members of his Cabinet, fell with him. To journalists, the most interesting of all these lesser luminaries was Virginio Gayda, editor of Giornale d'Italia.

Gayda was an apparent contradiction: he wrote in a full-blooded, swashbuckling style, dogmatic and threatening; and yet in person he was small and of a gentle and scholarly appearance. Like a number of writers on political and social subjects he had within him phials of wrath which he could only uncork when his pen was in his hand. His undoubted gifts as a writer were wholly at the service of Benito Mussolini, and his fulminations in the Giornale took their tone directly from the dictator.

His newspaper was acquired early in the Italian Fascist regime from Senator Alberto Bergamini, who disliked Fascism and used the Giornale to say so; with their customary directness of action the Blackshirts seized the paper and put Gayda in charge of it. The journalists of the United Nations will congratulate Bergamini, who now has Giornale back in his own hands.

More Pay For M.P.s?

The Kingston Whig-Standard suggests that members of Parliament should be given a raise in pay. At present they get a sessional indemnity of $4,000 a year, which is what they have been getting since 1920. According to the member's income from his business or profession, a considerable portion of his sessional indemnity goes in Income Tax; his income from his normal occupation is reduced, because he now remains at Ottawa for as long as six months at a time; and the cost of living has risen sharply since the easy days when Parliament sat for three months. The ordinary M.P. is doing twice as much work as he used to do for a salary which has not been increased in twenty years.

The suggestion that sessional indemnities be increased will no doubt provoke an outcry from people who do not make $4,000 in the course of a year's work, and who think that sitting in Parliament must be an easy and possibly even a glamorous way of spending time. The members of the Commons know better than that; the majority of the members work like beavers, live under uncomfortable conditions and are never free from worry. And glamour, so far as they are concerned, is likely to consist of a hastily snatched meal with a constituent who wants an appointment as a lighthouse keeper.

We want the best men in Ottawa whom we can persuade to go there. We do not want men to whom $4,000 a year and free transportation looks like the realization of the Beveridge Report. Therefore we must give our M.P.s a sufficiently large sessional indemnity to make it worth their while to leave their professions and businesses for half the year. In this connection talk about patriotism and the desire for public service carries little weight: members of Parliament have wives and children like other men, and they should not be expected to sacrifice the interests of their dependents in the service of a country which likes to be penurious about Parliament, but which is prepared to spend money heavily on a variety of other projects.

It is time that the question of sessional indemnities was thoroughly discussed.

The Prices Board Acts

It is good news that the Prices Board means to establish ceilings on peaches, plums, pears and the other fruits which have yet to appear on the market. In a recent editorial we wrote of the widespread dissatisfaction which was felt among housewives who, having been urged to preserve as much of the fruit crop as possible, found that prices made preserving an extremely expensive business.

Consumers realize the difficulties which fruit growers and producers of vegetables have to face at present, when the manpower shortage and difficulties of transportation make all farm work arduous. But they do not believe that the difficulties excuse the doubling and, in some instances, trebling of fruit prices. Although a certain amount of easy money is floating through the retail stores these days the average householder who had the same job before the war that he has now has likewise the same salary, although his taxes are higher, and he cannot afford fruit at luxury prices. Fruit is not a luxury, but a necessity of good diet, and the anxiety of the Prices Board that it should be available to everyone is explicable on this ground.

Controls are also foreshadowed which will establish prices for stored root vegetables and stored apples. The potato shortage this spring was a lesson—a very gentle one—in what trouble shortages can bring. We are sure that the action of the Prices Board will meet with general approval.

A Victory For Smuts

We have already commented at some length on the South African election, assuming that Field-Marshal Jan Christian Smuts would win it, which he has done. Our calculation was based on reports from well-informed sources, but although they were sure that the Marshal would win they had no idea that his majority would be so great as it is. He has emerged from the election with six-to-one support, which gives us an adequate idea of the size of the anti-war faction in South Africa.

By giving Smuts this extraordinary victory the South African people have spoken their minds once for all on the question of their allegiance. They are not British, on the whole, but they are glad to be a part of the British Commonwealth, and they feel that in that organization they can live as a free and honourable people. The threat of German influence in South Africa has been dispelled as it was in the last great war, and a tie which binds the Union to the other Dominions has been immeasureably strengthened.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Sold completely by Mussolini, are we to assume that the Italian boot is now only half-soled?

A business report shows an increased sale of hair dye. Oh, the old grey hair, she ain't what she used to be.

A rumour says that Mussolini was apprehended in an attempt to escape from Italy. But it was definitely stated that he was not going to Sicily.

Farming News and Views

By
HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

THE oat crop is looking better in some parts of Ontario. Up Chesley way it is reported as making great progress and a fairly good yield may be harvested. Fall wheat is not very good there. Hay is in abundance and pasture has got ahead of the cattle. It was difficult to stock heavy enough with cattle this year and much of the grass will not be eaten off. Haying is just ending with the month of July and a lot of feed has been put up, though some of it is not in first-class condition.

Cattlemen have confidence in the future of beef prices and high figures are being paid for stockers, up to $12.50 and $13.00 in the Toronto yards. There is a keen demand for good bulls of all the breeds grown in Ontario. Dairy products are keeping the milking cattle to the front. Holsteins, Ayrshires, Jerseys and Guernseys are in keen demand and dairy cattle breeders are ready to pay good prices.

Beef bulls of Shorthorn, Hereford and Angus breeds are bringing prices which promise real profits to their breeders. Dual purpose Shorthorns still have a goodly number of friends. Better bulls of all the breeds are wanted as there is nothing like good prices to make farmers realize that improvement in their cattle beasts is urgently needed. How futile it is to be feeding a dairy cow that scarce pays for her board, or a steer for beef that is a mean brute and fails to put on good flesh in the proper places. Farmers are going to pay more for bulls during the next few years in Ontario.

THE fall wheat harvest in the United States is well over and better yields have been secured in Ohio and Indiana than were expected in June. The winter wheat of the U.S. is now expected to run close to 520 million bushels as against 501 million estimated in June. The acreage under crop in the U.S. next year will be 380 million acres as compared with 364 million acres this year, so the republic is planning an increased production for 1943.

RUSSIA expects a substantial increase in her harvest this year and she has planted with confidence that she can keep the Germans off her wheat fields. During the past year Russia has taken some seven and a half million bushels of Canadian wheat. Russia will get back into production quickly when the Germans are completely driven out.

RESEARCH efforts in both Untied States and Canada have pretty well decided that synthetic rubber can be more cheaply made from petroleum than from grain alcohol. Wheat will, therefore, not go into motor tires. The synthetic rubber plant at Sarnia is a very large one. Officials from Brazil have recently visited Canada and the United States and are quite firm in their opinion that after the war ceases, natural rubber will be produced in Brazil, Malaya and the Dutch East Indies at a much lower price than synthetic. They say that science has made much progress in the processing of crude rubber, and that a high class natural rubber will be on the market at a price much below what it was sold for previous to the war. There will be many new and important products on the market a few years from now.

CROP conditions in Western Canada are not quite as good as they looked a short time ago. There has been some lack of moisture in Saskatchewan and Alberta and some flooding in parts of Manitoba. Nothing very severe has yet happened, but the weather man has a hand in the business yet and we all hope he will be kind.

IN many parts of Ontario there is a fine aftermath on the hay fields. Wherever the hay was taken off fairly early the clover came on quickly and will give a good cut. Any farmer who has a field of red clover should save it for seed as clover seed is bound to be high priced in the spring of 1944. A second cut of alfalfa might give a good crop of seed with favorable weather. If you have a fairly clean field of timothy still uncut it will be well worth cutting for seed. All small seeds will be expensive and will find a ready market. This spring's seeding has come on well and promises an excellent catch except where flooded out, but as we still need to seed down and plough up to keep our land fit for the tasks ahead of it, there will be a demand for grass seeds.

THE price ceiling for cattle until the end of this year remains at $10.50 dressed with an added 50c for carcasses the packer has defatted and another 50c per cwt. for carcasses that will grade red ribbon. There has been a floor added to this structure which is moveable when too many cattle are rushed to market. There is little danger of sellers being troubled with the floor in this market as there seems to be a firm demand for all the cattle offered, and it is likely to continue for a time. Live prices for top steers reached $12.75 per cwt. on the Toronto market on July 26th, while good killers brought $12.50, baby beeves up to $13.75, and fat bulls as high as $11.25. Stockers sold up to $13.50, which indicates that many feeders still have faith in the cattle market.

[illegible]ddressing the food conference in the White [illegible] at the conclusion of its meeting at Hot S[illegible], Virginia, President Roosevelt made the following significant comment:

"That a child or adult should get the nourishment necessary for full health is too important a thing to be left to mere chance.

"As you stated in your declaration, the primary responsibility lies with each nation for seeing that its own people have the food needed for health and life; steps to this end are for national determination. But each nation can fully achieve its goal only if all work together.

"A sound agricultural programme will depend upon world political security while that security will, in turn, be greatly strengthened if each country can be assured of the food it needs."

If this statement of the President means anything it means that food producing countries must trade food products with each other on a reasonable basis, and also that countries which do not produce food enough to feed their population must have a reasonable basis upon which to trade goods for food. This will take some working out and will only succeed when selfishness has a very small part to play in its consummation. It looks like quite a long step toward the millennium. It will be interesting to observe.

HOW TIMES HAVE CHANGED!

Death of Lord Wedgwood

(NEW YORK TIMES)

JOSIAH Clement Wedgwood, Lord Wedgwood, described himself in a letter to this newspaper as "a dyed-in-the-wool old radical, steeped in the tradition of John Bright and Henry George. He started as a Liberal and became a Laborite, largely on account of the land question. It was hard for him to define exactly his position. He was an incorrigible individualist and a Socialist. He loved unpopular causes, minorities. He was an independent. Last year there was a debate in the Lords on national education. Lord Wedgwood said he had a grave suspicion of it. He wanted "it to produce rebels who think for themselves, not robots who think as others want them to." He belonged to the long line of English rebels.

His great-great-grandfather, Josiah I, the ceramist, was a friend of Dr. Franklin's and thanked God at the end of the Revolutionary War that "America is free." In his thirty-six years in the House of Commons the great-grandson was an asker of questions and a pursuer of injustices. If he thought that the single tax would bring back the golden age and longed ardently for peace, none the less he was a captain in the Boer War, and in the First World War fought in Belgium, the Dardanelles, East Africa, Mesopotamia, Siberia and got a grievous wound and the D.S.O.

His recreation was writing and he wrote well. He was editor of that vast history of Parliament of which a tenth has appeared in four volumes. Posterity is welcome to that, but in "Memoirs of a Fighting Life" he is himself, hearty, humorous, out-of-door, enjoying life to the top of his bent. And so in "Essays and Adventures of a Labour M.P.," at least in the adventures. He had a multitude of friends in this country, which he often visited.

His enthusiasm for Zionism was constant. He proposed that Palestine be made a Seventh Dominion and wrote a book about it. He was also eager for a closer connection between Great Britain and the United States. A man of thought, as well as action, a rich and salient character.

That Happy Boundary Line

I HAD a splendid six weeks' tramping with my lifetime friend, Stephen Graham, in the Rockies. We climbed northwest through Glacier Park, Montana, across the Canadian line into Alberta, Canada. There it is in two sentences.... It would take more than the Encyclopedia Britannica to tell on how many points I agree with him. I had not the least idea that so much Lindsay was going into Graham's fireside notes—while I was asleep at noon, often recovering in an hour from ten hours of restless, sleepless freezing by night. I do not hold myself liable in court for any opinions of mine then recorded by Graham. My daytime strength was not all given to thought, however, but often to trying to keep Graham in sight when he was a quarter of a mile ahead of me climbing mountains absolutely perpendicular....

After I had hunted for years and years to find an explorer-poet who would take a long walk with me, and had scared every one off by the elaborateness of the proposal, the firt troubadour that took me up on it almost broke my neck. It was a grand and awful time....

Certainly the most worth-while thing in Stephen's book and mine, is a matter known to all men long before the books were written. That is, that a Britisher and a United Stateser can cross the Canadian-American line together and discover that it is hardly there; can discover that an international boundary can be genuine and eternal and yet friendly. If there is one thing on which Stephen and I will agree till the Judgment Day, it is that all the boundaries in the world should be as open, and as happy, as the Canadian-United States line. To many diplomats such a boundary is incredible, and yet it exists, one of the longest in the world.—From "Going-to-the-Sun," by Vachel Lindsay. (New York: Appleton-Century.)

A Modern English Masterpiece

(By EDMUND SCOTT, Christian Science Monitor)

SOME day, if you have not already discovered it, you will discover the "Fantasia on a Theme by Thomas Tallis"—providing, that is, that you are seriously fond of music and have no inflexible preconceptions of what the music of this century should be. The Fantasia is not a bone of contention, like Stravinsky's "Rites of Spring"; so, of course, it is not discussed constantly by people who are concerned with modern music. Yet I think it is in its own way, a milestone in the history of the art. For it marks a return to simplicity and directness—above all, a return to line—all qualities which other musicians had obscured in the works which immediately preceded and followed the appearance of this deeply eloquent and unpretentious composition.

Ralph Vaughan Williams, who wrote the Fantasia and who is widely recognized as England's greatest living musician, was a young man when the Fantasia was composed, sometime around 1910. England was just beginning to awaken to her own past musical greatness. Her scholars were beginning to recognize the stature of William Byrd and the school of church musicians to which he belongs historically. Later, with the discovery of Byrd's "Great Service," they were to have a work comparable in magnitude and subtlety to Bach's B Minor Mass. Until the present century, they would not have been inclined to see its beauty. Vaughan Williams proved how deeply he understood the music of that distant age when he came upon some work of Byrd's teacher, Thomas Tallis, and took from it an indescribably sweet, long-breathed melody—the theme upon which he based this Fantasia.

The Fantasia is for two string choirs and string quartet—a rare and yet, for his purpose, a perfect combination. The contrasts of timbre as well as those dynamics are subtle, and must be listened for if they are to make their effect, there is little change of mood and tempo, and yet the work is as long as many a symphony. Its fine strength lies in its ceaseless lyricism—it is an endless song.

It is interesting to note the remarkable contrast between this music and the music of Delius—between the essential and ever-present lyricism of the Fantasia, and the never lyrical, always harmonically rich music of Delius—perhaps the richest music in texture which has ever been written. Everywhere in Delius is the same leisure one finds in the Fantasia, but with this difference Delius is forver nostalgic, while here Vaughan Williams is only quiet—notalgia is forgotten in the clear, highly imaginative melodic line. Then, too, there is an airiness—a lucidity—in the latter's harmony; breathing-space seldom found in the harmony of Delius. Vaughan Williams has here a sweet restraint, a spareness, perhaps because his harmony is organized on contrapuntal principles for which Delius cared nothing.

The Fantasia is significant, aside from its own noble beauty, in reasserting the existence of melody and in demonstrating that consonances need not be tedious in modern music. It points both to the future and to the past, as few contemporary works do. And it reminds us that Tudor music is sure to prove a mine of first-rate musical materials, just as Beethoven proved to be a mine for other musicians. His dynamic orchestra fascinated the musicians of the nineteenth century to such an extent that they became more interested in energy and tone-colour, and later in general emotionalism, than in melody and rhythmic invention in which the English musicians of Tallis's and Byrd's time were pre-eminent. Noisiness and exoticism have been running rampant for many decades, and this fresh and infinitely simple music of Vaughan Williams reminds us that we need to dig deeper into the past and rediscover that little-known world of music, because it has everything to say to us. Those men (what beautiful names they had!—John Wilbye, Thomas Morley, Orlando Gibbons) had a firm grasp of melody, the basic element of music, and the element in which so much of our present-century music is so sadly deficient.

Of course, I do not mean to suggest that the "Fantasia on a Theme by Thomas Tallis" is important to us only because it is serene and strong music, and a great work of art.

A Bible Message

And it came to pass, that as he was come nigh unto Jericho, a certain blind man sat by the way side, begging: and hearing the multitude pass by, he asked what it meant. And they told him, that Jesus of Nazareth passeth by. And he cried, saying, Jesus, thou son of David, have mercy on me. And they which went before rebuked him, that he should hold his peace: but he cried so much the more, Thou son of David, have mercy on me.

And Jesus stood, and commanded him to be brought unto him: and when he was come near, he asked him, saying, What wilt thou that I shall do unto thee? And he said, Lord, that I may receive my sight.

And Jesus said unto him, Receive thy sight, thy faith hath saved thee.

And immediately he received his sight, and followed him, glorifying God; and all the people, when they saw it, gave praise unto God. (Luke 18: 35-43.)

Letter To The Editor

LIONS PELT DUCKS

Dear Sir,—

I admire greatly the Lions Club for the work it does in making life easier for the less fortunate and think it deserves very high praise indeed.

The carnival is an unselfish gesture to help others, but I cannot understand men of their intelligence and fine character putting ducks in a tank of water to be pelted unmercifully day and night as they were in that one particular booth at the carnival.

Cruelty to ducks is just like cruelty to any other bird or dumb creature, and may I say again I cannot understand it.

Trusting you will give space in your fine column.

Royal Canadian Regiment Sees Plenty Of Action At Leonforte

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN SICILY, July 28.—(Delayed)—(CP Cable.)—The Royal Canadian Regiment, an Eastern Canada unit, has been to the fore throughout the Canadians' advance in Sicily and fought in two fierce actions.

This senior Canadian permanent force infantry regiment, with peace time depots in Halifax, St. Johns, Que., Toronto and London, Ont., and a predominance of young officers and men from Western Ontaio, fought the Germans in both battles.

Its work was a big factor in the final successes the Canadians achieved in the mountain fighting around Valguerna and Leonforte.

Plenty of Action.

At Valguerna, about 15 miles southwest of Assoro, one of the latest towns to fall to the Canadians, and 70 miles north-west of Pachino, where the original Canadian landings were made on the island, the Royal Canadian Regiment carried out a wide flanking movement and cut off a considerable group of the enemy, opening the way to Leonforte and beyond. At another town the unit opened a three-day attack and bumped the Germans hard.

Other regiments followed up until the infantry broke through with tanks, artillery and aircraft.

I had supper the other night with the R.C.R.'s as they rested following their second battle and talked with officers and men. The officers include Capt. R. G. Liddell, Toronto and Alton, Ont., and Capt. Strome Galloway, Aylmer, Ont.

Peterborough Boy

There is a large number of London, Ont., officers, including Captain Dick Dillon, Captain Ian Hodson, whose father commanded the R.C.R.'s earlier in the war and who is a brother of Wing Cmdr. Keith Hodson, D.F.C. and Bar, Captain Sam Lerner, Lieuts. John Hunt, Ernie Jackson, Len Carling, Russ Watson, Harry Keene, Johnny Praysner, Sam Mackness and Ted Shuter.

With the unit here are also Lieuts. Freddie Sims and Tom Burdett and A. B. M. Pettem, Pembroke, Ont.; Capt. R. P. (Rusty) Wilkes of Rainy River, Ont., is a chaplain.

They told details of the regiment's operations since I left them following the landing on Pachino Peninsula. The landing was completely successful and not a man was lost as they went through the barbed wire and attacked up the road leading to Pachino airfield. They crossed the airfield and attacked an Italian strong point to the northwest of Pachino with companies commanded by Liddell and Power leading.

Hard Fighting

On the maps and photographs we got before landing this area was merely marked "military activity" to indicate the sort of opposition expected. He R.C.R.'s found plenty of activity including a four-gun howitzer battery which had been shelling our ships.

Liddell's company went up a slope towards an orchard where the troops were out of wireless range of batchine-gun and artillery fire. They weer out of wireless range of battalion headquarters and could not call for support so they began to crawl forward. They cut their way through wire with snipers and machine-guns peppering them.

Six men distinguished themselves particularly in this assault: Ptes. J. M. Butler, Chatham, Ont.; Bill Allison, London, Ont.; Eddie Fodz, Hartford, Conn.; Joe Gregis, Wornester, Mass.; Jack Gardiner, London, Ont., and Harry Gorham, Niagara Falls, Ont. They attacked with rifles, Bren guns and bayonets and captured Italian machine-gun positions.

Take Prisoners

Meanwhile the rest of the company swept over a hilltop and captured 250 Italians, including the commanding officer of the battery.

Maj. Tommoy Power, Halifax, said the regiment then pushed on by forced marches to the northeast. Every available vehicle was used and men sometimes rode on top of tanks.

They passed through Rosolini and struck on west towards Modica, passing masses of smashed Italian vehciles and guns. There was no enemy opposition.

The R. C. R.'s kept marching about 30 miles a day, reaching Giarratana, north of Modica. A carrier patrol went further west into Ragusa, about 30 miles northwest of Pachino. There was occasional sniping but everything was comparatively quiet.

Speed Ahead

The regiment skirted Vizzini, 20 miles north of Ragusa, as the British captured the town. They pushed on at top speed through Grammichele, Caltagirone and Piazza Amerina, all of which fell to the Canadians July 15 and 16.

Several other Canadian units ahead of the R.C.R's had been in action against the Germans and the turn of the Royal Canadians was approaching.

On Sunday, July 18, their chance came when a battle was fought outside Enna, key mid-Sicily road centre, and a flanking movement carried out to Valguarnera, a short distance to the east. The R.C.R.'s were one of the leading units in the highly successful flanking attack, fought over the steep hills leading to Valguerna. That town was captured July 19 by the joint effort of the Royal Canadians and two Ontario units, the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment and the 48th Highlanders.

Canadian Regiments.

The Canadian artillery meanwhile fired concentrations ahead of the immediate battle zone. The R.C.R.'s got about two miles east in this attack and stayed here during the night of July 27.

The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment went through them during the night and both units were ordered to withdraw during the morning to reform and give the artillery another opportunity to plaster the Germans with heavier fire.

The R.C.R. casualties were very light among the riflemen who were in the thick of the fighting, Maj. Power said. He attributed this to strong support by tanks, guns and machine-guns. Some of the fiercest fighting was around a red house on a hill beside a road outside the town which now is the centre of three battles.

The R.C.R.'s took seven prisoners there. Two R.C.R. privates got separated from their section during the night and kept going to the outskirts of the town. They thought the Canadians had captured it and walked to a car parked at the edge of the town. It turned out to be a German staff car. They took the driver prisoner and returned across the country with him.

Fine Lady Astor

Lady Astor, U.S.-born British M.P., pleaded guilty in London police court to a charge that she attempted to acquire a fur coat and other rationed goods from the United States contrary to defence regulations. She was fined £50 and £10 costs (about $240).

Who Will Rule?

Heir-claimant—Don Juan, son of late Alfonso XIII—he was named as successor by his ill-fated father.

Pretender — Prince Xavier of Bourbon-Parma—he is the Carlist candidate for the Spanish throne.

Dictator—Gen. Francisco Franco he may wish to keep control, if he can, in a democratic world, after the war. However, he is said to favor a return to monarchial form of government, but has made no committments favoring either candidate—Prince Juan or Prince Xavier, pictured ABOVE.

WINSTON CHURCHILL—WHO HAS LED US THROUGH DARK DAYS.

The C.C.F. Would Get Rid of Churchill

Clarence Gillis, C.C.F. member of Parliament for Cape Breton South, a leading C.C.F. spokesman and first lieutenant of the C.C.F. leader in the House of Commons, said at Hamilton in March of this year:

"The people will have to get rid of the Churchills to attain their ideals."

On April 6th when challenged in Parliament, he said: "I have no intention of denying it." His leader, Mr. Coldwell, did not repudiate Mr. Gillis' statement. Neither has Mr. Jolliffe, the Ontario C.C.F. leader.

And what are the "ideals" of the C.C.F., to attain which, they would throw even Churchill overboard? Regimentation forever, is the answer. They'd take over our free way of life, make farm, factory and store mere state-owned machines, wipe out free business, subordinate the individual. In favour of fantastic Socialism, they destroy all that free Government and free institutions have built since Confederation.

Do Ontario Voters Want to Break From the Empire?

The C.C.F. declared in Parliament at the outbreak of war that we should send no fighting men Overseas — they thought Canada could be craven enough to try to retain freedom without fighting for it.

Sure they'd "get rid of Churchill" — they'd get rid of Drew; they'd get rid of freedom itself and make everybody a serf of a Socialized State.

George Drew, who has faith in our Future and in our British connection.

On March 24, 1938, Miss Agnes Macphail said in the House of Commons:

"In my opinion our British connection is our gravest danger. . . . There is a possibility . . . that when trouble breaks out in Europe . . . it will carry us into a conflict which after all has very little to do with North America. . . . It will be more difficult than it was the last time to inflame the youth of Canada to go again to fight in Europe."

Give C.C.F. and Miss Macphail Their Answer on August 4!

KAWARTHA GOLFERS TAKE BIG LEAD IN ANNUAL INTER-CLUB TILT

Aircraft Meet Westclox In 1st Playoff

Aircraft and Westclox meet tonight in the first game of the playoffs of the Ladies' City League. The playoff series will be best four-of-seven and the next game will be Thursday night.

The winners of this series will represent Peterborough in the Ontario playoffs, so the fans can look forward to some hard-fought struggles. Both teams are evenly matched and play good ball. Every game in the regular schedule was close and the playdowns should produce even closer scores.

Westclox will likely send Tommy Bullock to the mound tonight in an effort to take the first battle. Marg Watson will also be available. Aircraft will likely pin their hopes on Norma Strickland.

An agreement with the men's league will give the girls clear sailing tonight as there will be no contest in the men's loop. The game is billed to start at 7:00 o'clock and should pack the Bowl.

Battery and Genelecs

Wednesday night Genelecs and 4th Field Battery will meet at Riverside Park in a sudden-death game to decide first place. Battery drew a bye and Genelecs polished off the Soldiers in this series to decide first place.

Both teams will be out to take the top spot as the first-place team will meet the Switchgear in one series and the loser of Wednesday's contest will play the Soldiers. Neither team is anxious to meet the powerful Soldier outfit in the semi-finals so will be out to take tomorrow night's contest.

Genelecs will likely send Ron Akers, who knocked the Soldiers out of the top spot, to do the mound duty while Battery have Dave Wilson all primed but may send Crowe in to do the pitching.

With the brand of ball supplied by the teams lately the largest crowd of the season will in all probability be out. The game starts at 7:00 o'clock.

Commission Will Investigate

Promoter Frank Tunney has announced that both he and the Ontario Athletic Commission will investigate John Katan's absence here last night for the main bout. Tunney was plently burned up because Katan failed to show. The only explanation that could be offered last night was that Katan has missed train connections at Toronto en route from Hamilton.

Bunny Dunlop went in in place of Katan and gave the fans a great show. Dunlop is a strong wrestler and a great showman. When it was announced that Dunlop would substitute for Katan the management offered to refund the admission of any person who wished to leave. Not a fan left the arena.

All three bouts were crammed full of action and the fans were well pleased with the card.

Yeoman 3rd Class Art Walker, U.S.N., of the Nereid Boat Club of Belleville, N.J., won the quarter-mile dash on the opening day of the 61st annual regatta of the Royal Canadian Henley at Port Dalhousie. Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

Track and field athletics obviously have been taken over by the armed forces, both in Canada and the British Isles, for the duration, giving opportunity to high performers of the past and present with military meets at frequent intervals.

Canadian contestants scored heavily in the miniature Olympiad for the Allied troops in Britain on the August bank holiday when more than 20,000 people witnessed the competitions and the presentation of prizes by the Duke of Gloucester. Lieut. Larry O'Connor of Toronto and Cobourg member of Canada's team at the 1936 Olympic games in Berlin and also a point-winner of the British Empire games in Australia, captured the 120-yard hurdles in 15.3 seconds. A comparative unknown came to the fore when Lieut. J. D. Crashley of Oakville, Ont., took the hop, step and jump with a mark of 43 feet one inch.

A Westener, Sgt. S. Bartolussi, Powell River, B.C., was second to C. B. Holmes, the British sprinter in both the century and 220-yard dashes but later trimmed his English rival in the 440-yard relay to win this feature for Canada.

Eleven three - year - olds have been declared in for the Hambletonian test, a $5,000 feature to be staged on the kite track at Old Orchard Beach Wednesday as a preliminary to the $50,000 Hambletonian classic at Empire track, New York, Aug. 11. The entries are topped by Volo Song, Phonograph and Hester Hanover.

The seventh annual 54 - hole invitation golfing marathon of the Sudbury Golf Club concluded yesterday with Art Riley, playing his own course, holding the winning card of 216 for his second victory in three years. Johnny Poupore of Sudbury Idylwylde was the runner-up only one behind his rival.

The veteran jockey, 34-year-old Bobby Merritt of Newark, N.J., won the favcrable decision of Justice Carroll Walter in the New York Supreme Court yesterday against the State Racing Commission and the Jockey Club, the court ruling being that he was entitled to a riding licence—with the proviso "unless the refusal can be justified." Merritt said he had been unable to secure any explanation for the rejection.

After taking a tumble in the second heat of the 2:18 pace and trot in the harness card yesterday at Kingston, Ont., Princess Henley, owned by C. Hitchison of Kingston and driven by Burn McKane, came back to win the third and deciding dash in 2:14. Signal Hanover, from the Massey Stable at Alexandria Bay, stepped to victory in the free-for-all.

Meeting for the second time on Civic Holiday, Galt Terrier pups took the lead in the semi-final playoffs, two out of three games, in the inter-county baseball junior series by defeating Preston Riversides 10-2 at Galt, following a 4-0 victory at Preston. The fourth game is scheduled for Wednesday at Galt.

Hurricane Hiram

HIRAM BITHORN

HIRAM ON THE FIELD

When he came up to the Chicago Cubs in 1942 they called him the "tropical hurricane," both because he came from the tropics and was extremely fast on the mound. But Hiram "Hurricane" Bithorn turned out to be a mild zephyr last year. It's all changed now. Hiram "Hurricane" is really living up to his nickname for at recent count the Puerto Rican righthander had chalked up his 12th victory of the season, a 2-0 triumph over the Giants. The win was Bithorn's fifth shutout and his fourth straight success of the campaign.

Irate Woman Hurls Shoes At Bunny Dunlop

An excited woman hurled both her shoes at Bunny Dunlop, 239-pound wrestler at the Brock Street Summer Gardens on Monday night to add a trifle more spice to a wrestling match that was packed with action.

The indignant female occupying a ringside seat took exception to Dunlop's rough tactics almost from the start as he tangled with Joe Maitch, and first she walked over to the ring and tried to disengage Dunlop's feet from the ropes as he struggled on the mat with Maitch. A few seconds later spectators howled as a spike heel shoe went sailing through the air to bounce off Dunlop's shoulders, and the second one followed shortly after. At that point Dunlop hoisted Maitch out of the ring, and when the latter tried to get back in, Dunlop picked up one of the shoes and bashed Maitch over the head with it, spilling him into the aisle again.

Police Constable McGillen retrieved the shoes and took them to the box office, where the lady recovered them after the fights were over. He just returned in time to see the woman in a fighting mood pick up a short length of iron pipe and attempt to administer a knock-out blow to Dunlop through the ropes. The pipe followed the shoes.

Maitch took a severe going over from his heavier opponent and after being softened up considerably was pinned to the mat losing the fall in 12 minutes.

A Draw Verdict

The second bout, 30 minutes, was between Pat Flanagan and Hogan, the housepainter, and the pair was well matched. Hogan punished the Irishman with a full nelson for several minutes, but a couple of flying mares helped Flananagan stay in the running, and both tossed in a clever display of rough house wrestling that had the fans shrieking and yelling through the match. Hogan kicked Flanagan out of the ring, and the same woman spectator helped the Irishman back in, at the same time voicing words of encouragement. This seemed to inspire Flanagan, for he lashed out at the Housepainter in a series of flips, that had Hogan groggy, and the spectators were roaring for a fall, but Hogan was to slippery.

At the end of the time limit, the referee, Bert Maxwell declared the match a draw, but neither wrestler liked the verdict and it appeared for a minute that they would continue but Maxwell pacified the two and shooed them out of the square.

Katan Missing

Johnny Katan, the bad man was scheduled to tangle with Moose McCready but it is thought he missed train connections at Toronto as he was coming from Hamilton. Promoter Frank Tunney and the Ontario Athletic Commission will fully investigate the non-appearance of Katan here last night. When the fact was made known that Katan was not here, Dunlop immediately challenged Earl McCready, hoping to avenge the beating he had taken the week previous.

Fred Scates, announcing the change, told the spectators that if anyone was dissatisfied with the new arrangement, the management would gladly refund the price of admission, but not a single person took advantage of the offer, and the match was on.

Dunlop made it a battle all the way but McCready was too fast for him, and took the first fall in 11 minutes. The second round was fast and furious, with both wrestlers using painful holds, and mixing in considerable rough stuff every time they thought the referee wasn't looking. Twice it looked as if the match would blossom out into a full-fledged boxing match, but after repeated warnings from the referee, the boys tapered off and confined their efforts to wrestling.

During one melee on the mat, the referee bent down to see if Dunlop's shoulders were pinned down and found himself mixed up in a tangle of bodies. He was given a nasty punch in the stomach by Dunlop but couldn't see who was to blame. When he asked who was responsible, each blamed the other, and the referee gave up. Dunlop piled McCready on to the ropes, and when the referee tried to break them was given a solid clout by the angry Dunlop, who continued to twist the rope around his opponent's neck.

The only hope the referee had of separating the two was to engage in the match which he did jumping on Dunlop's back, and the three landed a confused mass of arms and legs in the centre of the ring. McCready introduced a series of holds that made Dunlop's head spin, and with a mighty heave, he flipped the strongman to the mat to take the second fall in 14 minutes. The decision infuriated Dunlop who tangled with the referee, and tackled McCready again, while the crowd swarmed up to the ropes, to see the finish. McCready held his own, and soon Dunlop figured it was better to call it a night. He was booed lustily as he strode through the crowd with a policeman by his side.

TORONTO, Aug. 2—(CP)—Cash customers at athletic contests in Canada seldom soar above anonymity, robbing the national of some of the glamor which invests sports activities in the United States. So it is refreshing, at least, to find Dick Elliott of the Port Arthur News-Chronicle devoting the better half of a column to a man whom he describes as "probably baseball's most beloved fan"—Bill Delaney, a man with "spectator personality plus."

Bill, says Dick, is "a fixture at Lakehead ball, the best-known voice at either park, a hearty chap with an appetite for baseball and an unquenchable thirst for fun."

Delaney, a Fort William rooter, often come to the game with a newspaper in his pocket. "The newspaper comes out and Mr. Delaney is diligently pursuing it—sometimes it is upside down but that's all the better—whenever the hated Port Arthur opposition executes a smart play . . . "

'Ware the Hawks:

Scanning sport pages leaves the impression that few editors think highly of the brand of hockey likely to be displayed in the National League this winter. The only optimistic note is sounded by Doug (Windsor Star) Vaughan, who says Chicago Black Hawks expect to have such players as Earl Seibert, Art Wiebe, George Allen, Red Mitchell, Mush March, Fido Purpur, Bill Thoms, Cully Dahlstrom, Bob Carse and Doug Bentley. "The Hawks look like a good long-range bet to be in the thick of the title fight," says Doug.

Around the Circuit:

No-hit games are becoming a dime a dozen in Ontario. Sixteen-year-old Steve Getler of the Horton Steel Club in the Fort Erie municipal loop twirled one against the Lincoln-Welland Regiment, winning 15-1. The only run against him resulted from a balk . . . At Brantford, four generation of the Gibbs family attended when Bill Gibbs, pitching for Brantford in an Inter-county Juvenile League series, held Preston hitless. By way of contrast, Preston committed 14 errors . . . Cpl. Wally Stanowski, the Winnipeg boy who gained hockey fame with Toronto Maple Leafs, paid a $22.50 fine for driving an automobile at an 80-mile-an-hour clip en route to spend a leave in Ottawa from Trenton, where he is an R.C.A.F. physical instructor. . . . Speed always was Wally's forte.

Glover-Dobbin Trophy Play Resumed

The first inter-club golf match for the Glover-Dobbin Trophy was played between the Peterborough and Kawartha Clubs, last Saturday afternoon, over the hilly fairways of the Kawartha Golf and Country Club.

The final score was Kawartha 39½ points, Peterborough, 14½ points, and so the Kawartha golfers carry a lead of 25 points back to the Peterborough Club, Saturday, August 24th.

Last year the Peterborough Club took possession of the Trophy by virtue of a three point win, on the two rounds, and they will be out on the 24th, to make up the deficit of 25 points to retain the trophy for another year. The Kawartha golfers are just as determined that the trophy will be returned to the Kawartha Trophy Room.

BROWNS DROP 5th STRAIGHT, FALL BACK INTO SEVENTH POSITION

Senators Edge Close To Tie For Second Position

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

If Messrs. William (I used to play for Yale) Cox and Bucky Harris will step into the laundry closet or some such sanctuary to continue their debate on just who is the "All American Jerk," the meeting will take up the rise and fall of the Brownies of St. Louis. A couple of weeks ago, they zoomed into the American League's first division and were bouncing along as merrily as a guy who's just had his gas ration raised and is going home to a steak dinner.

Then the bubble busted — and Luke (Laughing Boy) Sewell suddenly found out there's nothing to laugh about. Or can you see something funny in seventh place? —because that's exactly where the Brownies are after having dropped their fifth straight decision. This one was a 4-3 shiner pinned on them by southpaw Milt Haefner and Washington Senators last night.

A 6-Hit Job

Milt's six - hit win put the Washingtons in a virtual second place tie with Chicago White Sox in the American League, since James Joseph Dykes' Windy City warriors had lot of the wind taken out of them in Philadelphia. There the Athletics put on a two-run rally in the eigthth to take a 5-3 verdict, which left the Nats only one percentage point out of the second slot.

In the only other big league game Frankie Gustine singled home a ninth-inning marker to give Pittsburgh Pirates a 5-4 win over Boston Braves and move the Bucs up to 10½ games away from St. Louis Cardinals in the National League parade.

The Brownies' five game losing streak isn't even the half of it. As a matter of fact, they've blown 12 out of 16 since they hit fourth place on July 17.

The chief reason the Brownies have apart at the seams, is that Vern Stephens' bat has become a bouquet of sweet peas for Susie, for all the good it's done lately. In two weeks, his average has skidded from .336 right down to .302. And in that 16-game flop-ola, only three elbowers have managed to go the full nine innings.

But mostly it's not getting on the scoreboard often enough, because in their slide, the Browns have been shut out twice, lost three games by one run and another trio by two tallies.

Ontario Goes FORWARD With the CCF!

NOT BACK TO THIS!

ONLY FOUR AND A HALF YEARS AGO—JANUARY 9th, 1939
Hungry, unemployed men lining up at a Toronto relief office for meal tickets — a scene which was duplicated in dozens of Ontario centres.

Reports from all parts of the province show that the people of Ontario have swung solidly behind the CCF.

They see in the CCF a party in tune with the new times. The CCF program means ACTION . . . action for a stronger war effort now . . . and action NOW for security and full employment when the war is over.

The opponents of that program have made desperate efforts to confuse the issue. Every trick of misrepresentation, distortion and deliberate falsehood has been utilized in a frantic effort to stop the CCF advance.

But the people of Ontario are not fooled. Ontario knows how much depends on the result of the vote tomorrow. WE SHALL NOT RETURN TO BREAD LINES AND SOUP KITCHENS AFTER THIS WAR. The CCF alone presents a people's program that will prevent such a tragedy. The CCF alone will form a people's government in Ontario.

THE CCF IS LEADING FORWARD WITH THE CCF!

Toronto Leafs Split Twin Bill With Syracuse Chiefs

By the Associated Press.

Jim Ripple, who swings a bat with either hand, is back in the major leagues and Jim Tyack, 31-year-old rookie with Philadelphia Athletics, takes over a berth in the Toronto outfield.

Connie Mack, venerable leader of the A's, sent Tyack to the league-leading Leafs for Ripple following the induction of Elmer Vao.

Tyack, who probably will play left field for the International loop leaders, batted .255 for the American Leaguers in 52 games, but stroked out a robust .309 for Little Rock of the Southern Association last year whole helping the Travellers to the championship.

Standing six feet two inches tall and weighing 190 pounds, he drove in 71 runs, cracked out 31 doubles, 19 triples, and 12 homers in the Southern to earn the chance with the Athletics.

Ripple said farewell to the International League yesterday by hitting a pair of singles as the Leafs divided a twin bill with Syracuse Chiefs. Syracuse took the first 5-4, in 10 innings, while Herbert Crompton's Homer with two on in the second brought them a 6-4 verdict in the nightcap.

Nick Strincevich hurled the first five innnings of the opener for the Leafs before being lifted for a pinch hitter and then came back in the final inning of the nightcap when the Chiefs belabored Tom Ananicz for a trio of tallies.

Redwings Win.

Rochester took a 10-inning contest from Jersey City, 7-5, when Rookie Doug White connected for a grand slam homer in the first extra frame; Newark stopped Montreal 3-2, and Buffalo shaded Baltimore 5-4.

White's homer in the 10th was his second of the night and he had previously slapped a single. He drove in 6 of the Red Wings' seven runs. Earle Naylor got the other one.

Although Buffalo made five errors Floyd Giebell's stinginess in the pinches brought the Bisons a triumph over Baltimore with the tying and winning runs crossing the plate in the first of the ninth when Hahn homered with one mate on base.

Newark, loser of four straight to the Leafs during the week-end, repulsed Montreal's bid for second place when Dick Korte singled in the seventh, moved to second on an infield out and scored on Gene Corbett's smash off Hal Gregg's legs.

Nixon Expects 55 Seats On Wednesday

(By The Canadian Press)

The Ontario election campaign neared its end today, with only one of the three major party leaders scheduled to speak tonight on the eve of the balloting.

There are three separate votes in tomorrow's election—civilian vote, direct soldier vote and proxy vote—although election night returns from riding returning officers will not segregate the totals.

Civilian polls will open at 8 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. Ontario servicemen stationed in the province will vote at polls in their military camps and camp returning officers will telegraph the result to the home ridings of the men after the votes are tallied.

The proxies, through which men and women in the armed forces serving outside Ontario may designate a friend or relative to cast their votes, will be used at civilian polls by the holder. They must be used where the soldier, sailor or airman lived before enlistment.

282 Candidates

Revising officers are holding final special sittings throughout the province today to validate late-arriving proxies from overseas.

In all 282 candidates are seeking election in the 90 ridings. The Progressive Conservatives have 90 candidates in the field, one for each constituency. Premier Nixon's Liberal Government forces have 89 candidates, the one riding in which there is no Liberal being Elgin where Mitchell Hepburn, former Premier and former Liberal leader, is seeking re-election as an Independent Liberal.

The C.C.F. is contesting 86 seats, most in its history in the province. It had 37 candidates in 1934 and again in 1937. There are 17 other candidates—four Independent Liberals, three Socialist Labor, three Independents, two Independent Labor, two Independent Soldier, two Labor and one Independent C.C.F.

While Premier Nixon did not make a speech last night he said at his home at St. George near Brantford that he estimated the Liberals would win more than 55 seats in the election. He said his estimate was based on reports from all parts of the province. The Liberals won 63 seats in the 1937 election and held 59 seats at dissolution of the Legislature last June 29.

Duffus Speaks

Two former members of the House of Commons, Senator Duffus and G. A. Brethen, preceded Mr. Nixon in the evening's program, which also included vocal solos by Mrs. James Goldie, accompanied at the piano by Harry Northrop.

Mrs. Goldie was in excellent voice, and found the spacious auditorium of the Gardens a grateful medium to the sweet, clear resonance of her singing. She was presented with a bouquet by little Miss Mary O'Brien, daughter of John O'Brien, Union street.

Ladies on the platform were Mrs. Brethen, Mrs. (Dr.) C. M. Scott, Mrs. C. R. Banks and Mrs. Wallace Shearer.

Premier Nixon made no attempt to emotionalize his account of trusteeship in reviewing the record of the Liberal government. Personal glow in his utterance was noted chiefly in his reference to the work and the character fo the member for Peterborough, Captain A. L. Elliott, who is with the Army overseas. He also placed special emphasis on the progress made by the Department of Health, and on the strong position of the provincial treasury and of the restored credit of Ontario, as he presented it.

Dean Of Legislature

"I have the distinction, or whatever it may be, of being the dean of the Legislature. Of all those who were elected in 1919, and my friend S. S. Staples was one of them, I alone remain," Mr. Nixon said in his introduction.

"I am proud to have the support of Arthur Brethen. I have known him for many years, and I know that he is a man of strong convictions. It is a satisfaction that Alex Elliott has a man like Mr. Brethen to help him in his absence.

One of my reasons in coming to Peterborough was to ask all good citizens to put their shoulder to the wheel and do what is necessary to ensure the election of Mr. Elliott next Wednesday. I am certain they will do it because he is not here. He is entrusting that to you, and I know his trust will not be misplaced.

I may say to you that no one has been more active and keen in the interests of his constituency than Alex Elliott.

I have regarded him as one of the outstanding members of the Legislature. He is always on the job, frequently expresses himself on the floor of the House. He did not hestitate to take on heavy duties as chairman of the private bills committee and of other committees, and he has been most enthusiastic about fish and game.

As Minister of that Department since 1934 I can tell you that we had a great deal to do with Mr. Elliott. Your district received a great deal of attention because of his activities."

High Esteem

In his reserved manner Mr. Nixon left an impression of deep personal regard for Peterborough's absent Member, a tribute that exceeded a leader's usual complimentary reference to an associate and supporter. A warmth in his appreciation remained as reflection in the subsequent announcement by the Premier of his Cabinet post for Mr. Elliott if Wednesday goes favorably.

Mr. Nixon reviewed the incidents preceding his election as leader of the Liberal party in Ontario after the retirement of Mr. Hepburn.

"Because of unfortunate matters between the province and Ottawa in our war effort, I withdrew and went home to my farm as an expression of my disapproval. My son was the fourth generation of our family to own and operate that farm.

It soon became evident that many others felt the way I did, and when the number had grown to five or six it was decided to take steps for a convention. I felt then a duty towards my constituents who had loyally supported me for almost one-quarter of a century, and with the field open for a new leader I threw my hat in the ring.

All parts of the province were represented, and if any one asked George Drew "to rig it" I assure you that I did not, and there was nothing rigged about it. I had 73 per cent of the votes, and I feel I have the full democratic right to appear before you and appeal to you to re-elect Alex Elliott.

Promise to Peterborough

No one can hazard a guess as to when the war will end, but I can grant you this,— your riding will not suffer if the Liberal government is returned to power, as it will be. Your interests will be protected in every way.

Standard Raised

Taking up the main subject of his address, Mr. Nixon said there was little criticism of the government throughout the country, "and in my humble conviction the opinion of the people of Ontario is that they have had good government in the last nine years." The standard of living had been raised since the years of R. B. Bennett and George Henry, and no one would want to go back to that.

"I doubt that the people wish to make a change from the sound government they have had for the Utopia of our friends the C.C.F."

The financial strength of Ontario today was a sharp contrast with 1934 when the province was going into debt at the rate of $30,000,000 a year. "Its credit was so poor that a few months before the end of his administration, Hr. Henry asked for assistance from the banks. He wanted three million dollars on short term treasury notes, and offered 4¾% interest.

Today, my treasurer can get all the accommodation we need at one per cent.

We recently did some refunding. You know that we are not borrowing, for ordinary expenditure; we are keeping within our revenue and paying as we go. But, for the purpose of this refunding we got $3,000,000 for three years at 1¾ per cent."

Pay-as-we-go Policy

Paying as we go, balancing the budget, paying something off the "old mortgage", looking ahead to the need of funds for the problems after the war was the summary of Mr. Nixon's undramatic financing.

"But there are those with greedy eyes on the treasury, who are saying to you, 'let us in there and we'll show you how to spend it.' After the war I would not hesitate to use our credit to the fullest extent, and it is our plan to have ample means for a program of public works which we are planning. Some of them are self-liquidating like the Hydro."

Mr. Nixon recalled that since 1935 the number of rural Hydro customers had grown by 73,000 and the system had been extended by 10,500 miles. "Our hope is to provide Hydro in the years after the war at a price so attractive that our farmers couldn't afford to be without it. The Federal metals controller could not permit us to build line extensions during the war, but there have been many connections to lines already constructed.

"We have in mind bringing about some equitable adjustment of the rates for power in Ontario, and we believe it can be done without raising the rate in any municipality. The reserves were less than $80,000,000 when we took office. They are now in the neighborhood of $190,000,000, so our Hydro position is sound, and we are in splendid shape to go ahead with the projects I have mentioned."

Municipal Recovery.

A vast improvement had been brought about by the government in restoring the financial integrity of the municipalities, Mr. Nixon said. The debt of the municipalities of Ontario had swollen to half a billion dollars. Some 35 municipalities were bankrupt, owing $108,000,000. "We instituted radical changes. We subsidized the municipalities one mill, which amounted to $8,000,000. We took over the entire cost of the King Highway (provincial highways). Many of the counties were nearly bankrupt by the excessive cost. My own county of Brant had $300,000 debentures, but the last dollar of that was paid off last spring.

"I have noted with interest your own municipality is in good shape compared with nine years ago, when the Liberal government took office. Your gross debenture debt was nearly $5,000,000 in 1934, or $216 per capita. It has been reduced to less than $3,000,000 or $107 per capita; and your tax rate has been reduced from 37 mills in 1934 to 30 mills in 1942.

"You can see for yourselves that we are making progress in this province and moving in the right direction. Just look at your 1934 tax bills and compare them with 1942. Some one did that over in Renfrew and the reduction was shown to be 35 per cent.

"The fact is that things have been going well with your province. Why make a change when they are going smoothly? I suggest to you that your government, having worked with you and produced these results, should be continued in office; and I feel that we will be able to go on to even greater achievements."

Mr. Nixon recalled that the government had saved the people of this county $196,000 by assuming the entire cost of hospitalization of tuberculous patients. The government's advanced health policy had resulted in a decline of 25 per cent. in deaths from that disease in four years, "and that is an accomplishment of which we are exceedingly proud." The appropriation for "T.B." is $3,000,000 as compared with less than $800,000 a few years ago. "We are hoping that in a few years the white plague will be no longer a threat."

Assumption of the entire cost of mothers' allowances, and extension of that assistance to mothers of only one child, with an increase of 20 per cent, to cover the cost of living and the increase in old age pensions were also mentioned by Mr. Nixon. He denied the rumor that persons have to sell their homes to get the old age pension.

As owners they can get the pension and keep their equity up to $5,000 in the property, but there was a provision against certain distant relatives trying to claim part of the estate after the death of pensioners to whom they had been indifferent in life.

"We do not intefere with the ordinary rules of inheritance," said Mr. Nixon.

He contended that Colonel Drew was bidding with the public treasury for votes when he promised to reduce the cost of education by 50%, estimated as amounting to $10,000,000 more a year to the province.

Grants To Schools

"Our educational policy is sound. There is a great difference in municipal assessments throughout the province. One child attending school may represent up to $50,000 in assessment and another child less than $200, so that any blanket policy for the province is unfair to the people as a whole. Some schools receive 73% as compared with the 50% Mr. Drew talks about, and that is because there are many children at that school and its assessment is very low.

Since we came into office we have more than doubled the school grants. The recent death of Dr. McArthur was a serious loss. He was one of the finest men I ever met, and it was a privilege to be associated with him. He gave you splendid public service, and he was recognized throughout this continent as a splendid administrator.

Our policy is to adjust grants and to increase them as the revenues of the province permit. Only two years ago Colonel Drew moved in the House to cut all expenditures by 25%, now he would increase them by $25,000,000 by one stroke of the pen.

We are giving this year 330 scholarships to the most deserving boys and girls in collegiates whose parents could not carry the burden of the cost of university course. The state scholarships are a credit to Dr. McArthur. I hope they will become a memorial to him, and that they will be increased from year to year and that more boys and girls will have the opportunity of receiving advanced training."

Mr. Nixon said that an industrial city like Peterborough should not forget that it was this Liberal government which passed the first Collective Bargaining Act which was now in operation. "Never in my twenty-five years in the Legislature did I see such intensive study given to a measure as was given to this one. The Conservatives refused to be represented on this committee, the first time in my experience the Opposition refused to be represented. Labor unions are legalized for the first time, and provision is made for collective bargaining by employees of industries and their employees. This bill has been studied by outstanding labor men on this continent and they have pronounced as an advanced piece of labor legislation. It is operating and if labor and management will approach their problems in the spirit of this legislation I feel that in the future we may be able to avoid those strikes which can be so disastrous.

In closing I can only say that I am leaving the issue in the hands of the people. I feel confident that you will support the government—because it has given you good government for the last nine years—by re-electing Captain Alex Elliott next Wednesday."

Senator Duffus

Senator Duffus said he regarded as mean and contemptible the attempt of the Conservative party to defeat Alex Elliott because he was overseas serving his country. "He has left his business, his home and everything dear to him to go overseas, ready to lay down his life for the cause of liberty. I appeal to the electors of this riding to express their resentment of that kind of attack on Alex Elliott by doing everything possible for his election.

It has been my pleasure to visit Mr. Nixon at his home and on his farm. I have known him for many years. He has served this province for 25 years, 13 years on the treasury benches as a Cabinet Minister, and 11 years in opposition. He has been acting premier many times, giving him the experience to carry on the affairs of this province. In the last year he has been the balance wheel in the government that has placed Ontario in the vanguard of the Dominion with a record that is not excelled anywhere on this continent according to the tributes in United States papers. And against this administration there has not been a breath of suspicion or scandal.

I have watched the development of the C.C.F., and I remember the late Mr. Woodsworth protesting that it had no Socialistic tendency. In contrast with that I would like to read the following from the July 12 issue of The Letter-Review of Fort Erie: "The Socialist party in Canada has been afraid to say that it is Socialist; it tries to cover up by calling itself Co-Operative Commonwealth Federation, a nice title. Last week at the local C.C.F. convention in North Battleford, a resolution was passed "that membership in the C.C.F. be restricted to those who are Socialist. This was deliberately intended—according to the mover of the resolution—to protest the fact that too many non-Socialists are joining the party."

Senator Duffus said it seemed strange to him that so many of the prominent Conservatives in this province were not associated with Colonel Drew in his campaign. Where was the Hon. Earl Rowe, Leopold McCauley, George Henry, Arthur Meighen, Dr. Bruce and others who were not with Col. Drew.

Quotations from writings and statements by Col. Drew were quoted by Senator Duffus indicating mistakes of judgment, but the most despicable of all was the Drew reference "the little dyspeptic son of Mars" to the late Hon. Norman Rogers who as Federal Minister of Naval affairs was killed in an early stage of the war in an airplane accident in the county of Durham.

G. A. Brethen

Declaring his political policy to be, to follow a good man and a worthy cause, Arthur Brethen explained to the audience why he was supporting Alex Elliott in this election although he had voted against him and for T. P. Lancaster, the Conservative candidate in the last provincial election. He said he had hoped for an acclamation for Captain Elliott. "But it was not to be. I felt sorry, not for Alex Elliott, because he doesn't need our sympathy, but I thought we had more men in Peterborough, good souls ordinarily, who would not let their souls shrivel up in the partisan heat of an election."

Mr. Brethen said he had thought the progressive influence of John Bracken might have reached the Progressive Conservative convention in Peterborough, but he again encountered disappointment, for it was evident that the party was still dominated by the old boys who were life long Conservatives and were Progressive only in name.

Digressing from his main subject Mr. Brethen said he hoped Premier Nixon would be re-elected in order that the new government could apply itself to improving the administration of the Liquor Control Act. He cited as an example of what could be accomplished, his home village of Norwood. Some years ago there were three bootleggers among the residents, but the muncipal council was sympathetic to the enforcement of the law and with a sincere administration there were no bootleggers today and Norwood was far removed "from the things that are associated with alcohol drinking."

Mr. Brethen said he had known Mr. Nixon for years, and recalled an occasion when they were both together at Napanee on short course work, Mr. Nixon judging heavy horses and Mr. Brethen in charge of dairy cattle.

"One of the speakers at the Conservative convention in Peterborough said George Drew had to be elected to save Canada for the Canadians. I don't know what he thinks Harry Nixon has been doing. The first Nixons in Brant were United Empire Loyalists. They have been farmers down through the years and Harry Nixon is the third generation to operate that farm. His eldest boy enlisted in the Air Force and went overseas to fight for his country, and to die for it. That tells us something of the stake Harry Nixon has in this country."

In closing Mr. Brethen said that employees of many factories, of the municipalities, of the state and of the church had all been promised that their places would be kept for them, if they enlisted, until their return.

"Are the electors of Peterborough county to be any smaller than all those people in their attitude? We are fair-minded people let us say it to Alex Elliott — 'when you come back from overseas your job will be waiting for you. We will keep it for you."

Lions Carnival Is Huge Success

Lions Carnival wound up on Saturday evening with near record crowd that spent money freely, so freely that the refreshment booth hung up the sold out sign long before 11 o'clock and practically all of the games found stocks exhausted as midnight approached.

His Worship Mayor James Hamilton made the draw for the five major prizes, with Stanley Darling, immediate past president, acting as chairman. The winners are:

H. M. McIntosh, 168 Antrim Street, canoe and paddles; M. Hancock, 342 Charlotte Street, ton of coal; F. H. Jobbitt, Peterborough, mantel clock; R. G. Maniece, Westclox, set of dishes; and W. Hill, Quaker Oats, set of silverware.

Prizes may be obtained on Thursday of this week by calling at the Lucky Strike Bait Company, 505 Sherbrooke Street, or telephoning Frank Edgar, 3849, on the same day.

Dr. J. M. O'Brien made a substantial contribution to the club by loaning his pony adding to the herd of ponies already loaned by S. S. Staples, Dr. Johnston, Roger Amys, and Hugh Stewart of Hilltop Farm. Weston's Bread kindly consented to stable the ponies at their barns in Ashburnham, thus saving the club considerable time and extra work.

Four Young Boys Hold Bazaar For War Victims

When a group composed wholly of young boys go to work and hold a bazaar, it is something a bit out of the ordinary, because such events are in the majority of cases usually undertaken by girls, and so today's story of the work done on behalf of the sufferers from air raid attacks over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund bears a particular interest for it shows they too can make a success of this one particular endeavour on behalf of the fund.

Grant Harrison, Grant and Bob Reader and Jim Hull all live beside each other on McDonnel street, north, and with the help of the neighbors who donated homemade cooking and other articles, they held such an event on Friday to raise the nice sum of $9.00 listed in their name today, marking the second summer in a row that money has come from a stand in the same spot, although last year, the girls were associated with them in this effort to give aid to others in need.

The boys all wish to express their thanks to those who donated the wares which made the holding of this event possible.

Another group of youngsters, where once again the boys are prominent in number consisting of Sam Murphy, Harry McNabb, Jimmy Peltz, Bobby Rush, Helen Collins and Marie Minicola also have a share in today's receipts with $1.50 which they raised by holding a show, and one cannot help reflect just how much better it is for these boys and girls to utilize their time and talents in this manner, for it keeps them occupied in something both useful to themselves and others, and further away from the many forms of mischief which youthful minds can devise, and turns their ingenuity in the direction of something which has a far reaching usefulness from all standpoints.

Mrs. William Shannon has been one of the fund's most regular contributors in a personal way, and having a son on active service overseas, this extra service to help along the war effort is evidence of just how much she wishes to help things along. Her usual donation of $3.00 is once again listed today.

Zebra Fish

To mention a Zebra is to call to mind an animal which is to be found on the South African Continent, and occasionally is included among the attractions to be found in a travelling circus on this continent, but right here in Peterborough an opportunity is being given on August 11 for persons to see a Zebra Fish, and it is very well named as such, for it is marked in almost identical manner as the animal whose name it duplicates.

This event should prove of much interest to many people, for the showing of gladiolus will probably give one of the best displays of this beautiful flower ever seen in this city, and by allowing all who wish to enter their own flowers without even the charging of an entry fee, the Eastern Ontario Gladiolus Association should have widespread support from the residents of the city and district. The entire net proceeds will all come to the fund.

Veterans Urge Support Of Service Men

In a letter written to the Examiner the Veterans' Clubhouse Association of Ontario, an association directly connected with the veterans of World War II, urge the election of three soldier candidates who are now serving overseas with the Canadian Army. The three named are Lt.-Col. Colin Campbell, Liberal candidate in Sault Ste. Marie, Capt. Alex. L. Elliott, Liberal candidate in Peterborough, and Capt. Wallace Downer, Progressive Conservative candidate in Dufferin-Simcoe.

The following statement has been issued through their secretary, E. H. Claridge:

"The situation has arisen that certain sitting members of the Legislature, on active service overseas have been renominated by their respective parties.

"These absent members are under military discipline and not in control of their movements and may be at a considerable disadvantage in their campaign to retain their seats.

"We suggest that it would be the forerunner of a tragic situation facing all returning men of this war if the overseas service of these men placed their seats in jeopardy.

"Returning men might find that they had staked their lives for the establishment of the principles of a new order only to find that in the process of establishing security for others they had lost their own."

"Political creeds of these absent members is immaterial as the three affected held seats in the last legislature."

Girl Suffers Face Injuries

Seven stitches were required to close two facial cuts suffered by Doreen McCracken, R.R. 2, Lakefield, in a Reid Street accident at noon Saturday.

Doreen and her sister, Isabel, 9, were walking south on the west side of Reid Street, between London and McDonnel Streets. On some impulse the younger girl decided to cross to the east side. She ran out in front of a car parked at 531 Reid Street and was hit by the right front headlight and bumper of a southbound automobile driven by Ernest McManus, Peterborough, R.R. 2.

The report of the accident by Police Constable Morrow quoted Mr. McManus as driving about fifteen miles an hour toward the McDonnel Street intersection. Mr. McManus said he did not see the girl until she jumped off the pavement and ran back to the sidewalk. He felt the car bump something and immediately stopped. H. Abramson, 549 Homewood Avenue, following the McManus car, said it was moving slowly down the Reid Street slope from London Street. He also reported that he did not see the girl until she got up off the pavement, and that McManus stopped his car quickly.

J. J. Sothern of Toronto tried to persuade Doreen to go a doctor's office. She declined at first, but finally went to the Clinic with P.C. Morrow. Dr. A. G. Howson attended her, putting four stitches in a cut on the left side of her lip and three stitches in another facial cut.

DOWNEYVILLE

O'ConnellHouseBurns During Severe Storm

DOWNEYVILLE, Aug. 3—(ENS).—A severe electric storm disrupted telephone service here Monday night, and a house beloging to Vincent O'Connell, 2 miles west of Downeyville, was completely destroyed by fire after it had been struck by a lightning bolt.

The house, which was of brick, was unoccupied and only a little furniture in it was destroyed. Mr. O'Connell, who was in another house a half mile across the fields, as well as some neighbors heard the crash and went over but were unable to get held due to the failure of telephone service.

The rain was heavy in the district and crops were flattened by its force. This morning telephone service had not yet been restored.

Soldier's Wife Faces Charge

Mrs. Helen Girard, formerly of Norwood, was committed for trial in police court Monday on a charge of attempted fraud.

According to police information, her husband is in the active force of the Canadian Army, and she was living with a man named Lloyd Emery.

Subsequent to a fire in the house they were occupying in Norwood on January 29, Mrs. Girard applied for insurance payment on four household articles, radio, set of dishes, set of silverware and four pairs of curtains which she said had been lost in the flames.

John A. Grant, inspector with the Ontario Fire Marshall's Department, testified that Mrs. Girard and Emery came to Peterborough after the fire and were living at 582 Aylmer street. He found the household goods listed by Mrs. Girard in her claim, and quoted her as having told him that they were removed prior to the fire.

Utilities Shows Surplus In Six Months

Operating surpluses in the electrical and waterworks departments for the first half of the year were reported to the Utilities Commission by Howard Clegg, accountant, at its meeting Saturday.

The net surplus in the waterworks division for the period from January 1 to June 30 was $10,902.63, as compared with $11,106.47.

Corresponding surplus in the electrical department is $14,796.83 for six months, and $14,399.04 for the first half of last year.

The gas department reported a net loss of $2,028.06 as compared with $1,767.35 for the first six months of 1942.

Total electrical revenue was $239,578.23 as against $244,989.71 at the half-way mark last year.

Increases are shown in the receipts for domestic and commercial power services, but this improvement is offset in revenues for commercial and street lighting, both of which are affected by wartime restrictions.

Thos. H. Hooper Great Grandfather

Birth in Toronto on Monday of a daughter to Flying Officer and Mrs. John D. Hooper, promoted Thomas H. Hooper of Peterborough to the honorary distinction of a great grandfather.

The latest member of the Hooper family represents its fifth generation in Canada.

"Imagine that, a great grandfather," said Mr. Hooper this morning, delighted at the news he received yesterday.

Flying Officer Hooper, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred HNooper, is on duty with the R.C.A.F. in Newfoundland.

THE NIXON GOVERMENT Is On Its Way Out—
THE C.C.F. Is On Its Way No-Where — Only PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVES Can Win —

You cannot beat Nixon or check the attempt of the C.C.F. and their Communist allies to seize the reins of power in Ontario by remaining at home tomorrow. Your duty is to get out and vote for Capt. Harold R. Scott, the Progressive Conservative candidate. If you don't know where to vote call Progressive Conservative headquarters 5760 or 5769. But see that your ballot with an X opposite the name of Harold R. Scott gets into the ballot-box. Remember that every Communist, every agitator and their dupes, everybody foolish enough to believe that the C.C.F. is going to make us all rich overnight will get out to the polls tomorrow. If you are too indifferent about your responsibility to exercise your franchise you deserve five more years of Nixon standpatism or five years of chaos under the C.C.F. MAKE ONTARIO STRONG BY VOTING PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE TOMORROW.

As the shouting and the turmoil of this snap election begin to die out the one sure thing about it all is that the Nixon government is on its way out. From all parts of the province the reports are the same. NIXON is THROUGH. There has been a steadily mounting wave of protest against the Nixon haste to force an election, the Nixon indifference to the disenfranchisement of Canadian soldiers, the Nixon effrontery in asking to be returned to power on the record of his former leader after that leader had been ousted by his own colleagues, the Nixon yes-man attitude toward the Mackenzie King Federal administration. Tomorrow that protest vote is going to make itself manifest in a manner that will put a period to the short record of the Nixon government.

And That Protest Vote Is Going
Progressive Conservative

PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE

The electors of Ontario have not been deceived by the multitude of promises made by the C.C.F. They know that the only way to beat Nixon and stop Mackenzie King from plunging the country into another war election in the hope of gaining five more years of office is to vote Progressive Conservative. They realize that ONLY DREW CAN WIN.

Give Peterborough a voice in the new Drew Government by electing Capt. Harold R. Scott, Progressive Conservative Candidate.

MAKE SURE YOUR VOTE IS POLLED
Vote Scott and Forward with Drew to a Stronger & Better Ontario

We confidently believe that we are offering you the best candidate in Capt. Harold R. Scott, veteran of the last great war, business man, a candidate who because of his experience on the farm, in the mill and in the trenches knows the problems of the farmer, the worker and the men and women in the services more intimately than any lawyer or municipal official, can possibly know the problems of all three classes. We just as confidently believe that in George Drew, also a veteran of the last war, we have a leader of the calibre needed to guide this province during the remaining years of the war and through the troublesome post-war era, by far in ability, experience, training and vision the best of the three offering themselves to the electors. And we commend the clean cut, constructive, dynamic and inspired program of the Progressive Conservative Party and ask you to contrast it with the meagre fare of the Nixon policies and the impossible pledges of the "All This and Heaven Too" platform of the C.C.F.

THERE CAN ONLY BE ONE ANSWER If You Do.
That will be a vote tomorrow for

CAPT. HAROLD R. SCOTT Progressive Conservative

THE PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE VICTORY COMMITTEE.

Youth Labor Plan Raises Storm

By SYDNEY GRUSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 3 (CP) —Labor Minister Bevin's announcement that boys from 16 to 18 may soon be called up for service in the mines raised a controversy so strong it could well knock the proposal all out of its original shape if not kill it altogether.

As the storm gathered strength in press and Parliament just a few days after Bevin's speech to the Mineworker's Federation in Blackpool, it was freely predicted the minister would not proceed with legislation. Some parts of the press expressed belief he had been floating a trial balloon.

They saw behind it a feeler by the cabinet on what might be done toward directing all boys and girls of 14 and over and under 18 into war work. As it is now people between 14 and 18 can go to whatever job they like.

The government has registered in the last year 1,500,000 boys and girls between 16 and 18 and it is all this reservoir of labor, not only a comparatively small number to help solve the coal crisis, that Bevin would like to tap.

The minister must have known of the controversy his proposal would create, for he told the miners:

"Please don't raise a political storm if I have to do it."

Labor members of parliament immediately took the question to the floor of the House of Commons, asking of Prime Minister Churchill whether Bevin's announcement represented the policy of the government, and of Bevin whether he proposed to obtain parliament's sanction for such a policy and whether he proposes to call the boys from all classes of society and occupations.

Dubbed Tragedy

The Mine Workers Federation itself made no immediate official comment but formed a committee to consult with the minister. Some delegates pointed out the government wants more coal immediately and it would take some time to train the boys.

Sharpest editorial comment came from the Evening News which said, "It is a tragedy that on the eve of the fifth year of the war, when all our other warlike industries are performing miracles of production, the industry which is the foundation of them all should have to come to this parlous plight."

And the public grew mindful of home supplies when a few days after Bevin's speech Maj. Gwilym Lloyd George, Minister of Fuel and Power, declared that Britain would have to supply coal in Sicily this winter as it had done in North Africa and that "every new operation means new demands" for coal to maintain the railways and other services for the use of Allied troops.

Bevin admitted that voluntary measures to get workers for the pits had failed. Only 3,000 men had chosen the mines as an alternative to entering the armed forces and the number of miner had fallen to 690,000 while the minimum need was 720,000.

Engineer Tells Of 2 Years In Nazi Prison

HALIFAX, Aung. 2. — (CP).— Two years in a German prison camp were described here last night by William Williams, following his return to his Halifax home. Believed the first Canadian to return to the Dominion in a prisoner-of-war exadolite.
change, Williams was second engineer on the captured oil tanker Can-

A Nazi raider seized the Canadolite en route home in ballast, put prize crew aboard, and the Canadian crewmen were taken to prison camps in Germany.

"Capture of the tanker occurred in the spring of 1941.

"When we watched the bombs falling in tons from the American fortresses in the first daylight raid on the city of Bremen, it brought new life and hope to every man in the camp," said Williams. "We had seen flares at night. We heard of the bombings of German cities but when we saw the daylight raids, we knew things were moving."

On June 23 he said one hundred an dten of the prisoners were instructed to have their belongings packed. Their captors declined to confirm rumors of an exchange. For eight days the men were held in a detention camp.

"The waiting and suspense was terrible. It seemed harder than the years. Then one day we were sent to Bremen. It took us four and a half days to reach Lisbon. I was lucky I got a seat in a plane to London."

Three others who accompanied Williams to England were Milton Holmes, third engineer; Vincent Tutty, junior engineer, both of Trenton, N.S., and an English seaman.

Conditions Good

When the three Canadians left they "were asked to tell the relatives and friends of our boys from Canada whom we had to leave behind that they were well and as cheerful as could be expected. And they are looking forward to coming back soon."

Williams said there had been singularly little ill treatment of the 3,500 men at the camp. "Things are really better now than they were in the early days of the war. At first the guards were young Nazis. Now they are older men and these are pretty sick of the war."

Red Cross food parcels keep the prisoners alive. "Germany's own food situation is so bad that she can't feed her prisoners."

Capt. Ferns, of Canadolite, is officer in charg the camp where Williams was detained.

Paralysis Cases Grow

NEW YORK, Aug. 3 —(AP). — Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, says more cases of that disease "have occurred in 1943 than for a comparable period during the past nine years. The number of cases is double that of last year at this time."

Gerry McGeer Says Drew Always Wrong

AURORA, Aug. 3 — "The public record that George Drew has written since the war was declared shows him to be a very vigorous, selfish visionary," G. G. McGeer, K.C., M.P., Vancouver, declared in an address at a Liberal rally here Monday night in support of Morgan Baker, Liberal candidate in the Provincial election Wednesday.

"It is a record of deliberate frustration of every Minister of National Defence who has been in office, and of almost every effort which the war Government at Ottawa has made.

"Yet it is on that record that George McCullagh (publisher of The Globe and Mail), whose paper supported the ill-conceived National Conservative Party in 1940 when it was not only hopelessly defeated, but destroyed, is now asking the electors of the Province of Ontario to place their Provincial Government in the hands of Col. Drew, the self-styled military expert, who has never been right, and who has always been wrong," Mr. McGeer said.

"Public men of the McCullagh and Drew type always calculate that the public's short memory is always the politician's long suit. But surely the people of Ontario have not so soon forgotten George McCullagh's ill-starred 'Leaderless League.' Fortunately for Canada, it died a-borning. This weird political adventure was conjured up by McCullagh, and had it been accepted it would have been the first step toward a national dictatorship, no doubt with McCullagh in the driver's seat and Bay Street and St. James Street in control.

"Hitler was a good salesman, and he sold himself to the German people. Fortunately for us, George McCullagh, while a good salesman, has failed to sell himself to the people of Canada. His technique is not nearly so clever as Hitler's.

Charges Federal Plan

"Fortunately for the people of Canada, in his radio addresses, George McCullagh let the cat and all the kittens too out of the bag. George McCullagh has now openly taken command. Drew is no longer the master of his political fate. The real boss in the shows is McCullagh. Returning to the radio he published an advertisement decorated with his own picture, carrying the notice of his Province wide radio broadcasts which he introduced under the caption 'This Election Decides Canada's future.' But what is the future of Canada that McCullagh is so anxious to have decided? Is it unreasonable on the record, to assume that McCullagh believes that if he can put Drew over in Ontario he could join up with Bay Street, St. James Street, and the Tories in Quebec and put John Bracken over at the next Dominion election?

"By that achievement George McCullagh might then become not only the dictator of Ontario but the dictator of Canada. With such dictatorial powers, and it never could be done otherwise, McCullagh could then carry out the main plank in the platform in the leaderless league, namely, 'the abolition of all Provincial Governments in Canada.' Preposterous, you say? Of course it is. But McCullagh's political ideas are always preposterous."

Attacking the C.C.F. Mr. Greer said: "The C.C.F. Socialist politicians conveniently ignore all the achievements we have accomplished and tell us that we must abandon the system under which the United States and the British Empire have thrived and flourished, and adopt the system with which the Soviet is still experimenting in Russia."

It's Time for a Change.

Flight Record Made in Canada's Trans-Atlantic Service

A Trans-Canada Air Lines crew established a new non-stop record from Montreal to Britain, flying a big transport plane in the Canadian Government's new wartime trans-Atlantic service for the carriage of mail to and from the Dominion's overseas forces. From the take-off in Montreal to the landing in Britain the elapsed time was 12 hours and 26 minutes, 25 minutes faster than the previous best time. Trans-Canada crews will be regularly engaged in the new service and the plane carried a second T.C.A. crew to Britain in addition to three official passengers and mail. Above: crew members and passengers. Left to right—H. Thomae; Captain M. B. Barclay; A. J. Blackwood; Captain A. Rankin; C. S. Hewett; W. Houston, Superintendent of a De Haviland Aircraft Plant; J. R. K. Main, Inspector of Airways, Department of Transport; C. S. Ritchie, Executive Secretary, Department of External Affairs, High Commissioner's Office, London, England; G. Nettleton; Captain R. M. Smith; Captain Ronald F. George, Operations Manager of T.C.A. and Pilot of the record-breaking trip; and Squadron Leader J. R. Gilmore. The members of the crews hail from points in the Dominion from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Their home towns include Vancouver. B.C., Lethbridge, Alta., Melville, Sask., Winnipeg, Man., Stratford, Ont., Montreal, Que., and Sackville, N.B.

Federal Control Of Labor Most Effective

That the Dominion of Canada should have one department of labor to maintain an equitable arrangement with all the provinces, was the idea advocated by Thomas J. Hannon, president of the North Waterloo Conservative Association, who spoke at the Progressive Conservative meeting Saturday night.

At the present time, Mr. Hannon observed, the different provinces are competing with one another, and there are different minimum and maximum wage rates throughout the country. He pointed out that if a minimum wage was set in Ontario for a decent standard of living, there was no reason why the standard should be lower for the same work in other provinces. Therefore it should be taken out of provincial hands and left with the Dominion Government to deal with, he declared.

Continuing the same thought, he said that at the present time there is a considerable amount of duplication in the efforts of the labor ministers of the province of Ontario and of the Federal Government. He accused the two men of passing the buck continually on important questions that arose.

Favor Unions

Mr. Hannon remarked that while he was not a member of a labor union, he was very much in favor of them, and thought that many good ideas could be garnered from the British set-up. He said that today the Progressive Conservative party have the outstanding labor platform of any group in Canada, and that they would see that never again would conditions like those in 1929 and 1930 reappear.

Kill Patronage

"One of the things George Drew is most anxious to change is the patronage system which exists at the present time. It leads to useless duplication of effort, where you often find eight men doing a job that could be handled more efficiently by one, simply because these people have been good party workers and have to be rewarded. The Conservatives plan to use the best men for the job regardless of politics, and in that way feel there will be a considerable saving in money."

C.C.F. Communist

The speaker bitterly attacked the C.C.F. program, which he avowed was the first step toward totalitarianism. He reviewed the rise of Hitler in Germany and what state control had lead to. Quoting C.C.F. writings which he declared pointed to state ownership and anti-British sentiments, Mr. Hannon said the first step would be to nationalize control of the banks, insurance companies and industries, which, he said, would mean a terrible loss of money to the average citizen. In turn this would lead to the disbanding of labor unions and the regimentation of workers. The speaker asserted that in his opinion the C.C.F. was backed by and under the direct control of communistic interests in the Dominion.

"The Progressive Conservative party in Ontario is ready to draw on ideas which have been successfully worked out in Great Britain and to strengthen ties with the Commonwealth. The Liberal speaker of the House and Mr. St. Laurent are ready to break all ties in order to unite with the United States or remain in complete isolation. Although Mackenzie King promised to introduce unemployment insurance some years ago, he only got around to it after war broke out, and the system leaves much to be desired. The British plan allows different sums for single and married men, and for married men with children, while in Canada there is one amount for single men, and a slightly larger sum for married men, irregardless of the number of children they may have."

Concluding Mr. Hannon stressed Mr. Drew's plan for changing the system of old age pensions, whereby the Ontario Government now has first claim on an estate of the people they have given assistance to. He said that people who have squandered their way through life are given assistance and make no return, but that hard working people who have bought their homes and educated their children, when they are forced to seek help must first sign over what represents the goal of an entire lifetime. The Conservatives plan to increase the pensions and to do away with grabbing off their property.

More Statesmen

Capt. Harold Scott, Conservative candidate for Peterborough County, spoke briefly on some of the points of George Drew's program which appealed to him. He declared that he disliked the word politics, because he thought they played too important a part in Canadian government, and he thought more attention should be paid to statesmanship.

"Country people, particularly in the northern parts of the province and district, work under a handicap with regard to the health of their children. Too often they lack the necessary funds to have defects corrected or else they are unable to get their doctor in a state of emergency. In the same way, many farm children with mechanical bents are swallowed up in other work, where they are square pegs in round holes, simply because they lacked the money to get the same vocational training as the city children. Mr. Drew's program was designed to remedy this.

"The Conservative party's idea of a special labor committee made up of five representatives of labor, five of industry and five of the consuming public, is the only fair way of dealing with labor problems. This equal representation will see that all sides are given a just settlement."

Waste Money

Senator Iva Fallis was chairman for the evening. She spoke briefly on the Hon. Harry Nixon's accusation that the Progressive Conservatives were leading the country to bankruptcy. She asserted that it was certainly not they who were plunging over the economic cliff, but the Liberals, who had direct taxation amounting to $42,000,000 in 1934 and $92,000,000 in 1942 and a promised $125,000,000 for the coming year.

"To be sure they boast of more than $27,000,000 surplus, but that just shows how they needlessly extract money from the people instead of using it to relieve some of the taxes. Mr. Nixon fully endorses Mr. King's policy at Ottawa, waste and all, where they will spend $864,000 for rugs and chesterfields for Government offices, while urging housewives to get along without furniture in their homes."

The 22 points brought forward by the Progressive Conservative party were drawn up in general form a year ago and more than half of them were brought forward as resolutions in the last session and were voted down by the present Government, Senator Fallis declared.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE

On Saturday night Mr. Nixon, when speaking over the air, sounded tired and very discouraged and ready to promise anything in order to be elected. He also stated that Captain Alex Elliott would be appointed a cabinet minister IF elected. (Note the IF.)

Mr. Nixon also stated he would try to secure a furlough for Captain Nixon IF elected. (Note the IF).

Did Captain Harold Scott ask for a furlough when he was in France during the last war?

Did Captain Scott ask for any favours?

No! His place was in the front lines in FRANCE and that is where you wanted him.

Captain Harold Scott (Scotty) came up the hard way—he joined up as a private and received his commission on his own merits. Politics did not enter into it as Scotty cast his first vote while in France in 1917.

Who is most suited to serve you as Provincial Member?

Captain Elliott, a soldier OR Captain Scott, a veteran of the last war? A man who has worked for wages—a man who was raised on a farm—a man who knows the needs of the little fellow. ASK YOURSELF THIS QUESTION: Who can best serve the riding of Peterborough.

There is only one answer—

Capt. Harold Scott

A Veteran of the Last War Who Served in France

CCF Party Wants War Controls After Victory

Continuance of wartime controls after victory is won and socialization of the great natural resources which are the backbone of the nation's life were advocated Saturday night by Mrs. Grace McInnes, C.C.F. leader from British Columbia, in a speech at the Co-operative Hall.

Speaking in the interests of Bruce Johnston, C.C.F. candidate for Peterborough, Mrs. McInnes declared that the abrogation of wartime controls, which the old parties desired to accomplish, could lead to nothing but a return to prewar conditions of depression and mass unemployment.

She predicted that the outcome of this year's election in Ontario would indicate the results to be expected in the nationwide general elections to be held next year.

"We are fighting a battle on two fronts and military victory abroad will not alone suffice, any more than it did in the last conflict. All who want dictatorship are not on the side of totalitarian governments in Europe. This shows the importance of your election. It can either give the people hope or make them settle their faces grimly towards the status quo," Mrs. McInnes said.

Not Allied

It was not true. Mr. McInnes stated, that the C.C.F. was in any way allied to the Communist party. "There is absolutely no connection between Communists anl the C.C.F.; indeed, in some ridings Communists standing as Labor representatives are running against candidates of the C.C.F."

She praised the accomplishments of the New Zealand Labor government in its years of office, and offered it as a courageous example of what could be done in the matter of advanced social legislation. There the unemployed had been put to work at trade-union rates of pay on useful jobs, such as housing projects, that contributed to the essential needs of the whole community. "They are not set to work digging roads with teaspoons, so to speak." Just mimimum prices had been guaranteed the farmer, and New Zealand had brought in the first and so far only nationwide social scheme. "The C.C.F. is the Canadian counterpart of the New Zealand Labor party," Mrs. McInnes said.

Kill Good Work

She accused the Liberal party of wanting to kill the Hydro and underhandedly working to discredit it because it gave too good proof of how well public ownership could function. "The C.C.F. is not against the institution of private property as such but against the private ownership of great resources which all the people have to use and which should never have been called private property to begin with," Mrs. McInnes declared.

The only difference between Liberals and Conservatives she stated to be opinion as to which small group of business men should receive rewards and be advanced in influence and power to the detriment of the community. "No able, honest, straight-forward man joining forces with either of the old parties can remain for long a just representative of the common people," the speaker stated.

She disclaimed belief in any of the promises of Liberals or Conservatives saying that "for promises brought out 10 minutes ahead of the election you may be sure they have the mothballs ready to put them away in 10 minutes after the election.

"If we take Santa Claus Drew or Santa Claus Nixon at their word and fall for their talk as we have fallen for that of all their forebears, we shall become again the derelicts and parasites that we were before the war," Mrs. McInnes declared.

Lightning Hits Barn

MARMORA, Aug. 3 —(ENS)— A severe electric storm near Marmora Monday night set fire to and totally destroyed a barn owned by Eddie King, Belmont township. The barn contained a quantity of hay, a pig and some chickens and these were lost, but neighbours removed the horses to safety. Mr. King's farm is about three miles west of Marmora village and the barn took fire around 10:40 p.m.

FORWARD TOGETHER WITH THE C.C.F. PROGRAM

To The FARMER

Following is the text of the Ontario C.C.F. farm program as revised and expanded by this year's convention:

1.—MARKETING

In order to end monopoly exploitation and for protection of both the farmer and the consumer, a C.C.F. government will bring processing plants under public or co-operative ownership or control. The Milk Board, the Tobacco Board and similar bodies will be reorganized with major representation of both farmers and consumers. These boards and plants will be reorganized as public utilities under municipal or provincial control, and provision will be made for extending this type of control to new processing industries related to agriculture. In carrying out this policy, the government will appoint to the Marketing and Control Boards, men named by the Ontario Federation of Agriculture.

2.—CO-OPERATIVES

A C.C.F. government will give encouragement to both producers' and consumers' co-operatives and to credit unions. This assistance will take the form of: (a) substantial financial support to an educational organization set up by approved co-operative businesses for the purpose of carrying on educational work in co-operation; (b) financial aid to approved co-operative businesses in the form of loans at a rate not to exceed 2 per cent.

3.—RECONSTRUCTION

(1) As a method of assisting young farmers to become established on the land, a C.C.F. government will make loans at interest rates of not more than 2 per cent. to farmers who have the approval of the County Federation of Agriculture and the Agricultural Representative.

(2) A C.C.F. government will make Hydro-Electric power available to all rural areas in Ontario.

(3) A C.C.F. government will establish a reforestation and conservation project to plan and work with County Councils in the establishment of a comprehensive soil conservation program.

4.—EDUCATION

9 C.C.F. government will inaugurate a wide extension of vocational and adult education in rural areas: (a) through assistance in establishing rural high schools; (b) through a rapid increase in services of the Agricultural Representatives Branch; (c) through provision for a trained adult education leader in each count, to work with the Agricultural Representative and the County Federation of Agriculture; and (d) by providing that a fair proportion of the scholarships shall be allocated for agricultural colleges.

A C.C.F. government will also provide that the Ontario Agricultural College and other agricultural colleges come under the direction of a board of Governors, one-third named by the government, one-third by the alumni association of the colleges and one-third by the Ontario Federation of Agriculture.

5.—HEALTH

In the interest of promoting a positive and preventive health program, a C.C.F. government will pass enabling legislation to permit rural municipalities to set up Municipal Doctor Systems and such legislation will make provision for the establishment of Health Districts with government assistance in order that municipalities may extend their health services to include hospitalization, nursing and specialist services, etc. A C.C.F. government will also co-operate to the fullest extent in implementing and integrating any national health scheme when it is inaugurated.

6.—FARM MACHINERY

In order to preserve the farm family as the bedrock of the rural community, a C.C.F. government, through co-operation with the Ontario Federation of Agriculture and the County and Township Councils, will encourage the development of the community use of farm machinery, either on a co-operative or township basis, providing financial aid if necessary.

A C.C.F. government will also advocate the manufacture of farm machinery under public ownership.

7.—HEALTH OF LIVESTOCK

A C.C.F. government will establish, through grants to the County Councils, comprehensive veterinary services with emphasis on the promotion of positive health in farm livestock.

These services would be developed on a plan similar to that suggested for the care of the health of people. Veterinaries would serve a district with provision for specialist veterinary services over a wider area. The scheme would be a co-operative one between the provincial government and the county council, under the direction of the county council and financed by the province and county jointly.

8.—FEDERAL GOVERNMENT

A provincial C.C.F. government recognizing the fundamental importance of parity prices for farm products, and the importance of planning agricultural production both on a national and international scale, will urge the federal government to act along these lines and will give assistance to the Ontario Federation of Agriculture and other farm organizations in presenting the problems of farmers to the federal government.

To The WORKER

What will happen when the C.C.F. takes power at Queen's Park? Here are some of the things your C.C.F. Government will do:

1. Plan immediately for the employment of all after the war.
2. Organize for the full use of our natural resources and the development of new industries the minute the war ends.
3. Free the people from the power of the monopolies now in control of all important business and industry.
4. Bring these monopolies under social ownership with immense savings to farmers, workers and consumers.
5. Encourage co-operatives and reorganize marketing boards to give farmers full representation so that they can bargain for fair prices.
6. Pass an effective trade union act that will protect labor's right to bargain collectively for fair wages and working conditions.
7. Increase old age pensions immediately to $30 per month and also increase mothers' allowances.
8. Bring modern health services within the reach of all, thus saving thousands of lives, as in New Zealand.
9. Provide equal educational opportunities for every child by means of scholarships and grants to municipalities.
10. Revise the tax laws to remove injustice and lighten the burden on farmers and home-owners.
11. Abolish patronage.
12. Reduce the cost of bread and coal by setting up municipally-owned utilities.
13. Establish municipal distribution of milk to benefit both farmers and consumers.
14. Reduce the cost of electricity by rescuing the Hydro Commission from the grip of private companies.
15. Build more and better houses to the full extent of available labor and materials.

To The SOLDIER

Our boys overseas would like to know that things will be different when they come home—that there will be work for all, the best of health services, homes to be proud of, freedom from the fear of want and injustice.

Nobody wants conditions to be the same after the war as they were from 1929 to 1939. But they will be the same if we have the same old parties in power.

The C.C.F. is the party not afraid to make the necessary changes. The C.C.F. knows what changes are needed to build real social security. The old parties won't like it. The monopolies and big business will oppose it. But the C.C.F. will go ahead and do the job.

This war must be won. Ontario's people will co-operate with the Dominion and other provinces in an all-out war effort. A better and more democratic Government in Ontario will help to win the war.

WAR'S SUDDEN LIBERTIES END IN DISASTER FOR MANY GIRLS

Mothers Blamed For Lives Wrecked by Daughters Picking Up Soldiers, Going to Camps.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am one of the worried mothers of 1943. I brought up two children happily and successfully who are married satisfactorily and established in their own homes, so I know my methods of child-culture are not all wrong. At least they were not in the past. However, I have a third daughter, now 19, who is a junior in college, and I am frankly worried about the pace she is living and the temptations to which she is subjected.

Colleges start their dances at ten and they last until three. Girl students are allowed so many two-o'clock-A.M.-excuses a week. Girls are permitted in the boys' rooms unchaperoned. At parties nothing but highballs and cocktails are served. Chastity is outmoded. Every boy expects his date to kiss him good-night, and usually it is a prolonged embrace. Soldiers plead "give us a good time because we are going away to be shot."

Girls go without girdles and stockings and wear a minimum of clothes. They all pet, tell jokes and listen to risque stories at night clubs.

My daughter is pretty, vivacious and smart, but she is getting hard and sophisticated and reckless. Her old sweethearts are all away in the Service and she is just amusing herself playing at love, drinking to be sociable, kissing because it is the custom. I tremble for her and all the girls of this day.

A DISTRACTED MOTHER.

War Disastrous for Many Girls

ANSWER — And well you may. The most curious and ironic thing about this war is that while it is saving the boys of our country, it is having a most disastrous effect on many of the girls. In the army the boys have been given the discipline that they needed and that many of them had never had from their weak and indulgent parents. They have been taught obedience and self-control. They have been inspired by an ideal of sacrifice and devotion. They have been made to realize that there is something better to do in life than spending it in drinking and carousing and driving fast cars; that there are principles that are worth fighting for and dying for.

But the war has let the bar down for girls, and while there are many of them who are still fine and true to all of the traditions of what is best in womanhood, there are many more who have made the break for freedom that has been made easy for them. They have seen all the old inhibitions swept away. Modesty made a by-word and virtue a reproach. Girls, even those who belong to decent families, have been permitted to go and come as they pleased and be out at all times of the night, with no questions asked by their parents, and there is no disputing that this has had a disastrous effect upon their morale.

All the conventions that have governed the conduct of young girls have been swept overboard. It is a common sight to see girls, barely in their teens, parading the streets with soldiers and sailors they have picked up and with whom they are going God knows where. Every railroad train has its quota of girls, so unsophisticated they are taking their first railroad journey, going unchaperoned to visit boys in camps. Tens of thousands of girls have married boys whose names they scarcely knew because they wanted the excitement of a furlough wedding. And the number of illegitimate children who are being born is astronomical and heart-breaking.

If only the girls who were born in the gutter had gone back to the gutter under the demoralization of war hysteria, we would not wonder, but such is not the case. Innumerable girls who were born in good homes, who have Christian parents, who have had every advantage of education and association, have gone wild, and they are going to be the great tragedy of the war. And many a family is going to bemoan the fate of a daughter more than they do the fate of a son who was killed in action.

Mothers Fail to Protect Daughters

These girls are not to be blamed so much as their mothers who should look after them and protect them in this time of danger, and who are not doing it. The girls are mere children. Ignorant of the world. Not realizing what they are doing. They are avid for life. Crazy for fun. Their feet ache to dance. And they do not know the price they are going to have to pay the piper later on.

Their excuse is: It's war time. Everything goes. Some justify themselves by claiming that it is patriotic to give the boys a good time. Some mothers even encourage their daughters in their conduct.

What these silly, weak young girls and the mothers, who do not control them, forget is that there is going to be a day of reckoning when they will have to settle for the orgy in which they have indulged. The war will not always last. Some day the soldiers will come marching back and they are not going to be the gay, frivolous boys who went away. They are going to be men who have been sobered by the experiences they have been through, men who have looked on death and weighed the values in life, and these men are going to want wives who are worthy of them. They are going to want clean wives, decent wives, not the little play-girls who have dragged their skirts through the mud of the streets.

It is a pity that the girls do not realize this and keep faith with themselves and with the men who have gone to the front.

DEAR MISS DIX—Will you suggest some practical way in which we women who are just wives and mothers and housekeepers, who have little money to invest in war bonds, and practically no time left, after taking care of our families, in which to do war work, can yet do something that will be of real service to our country?

MRS. LEGION.

Housewives Saving Fats Serve War Well

ANSWER—Yes. Save fats. That doesn't sound very romantic, or heroic, and you will get no medals pinned on your bungalow aprons for doing it, but just now it happens that winning the war is going to depend just as much upon our giving Uncle Sam our last drop of grease as it does upon our giving him our last drop of blood.

For, you see, fats, oils and grease are essential ingredients in many types of ammunition and medicines for our fighting front. We are short of them because the usual commercial sources of fats and oils have been cut off by ocean blockades, so we must salvage kitchen grease to produce enough glycerin to supply our needs. And it is up to the housewives to do that. And that is something that I think very few of us have realized.

In these days of rationing, when bread AND BUTTER have passed into the luxury class, and nice fat roasts have become just a nostalgic memory, it seems to us the height of government irony to ask us to conserve the grease in our frying pans. There is so little of it, if any, that it doesn't seem worth bothering about, yet the War Production Board assures us that if every cook would save one tablespoon a day, this crying need would be met. We would literally grease the way to victory and thereby make it easier.

Perhaps you never thought it worthwhile to save your little drib of grease, but you will look at the scrapings of your pots and pans with a more respectful eye when you are told that 31 tablespoonful of waste cooking fats will produce the glycerin required to manufacture one and five-tenths pounds of gunpowder. 31 tablespoonsful of waste cooking fats will produce the glycerin required to fire four 37mm. anti-aircraft shells. 50 pounds of waste cooking fats used in the manufacture of synthetic resin will produce enough camouflage to cover one medium tank. 62 tablespoonsful of waste cooking fats will produce the glycerin required to fire five 37mm. anti-tank shells. 350 pounds of waste kitchen fats will produce enough glycerin to fire one shell from a 12-inch naval gun.

So, sisters, let's get busy saving our fats—that extra tablespoonful of grease may save your Johnny's life, or bring your husband back quicker to you.

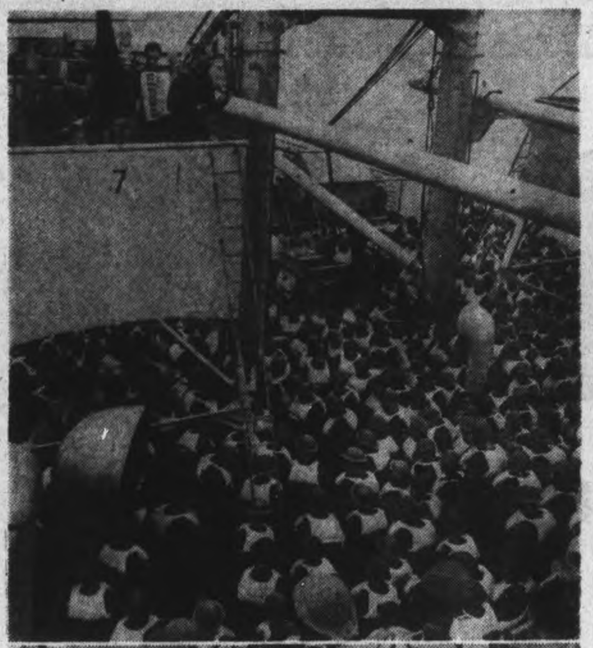
Nursing Sisters and Troops on Way



After three years of training Canadian troops and nursing sisters were eager for action which came when the Canucks shared with British and American forces the assault operations against Sicily. Here are the Canadians on their way. At TOP Canadian soldiers take part in a service aboard ship, with their padre and a soldier accordionist leading them from the upper works of the vessel. A deck scene is pictured BELOW. LEFT to RIGHT are Nursing Sister A. M. Christie of Medicine Hat, Alta.; Nursing Sister C. Rossignol of Quebec City; Lieut. W. Ross of Mont Joli, P.Q.; Lieut. C. E. Leblanc of Cambellton, N.B.; and Nursing Sister E. Cayer of Quebec City. Hospitals staffed by these and other Canadian nursing sisters handle casualties suffered by Dominion forces in the campaign.

"My Nerves Were Very Bad I Felt Tired and Rundown"

"Had No Energy From the Time I Got Up In the Morning," Says This Woman. Digestion Bad; Got Sick Headaches; Couldn't Sleep. Tells How Syntona Helped Her.

At this time of the year many people begin to feel tired out, easily fatigued and nervous; appetites are lost and they have no energy to do anything. They suffer from indigestion, dizziness, headaches, and rheumatic aches and pains, and the bowels become constipated. Now is the time to take Syntona for effective aid like that experienced by Miss Gladys Foreman, 128 Young Street, Hamilton, Ontario.

"My entire system seemed badly rundown and I felt worn out and fatigued all the time," said Miss Foreman. "My nerves were very bad. The least noise or excitement startled and irritated me. I wasn't sleeping at all well at night, so I felt tired and not rested from the time I got up in the morning. Then, too, I suffered a lot with gas, indigestion and heartburn. After my meals I would have sour, acid risings and a full, heavy distressed feeling. I used to get very bad headaches.

"I had been that way a long time and it was getting worse, so when I read about Syntona I decided I would try it. It wasn't long before my food began digesting without all that gas, sourness and heartburn. I could eat regular meals and enjoy them. As I kept on taking it my nerves calmed down and I began to feel better. Now I am like a different person. The headaches do not trouble me any more, I am getting sound, restful sleep at night and I have gained new strength and energy. I am very happy to recommend Syntona to others."

MISS GLADYS FOREMAN

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store.—(Advt.)

"Why I am going to Enlist..."

"I've thought this thing out carefully. The one thing I can't get away from is that there is no excuse for anyone doing less than their best these days.

"I'm young and no one is dependent on me. So my place is in the Forces, where I can do a full-time job. I'll have the pride of knowing I'm doing my duty, too.

"Mother says I'll have opportunities I never had before. I'll learn new work. I'll meet girls from all over Canada and see a lot of new places. Dad says in years to come I'll look back on this as one of the finest experiences of my life. He says the comradeship of the service is something you can't duplicate anywhere else.

"It'll be a healthy life . . . good meals, plenty of exercise, interesting things to do on and off duty. And as Dad says, the pay is all clear income because everything is provided, including even medical and dental care."

Women are urgently needed in the Navy, Army and Air Force. You don't require special qualifications to enlist. You must be between 18 and 45, in good health, with Grade VIII schooling or better, and be single, or married without dependent children. Go to any Recruiting Centre and talk it over.

Their Appointed Rounds

Du Pont Aridex

The popular boy coat cut which looks well over any dress and also over a jacket and skirt, makes this fleece coat which may be of red, brown, camel, flight blue. Double-breasted.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

MANY others besides the postman are signing up for regular rounds, these days. The great need is for women in jobs which men have left to join in the wars, and many of the jobs, such as telegraph company and other messenger carriers are ready to face the hail and snow after trotting manfully through Summer's heat.

The fabric in this coat is interesting for anyone who goes outdoors, whether on a working job or just to be out. Its outer surface is wool and rayon fleece, its backing cotton, and it is treated with a water repellent finish which defies all kinds of wet weather. Moreover, if the waterproofing gives out after many cleanings, it can be re-applied, so it's practical as well as good looking.

Peterboro Girl Laments CWAC Canteen Busy Spot

An article taken from the Ottawa Evening Citizen in part refers to Peterborough's own Joyce Stark, who is the canteen steward at Alwington Barracks. It is a letter written from one girl, to another, as follows:

Dear Babs: Once again lend me your ears while I sing you a saga of the C.W.A.C. Yo ho ho and a bottle of pop! C.W.A.C. are addicted to soft drinks and this hot weather has resulted in an unprecedented run to the canteen. Pte. Joyce Stark of Peterborough, who is the canteen steward of Alwington Barracks, complains feelingly that business is too good. It seems that as soon as her stock arrives, the line forms and all too soon the shelves are bare again. A heartbreaking sight to a canteen steward who has her heart in her work! While army canteens are not feeling the pinch of rationing as severely as civilian stores, the old days of unlimited supplies are a thing of the past.

Yesterday was a red letter day—literally. I received stacks of mail from overseas including a letter from one of my C.W.A.C. friends, Pte. Joan Rogers of Montreal, who sailed with the first overseas draft. Joan is now a veteran campaigner of the overseas contingent. She has weathered innumerable air raids and grumbles indignantly about the inconvenience. It is plain that she classes the raids with all the other nuisances sent to try her—brass buttons and summer insects. From the day she joined Joan has exercised a soldier's privilege of grumbling, so she blasts away about Jerry. Her rare letters are always a pleasure to read, describing as they do sightseeing tours to historic landmarks and her enjoyment of English hospitality, embellished by mischievous asides in Joan's inimitable gamin manner. If I am not mistaken, she must be quite a shock to the British. She speaks with pride of the fine spirit of C.W.A.C. in England and says the girls are keen as mustard. I am always hard to live with after hearing from Joan for I would much rather be putting a finger in the dyke overseas than at home, but that, I know, is not the proper spirit. A good soldier is anxious to serve wherever required.

Switching to a lighter topic, a solution has been found to the swimming problem. As the water in the vicinity of Kingston is polluted, swimming in the blue expanse of Lake Ontario is forbidden and we have been languishing with that tempting vista at our back door. However, a few days ago when the heat was almost unbearable, our barracks officer, who was a former student of Queen's University, obtained permission for us to use the swimming pool at the university. This is a great boon and as a result, the sport enthusiasts have cooked up a swimming team to compete against the Summer School at Queen's. As you well know, I am not a demon athlete but even I have cast dull lethargy aside and will turn out for practices. So if you think you can tear yourself away from Dave long enough to pay me that oft-promised visit, why don't you appoint yourself chief rooter for the meet and cheer us on to victory?

NICKEY.

St. Peter's Cathedral was the scene of a pretty wedding on Monday, August 2, when Irene Eleanor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Mahoney, Patterson street, became the bride of Donald George Free, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Free of Campbellford, Ontario, with Rev. Fr. J. J. Finn officiating. Miss Marion Best, A.T.C.M. was at the organ and Mrs. D. Campanaro sang during the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gracefully attired in a floor-length gown of white sheer and lace fashioned with long pointed sleeves and a square neckline, and with tiny covered buttons fastening the bodice from neckline to waist at the back. The full skirt was inset with lace insertions. Her veil of embroidered net fell from a shirred headdress caught with a single white rose, and she carried a bouquet of red roses and baby's breath.

Miss Anne Mahoney attended her sister in a floor-length gown of powder blue sheer with full sleeves, shirred bodice, and lace collars and cuffs. She wore a hat of matching ribbon and carried a nosegay of pink roses and cornflowers. Mr. S. Mahoney was best man.

At the reception, held at the Churchill Restaurant, the bride's mothe received in a gown of teal blue with matching accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. Afterwards the couple left on a trip to Toronto and Hamilton, the bride travelling in a two-piece dress of brown linen with beige accessories. On their return they will live at 764 Duffus street, Peterborough.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, August 4

Affairs generally are quickened and energized by the astral forces in operation on this day. It is a time for stepping up at lviely pace, in all the affairs, business, domestic and social, to reap rewards from this propitious situation. Bright and new ideas or clever projects may prove lucrative, and benefit by changes, travel, or new contacts or agreements, if good judgment rather than impulse warrant. A similar demand for initiative and enterprise are suggested in intimate relations, even though there be opposition from the elderly or sedate. Shun depressed reactions from this.

Those whose birthday it is may grasp many profitable and pleasant opening for good fortune and achievement, by use of energy, initiative and aggressive actions if need be, also change of plans or programs. The same happy prospects may be obtained in private affairs, domestic, social, romantic, but do not be depressed or defeated by antagonisms from elders. Forge ahead with good cheer.

A child born on this day should possess initiative, independence and versatility, strong in creative expression. Its intimate affairs should be similarly enterprising and progressive despite certain disheartening conflicts with elders.

LAWN BOWLING

It was tournament day all over the province. Almost every recognized lawn bowling club stages some kind of a tournament. True some are only for local players, but then there are many open ones. The main tourney in this district was the one held at Belleville. Others were at Whitby and Oshawa.

At the time of writing this column we have no report on any one of them.

Up on our own greens an average crowd turned out. It was a mixed rink affair and they played three 12-end games, two before supper and one after. The strong northwest winds and the fast greens had the bowlers in difficulties most of the play.

The winning rink were:

First—Mrs. R. Burns, L. Turner, Mrs. F. Dawe, C. Lawrence, skip.

Second—Mrs. J. Reid, G. Spence, Mrs. P. Moore, B. Chesler, skip.

Third—Mrs. Sproates, R. Martin, Mrs. L. Riley, R. Burns, skip.

All received War Savings Stamps.

There is no half holiday tomorrow, so the committee has decided to put on a mixed rink tournament. Draw at 7:30 o'clock. 15 cents fee.

We have just received word that our boys who were to Belleville walked away with two of the three major prizes and trophies.

They report having one swell time and a grand day's bowling. Rinks were entered from all over Ontario and it was one of the biggest tournaments held this year in Eastern Ontario.

Winning Rinks

Second—Riggs Trophy and each an occasional chair: A. Maunder, N. Killingbeck, R. Hopkins, J. Fitzpatrick, skip.

Third—Belleville Trophy and each a set of dishes: A. Archibald, C. Williamson, Judge S. Smoke, G. Gimblett, skip.

Welland Has 17 Hits

WELLAND (CP)—In the Niagara Senior Baseball loop, Welland last night unloosed a 17-hit attack to win 12-1 from Crowland Union Jacks, the safeties including home-run clouts by Chase and Goberis. In the other half of the league schedule at Port Colborne, St. Catharines and the local Victorias wound up with a 3-all tie in nine innings, the duel being called on account of darkness.

MILLBROOK

C.C.F. Promises To Win War Protect Farmer

MILLBROOK, Aug. 3 (ENS). — The C.C.F. outlined its program in the current election campaign at a gathering held in the Town Hall on Saturday evening. H. D. Bigelow acted as chairman and the guest speakers were H. Madill, of Toronto, secretary of the C. C. F., for Ontario, and the candidate for Durham county, Wilfrid G. Bowles, veteran of the last World War graduate in law of Toronto University, and at present farming 600 acres of land in Darlington township.

Mr. Madill was the first speaker and he proceeded to trace the changes which have come through the introduction of machinery and the institution of factories, making such a radical difference from the time when the people on the farms were independent, and self-supporting.

Contending that the farmers have always been the most exploited of all classes, and that the farm and the town are now very closely linked together, the speaker asserted his belief that the C. C.F. is the only party that has the answer to the problems confronting the farmer to-day.

In 1929, according to Mr. Madill "10 per cent of the people (referring of course to the big monopolies) got 50 per cent of the income, and the 90 per cent had to make do with the remaining half."

Speaking of the war as "a blood transfusion bringing new life into political bodies," the speaker stated "it is a strange thing that we live under an economic system when we are more prosperous in war time than in peace time" — but this naturally will create post war problems of the utmost urgency.

"I will believe in parity when the farmer can exchange a bag of potatoes for a bag of cement for an equal price, and I believe, under a C.C.F. government, we will co-operate to improve all conditions, and have a better life, and a better country in which to live and enjoy ourselves; for we do not believe in a few monopolies controlling the industries of our country.

"The C.C.F. which originated in Regina from the ordinary people, and has spread throughout the whole of Canada. It will plan now to help win the war, and to win the peace, building right here the better world for which our men are fighting."

Introducing the candidate, Mr. Madill stated that Mr. Bowles had practised law for some years in Northern Ontario, but ten years ago had given this up and gone in for practical farming on the ancestral farm in Darlington township.

"He is the head of the Federation of Agriculture, and he is one of the most valuable members of the Farm Committee of the C. C. F." If you elect him, you will elect a member of whom you can be proud."

Mr. Bowles based his appeal to the electorate largely on the question of building a proper post war world for the soldiers upon their return; the need of a change of government, his personal opinion being that there is little difference between the other two major parties. He stressed of the urgency of this need which had lead him to make the change to the C.C.F. after Liberalism had held sway in his family back to the time of his great-grandfather. "The C. C. F. avowed purpose is to help win the war first, last, and always, the taking over of big business now under the control of monopolies and having them run co-operatively; a promise to endeavor to improve working conditions of the average farmer, and to support the introduction of state medicine."

VARY YOUR METHOD

WHEN LEADING the partner's bid suit against a trump contract, some players with three cards headed by an honor invariably choose the top card, and some always lead low as they would against No Trump contracts, so as to retain the honor for possible killing of a lower one in the declarer's hand. There are points in favor of both methods, but the best players have a change of pace in this regard, depending on how they size up the probable holdings of the hidden hands.

North: ♠ A K Q 8 5 ♥ K 9 3 ♦ 9 2 ♣ A 5 2

West: ♠ 9 6 2 ♥ Q 6 4 ♦ Q 5 3 ♣ J 10 9 7

East: ♠ 4 ♥ A J 10 7 ♦ K 10 8 6 4 ♣ K Q 6

South: ♠ J 10 7 3 ♥ 8 5 2 ♦ A J 7 ♣ 8 4 3

(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1 ♥	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠

Here was a case in which the lead of an honor cost the defense a trick. West opened the Q of his partner's diamonds, the A winning. A spade to the A was followed by the diamond 9, which East took with the K. He led the club K to the A, after which a spade to the J enabled South to lay down the now established diamond J for a discard of the club 2. This made it impossible for South to lose more than one trick in clubs, plus one in diamonds and three in hearts, so that he made his contract.

Notice that if West had led a small diamond, South could have taken only one trick in that suit, and so could not have discarded a losing club. He therefore would have been set, the decider being the fact that West's diamond Q waited for the J.

Take a look, however, at the heart suit. With the Q lead, the defenders would get three immediate tricks, whereas that could not be done with a small card lead. If the rest of the hands were a bit different, a small heart lead could cost the defense a trick.

If the honor in your partner's suit seems likely to be important for a re-entry, or if you think the declarer may have a lower honor which can be killed later, then the small card lead from three to an honor may prove best. In other cases, the honor lead probably will score better. With average players, used to the lead of highest of partner's suit, maybe that is safest against being misread. Whatever you do, use your judgment.

Ceiling Price On Fresh Fruit

OTTAWA, Aug. 3 — (CP). — The Prices Board announced last night that peaches, plums and pears will be put under "definite" price ceilings when they come on the market and that steps will be taken to ensure that "some portion" of the crops is canned.

The announcement said the action was being taken because of an 'acute' shortage of fresh fruits and "corespondingly high retail prices."

The board said it also is considering controlling the price of apples and is planning during the periods of shorter supply in winter and spring to put a ceiling on storable root crops such as carrots, beets, turnips, parsnips and cabbage. This action will be taken at "an appropriate time."

Discussing vegetables generally the Board said that with Canadian-grown vegetables coming on the market and victory gardens being harvested, the supply of fresh vegetables is expected to be "ample." Prices are dropping 'fairly rapidly,' and the immediate outlook, from the consumers point of view is "greatly improved."

Of the fruits being placed under the ceiling, the Board said:

'Prices will be considerably higher than last year because it would not be possible for growers to harvest their greatly reduced crops unless they can get some compensation for the damage done by the severe winter. But prices will not be permitted to get completely out of hand. The peach crop, for instance, is estimated to be only one-quarter to one-third of what it was last year.

"Placing a ceiling on these fruits does not mean they will be available everywhere. Because of the short crop and heavy consumer demand, plus the difficulty of transporting perishable fruit, rather than run the risk of letting fruit go bad while bein, shipped long distances, the Board is prepared to allow the crop to be absorbed in regions not remote from the growing point.

"The Board has embarked on this program after long and thorough study, but does not consider the problem entirely solved.

"Ceilings on certain fresh fruits and on storage vegetables will meet part of the problem, but it must be noted that there is nothing the Board can do about the shortage of crops this year. The difficulties arising out of this, and the administrative problem involved continue to make this a headache to all concerned."

Chief Of Police Murdered In Italian City

By FRANK BUTTO
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERNE, Aug. 3 — (AP). — German civilians living in Italy were advised by their consuls today to return home immediately and diplomatic negotiations at the Vatican were suddenly intensified advices from Italy said today.

A dispatch to La Suisse of Geneva reported the Italian police chief, Renzo Chierici, and his assitant had been assassinated.

From the border at Chiasso came word the military commander at Trieste had ordered all Croats to turn in their guns, ammunition and explosives with in 48 hours. The Croats have been demonstrating for separation of the Istrian Peninsula from Italy.

There was no immidate amplification of the frontier reports of German civilians being urged to quit Italy, but the German Travel Bureau at Milan, was closed. Rioting and many demonstrations for peace have occurred in that northern industrial city.

The sudden surge in diplomatic conversations with the Vatican indicated the government of Marshal Pietro Badoglio was trying to bring Italian foreign relations into order to pave the way for peace, and the Rome correspondent of the Basler Nachrichten declared that "Italy today is in a transition period."

This writer, explaining that censorship prevented full discussion, said that "one day the present war emergency status will be lifted.

Many At Vatican.

Luigi Cardinal Maglione, Papal Secretary of State, received Portuguese diplomatic reprentatives yesterday. They were summoned again this morning. Most other diplomats gathered in the Cardinal's reception hall to await an audience.

La Suisse said Fascists expressed belief Police Chief Chierici and his assistant had been liquidated by the Badoglio government as a precaution.

This report of assassination came almost two weeks after the Fascists announced the deaths of the police executives in the air raid on Rome.

The order in Trieste by Gen. Gerrero, commander of the 23rd Army Corps, for Croats to surrender guns also applied to makers and merchants of arms. The entire area has been occupied by the army, and all public spectacles have been forbidden, dispatches said.

Trouble also flamed again in Genoa, where the military commander, Gen. Coppi, forbade the carrying of arms. La Suisse said Fascists were creating new nests of resistance at Milan as old ones were wiped out.

C.C.F. DETRIMENT TO HUMANITY SOCIAL CREDIT PARTY'S WARNING

Even the Social Credit party is denouncing the C.C.F. for what it is—Socialistic.

Do you remember the Social Credit of promises of $25 a month for everybody. Alberta took them at their empty word and made the late William Aberhart, Premier of the Province, which today stands for a symbol of broken political promises.

Here is what the East Ottawa Social Credit Association says of the C.C.F.:

"We are not entering the Provincial election; not because we are co-operating with the C.C.F., but for our own reasons.

"We believe the principles of the C.C.F. are far more detrimental to the welfare of humanity than the present 'laissez faire' policy of both the old political parties.

"Social Credit is Capitalism reformed, while the C.C.F. party is Socialism, which is, in reality, regimentation."

For the Sound Financing Liberal Government Led by Harry Nixon

Against the Threat of CCF, CIO, Socialism and Dictation by the 'Globe and Mail' Vote for ALEX ELLIOTT the Nixon Candidate

TO THE ELECTORS:

The choice before you in this election finally and clearly boils down to this:—

George Drew, leader of the Conservative party, DOMINATED BY THE TORONTO GLOBE AND MAIL, and its publisher George McCullagh.

Edward Jolliffe, lawyer leader of the C.C.F., proposing to convert the province of Ontario into a SOCIALIST STATE.

Premier Harry Nixon, leader of the Liberal Government, dominated only by the electors of Ontario.

If you want to bring upon this Province, government by a rich and powerful newspaper, the Toronto Globe and Mail, and its proprietor, George McCullagh, the figurehead of the mining multi-millionaire W. H. Wright, you can bring that kind of absentee government on yourself by marking your ballot for—Harold Robinson Scott.

If you want to align yourself with the visionary Socialist elements of this province, INCLUDING COMMUNISTS who are naturally bound to support the C.C.F., you can commit Ontario to the Socialist experiment by voting for—Bruce Johnston.

On the other hand, if you want to retain GOVERNMENT BY THE PEOPLE, free of dictation by The Toronto Globe and Mail, and free of Socialist-C.I.O. opportunists, you will mark your ballot for—Alexander Leslie Elliott.

A Nuisance to War Effort

From the outset of this war, the Toronto Globe and Mail, and the two Georges, Drew and McCullagh, have kept up a running fire of niggling, hampering denunciation of the Dominion Government's war action.

At this eleventh hour of the election, the Globe and Mail, through its mouthpieces, McCullagh and Drew, are spewing forth their distilled venom on Premier Nixon.

Why? . . . Because Premier Nixon has promised the continued co-operation of the Province of Ontario in Canada's war effort.

Even from personal interest, apart from all considerations of responsibility to the loyalty of this Province, Premier Nixon is anxious for complete and early Allied victory.

His Son Killed In War

The death in action of his son, with the Royal Canadian Air Force, points a father's reason for prosecuting the war by every available means, and especially by helping, not hindering, the Government of Canada in the greatest war effort this country has ever put forth.

The onslaught of The Toronto Globe and Mail on Premier Nixon injects into this election the ominous note of dictation by a powerful newspaper with a monopoly in its morning field.

The men and women of this riding of Peterborough should give an overwhelming repudiation of the undemocratic threat of NEWSPAPER DICTATORSHIP by voting for . . . .

Russian Army 5 Miles From Orel

Huns Retreating As Counter Attacks Fail

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Aug. 4 — (AP). — The fall of the German stronghold of Orel appeared inevitable today as a smashing Red Army offensive carried to within five miles of the city.

The German retreat westward from points north and south of Orel proceeded steadily and it seemed only a question of time before Orel itself be abandoned, eliminating the entire enemy salient on the central front.

The Russian column advancing on the city from the southeast had reached the towns of Pilatovka and Stish, five miles from Orel, the closest approach. Other troops were at Domnino, seven miles to the east, the Russians said.

The Germans were attempting to halt the advance and disengaged their troops by mining the highway approaches and blowing up bridges, but the Russians remained in close pursuit, dispatches said.

Frantic counter-attacks, into which the desperate Germans threw their full strength of manpower and mechanized forces in an effort to stave off encirclement, have failed to halt the Russian advance, a Soviet communique said.

Capture Station

Soviet columns driving in from the south occupied the towns of Stish and Pilatovka while a spearhead advancing from the east captured the railroad station of Domnino, seven miles from Orel, the war bulletin declared.

The sector north and northwest of Orel, where the Red Army is cutting in to pocket the German forces, was the scene of particularly heavy fighting as the Germans aimed sharp blows at the attacking forces only to be forced back with losses estimated in the communique at 2,000 dead.

Heavy German losses also were reported in the area south of Orel where the Nazis counter-attacked vainly at a cost of about 1,500 men, the war bulletin said.

In the course of the German retreat, the Russians said, large stocks of war material are falling into the hands of the Red Army.

BRANTFORD, Aug. 4 (CP). — Peter Porter, Burford game overseer, has proved what many another has suspected—that the automobile is a lethal weapon. He set out Monday with two guns to hunt down a weasel accused of raiding chicken coops in the Cathcart district. He got his weasel, but not with the two guns. He ran it down on the road.

Ontario Voters Go To Polls Million Strong

TORONTO, Aug. 4.—(CP).—Ontario voters went to the polls today in the most inclement weather in some sections for the province's first wartime election. Indications were that the record vote of the 1917 election would not be duplicated unless conditions improved. Rain fell in some sections of the province.

Only two sections of the province reported that early morning voting was heavy. In the highly industrialized Hamilton area men and women coming off the night shift in war plants lined up at the polls as they came off work. Voting also was heavy at Timmins in Cochrane South riding.

However in the 17 Toronto and York County ridings early voting was light and the same situation prevailed in Galt, in Waterloo South, Brockville in Leeds, St. Thomas in Elgin, Stratford in Perth, North Bay in Nipissing, in Niagara Falls, Sault Ste. Marie and the four Windsor district ridings.

Guelph reported that the urban vote was slow in coming out in Wellington South while in the rural riding of Wellington North farmers who were unable to work in their fields took advantage of the opportunity to get to the polls.

A million and a half voters may mark their ballots for the 282 candidates in the 90 constituencies of Canada's most populous province. Servicemen and women outside the province vote by proxy in Ontario's first war-time election and those in Ontario camps cast their ballots at special polls.

The relatively quiet five-week campaign reached its height during last week-end and tapered off until only one of the leaders—Mr. Jolliffe—spoke last night. Mr. Nixon spent the last day of his campaign on his farm near Brantford and Mr. Drew was in his riding of Toronto High Park.

Polls opened to-day at 8 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. local time.

Civilians and proxy votes will be counted in the polls where they are cast. Military camp votes will be telegraphed to returning officers of the ridings concerned and will be included in the election night totals. Later, separate totals for the proxy and military camp votes will be announced.

At dissolution the Liberals held 59 seats to 19 for the Progressive Conservatives. There were two Liberal-Progressives and 10 seats were vacant. At the last election, on October 6, 1937, the Liberals elected 63, Conservatives 23, Liberal-Progressive two, Independent-Liberals 1, and U.F.O. 1.

(At Ottawa last night R. M. Firth, acting New Zealand High Commissioner, issued a statement on behalf of his government saying "allegations" made in a "political hand-out" being circulated in Ontario were "untrue and patently absurd.")

Since Premier Nixon announced dissolution of the Legislature on June 30, the 52-year-old Liberal leader has campainged for re-election on the government's nine-year record and its plan for post-war reconstruction. A member of the Legislature for Brant since 1919 and a member of three cabinets, he was elected leader at a party convention last April fol-

American Flier Travels 780 mph

LONDON, Aug. 4—(CP).—Lt.-Col. Cass Hough, American flier credited with travelling faster than any other living man, says he hardly got a thrill out of the power dive in which his plane attained a speed of more than 780 miles an hour. He was too busy.

The 36-year-old United States Army test pilot, who was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for his feat in "independent flight research," told today how it feels to travel faster than sound.

Hough dived a P-38 Lightning 25,000 feet, or nearly five miles, last September to set what is believed to be a record for vertical power dives.

Hough started his power dive from 43,000 feet and plunged straight down for 25 seconds, at the rate of about 1,000 feet a second. In the middle of the dive—for 15 seconds—his hands were off the controls while he jotted down data on the speed of the plane and "other things."

"It was a bit risky, I admit," he said.

Italy Likely To Fight For Months

Badoglio Regime Stiffens Morale Of Army

By CHARLES S. FOLTZ
Associated Press Staff Writer

MADRID, Aug. 4 — (AP). — Premier Pietro Badoglio's regime has slowly but firmly imposed upon Italy a military dictatorship of the toughest type and the prospects of an Italian surrender now are extremely thin, according to Italians who left Rome only last Sunday.

While the Italian people in general are anxious for peace, these new arrivals in Spain declared, the peace movement lacks capable leadership and Badoglio shows every sign of doing his best to keep it so.

The travellers painted this picture of the situation in Italy at the time of their departure:

Officers of the Italian army as a whole are pleased by the change over from Mussolini to Badoglio and Italy has gained in efficiency as a war machine despite the loss in morale which may have been occasioned by several days of disorders in many places — notably Milan and the Bari area.

Use Heavy Hand

These disorders were put down by the application of the "Big Stick" method, and the popular enthusiam for peace has cooled off under the stringent methods employed by the new government.

Part of the present calm in Italy under the blanket of military dictatorship is due to the failure of the Allies to clean up Sicily last week. Badoglio's press and German propaganda agents are making the most of continued resistance in Sicily to whip up Italian fighting spirit.

The Germans have displayed considerable shrewdness in handling Italy since Mussolini's downfall. While German troops were moved into Northern Italy, occupying Trieste and Fiume and positions as close as possible to Milan, they apparently were under strict instructions to avoid trouble with Italian forces. While some clashes occurred, the Germans in each case withdrew and waited until the Italians cooled off.

20,000 Aircraft Workers Idle

MONTREAL, Aug. 4 (CP) — A strike affecting 20,000 Aircraft workers in Montreal entered its second day today without any indication being given as to when the workers, seeking back payment of a full cost-of-living bonus, will return to work.

The workers, members of Aircraft Lodge 712, International Association of Machinists (A.F.L.), were notified by the Federal Labor Department last night that discussion with Union officials, seeking settlement of the bonus question, will not be resumed until the strikers return to work.

Italian Fleet Slated For Destruction

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(AP)—There is growing opinion in naval circles here that the Allies can count with reasonable certainty on capturing or destroying the major portion of Italy's hapless fleet, possibly soon.

This would be more than bad news for Tokyo's admirals. The Mediterranean and the Pacific are not separated for all practical purposes in this global war.

The final crushing of Italy, if it entails the surrender of the Axis Mediterranean force, will facilitate greatly the organization of amphibious forces for an assault on Burma this fall. Once Allied operations in the Mediterranean are secure from the threat of enemy attack, Royal Navy warships could be shifted to the Burma theatre immediately.

At present the Italians should be able to muster about half a dozen battleships, somewhat less than a dozen cruisers, a maximum of 100 destroyers of which about half are corvette types, and some 70 submarines.

The vessels mostly were based on Spezia and Taranto when the present Allied offensive against Italy. Spezia is on the northwest Italian coast, opposite Corsica, and Taranto is in the instep of the boot.

There have been reports from neutral countries that the naval units at Taranto were moved into the Adriatic. If that is true, the Germans might have a chance of gaining control of them should Italy surrender.

On the other hand there is little likelihood that the units based on Spezia would fall under German domination with Allied naval and airpower in the Tyrrhenian Sea as great as it is.

Thus the Allies can count with reasonable certainty on capturing or destroying at least the major portion of Italian naval forces in the near future.

EXTRA!

No Reinforcements Reaching Huns In Sicily

By HAROLD V. BOYLE
Associated Press War Correspondent

With the American 7th Army Near Troina, Sicily, Aug. 2.—(Delayed)—(AP). — Germany's hard-pressed military machine has been compelled to withdraw fighter bombers from other fronts to prevent the retreat of its harassed ground forces, from turning into a rout.

"The Axis can now only use a landing strip on the island of Sicily and it has to bring planes down from the north and operate from airfields in the heel of the Italian boot—such as Bari and Cretonia," a military spokesman said.

The reinforcement of Axis troops through Cap Dorlando and Messina has ceased, the spokesman said. This remaining force—representing the remnants of four fighting German divisions— is supplemented by the "rag tail bobtail" elements of Italian divisions.

Savagely striking at concentrations of Allied 155-mm and 105-mm field guns, the newly arrived ME-109's and FW-190's tried three times yesterday to knock out or cripple the heavy artillery which has been making each day 24 hours of hell for the thin lines of the Germans trying by every means to hold their hill positions.

It is these guns whose tormenting thunder has the worst effect on cracking morale of the Nazi troops.

Morning and evening, waves of four Messerschmitts slipped in and away without loss or serious damage in diving, bombing and strafing attacks. Their aim was bad in both cases.

Reports from scattered polls throughout the city indicated at noon and up to 1:30 p.m. a comparatively light vote at the half way mark of the final and deciding action in electing a representative from Peterborough to the Ontario Legislature today.

Up to 12 o'clock only 43 of the listed 356 qualified electors had claimed their ballots at Armour Road and Carlisle Avenue.

At a split poll, 2 A-B, Maude street in the south end 23 of 300 on the list had voted at one place and 16 of the 90 listed at the other.

In the north end at Water street and Barnardo avenue 69 persons had marked their ballots up to 1:30 o'clock, indicating a light vote there.

Two of the polls in the Wartime Housing section at Park Hill Road each reported 35 ballots issued at 1:30.

At Harvey and London streets where 426 names are on the list, 103 had voted at 2:15 o'clock.

ALLIEL HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 4 — (AP).— The Mount Etna line trembled under one of the greatest concentrations of fire in the war to-day as huge formations of Allied bombers and fighterbombers joined with the British and American warships and hundreds of batteries of field artillery in hammering the Axis' fixed defences.

The full fury of the tremendous air, sea, and land bombardment was unleashed in support of the big push of the land troops which, an Allied communique announced, marked up an advance of six miles in the Americans' northern sector and a gain of "several miles" in the Anglo-Canadian central zone flanking Mount Etna.

Veterans Rest.

Rested veterans of the Allied victory in Tunisia took over from some of the weary advance guard in Sicily to give punch to the final Allied offensive.

The presence of heavy American cruisers in Sicilian waters was disclosed for the first time in an announcement which said they were pumping heavy shells into Axis defences built into the high ground west of Capvot, about 43 miles west of Messina.

The shattering bombardment, coupled with a blanket of fire from field artillery, was preceding the advance through broken mountainous country.

Making Progress

At the same time the communique from Allied headquarters announced that "very satisfactory" progress was being made by Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's 8th Army on the southern flank toward Catania.

Catenanuova, about three miles southwest of fallen Centuripe and direct west of Catania, was captured, and the taking of Agira, previously reported, also was confirmed by the communique.

(Both Catenanuova and Agira fell to Canadian troops, Ross Munro, Canadian Press War Correspondent has reported in delayed dispatches.)

"Our positions in the centre were strengthened and heavy casualties were inflicted on the enemy," the communique continued.

(The Italian comunique, broadcast from Rome today and recorded by The Associated Press, said "a battle which has been raging for four days in Sicily has developed particularly bitterly in the area between Regalbuto and Centuripe"—in the central sector flanking Mount Etna, the sector where the Canadian 1st division and the British 78th division have been operating.)

Advances of up to six miles were marked up by the Americans in the north and Caronia, about four miles east of San Stefano and 18 miles west of Cape Orlando, was captured, the communique said.

British destroyers hammered the defences near Taormina north of Catania, raking the coast road near Morini just north of Catania with high explosives, and turned back the stabs of enemy motor torpedo boats.

Living Index Increases Three-Tenths

Advance Slight Bonuses Remain The Same

OTTAWA, Aug. 4—(CP).—The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today that the cost-of-living index advanced from 118.5 points on June 1 to 118.8 points on July 2. The increase was insufficient to cause adjustment of cost-of-living bonuses which now remain unchanged for the next three-month period.

The wartime increase in the index reached 17.9 per cent. at July 2, one-tenth of a percentage point short of the 18 per cent. that would have resulted in an upward adjustment of the bonus.

The bureau reported that foods continued to be mainly responsible for the advance in the index.

"The food index rose from 130.8 in June to 131.8 for July," the report said. The total increase in the food index since February has amounted to 5.1 points.

Food Is Up.

"Prices for eggs, lamb and potatoes showed the largest advance in July and there were fractional increases in other meats. Butter and oranges were moderately lower. Two other group indexes advanced in July, fuel and lighting from 113 to 113.4, and clothing from 120.4 to 120.5. Other groups remained unchanged, rents at 111.5, home furnishings and services at 117.8, and miscellaneous items at 108.2."

The bureau reported that since February the index has risen steadily with the total increases amounting to 1.9 points. The index now stands on a part with December, 1942, and is .9 points above the July, 1942, index upon which the last cost of living bonus was authorized.

Under the Government's wage stabilization policy cost of living bonuses are adjusted each quarter, but only if there has been a change of one full percentage point in the index since the last adjustment.

The next revision of the bonus was due August 15 had there been a change of one full point as compared with the index of August 15, 1942, when the last adjustment was necessary.

Last August the increase stood at 17 per cent. At that time the maximum bonus payable became $4.25 a week or 17 per cent. of the earnings, depending on the salary category of the worker. The next date on which a bonus adjustment may be made is November 15.

Claims Allies Hold Upper Hand

OTTAWA, Aug. 4 (CP). —Malcolm MacDonald, British High Commissioner, said at a press conference today the campaign in Sicily had established that the United Nations have "definitely got the initiative" in the war.

He said the events of the past weeks had established three important factors:—

1. The United Nations have the initiative and can decide when and where the fighting is to be done.

2. The United Nations have become "masters of strategy, tactics and performance."

3. "When and where we choose to attack we can do so with a weight of armament that is superior to the enemy's."

Together these facts would be decisive in the end and would mean that the war would be carried on henceforth according to Allied design, "but it will not be easy," Mr. MacDonald warned. "Events in Italy indicate that the Axis will fight bitterly and uncompromisingly to the end."

Terror Spreads as RAF Softens Germans

Effect Similar To British Naval Blockade In 1918

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The way things now look in the European laboratory of war, the Allied bombing of Germany and occupied territory may be the agent which will precipitate victory.

This isn't to say that victory depends solely on air-power, for many elements are contributing to the Axis downfall which surely and steadily is approaching. Still, the aerial bombardment is having a terrific and perhaps decisive effect on the Germans.

Despatches to Swiss and Swedish newspapers from their correspondents give a composite picture of a Germany which is enduring such terrors that "nobody knows how long the population will be able to endure it." The undreamed of striking-power being shown by the Allied air navies has convinced the Reich that a new phase of the war has been opened.

Effect of Blockade

One Stockholm despatch describes the bombing as having an effect similar to that of the Allied naval blockade in 1918, when the morale of the German people cracked because of hunger and other privations. That's an interesting statement, especially since the Fatherland of the First Great War collapsed without enduring the horrors of bombardment. The weight of trouble which caused the people to quit in 1918 isn't a speck on the moon to what they shortly will be getting from the cumulative effect of Allied bombing.

The bombardment serves the double purpose of destroying war resources and of so disrupting communications as to put many parts of the country on short rations.

Recent Trial

It's only so far back as May 19 that Mr. Churchill announced to a joint session of the Senate and House in Washington that the Allies were about to undertake the historic experiment of trying to bomb Germany and Italy into impotency. That's less than three months ago—a short time to show big results in such a vast undertaking, which must depend on cumulative destruction.

Since then Allied bombers have blazed the trail for a Sicilian invasion which is forging to success. If Marshal Badoglio persists in his suicidal resistance, it's not unlikely that bombing will force the collapse of the Italian mainland even before the Allies invade it.

We have only now arrived at the time when we might expect a yell from the Boche if the experiment was going well. We finally have drawn that yell and resistance by the Nazi air force has decreased as our devastation has multiplied.

Civilians Suffer Too

The Allied bombing operations have been aimed at military strangulation but obviously the civilian population has had to suffer. The wholesale assault on the great port of Hamburg has made Germany realize the awfulness of the steadily growing power which has

De Gaulle Surrenders Command To Giraud

ALGIERS, Aug. 4. — (AP).— Pledges to work together for the liberation of France were exchanged by Generals Henri Giraud and Charles de Gaulle following an agreement whereby the latter placed his Fighting French troops under Gen. Giraud's command, it was announced last night.

Gen. Giraud first addressed Gen. de Gaulle, thanking him for his order of the day July 31 in which he surrendered his command and directed his followers to "march against the enemy" under "a glorious leader," General Giraud.

"Little by little," Gen. Giraud wrote, "I am sure by loyalty and sincerity that divergences will be reduced....and we shall find ourselves what we have ceased to be—soldiers of France."

Meanwhile, with the unification of the army an accomplished fact, there was growing French impatience at the reluctance of the United States to recognize the French Committee of National Liberation as the Provisional French Government.

Italian Troops Leave Greece

Germans May Abandon Balkan Defence

ISTANBUL, Aug. 3—(Delayed) —(AP).—Movement of Italian troops out of Greece toward Albania has reached the proportions of a general withdrawal, reports from the Balkans indicated today.

Italians leaving Greece apparently were being concentrated in Albania for evacuation across the Adriatic to Italy. Other Italian units reported to be leaving Montenegro were heading north in the direction of Trieste and Fiume.

It was believed that no Italian troops remained in Greece south of Corinth.

One unconfirmed report said two Italian divisions withdrawing from Montenegro capitulated when attacked by Serbian guerillas. They were freed and promised safe passage when they agreed to leave all their arms, ammunition and military transport with the guerillas, this report said.

These advices suggested the possibility that Italian withdrawals from the Balkans might so weaken the Germans that they would be forced to abandon any idea of defending Greece, Bulgaria, and southern and central Yugoslavia.

Russian Army 5 Miles From Orel

Huns Retreating As Counter Attacks Fail

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Aug. 4 — (AP). — The fall of the German stronghold of Orel appeared inevitable today as a smashing Red Army offensive carried to within five miles of the city.

The German retreat westward from points north and south of Orel proceeded steadily and it seemed only a question of time before Orel itself be abandoned, eliminating the entire enemy salient on the central front.

The Russian column advancing on the city from the southeast had reached the towns of Pilatovka and Stish, five miles from Orel, the closest approach. Other troops were at Domnino, seven miles to the east, the Russians said.

The Germans were attempting to halt the advance and disengaged their troops by mining the highway approaches and blowing up bridges, but the Russians remained in close pursuit, dispatches said.

Frantic counter - attacks, into which the desperate Germans threw their full strength of manpower and mechanized forces in an effort to stave off encirclement, have failed to halt the Russian advance, a Soviet communique said.

Capture Station

Soviet columns driving in from the south occupied the towns of Stish and Pilatovka while a spearhead advancing from the east captured the railroad station of Domnino, seven miles from Orel, the war bulletin declared.

The sector north and northwest of Orel, where the Red Army is cutting in to pocket the German forces, was the scene of particularly heavy fighting as the Germans aimed sharp blows at the attacking forces only to be forced back with losses estimated in the communique at 2,000 dead.

Heavy German losses also were reported in the area south of Orel where the Nazis counter-attacked vainly at a cost of about 1,500 men, the war bulletin said.

In the course of the German retreat, the Russians said, large stocks of war material are falling into the hands of the Red Army.

BRANTFORD, Aug. 4 (CP). — Peter Porter, Burford game overseer, has proved what many another has suspected—that the automobile is a lethal weapon. He set out Monday with two guns to hunt down a weasel accused of raiding chicken coops in the Cathcart district. He got his weasel, but not with the two guns. He ran it down on the road.

Ontario Voters Go To Polls Million Strong

TORONTO, Aug. 4.—(CP).—Ontario voters went to the polls today in the most inclement weather in some sections for the province's first wartime election. Indications were that the record vote of the 1917 election would not be duplicated unless conditions improved. Rain fell in some sections of the province.

Only two sections of the province reported that early morning voting was heavy. In the highly industrialized Hamilton area men and women coming off the night shift in war plants lined up at the polls as they came off work. Voting also was heavy at Timmins in Cochrane South riding.

However in the 17 Toronto and York County ridings early voting was light and the same situation prevailed in Galt, in Waterloo South, Brockville in Leeds, St. Thomas in Elgin, Stratford in Perth, North Bay in Nipissing, in Niagara Falls, Sault Ste. Marie and the four Windsor district ridings.

Guelph reported that the urban vote was slow in coming out in Wellington South while in the rural riding of Wellington North farmers who were unable to work in their fields took advantage of the opportunity to get to the polls.

A million and a half voters may mark their ballots for the 282 candidates in the 90 constituencies of Canada's most populous province. Servicemen and women outside the province vote by proxy in Ontario's first war-time election and those in Ontario camps cast their ballots at special polls.

The relatively quiet five-week campaign reached its height during last week-end and tapered off until only one of the leaders—Mr. Jolliffe—spoke last night. Mr. Nixon spent the last day of his campaign on his farm near Brantford and Mr. Drew was in his riding of Toronto High Park.

Polls opened to-day at 8 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. local time.

Civilians and proxy votes will be counted in the polls where they are cast. Military camp votes will be telegraphed to returning officers of the ridings concerned and will be included in the election night totals. Later, separate totals for the proxy and military camp votes will be announced.

At dissolution the Liberals held 59 seats to 16 for the Progressive Conservatives. There were two Liberal-Progressives and 10 seats were vacant. At the last election, on October 6, 1937, the Liberals elected 63, Conservatives 23, Liberal-Progressive two, Independent-Liberals 1, and U.F.O. 1.

(At Ottawa last night R. M. Firth, acting New Zealand High Commissioner, issued a statement on behalf of his government saying "allegations" made in a "political hand - out" being circulated in Ontario were "untrue and patently absurd.")

Since Premier Nixon announced dissolution of the Legislature on June 30, the 52-year-old Liberal leader has campainged for re-election on the government's nine-year record and its plan for post-war reconstruction. Italy Likely To Fight For Months

By CHARLES S. FOLTZ
Associated Press Staff Writer

MADRID, Aug. 4 — (AP). — Premier Pietro Badoglio's regime has slowly but firmly imposed upon Italy a military dictatorship of the toughest type and the prospects of an Italian surrender now are extremely thin, according to Italians who left Rome only last Sunday.

While the Italian people in general are anxious for peace, these new arrivals in Spain declared, the peace movement lacks capable leadership and Badoglio shows every sign of doing his best to keep it so.

The travellers painted this picture of the situation in Italy at the time of their departure:

Officers of the Italian army as a whole are pleased by the change over from Mussolini to Badoglio and Italy has gained in efficiency as a war machine despite the loss in morale which may have been occasioned by several days of disorders in many places — notably Milan and the Bari area.

Use Heavy Hand

These disorders were put down by the application of the "Big Stick" method, and the popular enthusiam for peace has cooled off under the stringent methods employed by the new government.

Part of the present calm in Italy under the blanket of military dictatorship is due to the failure of the Allies to clean up Sicily last week. Badoglio's press and German propaganda agents are making the most of continued resistance in Sicily to whip up Italian fighting spirit.

The Germans have displayed considerable shrewdness in handling Italy since Mussolini's downfall. While German troops were moved into Northern Italy, occupying Trieste and Fiume and positions as close as possible to Milan, they apparently were under strict instructions to avoid trouble with Italian forces. While some clashes occurred, the Germans in each case withdrew and waited until the Italians cooled off.

MONTREAL, Aug. 4 (CP) — A strike affecting 20,000 Aircraft workers in Montreal entered its second day today without any indication being given as to when the workers, seeking back payment of a full cost-of-living bonus, will return to work.

The workers, members of Aircraft Lodge 712, International Association of Machinists (A.F.L.), were notified by the Federal Labor Department last night that discussion with Union officials, seeking settlement of the bonus question, will not be resumed until the strikers return to work.

Italian Fleet Slated For Destruction

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(AP)—There is growing opinion in naval circles here that the Allies can count with reasonable certainty on capturing or destroying the major portion of Italy's hapless fleet, possibly soon.

This would be more than bad news for Tokyo's admirals. The Mediterranean and the Pacific are not separated for all practical purposes in this global war.

The final crushing of Italy, if it entails the surrender of the Axis Mediterranean force, will facilitate greatly the organization of amphibious forces for an assault on Burma this fall. Once Allied operations in the Mediterranean are secure from the threat of enemy attack, Royal Navy warships could be shifted to the Burma theatre immediately.

At present the Italians should be able to muster about half a dozen battleships, somewhat less than a dozen cruisers, a maximum of 100 destroyers of which about half are corvette types, and some 70 submarines.

The vessels mostly were based on Spezia and Taranto when the present Allied offensive against Italy. Spezia is on the northwest Italian coast, opposite Corsica, and Taranto is in the instep of the boot.

There have been reports from neutral countries that the naval units at Taranto were moved into the Adriatic. If that is true, the Germans might have a chance of gaining control of them should Italy surrender.

On the other hand there is little likelihood that the units based on Spezia would fall under German domination with Allied naval and airpower in the Tyrrhenian Sea as great as it is.

Thus the Allies can count with reasonable certainty on capturing or destroying at least the major portion of Italian naval forces in the near future.

EXTRA!

NEW YORK—BBC, quoting a Reuters News Agency dispatch from Moscow, declared today that the Germans' escape corridor west of Orel has been narrowed to 13 miles, threatening the Nazis with another disaster perhaps equal to that suffered at Stalingrad.

No Reinforcements Reaching Huns In Sicily

By HAROLD V. BOYLE
Associated Press War Correspondent

With the American 7th Army Near Troina, Sicily, Aug. 2.—(Delayed)—(AP). — Germany's hard-pressed military machine has been compelled to withdraw fighter bombers from other fronts to prevent the retreat of its harassed ground forces, from turning into a rout.

"The Axis can now only use a landing strip on the island of Sicily and it has to bring planes down from the north and operate from airfields in the heel of the Italian boot—such as Bari and Cretonia," a military spokesman said.

The reinforcement of Axis troops through Cap Dorlando and Messina has ceased, the spokesman said. This remaining force—representing the remnants of four fighting German divisions— is supplemented by the "rag tail bobtail" elements of Italian divisions.

Savagely striking at concentrations of Allied 155-mm and 105-mm field guns, the newly arrived ME-109's and FW-190's tried three times yesterday to knock out or cripple the heavy artillery which has been making each day 24 hours of hell for the thin lines of the Germans trying by every means to hold their hill positions.

It is these guns whose tormenting thunder has the worst effect on cracking morale of the Nazi troops.

Morning and evening, waves of four Messerschmitts slipped in and away without loss or serious damage in diving, bombing and strafing attacks. Their aim was bad in both cases.

Last August the increase stood at 17 per cent. At that time the maximum bonus payable became $4.25 a week or 17 per cent. of the earnings, depending on the salary category of the worker. The next date on which a bonus adjustment may be made is November 15.

Claims Allies Hold Upper Hand

OTTAWA, Aug. 4 (CP). —Malcolm MacDonald, British High Commissioner, said at a press conference today the campaign in Sicily had established that the United Nations have "definitely got the initiative" in the war.

He said the events of the past weeks had established three important factors:—

1. The United Nations have the initiative and can decide when and where the fighting is to be done.
2. The United Nations have become "masters of strategy, tactics and performance."
3. "When and where we choose to attack we can do so with a weight of armament that is superior to the enemy's."

Together these facts would be decisive in the end and would mean that the war would be carried on henceforth according to Allied design, "but it will not be easy," Mr. MacDonald warned. "Events in Italy indicate that the Axis will fight bitterly and uncompromisingly to the end."

LONDON, Aug. 4—(CP).—Lt.-Col. Crass Hough, American flier credited with travelling faster than any other living man, says he hardly got a thrill out of the power dive in which his plane attained a speed of more than 780 miles an hour. He was too busy.

The 36-year-old United States Army test pilot, who was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for his feat in "independent flight research," told today how it feels to travel faster than sound.

Hough dived a P-38 Lightning 25,000 feet, or nearly five miles, last September to set what is believed to be a record for vertical power dives.

Hough started his power dive from 43,000 feet and plunged straight down for 25 seconds, at the rate of about 1,000 feet a second. In the middle of the dive—for 15 seconds—his hands were off the controls while he jotted down data on the speed of the plane and "other things."

"It was a bit risky, I admit," he said.

French Leaders Make Up

De Gaulle Surrenders Command To Giraud

ALGIERS, Aug. 4. — (AP).—Pledges to work together for the liberation of France were exchanged by Generals Henri Giraud and Charles de Gaulle following an agreement whereby the latter placed his Fighting French troops under Gen. Giraud's command, it was an-de Gaulle, thanking him for his nounced last night.

Gen. Giraud first addressed Gen. order of the day July 31 in which he surrendered his command and directed his followers to "march against the enemy" under "a glorious leader," General Giraud.

"Little by little," Gen. Giraud wrote, "I am sure by loyalty and sincerity that divergences will be reduced....and we shall find ourselves what we have ceased to be—soldiers of France."

Meanwhile, with the unification of the army an accomplished fact, there was growing French impatience at the reluctance of the United States to recognize the French Committee of National Liberation as the Provisional French Government.

Terror Spreads as RAF Softens Germans

Effect Similar To British Naval Blockade In 1918

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The way things now look in the European laboratory of war, the Allied bombing of Germany and occupied territory may be the agent which will precipitate victory.

This isn't to say that victory depends solely on air-power, for many elements are contributing to the Axis downfall which surely and steadily is approaching. Still, the aerial bombardment is having a terrific and perhaps decisive effect on the Germans.

Despatches to Swiss and Swedish newspapers from their correspondents give a composite picture of a Germany which is enduring such terrors that "nobody knows how long the population will be able to endure it." The undreamed of striking-power being shown by the Allied air navies has convinced the Reich that a new phase of the war has been opened.

Effect of Blockade

One Stockholm despatch describes the bombing as having an effect similar to that of the Allied naval blockade in 1918, when the morale of the German people cracked because of hunger and other privations. That's an interesting statement, especially since the Fatherland of the First Great War collapsed without enduring the horrors of bombardment. The weight of trouble which caused the people to quit in 1918 isn't a speck on the moon to what they shortly will be getting from the cumulative effect of Allied bombing.

The bombardment serves the double purpose of destroying war resources and of so disrupting communications as to put many parts of the country on short rations.

Recent Trial

It's only so far back as May 19 that Mr. Churchill announced to a joint session of the Senate and House in Washington that the Allies were about to undertake the historic experiment of trying to bomb Germany and Italy into impotency. That's less than three months ago—a short time to show big results in such a vast undertaking, which must depend on cumulative destruction.

Since then Allied bombers have blazed the trail for a Sicilian invasion which is forging to success. If Marshal Badoglio persists in his suicidal resistance, it's not unlikely that bombing will force the collapse of the Italian mainland even before the Allies invade it.

We have only now arrived at the time when we might expect a yell from the Boche if the experiment was going well. We finally have drawn that yell and resistance by the Nazi air force has decreased as our devastation has multiplied.

Civilians Suffer Too

The Allied bombing operations have been aimed at military strangulation but obviously the civilian population has had to suffer. The wholesale assault on the great port of Hamburg has made Germany realize the awfulness of the steadily growing power which has

Italian Troops Leave Greece

Germans May Abandon Balkan Defence

ISTANBUL, Aug. 3—(Delayed) —(AP).—Movement of Italian troops out of Greece toward Albania has reached the proportions of a general withdrawal, reports from the Balkans indicated today.

Italians leaving Greece apparently were being concentrated in Albania for evacuation across the Adriatic to Italy. Other Italian units reported to be leaving Montenegro were heading north in the direction of Trieste and Fiume.

It was believed that no Italian troops remained in Greece south of Corinth.

One unconfirmed report said two Italian divisions withdrawing from Montenegro capitulated when attacked by Serbian guerillas. They were freed and promised safe passage when they agreed to leave all their arms, ammunition and military transport with the guerillas, this report said.

These advices suggested the possibility that Italian withdrawals from the Balkans might so weaken the Germans that they would be forced to abandon any idea of defending Greece, Bulgaria, and southern and central Yugoslavia.

Italy Shows No Trend Toward Peace

Eden Promises Reasonable Deal To Italians

LONDON, Aug. 4 — (AP). — Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden reiterated in the House of Commons today that the Allies had offered Italy no peace terms when asked how it happened that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower had spoken of "honorable conditions of peace" in his recent broadcast to the Italian people.

Declaring that the Allies continue to demand unconditional surrender, Mr. Eden said shortly: "I do not want to argue this matter now, but I can understand circumstances in which unconditional surrender might not be dishonorable to those who made it."

Mr. Eden's statement gave the lie to German broadcasts yesterday which quoted a Geneva dispatch as saying that President Roosevelt had advanced a seven-point armistice proposal to Italy.

It came amid indication of growing Italian resistance to unconditional surrender demands which strengthened the conviction that an all-out Allied invasion of Italy was the only course left open to the Allies to knock her out of the war.

Little Hope

While Mr. Eden told the House of Commons last night that the Allies would be "only too ready" to adopt a "reasonable attitude" toward Italy in return for aid against Germany, his statement raised no hopes that an immediate peace is in prospect.

On the contrary, there was a growing belief that new, heavy blows must be inflicted— perhaps a lightning land drive into the Italian mainland itself even while the battle of Sicily is in full swing —to take Italy out of the war before Germany consolidates her position in the peninsula.

Mr. Eden's offer to accept surrender from any qualified Italian spokesman regardless of former affiliations came in a surprise debate in Commons. He said:

"We are as a War Cabinet anxious to see Italy accept the unconditional surrender she was offered and anxious to see facilities given to her so that we can turn the war even more vigorously on to Germany.

Anxious for Peace.

"We are anxious to see a peace in which Italy can play her part as a respectable nation once again.

"If we accepted unconditional surrender from anyone I would not regard myself as thereby recognizing them in the least. I would be extremely pleased to accept unconditional surrender from Hitler tomorrow."

German broadcasts were backing what apparently was Premier Badoglio's program — that the war must go on—to the limit, despite indications that Mussolini's successor does not speak for the great masses of the Italian people.

Swiss reports that "quiet reigns now in the towns of Northern Italy" where last week mass peace demonstrations were reported were accepted as evidence Badoglio's military repression of public opin-

Fast-Travelling Allies Add More Guns

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Aug. 4.—(CP).—Americans in the north of Sicily, strongly supported by the air force, were beating their way up the Tyrrhenian coast with Milazzo, 20 miles from Messina, as the next objective. At the same time an inland column pushed ahead from Troina on the Taormina road toward Randazzo, which lies at the northern base of Mount Etna.

Thousands of German and Italian troops have been by-passed in their mountain fortifications by the swiftly advancing Allied columns blasting their way over the mountainous roads.

The Canadian 1st Division and the British 78th and the 51st Highland Division poured through a gap on the west side of the Catania Plain and were wheeling up for the assault on Aderno and Biancaville.

(In describing this break-through by Canadian troops and the famous 78th Division—the heroes of Tunisia's Long Stop Hill—Louis V. Hunter, Canadian Press war correspondent, said it was one of the best "left hook" blows of Gen. Montgomery's career).

The appearance of the rested 78th division and fresh American troops, likewise veterans of Tunisia, gave the Allied push that extra energy it needed to sustain the offensive which is now entering its fourth day.

Most of the troops in Sicily have been in constant action since they landed on the island, attacking or counter-attacking or moving in to occupy Sicilian towns and villages.

The Canadians have been driving forward with hardly a let-up. (Munro reported yesterday that for the first time since landing on the beaches July 10 some of the Canadian soldiers snatched some needed rest Saturday, before the new push started.)

American troops have likewise seen continuous action, while the 8th Army before Catania has been slugging it out with crack German divisions since the invasion began.

Sticking To Roads

It was apparent from frontline dispatches that the Allied advance was sticking as closely as possible to the island's road system, with the Axis defenders taking full advantage of every elevation as a strongpoint defended by heavy artillery.

The Canadians in the centre of the line and the Americans to the north were facing the most difficult stages of the Sicilian campaign today as they entered the wild, jagged foothills of Mount Etna.

Canadians advancing from Regalbuto found the way barred by grounded German parachute troops as well as units of the Hermann Goering tank division, although the major strength of the latter force was concentrated in the southeast to oppose the British units which have forced a bridgehead over the Dittaino River.

Japan Loses 200 Barges In Bombing

Munda Airbase Defenders Fight Grimly

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, THE Southwest Pacific. Aug. 4 (AP) — United States infantrymen have hacked their way out of the jungle through nests of fierce-fighting Japanese to the eastern edge of the Munda air strip but the main enemy defence line and much battling still lie ahead. The air strip runs east and west.

A spokesman for Allied headquarters, in announcing today the slowly continuing development of that key enemy base on New Georgia Island in the Central Solomons, emphasized that the Japanese resistance is stiffening rather than crumbling despite the poundings the defenders have taken for more than a month.

The Japanese are dug in, manning machine guns in coral caves and log bunkers, from Kekele village on the waterfront to the foot of Bibolo Hill, in that sector where the Americans stand nearest their objective.

Advance Slowly

The whole jungle battle line continues to inch ahead, today's communique reporting the occupation of the northeastern slopes of Bibolo Hill.

Another core of Japanese resistance on New Georgia at Bairoko harbor, 12 miles north of Munda, was given a pounding by heavy and medium bombers.

The big news from the western hinge of the Pacific offensive, where Australian and American jungle fighters are within shelling distance of Salamaua, New Guinea, was the aerial destruction within the past 10 days of nearly 200 Japanese barges.

Today's communique said that the barges included many of the large troop-carrying type and the loss of life must have been considerable.

One Danish Consular official is quoted in Copenhagen as estimating that 200,000 people have been killed in Hamburg. It would be well to accept that figure with reserve, but the police of the ruined city are said to place the killed, wounded and missing at 30,500.

The continued assault on Hamburg has given rise to the idea that the Allies are bent on total destruction of the city, and that other metropolitan centres of military importance will follow.

Engineers Earn

They started work two nights ago (July 29) and when daylight came they kept to the job although the Germans got the range of the gulch where they were working and sent mortar bombs bursting around it and machine-gun bullets kicking up dust and chipped rocks.

There was even some shell-fire on these sappers, who were under command of Capt. Ian Pritchard, of Kingston, Ont.

Rain of Bullets

The enemy tried with everything available to stop the sappers from getting the roadway through for they knew that without a road the Canadians could not get vehicles and guns up to the troops around Catenanuova. The sappers had a terrible time working under this rain of steel but they did not give up.

In mid-afternoon I met Pritchard on the road. He looked exhausted. He was beginning to think they could not get the road through. But with super-human effort they succeeded and by 7 o'clock last night guns, vehicles, Bren-carriers and tanks were going over it through the gulch which had been such a barrier. I saw Pritchard again this morning at Headquarters. He looked back on this success as just part of his job and I had to get the story from another officer.

Good Shooting.

Frontline infantrymen praise the Canadian gunnery every time I see them. You hear men watching artillery barrages saying, "My God, I'm glad I am not in the Germans' boots."

At artillery headquarters I talked to Capt. L. F. Van Gorder of St. Catharines, and Lieut. W. R. McIntyre of Moose Jaw, Sask. They said the Canadian and British gunners in their heaviest barrages have been covering a 1,000-yard front, dropping shells every 15 feet. This barrage has moved forward sometimes to five miles with this concentration of shells. Most of the firing has been on a large scale.

Council Finds Traffic Tieup Will Continue

The Council's good intention of eliminating right and left turns off Charlotte street into George was pushed into the discard last night—without a trial.

Here is the item in the report of the finance committee:

"That the traffic bylaw be amended eliminating that section having regard to 'no left and no right hand turns' at the corner of George and Charlotte streets."

It may be remembered that Frank Mitchell had appealed to the Council to do something to "remove the bottleneck" at the Charlotte street corner.

The Council spent considerable time on "ways and means" of reducing loss of bus time in the centre of the city. No left and right turns at George street was proposed, the Council agreed to it, and City Engineer Parsons was instructed to have signs set up at the main corner.

And finally as the months went by without any note of urging or action, it became evident that the experiment was to be abandoned without any actual test being made.

The "bottleneck" remains and will probably grow with the city, especially its increased motor traffic after the war, and the presiding question at George and Charlotte streets remains still unanswered.

Fiery Meeting Held At York

TORONTO, Aug. 4—In a stormy and oft-interrupted meeting, which lasted into the early morning, the York Township Board of Education considered the finding of the Board of Reference which exonerated Bruce W. Clarke from the charges of the Board of Education which led to the dismissal of the principal last February.

The board met last night first in the library in York Memorial Collegiate, but the interruption caused by the crowd of about 200 ratepayers and students became so vociferous that the board adjourned to their private board room. Members of the advisory vocational committee spoke but could not vote. Officers of the York Township police force were called in at 11:10 p.m. to preserve order.

Discussion centred on whether Mr. Clarke should be reinstated as principal or whether he should be transferred to another school in the township. Holding the latter view were Trustees Clifford Howard, C. S. Jackson and Rev. A. J. Eagle.

Says Little Accomplished

"The proceedings of the Board of Reference accomplished little except exonerating Mr. Clarke of the charge of dishonesty," said Mr. Eagle. "My recommendation is that Mr. Clarke should be instructed to carry on the usual system in another school."

"Mr. Clarke's extravagance in building up the teachers was attacked, but the minority report of the Board of Reference did not condemn snooping teachers or that teachers got together to compare notes before giving evidence," said Harry Durrant, chairman of the Board.

"I maintain that he was hounded as being a dishonest man," said Mr. Durrant. "Now that he meeting of the Board of Reference found nothing in the evidence to justify this, why should be not be big enough to admit our mistakes?

"I believe that it would be the right thing to admit our mistakes, and having accepted the board's report, consider whether he could do his best work at Runnymede Collegiate or in another school," Mr. Durrant continued.

rural activity, leaving the way clear to the polling places. A few calls to country places indicated that the morning vote was heavier than usual.

The count at Rubidge and Dublin street in the northwest end was 77 out of approximately 300 at 2:20 p.m. or about 25 per cent.

Many electors found themselves uncertain this morning about their polling places. They missed the guidance provided by the City Council for municipal elections.

Not only the telephones of three political committee rooms rang almost continuously with inquiries, but many others turned to the City Clerk's office and a few even called the Police Station.

The Council advertises the polling places and sub-divisions for the annual elections on New Year's Day —a gratuitous service whose convenience is emphasized in contrast with Provincial and Federal elections. Bills are posted in some places indicating where the polling places are, and citizens are expected to make some effort to acquaint themselves of the location of their respective polling booths.

LONDON, Aug. 4 — (CP). —R.A.F. Intruder planes carried out their usual forays over the continent last night but Britain's heavy bombers took a rest after having been in almost continuous action for the past two weeks against Hamburg and other objectives in Germany.

The sound of large numbers of planes over the Channel during the night had led to a belief that the bombers were again out.

The Air Ministry news service announced that Typhoons set a supply ship and one of seven escorting vessels ablaze in a low-level attack on an enemy convoy off Le Havre, France, yesterday. One plane was lost in the attack which was carried out at a height of only 20 feet.

Bombers also attacked the airfield at Guipavas near Brest yesterday evening and three Spitfires and Typhoons escorting the bombers are missing.

Birdsall Flier Takes Part In Hamburg Raid

By DOUGLAS HOW
Candian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 4 (CP Cable).—Fighting through the combined violence of anti-aircraft fire and an electric storm, Canadians added their weight last night to the Bomber Commands continued assault on Hamburg.

At least two Canadian squadrons participated and hundreds of others occupied their usual role in R.A.F. crews. All reported a rough night, battling the elements and the port city's defences.

The Air Ministry news service said that even before last night's crushing assault an area of seven square miles had been laid in ruins in Hamburg where it said the damage was "unparalleled in the history of air war."

Wing Cmdr. J. A. Piddington, a Canadian in the R.A.F., had his Wellington squadron out in force. One of his pilots was Sgt. Bill Kingston of Montreal who reached his target though his plane was struck by both lightning and flak.

According to PO. Reg. Smith of Estevan, Sack., the lightning was so frequent it was difficult to distinguish it from the flak. The storm caused Flt. Sgt. W. N. Chalk of Thornbury, Ont., to barely miss a collision with a Halifax bomber.

Flt. Sgt. J. C. Grover of Birdsall, Ont., jettisoned his bombs because of ice on his wings, then found they fell in the target area anyway.

The Lion and Goose squadrons were out for the R.C.A.F. Sgt. Pilot Doug Harvey of Swansea, Ont., earned tributes of his mates for bringing his plane out of an unaccountable spin.

Higher Salaries Entice Teachers To Other Jobs

OTTAWA, Aug. 4 (CP)—A "very considerable number" of small schools in Canada have had to remain closed or be put in charge of teachers without certificates because the increase in teachers' earnings was not sufficient to offset the comparative attractiveness of other employment, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said today.

In a report on teachers' salaries in eight Provinces—Quebec was not included in the survey—the bureau said that in some Provinces half the teachers in small schools "receive no more than $40 monthly."

"Reflecting enlistment in the armed forces, together with the fact that other branches of employment provided more attractive remuneration, the number of male teachers in eight Provinces of Canada, excluding Quebec, declined from 14,700 in 1939 to 12,600 in 1942, a net loss of 2,100," said the report.

Rural Loss

"Fully 80 per cent of this loss was from the one-room rural schools, where the teachers are younger and lower- paid.

"There were 50,100 teachers reported in the eight Provinces. There were approximately 17,000 one-room schools in the eight Proxinces. In other words, one-third of all teachers work in such schools."

Under wartime conditions teachers in the small schools are staying, on the average, less than two years in their jobs before moving on to another school or another kind of work."

Salaries Very Low

"In the Maritime Provinces they are averaging $500 or less a year in pay, in Manitoba somewhat over $600, in Saskatchewan $700, in Alberta, British Columbia and Ontario between $800 and $850," said the bureau.

"Accordingly, in the Provinces where the salaries are best, half of these teachers receive less than $70 monthly, and in some Provinces half receive no more than $40 monthly."

During the first three years of the war their salaries in the eight Provinces increased on the average about $10 per month, but "this was not enough to offset the comparative attractiveness of other employment," and in the school year just ended a "very considerable number" of small schools were closed or put in charge of teachers without certificates.

"In larger schools, during the first three years of war, salaries nowhere increased as much as $10 a month, except in Saskatchewan, where they had not recovered from the low levels reached in the drought years. There were small increases, however, in all Provinces but Prince Edward Island."

Allied Armies Work As Perfect Team

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

With the British Army in Sicily, Aug. 2.—(Delayed)—(CP Cable.) — The 8th Army has chewed a salient in the German Mount Etna defence line opposite the Canadian-British sector with the capture of Regalbuto and Centuripe.

Bombed and shelled Regalbuto fell at 12.15 p.m. to-day, British infantry entering the town against little opposition after Canadian and British troops surrounded the place by occupying the nearby hills.

While British soldiers were mopping up the town, the Canadians pushed on eastward.

(Prime Minister Churchil in the House of Commons to-day—Tuesday—gave credit to the Canadians for the capture of Regalbuto while Munro's dispatch indicated that its fall was a joint operation.)

British infantry and artillery, with Canadian infantry on their left flank, launched an attack on Centuripe last (Sunday) night. Some elements got into the mountain-top town, but were pushed out. The attack was pressed home during the day and by 3 p.m. Centuripe was in British hands.

The collapse of these two strong points within hours of each other puts this sector on the hinge between the 8th Army in the south and the American 7th Army on a strong base.

South-east of this Canadian-British front another British formation extended its bridgehead over the dry gulch where the Dittaino River flows in rainy seasons.

Possibly the British forces will be able to exploit this bridgehead as the Canadian and British infantry did the one gained at Catenanuova by the Canadians several days ago, through which the successful attack was made on Centuripe.

On the northern front the Americans have reached points along the coastal road well east of San Stefano and have thrust within striking distance of Troina, eight miles north of Regalbuto.

(Mr. Churchill told the House of Commons that Americans were reported to have entered Troina.)

Guides Convoys

Fate of war convoys is in the hands of Admiral Sir Max Horton of Western Approaches Headquarters in London. With the aid of WRENS, British Women's Naval Reserve, the convoy is charted every inch of the way to England on large maps. Needless to say, this is highly confidential and important work as a mistake in planning might mean the lives of seamen and loss of ships and material at sea.

Sailor On Leave Visits Family

Able Seaman Larry Hawkins, 24, has recently returned to Canada after two years service with the Navy overseas. He is spending the week in Peterborough at the home of his sister, Mrs. R. Robbins, 268 Wolfe street, before going to Toronto with his wife.

Enlisting in the Royal Canadian Navy in August, 1941, Able Seaman Hawkins was sent to active duty overseas very shortly after. At first trained in combined operations, he was later transferred to convoy duty and has seen a good deal of action in destroyers in the English Channel, his experiences including more than one bombing by German planes.

In the course of his service overseas, his ship made port in many harbors of the British Isles, and at one time he had a 20-day leave which enabled him to see much of the country and the people.

Able Seaman Hawkins said the Navy was "plenty good enough" for him as long as the war is on, and he appreciates the useful training which the technical phases of his work have given him.

Lovely white gleaming teeth are most decidedly an asset to anyone. Unfortunately many of us are not blessed in this respect, but in all cases we should make the ones we have look as well as possible and last as long as possible. A large percentage of us are very prone to wait until our teeth start to ache before going to a Dentist to have the offender or offenders looked after. In many cases too long a time has elapsed and we are faced with a great deal of pain, inconvenience and unnecessary expense. A much sounder policy is that of Preservation. Regular visits to your Dentist and the use of the correct type of Tooth Brush and Dentifrice. Punishing International Criminals

We are not sure exactly what President Roosevelt meant by his statement that Mussolini and his associates "will be brought to book, and punished for their crimes against humanity", but we very much doubt if that great statesman and great realist is allying himself in spirit with those who, after the last war, sought to "hang the Kaiser". However, certain newspapers have interpreted his remarks in this way.

No one will deny that Mussolini and Hitler are greater criminals and greater murderers than the wretches whom we hang for killing one fellow-being in a fit of anger. But they are also harder to apprehend and destroy. When a man commits a murder we hang him as a discouragement to other murderers; we do not imagine for an instant that his death will put an end to murder. But the death of criminals on the grand scale, like Hitler and Mussolini, cannot be said to discourage future tyrants; men who have the makings of tyrants in them brave death a thousand times before they gain power, and live under a constant threat. To kill either of these men would merely be to afford him an easy release from a world which had become intolerable to him. Napoleon at St. Helena was suffering a worse punishment than if he had been hung as soon as he was captured. Hitler and Mussolini are not ordinary criminals, and to treat them as though they were is to make ourselves somewhat ridiculous.

And we can only punish men if we can capture them. When the last war was drawing to a close we made a great hullabaloo about what we would do to the Kaiser, but he had only to skip across the border into Holland in order to make us look foolish, and he lived there to a ripe old age, engaging in daily Bible study and convinced that he was an exceedingly moral and worthy old fellow.

Any attempt which we make to exact personal sacrifice from the Axis leaders for their crimes is certain to look like savage vengeance to posterity. When the English were engaged in subduing Wales they regularly disembowelled, castrated, hanged, drew and quartered any Welsh prices whom they captured, and thought themselves very fine fellows for so doing; we now see that they were merely indulging a taste for savagery and cruelty. Would there be any other real reason for killing Hitler and Mussolini in a prolonged and beastly way? Are our notions of justice still medieval?

The likelihood is that both these men will die either by suicide or by assassination by one of their own people; it may be that a lucky shot from the ranks of our fighters will do the trick. But let us not talk wildly of international justice until we know what court is going to administer it, and what punishment is thought meet for criminals who provoke wars.

The Swedish Minister

The appointment of Per Wijkman as Swedish Minister to Canada is not unexpected, and will cause great satisfaction to those who have made his acquaintance during the two years in which he has served as Swedish Consul General in this country. Mr. Wijkman has had a distinguished career in the Swedish diplomatic service, and was for four years in the Swedish Legation in the United States; his wife is a sister of Vice-President Henry Wallace of that country. Their youngest child was born recently in Montreal.

The decision of the Swedish Government to establish a Legation at Ottawa will be profitable, we hope, to both Canada and Sweden. A closer association with that progressive, enlightened and highly cultivated country cannot but be of benefit to us, and we hope that our development and resources will be of practical interest to the Swedes.

The Plage Laval Incident

On Saturday night last a group of French-Canadian hooligans assaulted some young Jews who were enjoying themselves at a dance-hall in Plage Laval, which is not far from Montreal. Several Jews were seriously hurt.

It is this sort of thing which makes difficult the task of those who seek to bring about better relations between Quebec and Ontario. Is it possible to rebuke the Ontario people who seek to slight, overbear and discomfit the French-Canadians when groups of French-Canadians in their turn show their desire to attack a minority of Jews? If the French of Quebec want to pose as a misunderstood minority they must take care to keep their record clean. They should remember that anti-Semitism is a peculiarly vicious kind of race persecution, and that those who persecute others may become a persecuted race themselves. Hate begets hate.

Was the outbreak at Plage Laval spontaneous, we wonder, or was it encouraged by the Fascist element which exists in Quebec? The refusal of the local authorities to give help in arresting the peace-breakers suggests that their action had local approval. The Plage Laval affair should be probed to the root.

The Death Of Lin Sen

The United Nations will sympathize with the Chinese people in the loss which they have sustained by the death of President Lin Sen, the 81-years-old statesman who has been at the head of the Chinese state since 1932.

To many people it will be a surprise to learn that an authority higher than that of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek existed in China. The duties of Lin Sen were largely ceremonial, and his position was to some extent that of a figurehead. But he was by no means a negligible factor in Chinese government. His personal qualities gave a weight to his office which was not inherent in it. He was the figure so dear to the Chinese heart, that wise old man. He was a scholar of great ability, a humanist and a philosopher. Much of his education was acquired in the U.S., and to the mellowed wisdom of the East he added such useful instruments as a thorough knowledge of European psychology. He was a patron of the arts, and was himself a notable practitioner of one which is much favoured in China and almost entirely overlooked in our country—calligraphy. In China's years of stress his stoic wisdom, his cheerfulness and his devotion to duty won him the love and respect of the whole nation.

What, No More Coffee?

Coffee in the United States is no longer rationed. The American people, who rely upon coffee in moments of crisis and conviviality as the British rely on tea, will now be able to drink their fill, and we shall not be surprised to see their production record soar as a consequence.

But here in Canada we shall have to stick to the four ounces a week which we have been allowed since rationing came in. The Tea, Coffee and Spices Administrator at Ottawa, a Mr. R. T. Mohan, says that we have only a four months' supply on hand and that we have no increase in shipping space for bringing coffee to Canada. The U.S. is only able to raise the restriction on coffee because it has a very large surplus supply in its warehouses. If the Americans go on a prolonged coffee jag this surplus will eventually disappear, and they will then have to go back to rationing again. The plain fact is that there is no more coffee coming to this continent than before.

So perhaps we are not so badly off. We can have, on our present ration, about two cups of coffee a day, and it appears that we can count on that much. But if the Americans have unlimited coffee and then have to go back to rationing, they will be desolate indeed.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Comfort for the millions whose minds have ceased to function: even a stopped clock is right twice a day.

"Lord Halifax has warned the neutral countries that they must not expect a big say at the peace table. In fact, those who sang small in war must not talk big in peace.

To everything there is a season, and a time to every purpose under heaven. But the time to eat corn on the cob is not when you have paint on your mouth.

A woman in Shenstone, England, says that she has lived to be 101 as a result of wearing a woollen vest, a calico chemise, a flannel petticoat and an underskirt all the year round. It sounds as though she invented insulation.

An official Nazi paper urges the patriotic German to "see that the cradle in his house is never empty". That sounds like advice that a bachelor would hand out.

The German And the Jew

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SOMETIMES we grow to be like the things we cherish and admire, and sometimes we come to resemble the things which we hate. It has been so with the German people. They have persecuted the Jews without mercy ever since the Nazi party came to power, and today they resemble the Jews more than any other people on earth. Indeed, although it is not likely, it is by no means impossible that the Germans may suffer in future the unpopularity which has been the traditional lot of the Jew.

THE reasons for anti-Semitism are many, and none of them do credit to the human race. Anti-Semitic feeling has been explained superficially by thousands of superficial writers, and it has been explained on abstruse grounds by thinkers of the type of Sigmund Freud. But there are reasons for the historical unpopularity of the Jews which go far to explain periodic resurgences of anti-Semitism, and which are obvious enough for anyone to grasp; these reasons may not explain anti-Semitism completely, but they explain it in part. First of all, the Jews were a people who held their heads high in their palmy days. Read the Old Testament, and mark the arrogance with which the Jews imposed themselves upon lesser peoples when they were able to do so. They did not scruple to call themselves the chosen of God and to behave as such. With that conviction in their hearts they fought like tigers under Joshua, and behaved as conquerors have behaved since the dawn of time. They swept through the Near East, pillaging, burning, destroying, and enslaving, and in all their actions they were upheld by the belief that their desires were the sacred dictates of God. They were sure that God loved them and that He had made the world for their province; those who did not share this faith were inferior races, fit only to be conquered and rendered powerless.

THE Jews held themselves rigidly apart from lesser peoples. They refused to breed with non-Jews, for fear of tainting their blood. They even had a separate morality for dealing with non-Jews, which permitted them to deal as hardly and as crookedly as possible. This Talmudic morality is no longer followed by Jews, who may fairly claim to be as honest in business as Gentiles, but it was certainly followed by them in the days of their greatest power. They were enemies of free thought, preferring a codified and rigid system of religion and philosophy to the vagaries and inspirations of men of genius. And it was this latter trait which led them to betray and bring about the death of Jesus, the scope and originality of whose thinking threatened their most cherished tenets. And yet nowadays there are few men who would raise a hand against a Jew because his ancestors slew Jesus, though there are many men who hate Jews because of their age-old pretensions to be better than other men.

THE analogy between Jew and Nazi hardy needs stressing. Who, in our time, has declared himself to be a member of a superior race? Who has declared that his "destiny" is to rule the world of inferior peoples? Who has made it excusable and indeed commendable to throw over all rules of decent dealing when treating with inferior races? Who has made strict rules against tainting his blood with that of foreigners? Who has set up his tribe as a chosen people? The Nazi, and no one else. If the Nazi escapes the suffering of the Jew it will be because he failed to make himself quite as obnoxious to the rest of mankind as did the Jews of early history.

THE great days of the Jews passed three thousand years ago. But they clung to their superiority until quite recently. Orthodox Jewry has succumbed to reason during the last two or three centuries and Jews have found that it is easier and pleasanter to live on good terms with the rest of mankind. Nowadays there are millions of Jews who do not seek to distinguish themselves from Gentiles as a "chosen" race; they are proud of their great history, of their many contributions to learning and science, just as are people of other gifted races, but they do not dream of a day of vengeance when they will be vindicated and their persecutors struck down by God. Today the Jew is accepted as a man and a brother because he accepts other men as his brothers. And today anti-Semitism is a sure mark of the mentally deficient or the mentally twisted. The Jews are winning their hard fight against a bad inheritance of pride.

HOW long will it take the Nazis to do the same? Not three thousand years, for they have not had a greatness to compare with that of the Jews, and their pride has infected only a generation or two of the people. But the expiation will be long enough and bitter enough. The Nazis will regret that they ever hated the Jews, and unconsciously aped their worst faults.

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

THE heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament sheweth his handywork. Day unto day uttereth speech, and night unto night sheweth knowledge. There is no speech nor language, where their voice is not heard. Their line is gone out through all the earth, and their words to the end of the world. In them hath he set a tabernacle for the sun, which is as a bridegroom coming out of his chamber, and rejoiceth as a strong man to run a race. His going forth is from the end of the heaven, and his circuit unto the ends of it. (Ps. 19:1-6.)

Praise ye the Lord. Praise ye the Lord from the heavens: praise him in the heights.... Praise ye him, sun and moon: praise him, all ye stars of light. Praise him, ye heavens of heavens, and ye waters that be above the heavens.... Mountains, and all hills; fruitful trees, and all cedars....

Let them praise the name of the Lord; for his name alone is excellent; his glory is above the earth and heaven. (Ps. 148:1, 3, 4, 9, 13.)

Pausing For Emphasis

ONE of the characteristic elements of effective speaking is the use of the pause. There is nothing like a good stop. It implies the significance of what has just been said and induces curiosity for what is to follow. It permits a natural and welcome change of pitch. Young speakers are sometimes afraid that a pause will be mistaken for hesitation. Audiences instinctively know the difference, but a little clumsy or dubious hesitation is better than an unvarying, breathless hurry. "Take your time and keep your thought well ahead of your language," is sound advice. Silence is an important part of speech.—From "The Speaker's Notebook," by William G. Hoffman. BRIDGE

A Brave Name For A Brave Road

SOMEONE with an exaggerated sense of propriety and no ear for music tried to pin the name "Alcan Highway" to the 1,600-mile bit of road which the United States has built from Dawson Creek, British Columbia, across Yukon Territory to Fairbanks. It was quite simple—"Al" for Alaska, "can" for Canada—and the inventor of the name perhaps thought that the Canadians, who provided the right of way and will take over after the war, would be tickled pink. The new thoroughfare was a majestic enterprise, dug through muck and moss, carried over wild rivers and mountains in the dead of winter, opening up much undeveloped country, protecting and at the same time bringing within easy reach the continent's last rich frontier. It could not carry a label that suggested either a patent medicine or a garbage can. Our neighbours to the north have too much poetry in their souls to wish that. And now they have formally agreed with us to dignify it by calling it by its proper designation.

The Alaska Highway sounds like what it is. Its syllables, like its rolling miles, have sweep and soar, a kind of noble lonesomeness, the smell of pine and spruce, the lift of winds that inspire men to labour, endure and hope. For a century we have been proud of the undefended border between hte United States and Canada. Now we can be proud of this enterprise that does not even recognize a border, and in which both countries have an uncompetitive interest. Some day this road will be part of an Alaska-Cape Horn Highway, perhaps with a hemispheric patriotism bordering it all the way. We hope no one then will wish to call it the "Alcamerican Trail." It deserves a better fate.

In the Collector's Vernacular

ANY special type of antique which is to hold the attention of the true collector must show the property of the "closed series." This closed series has been assumed as a definition of an antique in general. The term thus means a class of objects no longer made — which can cover red plush photograph albums, Model T Fords, or last year's hats. A narrower definition is that a "closed series" in a class of objects existing in a fairly definite and known number of related types and variations, to which, of course, no further additions can be made. The most perfect examples of this definition are seen in those wares which have been reproduced, wholly or partly, by mechanical means, or which bear makers' marks, and it is significant that most of these, lithographs, glass cup-plates and flasks, earthenware printed in historical designs, pewter, silver and others, have already been classified and recorded for the guidance of the collector. These lists naturally make life easier for him, and also offer him the goal of acquiring an example of each type, or of certain related ones, thus achieving a "complete collection." As applied to pottery, this "closed series" can only be seen in the later types, yellow-ware, Rockingham brownware, and bisque porcelain, and no serious attempt to classify and illustrate the various designs and pieces in which these occur has been included in this study. The other types of pottery were...rarely produced in duplicate, and consequently show too much individuality to be compressed into a check-list. Lists of pottery types and of potters have been compiled which will, it is hoped, serve as aids to the collector, but they should be used with some discretion. This is not entirely regrettable. Pottery as a collectors' specialty does demand more knowledge and discrimination than other types of antiques which require only a reference book or check-list and a check-book, but this fact minimizes the danger that pottery will become one of the temporary fashions in collecting which from time to time wax and wane in our midst.—From "American Potters and Pottery," by John Ramsay. (Boston: Hale, Cushman & Flint.)

At the Centre of Empire

(By SCOTT YOUNG, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

REACTION to the Sicilian campaign seems to show that the British people have achieved an objectiviy toward the war that cannot be interpreted as lack of interest, but allows them to relegate each campaign into its proper niche in relation to the whole.

After the first week-end enthusiasm over the Sicilian invasion, when Britons were concerned regarding the extent and success of the landings, it took only a few days before Russian war news and home-based air attacks came back into major spots in the newspapers, new broadcasts and street talk.

Once it was known definitely that the Sicilian landings had been made easily and with little loss, the steady advance across the island meant just another map to watch in the daily press. They were interested in the non-belligerent attitude of most Sicilian civilians and in the fact that Italian soldiers were surrendering in large groups. But they appeared to have expected it. There was no crowing.

The fact that there was the second front for which mass meetings had been held, members of parliament and lords had cried, and people in the pubs and on the streets had solemnly decided was a requisite to victory drew practically no comment. They seemed to have known it would come eventually and when it came, most of them thought it was none too soon. It was here, and they let it go at that.

Listening to Britons talk about the war, this divided attention is plain.

There were the few optimists and pessimists, as usual.

There was the Canadian army lieutenant colonel who said on a Monday that the Sicilian campaign would be finished by Saturday. It wasn't of course. And there are the radical newspapers and magazines who foresee all kinds of dire consequences resulting from the Allied administration of occupied land, but it seems doubtful these prophesies will be shown true even in degree.

The British troops, the 8th Army, had the topghest fighting of them all in Sicily. Still, a three-mile advance by the Russians near Orel, or an attack by American bombers on Rome, seems to mean just as much to the public. Britons seem to have developed the faculty of treating the war as a whole, not as several pieces.

Britons either developed an impenetrable attitude of waiting for the entire war to end, waiting until Italy proper, France or Germany itself falls, or they have become so numbed intellectually by four years of war that each new campaign is merely a phase they know will pass, giving place to another and another, almost indefinitely.

Letter To The Editor

IS FRANCO A FOOL OF HITLER?

Editor Examiner.

Sir: Your editorial page is generally marked by an independence of view which is refreshing. Why then do you join the brainless rabble that are out gunning for Franco? Facts are stubborn things and I take it that you are amenable to facts. Here are a few.

Without Gibraltar the Allies could never have made such an easy conquest of North Africa; yet if Spain had allowed the German troops, who were on her border in occupied France throughout the whole of the Tunisian campaign, to attack that citadel from the rear it might have fallen. If Franco had not been strictly neutral the Americans would never have reached Algiers, and the threat of Dakar to the Americas would still remain. The truth is that there is no man to whom the Allies are so much indebted for their victory in North Africa as General Franco. Why then call him "Hitler's Charlie McCarthy"?

Of course, Franco is not very eager to fight on the side of Russia. Who can blame him? The Madrid correspondent of the New York Times in 1936 declared "For some time Russia has been running the show in Spain." It was the Soviet ambassador, Rosenburg, who had the chief voice in choosing the peronnel of the new revolutionary and communistic cabinet that was responsible for the death of more than a quarter of a million non-combatants, three thousand priests, thirteen bishops, and closed every Catholic church that came within its group.

Why include Franco in that delectable company of fugitives from justice, Hitler, Tojo and Mussolini, and why picture them meeting, of all places, in Dublin, the capital of a country that has given 150,000 fighting men to the Allies in the present war? I am sure that the Irish Canadians in your own constituency, many of whose sons have already paid the supreme sacrifice, will resent this slur on the land of their forebears.

F. J. O'SULLIVAN.

EDITOR'S NOTE: A government which maintains concentration camps and shoots between 20 and 30 of its enemies daily is not aggressively Christian; nor is a dictator who will not permit the Pope to appoint bishops an irreproachable Catholic. A Fascist is a Fascist, whatever pose he may adopt.

Unconsidered Trifles

An old Scotsman got into disgrace with his wife because of his fondness for altogether too many "wee drapees," so she determined to give him a scare.

"Late one night," chuckles Dr. William M. McCartney (in "Fifty Years a Country Doctor"), "she dressed up in a black robe and, with a pair of horns and a clanking chain in her hands, she barred the gate as he lurched up to it.

"'And who micht you be?' he asked.

"'I am the Devil auld rookie,' she answered in as deep a voice as she could muster. Clapping the spectre heartily on the shoulder, he shouted:

"'Come into the hoose wi' me, I marrit your sister.'"

R.C.A.F. Members In Big Liberator Spot German Sub With Bombs

W. E. Burgess of Winnipeg (his crew-mates call him "Widget") was the top gunner in a Liberator of the R.C.A.F. "North Atlantic" squadron who poured bullets into a U-boat as the big, four-engined aircraft dived to attack with depth charges. Burgess is pictured as he checks his guns for a long patrol over the Atlantic sea lanes.

A dramatic picture made during the north Atlantic attack on a German submarine by R.C.A.F. men flying a four-engined Liberator bomber. It was the first time the R.C.A.F. scored an attack on a U-boat since being equipped with the heavy bombers. The sub was straddled with bombs, as shown here.

Pilot Officer R. R. Stevenson of Edmonton, Alta., was skipper of the Liberator which made the first attack on a U-boat since the R.C.A.F. "North Atlantic" squadron has been equipped with the giant, four-engined aircraft to provide continuous protection for convoys to the mid-Atlantic. The skipper is pictured as he made his cockpit check before a patrol.

Coal Shortage Looms Across Country

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 — Despite the fact coal production has fallen behind schedule, Secretary of the Interior Ickes indicated at his press conference that rationing of coal can be avoided this winter.

Among the uncertainties in the coal situation, he said is what will happen when the mines are returned to private ownership.

The Secretary said he had requested the Attorney-General for an opinion on his duties and responsibilities in his capacity as Government operator of the coal mines, and, specifically, whether mines might be returned to owners piecemeal or whether they must be returned as a whole.

Deputy Solid Fuels Administrator Howard A. Gray said the Fuels Administration hopes and expects to avoid rationing of coal to consumers this winter. He said a temporary plan for equitable distribution of anthracite already has been put into effect, and that a more permanent arrangement will be made, effective September 1, to prevent any maldistribution of available supplies.

Mr. Ickes, in discussing the coal situation, said he believed the miners could produce more coal, and that a question has arisen whether an eight-hour day should be asked for the mines. Coal production has fallen 25,000,000 tons behind schedule, and still is 400,000 tons a week short of the pre-strike average output, he said.

The Secretary said he was still pressing for conversion of industrial plants to oil, but had abandoned a similar campaign for conversion of individuals' furnaces to the use of coal.

R.C.A.F. Trainbusters

Trainbusters, both of them — these two Royal Canadian Air Force flyers are relentlessly carrying the war against enemy lines of communication and transport in the occupied countries. Flying Officer J. A. Morten of Didsbury, Alta., RIGHT, and Flying Officer D. M. "Bitsy" Grant, D.F.C., of Watrous, Sask., left, have both chalked up outstanding records with their daring sorties. Both fliers appear in action in the new R.C.A.F. film, "Trainbusters," just released across Canada. "Bitsy" Grant, whose outstanding record is nine trains in one day, has been overseas with the R.C.A.F. for the past two years. He was formerly prominent in athletics, attaining distinction as a tennis player at Calgary. Morten was a fireman in days of peace.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

Once again a small group went out to the Scout grounds and did a little more on the roof and building of the hut. We realize that it will take some time to get it completed at this rate but we are at least still going ahead. I understand that Commissioner Ernie Wolff is in town from his holidays and will be getting to work promoting gangs to go out there one or two evenings a week. Those out there this week-end were Messrs Ottewell, Ingham, Ford, English, King and your scribe.

Seen In Town

The following former Scouts now with the Active Service was in town over the week-end. Pete Dominik dropped in from Trenton where he is temporarily attached. Ron Gynane came up from Toronto and is looking very well and Jim Hooper was also home.

Selling Stamps

It was reported that two boys from St. Luke's, two from Park Hill Community, one from St. John's, one from Murray Street and one from St. James' Group were helping on the War Savings stamp drive on Saturday afternoon and disposed of some $47.25 in stamps. Good going boys.

St. John's

St. John's Wolf Cubs met at Akela's on Friday last and spent the evening on Armour Hill. Some of the time was taken up with the boys pointing out and naming various buildings that they could recognize. Next Friday the boys will meet in Nichols Oval at 7 o'clock to spend the evening in fun and frolic.

St. James' at Camp

The St. James' Scout troop reports another very successful camp which lasted from Saturday, July 17 to Friday, July 24th. Sailing down the river, the troop landed on the south side of Rice lake midway between Gore's landing and Harwood on the property of Mr. Charles Burrison. The party consisted of 21 Scout, 2 Cubs and 3 Officers. Eight tents were occupied and four boats used during the week. Two very good days sailing were enjoyed on the lake. Scout Robert Ferguson of Ware Street won the award for the best all round Scout during the camp.

On Sunday the boys attended divine service at Gore's Landing with the Rev. Fisher following which the church members supplied transportation back to the camp site some 3½ miles away. Mr. Fisher also called at the Camp on Tuesday morning to conduct Camp devotions.

A weiner roast was held on Wednesday evening followed by Camp fire program. Two car loads of visitors arrived from Peterborough to join the fun. Rev. Mr. Fisher was the story teller for the camp fire program.

On Thursday Rev. Mr. Delaney of the Anglican Church at Gore's Landing paid a visit to the camp bringing with him some Scouts and Cubs of whom he is leader. Among the Cubs was a young visitor from Kingston who was very interested in the Ship's Ceremony put on by the Ship's Crew. Several games were also played in which the visiting Cubs and Scouts took part.

Roadside Signs Return To Rural England

By DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 4.—(CP).— Rural England, a country of anonymity since Dunkirk days, is emerging from the shadows of security as the threat of invasion by the Germans lessens with every Allied victory.

Time was, not so long ago, when road blocks marred the scenic beauty of every highway crossing in the south. Roundabouts, peacetime cases of flowers, were crammed with rusty, broken down automobiles, placed there for the time when they might have to be dragged into the road to delay the march of invaders.

To-day Southern England still bristles with defences, for Hitler may yet throw suicide troops against this country, but the outward signs of protection are disappearing. Road blocks, many of them built by the Canadian army, are fewer; automobiles have gone to the scrap works to make tanks and airplanes for Britain's own invaders.

Road blocks and cars never bothered rural residents greatly, but anonymity was at first a sad blow to country folk proud of their picturesque towns and villages. For three years they have had to live in nameless communities.

Removed All.

Defence ordained that any sign, poster or nameplate identifying a town must be removed. Only at railway stations were the names allowed and these were in such small characters they were barely visible from trains.

These are happier days, however, and, although the re-christeneing is not yet complete, the names are coming back. Rural England is regaining its identity.

Railway stations were the first to benefit as new signs, three or four times larger than the emergency ones, replaced the old. Then came road signs providing drivers, including Canadian Army men, with an easier guide than maps to the winding criss-cross highways.

The general public heartily approved the improvement in station signs. In Canada, if the name of a station isn't visible, you can look at a time-table, as a porter or conductor, or even get off the train.

In England there are no time-tables and there are conductors only on the longer runs. And with most stops limited to a minute, or or two at the most, there is no chance to get off and get on again—even if you were willing to risk losing your seat.

Return of the road signs isn't so important to the public, for private vehicles have been laid up for the duration. Army drivers find them a blessing, however, for even the more experienced map readers sometimes go wrong.

Four White Youths Face Murder Charges

DETROIT, Aug. 4.—(AP).—Murder charges were brought pesterday against four white youths under arrest and two others, unidentified, in connection with the race rioting here last June 21. The warrant was signed by Recorder's Judge John V. Brennan.

Charged with the saying of Moses Kiska are Aldo Trani, 16; Anthony Saraceno, 16; Armando Mastantuono, 20, and Robert Cattone, 17.

Detective Sergeant Charles Buckholdt, of the Homicide Squad, said Trani admitted shooting Kiska, a negro, and firing at two other negroes from an automobile in which he and the other youths were driving.

The rest-pause that refreshes

Welcome in peace . . . more welcome in war work

WAR plant managers will tell you that anything that contributes to contented workers makes better workers. In plant after plant it has been found that a rest-pause breaks monotony, lessens tiredness and tension.

When you add refreshment to a rest-pause, you not only have a pause that rests, but refreshes, too. A moment for ice-cold Coca-Cola makes a rest-pause take on more meaning . . . promoting contentment that leadsto more work and better work. Yes, contentment comes when you connect with a Coke.

Close work brings the need to pause. Ice-cold Coca-Cola brings tingling refreshment to make any pause the pause that refreshes.

The best is always the better buy!

WESTCLOX GIRLSTAKE FIRST GAME IN LEAGUE PLA YOFFS BY 9 TO 5

Playoff Game Will Decide Top Position

Genelecs and 4th Field Battery meet tonight in a Men's City Softball League game to decide first place. The winner will meet Switchgear while the loser will tackle the Soldiers.

Both outfits will be at full strength for tonight's tilt, and in all probability Manager Ted Johnson will send his ace twirler, Ron Akers to grab off this important game. Terry Moore and Bill Moorhead will also be available. Manager George Dormer of the Battery has big Dave Wilson ready to go, although he may call on Crowe or Naish to start.

The game is an important one and both clubs will be out for a win, figuring that the top team gets a break in meeting Murph Chambers' Switchgears instead of Harry Morgan's powerful Soldier squad.

The next game will be Friday night and the following week there will be a game every night except Saturday. The ladies' loop have only junior games scheduled next week, so the two loops will not clash with important playoff tilts. An agreement was reached between officials so as not to have the playoffs clash. Westclox and Aircraft play the second game of the senior playoffs Thursday night. They will knock off for a week while the Aircrafters are on holidays.

With no opposition tonight the Genelecs-Battery game should attract a large number of fans to Riverside Park. The game will start at 7:00 o'clock sharp.

Ensign Lauds Courage Of Fred Apostoli

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 4—(AP). —Red-headed Ensign John Mitchell Quigg, just back from a Southwest Pacific battle one, hunched his 185-pound frame forward, and said:

"Mister, if anybody deserves the 'Man of the Year in Boxing Award' this year it is Fred Apostli, who was a gun captain aboard my ship. Apostoli, as you know, is the former world's middleweight boxing champion, and from your city, right here.

"He's a boatswain's mate, first class, and has been through the thick of fighting in 11 months out there. From the standpoint of bravery under fire Apostoli may be described as a hero, like all the rest.

"But I'm not proposing him as the 'Man of the Year in Boxing' for military fighting reasons so much as for his value as a morale builder-uper. His influence on the seamen in the entire task force has been remarkable, and this uplift of spirits has been transmitted to the officers.

"Apostoli is the chief boxing instructor of the force. In port he trains the seamen, averaging 50 to a class. He is really selling boxing to the kids. When the ships return from sea duty, a smoker is arranged, each ship contributing talent.

"Fred referees all the bouts, and ends up boxing an exhibition. He boxed three marines in succession one night. The marines, you know, are rough, tough fellows. One of them got ambitious and was punched for keeps. Apostoli had to drop him to show who was boss.

"As an athletic officer, I had Apostoli under me since he was boxing instructor at Norfolk, Va. He wanted action, applied for and got it, and stood up under it better han I can describe to you. With the single exception of Sgt. Barney Ross of the Marines, I think more kinds in the Navy have heard of Apostoli than they have of any other man in the service. The boys have written home to their folks about learning to box from him. I saw a reply from one boy's mother. It concluded: "God bless Fred Apostoli."

Ensign Quigg, 26, played three years of varsity football at Lafayette College, 1937-39, and had a whirl at professional football with Boston in the American League.

LONDON, Aug. 4 —(CP)— It's good to be able to tell cricket fans that the game's No. 1 box office attraction, Dennis Compton, is in rare form, despite a recent operation for varicose veins.

He played for Army against the R.A.F. at Lords and treated a crowd of 21,000 to a display of all his best strokes, good for 83 hits, and ran nearly all the 159 runs scored in his two hours' stay at the wicket.

Compton played with his legs padded with cotton wool and adhesive tape but it didn't seem to slow him up appreciably. His team declared at 284 for six wickets and when stumps were drawn the R.A.F. had lost seven wickets for 169.

Sydney Wooderson raced a mile in 4:17 at London's White City track and won his race handily. Two hours later he was running again but he was 15 miles away and travelling a three-quarter mile stretch in 3:12 after a fast dash by automobile and train from White City.

A sales agency for Eire greyhounds, formed with the sanction of the Irish Coursing Club, hopes to extend the export trade to Canada, the United States and France. Its first objective will be an attempt to improve Irish-bred stock. Then it will go after the export business.

There's talk about in Britain that steeplechasing, banned last winter for the first time since the war began, may be revived during the coming season. It is dependent on the transport situation, the ban having been made effective as a means of cutting down pleasure travel at a time when the nation's railways were concentrated on movement of troops and supplies for the invasion forces.

Age didn't mean much in the war's longest horse race at Windsor when the oldest horse entered, eight-year-old Bo-Tree pounded home a head in the lead in the two mile 4½ furlong Windsor Stakes. Bo-Tree paid off at 11-2. On this program little Tommy Carey rode three winners to set himself three behind Gordon Richards, Britain's champion jockey. Gordon had 30 wins.

A Western Canada armored reconnaissance regiment swept to the championship of a Canadian Armored Division tabloid sport meet by a margin of 21 points over the second-place armored regiment team made up mostly of Montreal athletes.

Aircraft Team Makes Costly Errors

Westclox girls last night took the first game of a four-out-of-seven 9 to 5 from Aircraft in an action-packed contest. Gaining an early lead in the first and second innings, the winners were on top to the finish by playing a better brand of ball than Aircrafts but the latter team was not holding any punches.

Pitchers for both teams hurled nice ball. Strickland for Aircraft struck out three, walked three and gave up nine hits while Watson for Westclox, who pitched until the latter part of the sixth, struck out three, walked two and Bullock, who replaced her struck out three and walked one. From the combined offerings of both, they were touched for seven hits.

A slippery diamond from the late afternoon rain probably was responsible for most of the errors committed in the outfield. Aircrafts were responsible for five while the winners allowed two.

Aircrafts failed to score in the first, Patterson being the only one to reach first on a walk. Anderson for Westclox singled and stole to third. She scored on Hawthorne's single.

In the first of the second, Hewitt for Aircrafts singled and got around ot third but the next three up were put out and she failed to score. On one hit, two walks and two errors, Wesclox piled up four runs in the last half when Dobbin, Castle, Anderson and McLean each scored to make the game at this point 5 to 0.

Going into the third, Strickland clouted a homer for the prize hit of the game to start scoring for Aircrafts. Selkirk singled and was sent home by Craig's three bagger.

Armstrong for Westclox was well on the way for a homer when she hammered out a long drive to left field but she was caught out as she attempted to make home. The next two up were out in succession.

McCarthy singled to start the fourth but the next three were easy. Westclox also failed to score in their half.

Going into the fifth Aircraftc were out one-two-three. Castle for Westclox made a nice one-handed catch on Selkirk's fly to right field. When Westclox came to to bat McCarthy duplicate the feat on a hard smash from the bat of McLean.

Westclox failed to score in the last half of the fifth but going into the sixth Aircraft on two hits, a walk and an error added two runs when Craig and McCarthy scored. Westclox came back in the last half with four runs on two hits, three errors and a walk. Rome, Patterson, Anderson and McLean were the scorers.

Aircrafts failed to get a hit in the seventh but they held the winners down to the same. Again in the eighth, Aircrafts failed to reach first but Westclox secured one hit in the last half when Anderson singled.

In the ninth, DeCarlo reached first on an error and later crossed home plate for the closing run of the game.

Groaner Tops League Batting

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—(AP).—If it's company that misery loves, Luke Appling, that veteran of aches and pains, now has it in none other than Wally Moses, his Chicago White Sox teammate.

The moans and groans of these two American League campaigners are becoming sweet music to Manager Jimmy Dykes, though he peeks at the records occasionally—just to assure himself his eyes and ears aren't playing him tricks.

The records show:

That the 34 year old Appling, for all his self pronounced ailments, has taken over the league leadership in batting with .331;

That Moses, going on 32 and in his ninth year in the majors, has suddenly become the big league's base-stealing sensation, with a total of 33.

Moses, troubled recently by aching legs, told Dykes before Sunday's double header at Philadelphia, "My leg hurts, Jim, and I'm not feeling very good. Guess I won't be running to-day."

So he tripled, singled and stole one base in the first game; in the second he eliminated the temptation to steal by hitting a homer and a triple. But the next night he stole three bases.

Appling's string of miseries this season has included, according to Luke, (a) torn stomach muscle, (b) pink eye, (c) violent headaches, (d) stomach disorder, (e) slight attack of flu, (f) minor and major bruises, welts, spike wounds.

LET'S ALL DO MORE TO WIN THE WAR

BEFORE THE WAR: Piling the family into the car to go for a drive, or a picnic, was lots of fun.

TODAY: Gasoline is too valuable to waste on pleasure-driving. A picnic in your back-yard can still be loads of fun for the whole family.

THE MORE WE'RE IN IT THE QUICKER WE'LL WIN IT!

Our boys overseas are certainly not having any picnic. They have sacrificed plenty for us. Here, at home, we should cheerfully accept every sacrifice we are asked to make to help get this war over . . . and won! Saving gas is one of them. After all, there's plenty of fun to be had in our own back-yard!

Newark Bears Recover Derry Break Even

By The Associated Press

Now that all his crops have been harvested, Russ Derry, home run hitting outfielder of last season with Newark in the International League, has been given permission by his draft board to complete the season with the Bears.

Derry had been "frozen" to his farm.

The farmer-athlete clouted 22 homers in 1942 and Manager Bill Meyer is eager to have the left-hander hitting gardener back in the line-up because the Bears' hitting has not been up to par.

Al Sherer of Montreal, had a no-hitter for six innings as he checked the second-place Bears yesterday, but Dick Korte spoiled his bid by opening the seventh with a home run. Ed Levy got a single in the same frame but Montreal won, 2-1.

The nigthcap was entirely different, Newark bashing out eight blows —including a pair of homers by Levy and Frank Silvanicq—in building its 7-1 victory.

The first place Toronto Maple Leafs were also forced to split a twin bill, their third double attraction in three days. Nick Carter hurled Syracuse to a 2-0 decision in the opener but a three-run outburst in the first frame and a bevy of four tallies in the fourth gave Toronto the nightcap, 8-5.

Buffalo had easy going while trimming Baltimore, 6-1, and Rochester took its second straight from Jersey City, 8-2.

Top pitcher in the major leagues, Truett (Rip) Sewell, ace righthander of the Pittsburgh Pirates, needs but four victories to hit the 20-game mark, coveted by all flingers. Sewell has notched 16 wins against three defeats for his best season in majors.

Katan Ordered Post Guarantee

The failure of John Katan to turn up for his important match with Earl McCready here on Monday night was cleared up to-day when Katan reported through the Athletic Commission. It seems that Honest John (as he likes to be called) simply missed his train to Peterborough and as there was no other means of getting here, simply had to stay away. Katan aughed at the idea that he had to run out on McCready, stating that the man doesn't live who could make him duck a chance to advance in the British Empire Championship struggle. Talking to the burly Palermo Panther this morning, he expressed the further thought that if given another chance he would gladly accept any opportunity to prove to McCready that he, Katan, is the better man. Well John, if Promoter Frank Tunney has his way, the match will be put on again next Monday, but Tunney stated that Katan will have to guarantee his own appearance by posting a substantial money forfeit. As far as big Earl McCready is concerned, he is still under the reasonable impression that Katan ran out on the match. McCready readily handled the renewed attempt by Bunny Dunlop the other night, knocking off the bury Bunny in two straight falls. Now it's strictly up to Katan to prove, by putting up the money, that his disappearance was not prompted by fear of Earnest Earl. The situation has roused considerable "heat" on all sides and is due to be settled, either on or off, sometime to-night.

Bums Nosedive Losing 7th; St. Louis Gains

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

There's no doubt Lieut.-Col. Larry MacPhail is a busy man these days down there in the War Department, but he must take time out every once in a while to have a chuckle over what the Dodgers are doing. Oh, rather, what they're not doing, at the moment.

And it becomes more and more obvious that it was laughing Larry's system of building which made a pennant winner, or a reasonable facsimile thereof, out of the Bums.

And now that laughing Larry's B.B.P. (Brooklyn Building Program) is out the Flatbush Follies show distinct signs of coming apart at the seams .The Dodgers are nosediving along on a losing streak that reached seven games last night when they were cuffed around 7-4 by the Cardinals as Mort Cooper chalked up his 15th win.

Pinching Pennies.

Laughing Larry operated on the system that you have to spend money to put together a winner, and the Brooklyn club paid off a lot of its I.O.U.'s. But in spite of this MacPhail's free and easy way of getting rid of money in exchange for expensive playing talent didn't sit too well with the stockholders. And last summer, he was practically invited to hand over the keys to the safe.

Branch the Reverend Rickey was brought in, and his methods of saving a buck here and two bits there just aren't getting Brooklyn anywhere near front and centre in the National League. He's already sliced pitchers Bobo Newsom and Johnny Allen, who won 14 and lost five between them this summer, off the payroll.

And pitching, especially, is what the Bums need "mostest of the bestest." Last night Max Macon lasted just long enough to stake the Cards to a five-run first inning. That stretched St. Louis' National League lead to 11 full games over Pittsburgh Pirates, who dropped a 6-1 decision to Boston, because Nate Andrews was very warm for August and served up a five-hitter.

Senators Take 2.

Over in the American League, Washington Senators, still doing it with mirrors, belted the sagging St. Louis Browns twice, 7-4 and 3-0, and moved back up to second place. Milo Candini got back into the winner's circle with a four-hitter in the night's nightcap.

The pace-setting Yankees had a three-hitter thrown at them by Virgil (Fire) Trucks and Roy Henshaw, and were blanked 4-0 by Detroit in the opener of a twin bill. But they came back with a 16-hit spree, including homers Nos. 16 and 17 by Charley Keller, to take the nightcap, 12-4.

The New York Giants lasted for a 5-3 verdict over Cincinnati Reds in a tussle that saw Pitcher Elmer Riddle's record string of errorless fielding come to an end after 102 games over a four-year stretch. In Boston, Ken Keltner got word his wife had presented him with a seven-pound son. By way of celebration he presented Cleveland Indians with a pair of homers that paved the way for an 11-9 win over the Red Sox. Both Chicago and Philadelphia teams were idle.

Bill Lee Traded

CHICAGO—(AP).—With the Chicago Cubs for 10 years, hurling them to the National League pennant in 1938, Bill Lee has been traded to the Phillies for Catcher Thomas Livingstone. So far this season, he had won only three out of 10 starts.

TORONTO, Aug. 4 — (CP). — Frankie Eddolls' decision to give up lacrosse in order to spare his injured knee for hockey was smart. Eddolls is one of Canada's outstanding puck prospects but a trick knee has ended many careers in sport and Frankie was wise to recognize that his future lies in hockey. When he joined the R.C.A.F. the former Montreal and Oshawa junior star was just entering on a major league puck career. After the war he'll return to the N.H.L. unless that bad knee catches up with him. Athletes sidelined by trick knees in their prime are too numerous to mention. One such was Jack Cranston, Regina hockey and football star. He helped Regina Pats win western junior grid titles in 1925 and 1926. In 1925 he was a great defenceman with Pats' national junior hockey champions. From that team Johnny Gottselig, Ken Doraty, Frank Ingram, Syl Acaster, Ike Morrison, and Stan Fuller moved into professional company. Cranston's bad knee forced him out of sport the next year although some experts regarded him as possibly the best prospect of the lot.

Predictions, unlimted:

Dave Dryburgh, of the Regina Leader-Post, predicts the N.H.L. and Canadian Amateur Hockey chiefs will adopt the proposed two-zone rules for next winter because "anything new in the way of rules is likely to detract attention from manpower weaknesses." The rule would permit of defending team to pass onside to centre ice instead of to the nearest bluelinet as at present. The expected result would be fewer ganging plays.

Incidentally:

Coach Hugh O'Leary of the Port Arthur Bearcats says it is unlikely there will be senior hockey at the Lakehead next winter or, if any, it will be confined to the services ....Jack Taggart, a spare man with Winnipeg Rangers, Canadian junior puck champions last winter, has moved to Oshawa Generals for the next campaign......Sport fans in Moncton, N B., are chuckling over the attempt Martin (Blimp) Levy made to get into the Army. The 625-pound wrestler started a reducing diet and dropped 150 pounds. Then he consulted a doctor who told him that in two years he would be lean enough to undergo an operation. Blimp returned to his eating.

Liberals Eased Debt For Hastings County

MARMORA, Aug. 4 — (ENS)— The last meeting to be held in West Hastings riding in the interests of Col. Roscoe Vanderwater Liberal candidate took place in Council Chambers on Monday evening with H. W. Sabine acting as chairman.

The candidate reminded his audience that at the June session of the Hastings County Council it was shown that the county was free from debenture debt. He continued by saying that the County had been relieved of half a million dollars debt and at the same time the tax rate was reduced. It was due to the generous way in which Queen's Park had treated the county, Col. Vanderwater declared. He then referred to the highway construction which had taken place in the county during the past ten years and remarked "The riding of West Hastings is not sufficiently dealt with yet. If I am the choice of the riding I commit myself to do all in my power at the termination of hostilities to see that the highway goes north from Marmora village into Wollaston Township where it should go. Get me right, I say after the termination of hostilities We are fighting now for our very existence and that should be the thing paramount in our mind.

"In 1934 the County was paying 20 per cent of the cost of highway construction and maintenance as the Liberal administration took over it bore 100 per cent of the cost. Later more highways were taken over by the Provincial government.

The speaker declared that the Liberal administration has had the rural districts at heart as well as the urban areas. He mentioned savings effected the County through municipal subsidies, maintenance of indigent patients, road subsidies, mothers' allowances and subsidies to cheese and bacon producers.

Col. Vanderwater assailed the programs of the Progressive Conservatives and C. C. F. parties, dealing particularly with Colonel George Drew's criticisms which he felt did not help the Government He also told of the Progressive Conservative candidate of the riding lauding Mitchell Hepburn up to the skies at Bancroft while he (the Conservative candidate) had criticized the former Premier at meetings held at Wallbridge and Springbrook.

H. W. Sabine and Hugh Moloney spoke, the former criticizing the promises made by Col. Drew with regard to lowered education costs and the latter urging that all get behind the candidate so as to elect "the man who understands the needs of the riding and will get them."

As time worked for German ends Istanbul relayed reports, unconfirmed from other sources, that the Nazis had seized three Italian ships carrying Italian troops to Italy when they appeared in Suda Bay, seeking fuel. There were no details as to where the vessels had come from, but Badoglio had been reported summoning Italian garrisons back from the Balkans and Russia.

ieved at Orel, the Russians reported a notable victory in the Donets Basin, where they said the Nazis had been compelled by serious losses to halt their attacks southwest of Voroshilovgrad after five days of furious fighting.

This was the second German summer offensive thrust to break against the Russian defences, the first having fizzled out at Orel in July.

Considerable aerial activity was reported all along the front yesterday, resulting, the Russians said, in the destruction of 160 enemy planes.

Other units of the German army, however, were still trying to advance at Belgorod at the southern end of the Kursk salient 165 miles below Orel. The Soviet war bulletin said the Nazis were engaged in reconnaissance in force but had been repulsed with a loss of about 300 men.

The communique reported that Russian artillery smashed 35 German strongpoints in the Leningrad sector. On the Karelian front Russians attacked a Nazi trench and killed a Company of Germans in hand-to-hand fighting.

In the offensive against the Italian mainland, Allied aircraft again struck at Naples.

Hits were scored on an enemy merchant ship in attacks on shipping.

In all the Allied air activity four enemy planes were destroyed at a cost of two Allied aircraft, the communique said.

With the Axis defence line around the base of Mount Etna cracked in numerous places, the British 8th Army under Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, the Canadians under Maj.-Gen. Guy Simonds, and the American 7th Army under Lt.Gen. George S. Patton were closing in on the last tiny triangle of land barring the way to the Italian peninsula.

Holding the centre portion of the line, Canadian forces were leaping from hill to hill in an advance which has led them from Regalbuto to Centuripe, with Biancavilla and Adrano, both on the Mount Etna road, as their next immediate goal.

Regalbuto and Centuripe fell on Monday.

Mr. Drew, a 49-year-old Toronto barrister and author, laid before the electors a 22-point program for the war and post-war years, including a plan for the province to assume half the cost of taxation now borne by real estate.

Mr. Jolliffe, a 34-year-old Toronto barrister and former newspaperman, presented a 15-point program calling for the socialization of monopolies and educational and social reforms.

Of the 282 candidates seeking election to the 21st Legislature, 90 are Progressive Conservatives, 89 are Liberals, 86 C.C.F. and the other 17 represent small parties. It is the first time since 1923, when the United Farmers of Ontario Government was defeated, that each of the three major parties has enough candidates in the field to win a majority.

Mr. McGarvey celebrated his 77th birthday on June 16, and had only been ill for about two weeks.

He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Matthew McGarvey, and was born at Shanick, Marmora township, his parents being pioneer settlers there.

His early years were spent at farming. Later he moved to the village and was employed in turn at the former St. James Hotel and also at the Royal Hotel as ostler and later indoor duties. Mr. McGarvey was a member of St. Paul's Anglican church, a Conservative in politics, and before the Lodge became dormant, was an officer of Marmora Loyal True Blue Lodge, No. 177.

Left to mourn his passing are one brother, David, and one sister, Mrs. Allan McGarvey, both of Marmora. The funeral announcements will be announced later.

Harvest Wages For Soldiers $3.50 Per Day

OTTAWA, Aug. 4.—(CP).—Minimum wages to be paid for the services of soldiers detailed for farm labor were announced yesteray by the Defence Department.

In Western Canada the minimum rate is $4 a day; in most parts of Ontario $3.50; and in Quebec and the Martime Provinces $3. In addition farmers will provide board and lodging.

The Department also announced that in the cases of men granted compassionate leave to alleviate harvesting conditions on their own farms or those of their parents or near relatives, men will be provided with free return transportation to destinations of not more than 500 miles, meal tickets and free overalls.

Soldiers going on compassionate leave to points more than 500 miles distant will have to pay their own transportation beyond that point.

The men on farm details will continue to receive their normal pay and allowances, apart from subsistence allowance. On the termination of the farm work if the amount payable by the farmer to the Labor Department for the services of the soldier exceeds his regular pay and allowances he will receive the difference.

In each military district one officer and two non-commissioned officers will act in liaison and disciplinary capacities between military districts and the Labor Department. It will be their responsibility to see that army personnel employed on farms carry on their duties in an orderly manner.

Special Election Night Service Will Be Broadcast Over Station CHEX

Complete election results will be broadcast over CHEX this evening commencing at 7:30. These results as they are collected by the Examiner from the various returning officers and poll clerks throughout the riding will be tabulated and put on the air. The results from other ridings in Ontario together with hourly summaries, gains and losses will also be broadcast over CHEX.

A special exchange has been set up to receive the returns and these telephones will be manned by four members of the Examiner staff. There are also special lines which will be receiving the long distance calls from the correspondents in the riding who have been organized to collect the returns.

For those wishing particular results they are to telephone 4641.

The regular bulletin board service will also be in operation.

WOMEN'S PAY in the
ARMY — NAVY — AIR FORCE
INCREASED

UNDER a new regulation now in force, the basic rates of pay for women in the Armed Forces have been increased by 15% to 30%. You now start at $1.05 a day. Pay then increases, subject to good conduct and efficiency.

Trades pay has been substantially increased and now equals men's. This is now 25¢, 50¢ or 75¢ a day additional to your basic pay, depending on your efficiency and trade.

Dependents of enlisted women (fathers, mothers, sisters, brothers) are entitled to the same allowances as dependents of service men.

ENLISTED WIVES OF SERVICE MEN WILL NOW RETAIN THEIR DEPENDENTS' ALLOWANCES

This means that the enlisted wife of a service man is now in the same position as if she were in a civilian job, with certain limitations.

Women are urgently needed in the Armed Forces. These new rates of pay and other allowances now make it possible for women previously held back by financial reasons, to do their duty by enlisting.

YOUR PAY IS A CLEAR SURPLUS
because you are provided with board and room, and complete clothing and equipment; as well as medical and dental care.

If you are between the ages of 18 and 45, single, or married without dependent children, and physically fit, you are eligible.

Fenders of two cars were dented in a side swipe brush on George street near the Grand Hotel Tuesday. Police reported that MissDella Plant of Hastings began to move out from the east curb as J. McWilliams, 36 Ware street, was approaching from the south. Both right fenders of the McWilliams car needed smoothing out treatment, and the left front fender and bumper of Miss Plant's car were bent.

AIRGRAPH MAIL

The new form of airgraph for overseas correspondence, now obtainable at all post offices, contains a new provision for quick transmission to its destination. At the discretion of the post office, if need arises, the airgraph letter may be despatched in its original form by air instead of being photographed in miniature and a print made of the negative on the other side. EXCEEDS QUOTA

The Canadian Department Store has exceeded its quota of eight depth charges and up to Saturday evening had sold sufficient War Savings Stamps to buy nine charges. Roy Wilson, display manager, has been responsible for decorating the old fire truck that has been making the rounds with the "Miss Canada" girls and others who have been selling the War Savings stamps. At the beginning of the drive the store formed a committee of girls under a chairman, and this organization has contributed largely to the successful part played by the C.D.S. in the campaign. Stamps were sold at C.D.S. booths during both the Rotary and Lions carnivals.

Merchants Apply For Permission To Close Early

Two applications for early closing were received by the council last night. One from barbers asked for 8 p.m. Saturdays and on evenings preceding holidays.

The other was from men's and boys' clothing and furnishing stores to turn the locks in their stores at 6 p.m. Saturdays the whole year round.

These applications automatically pass into the hands of the Police Commission to determine whether they are sufficiently signed, and will return to City Clerk Outram with Chief Newhall's report.

Alderman Bradburn raised a comment of query as to whether the retailers had thought of the Saturdays of Christmas and Easter weeks.

"They might want to remain open until a later hour at that time," he said, "but their own by-law would prevent them. I am wondering whether they have given that point thought."

Council To Pursue Re-opening Of C.N.R.

Payment of the expenses of the deputation to Ottawa with a petition for the continuance of operation of the C.N.R. from Peterborough to Port Hope, was approved by the council last night, but Alderman Bradburn said the council and the Chamber of Commerce should not be satisfied with that incomplete result of the city and district's effort.

It was understood, he said, that the decision of the Board of Railway Transport would hear further argument in their re-opening of the case, and Alderman Bradburn said the Chamber and its associate municipalities should proceed with the preparation of a new brief.

Senators Look Ahead

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(AP).—A group of senators yesterday disclosed they would seek direct support of President Roosevelt for a resolution pledging American participation in an International military force to halt future aggression.

Struck By Car Woman Finds Hospitals Full

Neither of the city's hospitals had a vacant bed for Mrs. Elizabeth Harris of the Bank of Montreal apartments, who was injured in a traffic accident at George and Simcoe streets at 4.40 p.m. Tuesday, according to the report of P.C. McGillen.

Investigation provided the information that Mrs. Harris and another woman were crossing George street from the Dominion Bank corner to the west side. Harry Leahy, 161 Clifton street, driving a Canadian Oil Company truck south, sounded a warning, and the two women began to run. Leahy swung the truck to avoid them, but the side of it hit Mrs. Harris.

At the Standard Clinic she was treated by Dr. Howson. Her injuries included a broken left shoulder and bruised left arm and leg.

Two More Names On Honor Roll

Two more names were added to the City Council's honor roll of Peterborough men who have given their lives in this war. They were Pilot Officer Carl Grose, nephew of Mary E. Grose, 148 Rubidge street, who was killed on active service overseas last month; and Private Norman Dwyer of the Hastings-Prince Edward Regiment, who died overseas of injuries suffered in an accident.

Sympathy of the Council is being sent to Miss Grose and to Mrs. Mary Dwyer, 231 George street north, mother of Private Dwyer.

Eastern Workers Late

REGINA, Aug. 4—(CP).—Hon. J. G. Taggart, Saskatchewan Minister of Agriculture, said yesterday there will be no migration of eastern workers to western harvest fields before September 1, owing to late harvesting in Ontario and Quebec.

Stall On Market Continues Aid For War Victims

With varying success, bounded really by the supply of goods donated for that purpose, the stall on the market so kindly given by the City Council for the purpose of raising money to assist the objective of the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund has been of continuous assistance ever since the early spring, since which time it has been operated on a weekly basis on behalf of the Fund.

Last Saturday, once again Mrs. John E. Parker of Norwood herself supplied the donations which included eggs, cucumbers, beets, beans, apples and a pie, which she then sold to raise $3 for the fund, re-:ting her identical action of the previous week, and which she plans to carry into effect again this following Saturday.

By working in a similar manner ever since the fund commenced on various projects, Mr. and Mrs. Parker have now raised a total of $1,069.55 to help the sufferers from air raids over Britain, a truly remarkable feat for one family, showing just what can be accomplished when people set themselves to work with an object for good, and a real desire to do all they can to hel those in need.

Mrs. Parker will be glad to receive any donations in kind to offer fo sale at this coming Saturday's market, and all who care to do so will find her in the accustomed stand where the stall for the fund is regularly situated.

One donation under the heading of "Plants" is reminiscent of a few weeks past when plants were sold to help the fund along, this contribution coming as a result of some plants from the secretary of the fund's garden, which by no means were of anything approaching that value, but the one who gave that amount thus demonstrates a first class interest in the welfare of the objects the fund seeks to assist.

Two penny box collections were made by the secretary of the fund, the old reliable standby at the Empress Hotel producing its usual weekly, which this time amounts to $2.75, and the box in Payne's Drug Store adding another $2.20 to the day's receipts.

Creeping ever upward and onward, the fund now has $500.00 on deposit in the bank towards the next contribution of £500 representing fairly close to the quarter-way mark of the amount needed to go over the top, which of course will be sent over in the usual manner when completed, to mark the 25th time that money will have been forwarded from this city and district to give a helping hand to those whom the misfortunes of war have afflicted in the front line in Britain.

SERVICE DE LUXE

In this day of hustle and bustle everyone plans to have a maximum result with a minimum of effort, and even the fish are cooperating. John Seels, Homewood avenue, has been vacationing at his cottage, and while fishing the other day hooked a particularly frisky bass. Before he could get it into the boat, the fish threw itself gracefully through the air, got off the hooks and landed—in the boat, right in the open fish basket, ready for home. Some of his skeptical friends are asking if it was cleaned too, but Mr. Seels swears it actually happened.—J.S.

Council Honors Fern Blodgett

Congratulation of the City Council was extended last night to Mrs. Fern Blodgett Sunde and her husband, Captain Gunner Sunde for the decorations conferred on them by King Haakon of Norway.

Mrs. Sunde, daughter of Mrs. H. Blodgett, 189 Hunter street, received the Norwegian War Medal, and her husband the Saint Olav Medal with Oak Leaves for their great service in the Norwegian Merchant Marine.

Mrs. Sunde, a wireless operator, assisted her husband in fifty-one trips across the Atlantic carrying supplies to Great Britain.

Examiner Carriers Set New Sales Record

A new champion has been crowned in the realm of War Savings Stamps sales, when General Jack Hayes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hayes of the city turned in $942 as his quota of sales during the campaign to purchase depth charges. He is shown ABOVE being congratulated by General Billy Edgar, former champ, who sold $831.25 worth. Lieut.-General Nancy Leith, with $630.50, was third, and she too is a previous champion. The Examiner carrier boys sold enough stamps to purchase 44 depth charges, ten more than their quota, and considerably more than half the city's entire total.

With Boys In Services

The editor of this column will welcome extracts from letters from boys serving or any other information concerning them.

GNR. SID LUTHER

Two boys who last week breezed into a hot wave in Peterborough after spending more than a year battling cold and blizzards in the far north, are awfully glad to be back in a civilized spot.

Gnr. Richard Yateman, River Road, who enlisted with an anti-aircraft unit was sent somewhere in the Arctic, June 16, 1942 and for 14 months he never saw a white woman. Both boys said there was lots of ice and it was plenty cold. His pal, Gnr. Sid Luther, said they were the pioneer group to go into that section of the country and they were placed in a tough spot.

When the unit arrived at its destination the men had to build their own camp, and since there was nothing planned for recreation, time dragged terribly for the men in their free hours. Gunner Luther, who lives at 57 St. James street, also said that all their "grub" was dehydrated and that the never saw fresh vegetables, occasionally they shot rabbits, and while there were plenty of seals, they never were lucky enough to get one.

AW 2 BEATRICE McDOWELL, R.C.A.F., (W.D.) was honor girl in the graduating class at Toronto last week, and has been posted to McLeod, Alta., where she will continue as switchboard operator, having had considerable experience while she was in Millbrook. Her parents were present at the graduation.

A Baillieboro man, CPL. KENNETH McMAHON, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. McMahon, R.R. No. 1, Baillieboro, has been serving with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders overseas for two years. Before enlisting he was employed in Peterborough as a fur cutter at Bert Reynolds on George street.

CPL. HOWARD SHAW of Peterborough who was reported wounded a week ago took part in the fight around one of the main Italian airports. He described the action as a complete surprise the way the enemy surrendered. Cpl. Shaw said that two Ontario units were detailed to assault and take the airport and one unit was to act as cover for the other.

"The British Navy gave it a broadside to soften it up and the Italians sure must have been in a panic for when we charged they quit cold. The attack was a complete surprise and before we could really get into action, the Italians were coming out in hundreds with their hands up."

O.S. ROLAND HALCROW

The Navy holds an irresistable lure for the boys of this district and Ordinary Seaman Roland Halcrow is no exception. He enlisted April 21, of this year, and is stationed at H.M.C.S. Cornwallis. Prior to enlisting he worked at the C.G.E. His brother, followed in his footsteps and reported for duty with the Navy in June. He is an assistant cook and previously worked for the Purity Bread Company. At the present time he is at H.M.C.S. York, Toronto.

SGT. JACK MORRISON

Word has been received that Sgt. Jack Morrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Morrison of Lakefield has arrived overseas. He is an air gunner with the R.C.A.F. and enlisted in August of 1942. Sgt. Morrison got his training at Toronto, Dunnville, Trenton and McDonald, Man., getting his wings at the latter. His brother, FLT. SGT. HUGH MORRISON is with the R. C. A. F. at Uplands. Before enlisting he was employed at the Western Clock.

FLT. LIEUT. JULIAN SALE of Toronto, who used to compete in the ski jumping at Nassau here before the war, and who was reported missing, is now safe at Gibraltar. Flt. Lieut. Sale was heading toward Germany on May 13 when he came down. He enlisted in May of 1941.

The R.C.A.F. announced today that R. C. McCRACKEN of Lakefield, who is a pilot still stationed in Canada, was one of a large group to be commissioned.

Word has been received by Rosanne G. Connelly that her brother SPR. H. J. CONNELLY, R. C. E., has arrived safely overseas. Before enlisting in August, 1942, he was employed in Detroit, and he returned to Canada to join up. He is a former Examiner Carrier boy.

Queen Is 43

LONDON, Aug. 4—(CP).—The bells of St. Paul's Cathedral pealed a salute to Queen Elizabeth today as she celebrated her 43rd birthday quietly in the country with the King and the two princesses.

It was the first time since the start of the war that the cathedral bells had been rung to celebrate a royal birthday.

News Carriers Raise $3,979.14 For Depth Bombs

Examiner news carriers have lived up to their high reputation as top-notch salesmen of War Savings Stamps in the depth charge poster campaign just concluded. Winding up their month-long activities with a final burst of speed, they have accounted for a total of $3,979.14, which is equivalent to the sale of more than 44 completed posters.

The original quota assigned the carriers at the beginning of the drive was 34 charges or roughly half the number the whole city was asked to purchase. Now by their sale of excess posters the carriers have accounted for 66 per cent. of the city's quota and have been a large factor in contributing to Peterborough's magnificent showing in the campaign.

During the past week the value of stamps reported sold increased by $2,000, and numerous promotions in the Army of Junior Commandos occurred as a result. Especially prominent among the campaigners were such stalwarts as Jack Hayes with additional sales of $416, Nancy Leith with $563 increase, Bill Edgar with $386 more stamps sold.

Earn Reward

The ten top-ranking carriers are going to receive as awards for their fine patriotic achievements a wrist watch from The Examiner, and on behalf of the city itself, 30 "keys to the city" will be awarded the boys and girls by Mayor Hamilton.

General Nancy Leith, $630.50; Colonel Don Pagett, $355; Major Ray Harris, $196; Major Gerald Rose, $160; Captain Walter Pridham, $149.50; and Captain Ronald Doughty, $140.

Hospital Wants To Purchase Ironing Machine

Two items of necessary expense were reported to the council last night for their financial assistance by a deputation from Nicholls Hospital Board, Frank Kitney, E. R. Wilson, W. G. Ovens and John Hornal, superintendent.

A new ironing machine for the laundry department, costing $3,555, is required to replace the old one which was second hand when bought in 1913, and the building needs repainting at an estimated cost of $765.

"The hospital took care of 928 patients in the year it was purchased as compared with 3,137 patients last year," said Mr. Wilson, who with Mr. Ovens are are former members of the city council. "It is doing four times the work and is worn out. It takes one more operator than a new machine. That saving in wages plus our monthly bill with Fanning's Laundry would amount to $75 to be credited against a new ironer. Fannings have told us that they can no longer help us because they have too much other work."

Mr. Wilson also said that the hospital has not been painted in ten years, and the buildings must be kept in repair. He explained that the deputation was setting the facts before the council in accordance with an agreement this year to report any expenditures especially of capital account.

Alderman Dutton remarked that the people had the use of the ironing machine for thirty years, "it is now up to the people to provide a new one." The Board felt keenly embarrassed by lack of funds for equipment that was a pressing need, and especially in view of the indispensible work the hospital was doing in the community.

"Because the council has some responsibility in the matter, the Board feels justified in asking for assistance," Alderman Dutton said.

Mr. Hornal pointed out that the saving of $75 a month with a new machine would make it self-liquidating.

Action was deferred by the council.

It is understood that the total estimate of the cost of repainting the hospital is more than $1,700, but the Board contemplated doing only part this year.

Fuel Situation More Serious

Fuel dealers will be requested by the Council to meet its fuel committee "to discuss the wood situation," which Alderman Cotton last night described as being far more serious than most citizens understand.

Alderman Gordon's motion, seconded by Alderman Cotton, refers to the committee composed of Mayor Hamilton, convenor, Aldermen Gordon and Swanston, which was appointed in the first instance to enlist the support of the public for the voluntary rationing scheme mentioned several months ago.

"Our ceiling is lower than in municipalities all around us," Mayor Hamilton said, "and wood that would come here is going on down to Belleville."

"They can get more money for wood in Omemee than in Peterborough," Alderman Swanston said.

Alderman Dutton suggested that the committee might find it helpful to make early representations to Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Watercraft Boys Defeat Marines

Manager Harry Hewie and his Watercraft Sailors in a City Industrial fixture at the Brinton Field sailed into the fast league leading Outboard Marines and took them in a hard fought contest to the score of 10 to 11.

The spectators who witnessed the fixture saw two well matched teams. Both squads played heads up ball all the way. The Sail boys started the scoring in the first, piling in four runs before the Marines got their motors going. Marines scored one in the next four innings, with the Watercrafts scoring two in the third. The Outboards big chance was in the sixth, when six runners crossed the plate, making it 10 to 6 for the Marines. But the Watercrafts with their sails hoisted slipped five runners across the plate to take the game which was called in the seventh on account of darkness.

"Leroy" Killingbeck, slab artist for the Sailors, returning from his holidays, bronzed and fit, pitched a great game, backed up by his inspired teammates. The Marines used two moundsmen, Murphy and Hefferman, both pitching good ball and fairly steady.

Score by innings:

Thousands Of Canadians To Receive Awards

LONDON, Aug. 4 — (CP). — Many thousands of Canadians are eligible to receive the newest awards for war service—either the Africa Star or the 1939-43 Star — which were announced briefly in the House of Commons yesterday by Prime Minister Churchill and outlined later in a Government White Paper.

The King announced late in June that he planned to create the new decorations.

Their service in the African war theatre early this year qualifies some hundreds of Canadian Army men, including Lt. Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, commander of a Canadian corps, and Maj. Gen. Guy Simonds who commands the Canadian 1st Division in Sicily, for the Africa Star. The Canadians also are entitled to a clasp denoting their attachment either to the 1st or the 8th British Army.

For flying in the same territory or servicing aircraft there, Canadian airmen in the R.C.A.F. and the R.A.F. are eligible for the same medal. Those assigned specifically to support the 1st and 8th Armies are eligible for the air froce clasp, a silver rose.

Men of the Royal Canadian Navy and the Canadian Merchant Navy who served ashore or in harbors in the same areas as the African armies also are eligible for the Africa Star.

No one can receive both stars.

The announcement said the Africa Star is available to those taking part in the African operations from the date Italy declared war —June 10, 1940—until the fighting ceased in Africa last May 12.

Aircrews must have taken part in operations and have completed two months in an operational unit which makes virtually all Canadian airmen flying from Britain eligible. Non aircrew personnell serving six months in an area of an army operational command qualify also.

Canadians such as Sgt. George Hickson of Kitchener, Ont., who went to Dieppe and also to North Africa and won the Distinguished Conduct Medal and the Military Medal, pose a problem for authorities awarding Stars. They can't have both, and at this stage, when the Government has only just announced the awards, no authority is prepared to say just what Hickson and others like him will get.

The same applies to Canadian fliers who operated from British bases during the period prescribed for the 1939-43 Star and also flew in the North African theatre.

LAWN BOWLING

When the ladies walked off the greens around 4:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, they did, as far as we can find out, create two records for our ladies' club.

First: Finished their games on schedule date. Second: Completed the schedule without one postponed game.

This speaks well for our organization and it will be a work to shoot at.

To Mrs. R. Dyer's rink goes the honor of winning one group, with Mrs. H. Beatty's rink second. In the other group Mrs. C. Renaud and Mrs. J. Arnold are tied for first honors and that means a playoff. Just when it will be played, we haven't heard.

On account of half of the east square being closed to give the greens a much needed rest, the ladies tournament for Thursday night has been temporarily postponed.

Quite a number of men bowlers are taking in the twilight doubles over at Lindsay this evening.

Harold Freeman and Dr. Long gave the spectators something to talk about. It was in the club singles. The game was tied several times and just to sweeten things it was 20-20 coming home. The end was all Freeman's until the Doctor with his last bowl, came in, touched the kitty, carried it back about one foot, but when the smoke cleared Freeman was short by about one half-inch. It was a dandy game and good bowling all the way through.

As we came away a little early last evening, we were unable to get the scores of the men's scheduled games.

It will be mixed rinks this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Saints Tighten Grip On Lead

At Armour Field on Tuesday night St. Peter's defeated a hard struggling Beaver team, 9-6, to firmly clinch their hold on first place.

Gordon pitched fine ball for the winners, allowing only scattered hits and was backed up by a smooth-clicking infield. Shine on the mound for Beavers pitched good ball but was nicked hard at times by the St. Peter's sluggers.

Big guns for Saints were Father Wolff with a triple, double and single. Bangup men for Beavers were Shine with two singles and Driscoll with a double and single.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

By The Canadian Press

Jackie Callura of Hamilton, recognized featherweight champion of the world, came between crossfire last night in rulings from two entirely different quarters—the National Boxing Association on the one hand and the U.S. Navy on the other.

The N.B.A. announced that, for the duration, its civilian champions would have to fight logical contenders at least once every three months —or else. Callura, along with Manuel Ortiz, bantamweight titleholder, and Little Dado, flyweight king, were specifically named as affected by the ruling. Association crown-wearers in the armed forces were excluded because their titles are "frozen" —they included Sgt. Joe Louis, light heavyweight Gus Lesnevich, middleweight Tony Zale and welterweight Freddie Cochrane.

The ink of this edict had barely dried when word came out of Hartford, Conn., that the U.S. Navy had refused the request of President Abe Greene of the N.B.A. for permission to Willie Pep, now in the U.S. naval forces, to meet Callura in a title bout to clean up the featherweight situation. Pep is recognized by the N.Y. Commission as the champ and Callura gets the nod most elsewhere. So Hamilton Jackie has got to fight—and, in the same evening, he discovers he can't fight on account of a big Navy.

One of the first of American-born hookeyists to attain a high name in National Hockey League circles, Frankie Brimsek, starry goalkeeper of the Boston Bruins, has joined the U.S. armed forces. Brimsek who hails from Eveleth, Minn., was yesterday inducted into the U.S. Coast Guard at Curtis Bay, Md.

His First Error

Pitcher Elmer Riddle of the Cincinnati Reds yesterday made the first error of his major league career, dating back to 1939 when, after 101 games, made a fumble and a poor throw to second in the third innings of the tilt with the Giants at Cincinnati. The previous record of errorless ball was 88 games chalked up by Ted Lyons with the White Sox from Aug. 11, 1934, to June 12, 1938.

Kingston Ponies have been drawn to play Hamilton Co-ops while London Army will clash with Halifax Navy in the first round of the National Baseball Congress tournament to be played at Hamilton Thursday night. The semi-finals Friday at Hamilton will include Toronto Tip Tops and Montreal R.C.A.F.

Out of action for seven months because of leg trouble, Alsab, owned by Mrs. Albert Sabath of Chicago, will make his bid for a comeback this Saturday in the $10,000 Chicago Handicap, a six-furlong sprint, at Washington Park.

Carter Hanover Wins

Carter Hanover, son of the great Volo, won the pacing event in straight heats in yesterday's harness card at Old Orchard Beach, Me., before rain broke up the meeting. Yankee Maid and Red Tower each won a dash in the $5,000 stake for two-year-olds and these two horses alone will fight it out for the deciding heat today under the rules.

Because he did not "scram" when ordered to leave the dugout by Umpire Lou Jorda in Monday night's Boston-Pittsburgh game, Pitcher Rip Sewell of the Pirates was fined $50 yesterday by President Ford C. Frick of the National League. When Sewell squawked about the fine before yesterday's game at Pittsburgh, he was ordered out again,

Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, Aug. 4 — (CP). — Official reports reaching the Labor Department indicate that despite farm labor shortages which have been experienced in many parts of Canada, early crops have been harvested without any serious loss because of difficulties in obtaining help.

Most provinces are anticipating more serious problems when harvesting is intensified at the end of the growing season, but it is expected the use of soldiers, under a plan recently announced by Labor Minister Mitchell and Defence Minister Ralston, will serve to alleviate this condition.

In addition, urban dwellers working on farms in their spare time or during holiday periods will give considerable assistance, it is anticipated.

Comment received from the provinces reporting on the manpower situation under the Dominion-Provincial farm labor agreements, summarized, are:

Nova Scotia— Prospects for apple and potato harvesting are regarded as serious.

Use Student Camps.

Quebec — Some of Quebec's farm labor problems have been met by the organization of student camps and more are to be organized to assist in harvesting tomatoes and hops.

Ontario—Demand for labor by the month is dying off "quite noticeably." Only critical phase is in getting day labor for haying and harvesting. Difficulty is anticipated in finding enough help to complete haying, but harvesting needs are expected to be comparatively small with a light grain crop. Heavy demand is expected in harvesting late vegetable crops, particularly tomatoes. This period will start about August 20 and continue until the first frost.

Manitoba—Daily request for farm help are on the increase, but the placements are slim.

Sasckatchewan— There is "reasonable hope" of harvesting the crop if weather conditions are favorable and 2,000 to 3,000 experienced farm workers are provided by Eastern Canada or from the Army.

Alberta—Some 500 men could be placed on Alberta farms. Use of High School students has been limited but is expeeted to increase when students return from cadet camps.

Crawford-Dunford Nuptials Saturday in Lakefield

LAKEFIELD, Aug. 4.—(ENS). — Lakefield United Church was the scene of a charming wedding on Saturday afternoon when Norine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Dunford, became the bride of Charles Crawford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Crawford.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length white organdy gown with sweetheart neckline, a fitted bodice, buttoned down the back, and a full skirt with small train. Her finger-tip veil was of scalloped net in cornet style, and she carried a bouquet of red roses and sweet peas.

Muriel Dunford was her sister's bridesmaid. She wore a long pink sheer frock similar to the bride's with a veil of pink set in cornet style and caught up with pink roses.

The church was beautifully decorated with summer flowers, and Rev. George Kelly officiated at the ceremony.

During the signing of the register Lois Windrim of Peterborough sang "Because," and Mrs. George Kelly presided at the organ.

The groomsman was Malcolm Wager of Belleville. Elwood Northey and Harold Coons were the ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents in Douro, where Mrs. Dunford received in a gown of mauve figured sheer, corsage of roses and white accessories. The groom's mother, who also received, wore a two-piece navy suit, corsage of roses and white accessories.

The groom's gift to the bride was a silver tea service.

Later the bride and groom left on a wedding trip. For travelling the bride chose a pink silk jersey dress with white accessories. On their return they will live in Peterborough.

Out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Ward Crawford, of Michigan; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kemp, of Peterborough, and Barbara Dunford, of Toronto.

Mary A. Gooley Marries Donald Corrin

Sacred Heart Church, adorned with summer flowers, was the scene on Saturday, July 31, of the wedding of Mary Agnes, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Gooley, to AC2 Donald Maxwell Corrin, R.C.A.F., son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Corrin. Rev. Fr. J. J. O'Brien officiated. Mr. J. Armstrong presided at the organ, and during the signing of the register Mrs. D. Campanaro sang "Ave Maria."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attractively gowned in floor-length white sheer, fashioned with a fitted bodice with a high round neckline trimmed with white beadwork and long full sleeves; her full skirt fell in graceful folds to the floor. She wore a heart-shaped veil of white net and carried red roses and bouvardia. Miss Marion English was bridesmaid in a pretty frock made with a pink lace bodice and a double net over taffeta skirt, and a juliet cap of pink net trimmed with blue rose-puds. Her flowers were roses and forget-me-nots.

Pte. Frank Gooley, brother of the bride, was best man, and the ushers were Leo Hobbins and Bob Rogers.

At the reception herd at the bride's home, Mrs. Gooley received in a gown of pale blue crepe with white accessories, and Mrs. Corrin, mother of the groom, in navy sheer with white hat and accessories. Both wore corsages of red roses and bouvardia.

When they left on a short wedding trip, the bride was wearing a two-piece frock of blue silk jersey with beige accessories. They will live at St. Thomas, where the groom is stationed.

IMMORTALS, WITS, SCIENTISTS ALWAYS WITH EDUCATED FOLK

Children Should Be Made to Realize Course to Top Now Is Through Schoolroom.

IT is a great pity that children cannot be made to realize that an education is not only the weapon with which they must fight the battle of life, but an unending source of pleasure and entertainment, and that their success and happiness will largely depend upon how good a one they have gotten.

Of course, some youngsters do appreciate this and are so avid for learning that they are willing to work their way through college by doing any sort of menial labor, but the great majority of children regard going to school as some sort of cruel and inhuman punishment that their parents and teachers devise for taking the joy out of existence for them.

School Just Drudgery

To them schools are places of incarceration in which they are shut up so many hours a day, when they might be playing ball or riding bicycles, or doing something else interesting and amusing. They enter the school building with dragging feet and escape from it with shouts of joy. They have no interest in their studies and never even try to find out what their instructors are trying to teach them. They study just as little as they can in order to get by in their grades. And when they have finally been ground through the school mill they come out just as innocent of an education as they were when they went in. They have been exposed to culture, but they never caught it. They were immune.

There isn't a day that I don't get letters from teen-age boys and girls protesting against the heartless tyranny of their parents in forcing them to go to school. Their cry is always the same. "I hate school and I want to stop and go to work so I can make some money and have some fun. What's the use of going to school, anyway? Who cares what people did hundreds of years ago? Why do I want to bother about places that I never heard of? This town is good enough for me. I don't see that an education gets you anywhere, and, anyway, I'm bored stiff with going to school and I want to quit."

Education Takes Child To Top

It is in vain that you tell these children that an education does take you somewhere, that it takes you to the top of wherever you are going, and that the lack of it keeps you stranded at the bottom. You waste your breath in reminding them that when they leave school and try to find work that the very first question every employer is going to ask them is how much education they have, and that if they have not, at least, gone through the public school they will have to take the poorest paid jobs.

They do not believe you when you point out to them that the reason Mary Jones is a highly paid private secretary is because she is a college graduate who knows how to spell and has a large vocabulary, while the most that Sally Smith can get is $5 a week for addressing envelopes, because she can't spell c-a-t and hasn't an idea of what any word of more than one syllable means.

Later on, when these children are men and women who find themselves balked at every turn by their lack of education, they realize that they threw away their chance in life when they slammed the school room door behind them. But it is too late then. The mischief is done. None of us, alas, can go back and correct the mistakes we made in our youth.

Aside from the fact that the lack of an education is a handicap in every line of work, it is the greatest bar to a full and happy life. The ignorant are doomed to dwell in an arid and stony desert in which there are few things to interest and amuse them, and in which they are surrounded by other people who are as dull and stupid as they are.

Doors Opened to All Ages,

Genius' Treasures

But the man who can say to himself: "My mind to me a kingdom is" is the heir to all the ages and the possessor of all the treasures that the geniuses, who have gone before him, have left for his enjoyment. He can see things that the ignorant cannot see. He can hear music to which they are deaf. He can wander forever through the green pastures and the flowering fields of imagination.

And if education did nothing else for us but to enable us to read understandingly, it would still be the greatest blessing that is ever bestowed upon us. For the readers are never bored. They are never lonely. Time never drags on their hands. They have only to take a book from a shelf and they are in the company of the immortals.

The great wits sit at their table. Philosophers teach them wisdom. They fight and dare and thrill with the great adventurers. And their hearts can grow tender as they walk with lovers under the roses. For a book can turn a garret into a palace and change the most tongue-tied clod into a great lover.

So wonderful and manifold are the advantages of an education, what a pity it is that we cannot sell the idea that it is worth having to children.

For Thursday, August 5

Complications, some trivial, others serious and sinister, according to the adroitness and vigilance with which they are handled, characterize this day's planetary prospects. Important organizations, political, diplomatic or secret may prove most menacing and tricky, unless a certain tendency to be lenient and idealistic or sensitive be dispensed with for some well organized strategies or drastic resistance. Keep alert to intriguing love affairs, which might create sorrow or regret.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a progressive and satisfactory state of affairs, provided they are not carried away by their innate sympathy, tenderness and idealistic philosophy. There are omens of intrigue, sharp practice, or other forms of duplicity and menace in all relations, of major force in dealings with larger organized bodies. Postpone all transactions holding such lures and let the higher urges hold sway and seek expression and enjoyment in art, music, writing, poetry or companionship of the young and simple.

A child born on this day may have a kindly, compassionate and tender nature, with much ability in higher forms of expression. These making them easy victims for exploitation.

Typing Most Important in the Business World

TYPING IMPORTANT

There are few girls in the modern business world who cannot type, for they all realize the importance of typing to get ahead. So if you don't know how to type, start now! It is something you will never regret doing, and something you can always use, and go back to.

It really isn't difficult to learn how to work a typewriter. First of all you learn the keyboard, and after you understand it thoroughly you are ready to go ahead.

There is definitely a correct way to sit for typewriting. The head is held erect and slightly to the right with the eyes on the copy. The arms, completely relaxed, and without tension, drop naturally from the shoulders and remain motionless. The hands are kept close to the frame of the typewriter on the same slope as the keyboard. If you follow the rules of position you will not tire.

Our 32-page booklet is just the thing for the beginner at typewriting. It covers everything most clearly and in definite detail. It's easy to learn by the booklet.

For your copy of TEACH YOURSELF TOUCH TYPEWRITING send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WATCH THE OPPONENTS

MANY DECLARERS pay hardly any attention to what the defenders are doing, as they go merrily on their way playing their own cards. Especially disainful are they of watching the size of the small cards which have no influence upon the taking of the particular tricks on which they are played. Such cards, however, often furnish the key to playing later tricks. They constitute the signals from one defender to the other, and the wise declarer will listen in to obtain messages which he also can use.

East and West put up a much better job on this deal than did the declarer, beginning with a damaging lead, the spade 10. West took it with the K, returned the 2, and the 9 and A scored just as they would against a No Trump contract. East returned the club 3 to the J and A, and North sent the diamond K to the A. A second club, the 9, fell to the 10, and the diamond Q was scored, the 4 then being led and ruffed by the club 5.

The heart A was taken and the 9 led to the 10, West then returning the heart 5. Hoping for three tricks now with his own two trumps and the K in dummy, North ruffed with the club 6, and East over-ruffed with the 9. East's last trump then made North use both his own Q and dummy's K on one trick, so that he had to give up a heart on the final trick, being down three for the worst score in the duplicate where this hand was dealt.

If North had noticed East's play on the heart A and 9 he would have taken one more trick. It was the 6 on the first of these, and the 3 on the next—a high-low, indicating that he had no more. North, if he noticed that, should have ruffed the next trick, the heart 5, with his club Q, to prevent East from over-ruffing. He then could have led a diamond to be ruffed by the club K, and so would have taken two tricks instead of one with those honors, giving up the final trick for down two instead of three.

Detective Gives Evidence In Oakes Murder

By E. V. W. JONES
Associated Press Staff Writer

NASSAU, Bahamas, Aug. 4 — (AP). — Capt. James O. Barker of the Miami police testified today that 'considerable hair burns' were found on the hands and arms of Alfred de Marigny after the bludgeoned body of his father-in-law, multi-millionaire Sir Harry Oakes, was found on a fire charred bed July 8.

Previous testimony at a preliminary hearing for de Marigny, charged with murder, had established that Sir Harry's body and bed had been sprayed with an insecticide and a fire started.

"Anyone in the room at the time of the fire would have had burns on his hair," related Barker, one of two American experts called in by the Duke of Windsor Governor of the Bahamas to help solve the crime.

He said an examination first was made on Harold G. Christie, close friend and business associate of Oakes, a guest of Sir Harry's home at the time of the slaying.

No Burns

"There were no burned hairs or tissues on Mr. Christie," Barker continued.

"Mr. de Marigny volunteered to undergo a microscopic examination. He removed his shirt. We examined through a microscope the back of his fingers, his hands and forearms, and found on both hands and both arms a considerable quantity of hair burns.

"His hairs had been curled and some destroyed by the heat.

"Examination also showed burned hairs in his mustache, beard, eyebrows and on his head, although to a lesser degree than on his hands."

Barker, first witness at a resumption of the preliminary hearing after a recess of one week, said de Marigny was told that the burns were spotted, and was asked whether he had any explanation for them.

"I have no idea how I got them," Barker quoted de Marigny. He said that the 35-year-old former Count later said:

"I got the burns at my chicken farm, scalding chickens."

Barker said he went to de Marigny's home to examine the latter's clothing.

"He said the dining room was lighted by candles," Barker continued. "He displayed four Hurricane lamps, and stated, 'I must have gotten the burns while lighting them.'"

De Marigny's 19-year-old wife Nancy, Sir Harry's eldest daughter, entered the hearing after proceedings were underway and left early.

Canada Loans Many Ships To Britain

LONDON, Aug. 4 (CP).— Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons today that President Roosevelt has promised to turn over to Great Britain between 150 and 200 American-constructed ships on which work already has started.

Mr. Churchill also disclosed that the Canadian government was making similar arrangements concerning ships built in Canada.

A letter which the Prime Minister read in the House explained that the process of handing over the ships would be spread over a 10-month period.

He told Commons this would absorb the reserves of trained seafaring population and the resources of the countries concerned would be "economically and providentially applied to the main purpose of the war."

Mr. Churchill's statement recalled a recent Washington announcement that some ships would be placed under the British flag because of a temporary shortage of ships' crews in the United States.

Mr. Churchill said there was no financial arrangement and that the matter would be dealt with by the usual method that things were used to a common advantage.

Catania City, Palerno Both Topple

Terrific Allied Drive East Stampedes Huns

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 5—(AP)—British 8th Army troops seized Catania early today and swept around the base of Mount Etna to the northwest capturing Paterno, 10 miles away, to crumble the German line on the east coast of Sicily, headquarters announced.

Catania fell to the 8th Army at 8:30 a.m. (2:30 a.m., E.D.T.) today, after a bitter defence since uly 15 and the British forces pounded ahead in a lightning advance around the base of Mount Etna.

The heart of the German defence appeared to be broken.

Paterno is 10 miles northwest of Catania, and it was assumed that Misterbianco, three miles northwest of Catania, also had been engulfed.

Yankees Move Up

German withdrawal of non-essential personnel from Sicily has been in progress for the last five or six days, it was learned authoritatively.

The German defence road around Mount Etna was blasted apart by the British successes today and the next German line was expected to run from Taormina across the northeastern tip of the island to the sea coast on the northeast behind San Fratello, which already is menaced by United States 7th Army troops.

This would mean abandonment of the whole Mount Etna area by the Axis.

Police Capture Peter Krug At North Bay

NORTH BAY, Ont., Aug. 5. — Lieut. Peter Krug, German prisoner of war who escaped Monday night from a prison camp near Gravenhurst, has been recaptured on the Canadian Pacific Railway station at North Bay, it was announced to-day.

Krug, who has escaped several times from prison camps, was a witness last year in the case of Max Stephan of Detroit, who was charged with treason for befriending the Nazi bomber pilot after he escaped from a camp at Bowmanville, Ont., April 17, 1942.

In that escape Krug roamed 3,000 miles around the United States, visiting Chicago and New York as well as Detroit before being arrested in San Antonio, Texas.

Krug's testimony against Stephan led to the conviction of the Detroit restaurant owner who was sentenced to be hanged last July 2. After appeals which took the case to the U. S. Supreme Court, President Roosevelt commuted the sentence to life imprisonment.

Tuesday police at Windsor investigated the possibility that Krug had again sought to enter the U. S. there. The investigation followed the firing of a warning shot by T. Cody, special constable of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police on guard duty at the Windsor-Detroit Ambassador bridge, at a man wearing swimming trunks and a white shirt who failed to halt at his command.

Krug's escape from Gravenhurst camp was discovered at a roll call after the prisoners had been swimming Monday afternoon.

His escape was the 11th by German prisoners of war from Canadian camps. All have been recaptured or shot evading capture except one, Baron Franz Von Werra, who escaped through the U.S. and South America, returning to Germany. He later was reported killed in action.

Naples Port Smashed In Big Raid

Fourth Consecutive Bomber Swoop In As Many Days

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press War Correspondent.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Aug. 5—(AP).—American bombers engulfed bomb-torn Naples in another flood of high explosives yesterday in the fourth Allied raid against the southern Italian seaport in four days.

The four-engined bombers slashed at docks and submarine bases and left the target "well covered with bombs," headquarters said. One merchant ship was left ablaze.

The unescorted planes winged through heavy anti-aircraft fire and engaged 25 to 30 Axis fighters, destroying three of them.

Many Casualties.

(The Italian communique asserted that 159 persons were killed and 228 injured in the attack on the "central quarters of Naples" and that numerous buildings collapsed. The Italians claimed seven of the raiders were shot down.)

Other Allied planes supporting the great forward surge of armies in Sicily maintained heavy assaults during the day, blasting supply dumps, road communications and motor transport, destroying and damaging many vehicles, the Allied air communique said.

R.A.F. Wellington bombers struck at Marina di Catanzaro and at Paola on both sides of the Italian toe, wrecking enemy rail lines, in raids Tuesday night. American medium bombers followed up by daylight yesterday blew up oil tanks and railway tracks of the Italian defence and supply system.

The Americans fighting off 30 enemy interceptors shot down eight. Five enemy planes were destroyed Tuesday night.

R.A.F., South African and American medium bombers flayed enemy strongholds in northeastern Sicily. Twenty freight cars and 60 trucks were destroyed and 80 trucks damaged.

East-bound enemy road transports were knocked out by successive waves of Allied bombers and fighter-bombers which swept the bridgehead from dawn to dark.

Wellingtons last night pounded the railroad yards and train sheds at Messina, and at Battipaglia on the mainland 42 miles south of Naples.

From all operations over Sicily and the Italian mainland, three Allied planes are missing, headquarters said, and additional reports disclosed six Allied aircraft were missing from operations on Tuesday besides the two previously reported.

Canadian Wellingtons raided Paola's railway switching yards on the instep of the Italian boot 45 miles northwest of Marina di Catanzaro on Tuesday night and reported a hit on the steam engine repair shop and other railway facilities.

Jolliffe Wants No Coalition In Legislature

TORONTO, Aug. 5 (CP)—E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario C.C.F. leader, said late last night after 33 C.C.F. members were elected to the 90-member Legislature that "the tremendous vote polled for the C.C.F. program is encouraging to C.C.F. supporters not only in Ontario but throughout Canada and indicates very clearly the shape of things to come."

"No party has obtained a clear majority, which is to be regretted," he said. "The C.C.F. has repeatedly pointed out that there is no important difference between the old parties and that the issues could be much better decided by the electors if there were a clear choice between Liberal-Conservative policies and those of the C.C.F."

Mr. Jolliffe added that "the C.C.F. cannot and will not collaborate with either of the old parties," thus ruling out a coalition of Liberals, Progressive Conservatives and C.C.F.

Nixon Will Resign.

BRANTFORD, Ont., Aug. 5. — (CP).—Premier Nixon will resign as Premier of Ontario as soon as possible, he said to-day before he left his home at St. George for Toronto.

"The defeat of the Liberal government makes that obvious," he said, adding that it was to be regretted that no party had a clear majority. "The people have spoken and no one can quarrel with that, however," he stated.

The Premier, after expressing his thanks and appreciation for his personal victory in Brant county, remarked that he was sorry to see so many of his former colleagues in the cabinet go down to defeat.

He had no comment at present to make on the future administration for Ontario or whether there was possibility of a fusion government.

Death Penalty

LONDON, Aug. 5 (CP)—The German controlled Paris radio said today that because of the increase in sabotage throughout the Balkans Nazi authorities have invoked the death penalty for persons found guilty. The broadcast was recorded here by The Associated Press.

No Party Has Clear Majority Coalition Likely; Scott Wins Peterboro Riding

Opposition Party For First Time Will Be Socialists

TORONTO, Aug. 5 (CP) — The Liberal Administration which has ruled Ontario under three Premiers since 1934 was defeated at the polls in yesterday's stalemate election and today the expectation is that Lt.-Col. George A. Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, will be called to the Premiership.

The Liberals under Hon. Harry C. Nixon, 52-year-old St. George farmer, were soundly trounced. In 1937, last election year, they returned 63 members; this time only 14. Seven of 11 Cabinet Ministers were defeated.

While no party won a majority of the 90 seats, the Progressive Conservatives under Col. Drew had 38 sure seats and one possible—the largest single party group.

Jolliffe Gets 34

And the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, led by Edward B. Jolliffe, 34-year-old Toronto lawyer and former Rhodes Scholar, took 34 seats.

The other three seats went to former Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn, running as an Independent Liberal, and to two Labor candidates.

The three leaders of the major parties won personal election to the 21st Ontario Legislature since Confederation, Col. Drew to his second term, Mr. Jolliffe to his first; and Mr. Nixon to his seventh.

Today it was generally accepted that Col. Drew will be asked by Lieutenant-Governor Albert Matthews to form a Government. From that point the political picture was not clear.

Mr. Jolliffe said in a post-election statement that "the C.C.F. cannot and will not collaborate with either of the old parties." A three-way coalition of Liberals, Progressive Conservatives and C.C.F. thus was ruled out. Some observers considered a coalition of members of the two old-line parties—or, at least, of all Progressive Conservatives and some Liberals—was a probability.

Others recalled that although the 1921 Dominion General Election left the Liberals one short of a majority in the House, Prime Minister Mackenzie King was able to form a government which held office for four years. Then, for a few months after the 1925 election Mr. King continued as Prime Minister, although there were considerably more Conservative members than Liberal at that time.

First Major Test

The standing after the 1937 Ontario election was: Liberals 63, Conservatives 23, Liberal-Progressives two, Independent Liberal one and United Farmer one. By dissolution last June 29 the standing had changed, with 59 Liberals, 19 Progressive Conservatives, two Liberal-Progressives and 10 seats vacant.

Particular significance seemed to be attached therefore to the showing of the C.C.F., in its first major test in Eastern Canada. It ran candidates in all but four seats and was able to elect candidates in more than one-third of the constituencies—compared with one member elected in 1934 and none in 1937.

Successful Candidate

Harold R. Scott, lumber merchant of Peterborough City, brought the constituency of Peterborough into the Progressive Conservative fold Wednesday, defeating Capt. Alex. Elliott, Liberal, and Bruce Johnston, C.C.F. It is his first venture into politics.

Nazis Try Hard To Aid Garrison

AN ADVANCED ALLIED AIR BASE IN SICILY, Aug. 3 —(Delayed) — (AP). — Germany and Italy still are making a strong effort to reinforce their forces in Sicily, using gliders as well as small boats of all descriptions, fliers returning from missions reported to-day.

Vessels were kept well scattered apparently in an effort to frustrate Allied planes seeking to smash them, they reported.

Pilots said they observed shipping all along the Strait of Messina and beached craft at six specified points.

Altogether, fliers said they counted 35 vessels.

Most vessels apparently stay close to protective anti-aircraft batteries along the shore during the day and make their trips at night. The channel is less than 5 miles wide at the point where they were concentrated.

Gliders were seen concentrated in a field.

EXTRA!

MADRID—King Victor Emanuel of Italy politely but firmly turned down a request by Hitler that Mussolini be handed over to the Germans for safekeeping following his fall from power, it was reported here today.

Fifty Per Cent. Vote Polled In District

Peterborough swung with the political pendulum by electing Harold Robinson Scott, Progressive Conservative candidate, with a plurality of 680 votes over Captain Alex. L. Elliott, Liberal representative in the last Government, and Bruce Johnston, C.C.F.

Returns compiled by the Examiner last night from 139 of the 143 polling sub-divisions gave Scott 6,650, Elliott 5,970, and Johnston 4,533.

The four missing polls were three in Methuen Township in East Peterborough and one at Hiawatha. Their total number of qualified voters was said to be negligible.

The unique feature of the local campaign was the absence of Captain Elliott on military service overseas, the first time in the history of this constituency that a candidate was not present to plead his own cause to the electorate. It is perhaps doubtful whether the verdict would have been substantially different if he had been here, a casual opinion taking into account the fall of many of the leaders of the Government in the day's end of confusion that left Ontario pondering its position without a party strong enough to stand alone in the Legislature.

The incomplete returns last night indicated that about half the voters in the city and county remained away from the polls. The aggregate was 17,153, fewer by 4,920 than in 1937.

Comparative Figures.

The comparative figures were as follows:

1937 — Elliott (Lib.) 10,729; Lancaster (Con.) 9,485; and William Johnston (C.C.F.) 1,859. Total, 22,073.

1943 — Scott (Prog.-Con.) 6,650; Elliott (Lib.) 5,970; and Bruce Johnston (C.C.F.) 4,533. Total, 17,153.

Peterborough city wath an increased population and the riding with approximately 34,000 qualified electors seem to have been riding in the same boat of indifferentism reflected generally across the province in the results of the day's polling. A Canadian Press estimate last night suggested about a 50 per cent total vote, an attitude or circumstance which will probably attract editorial comment.

Another incidental fact in a passing analysis of the local figures shows that the city gave Harold Robinson Scott the bulk of plurality, and the rural electorate dropped its votes across the board with a slight margin in favor of Alex. Elliott, supporter of the farmer Premier, Harry C. Nixon.

As for the campaign gossip, predicting for Bruce Johnston a higher place than he achieved, it underestimated the factor of experienced and effective organization directed by Peterborough's member of Parliament, Gordon K. Fraser, principal sponsor of Mr. Scott and the "spark plug" of his campaign.

Obviously the C.C.F. choice came a long way from 1,859 votes in 1937 to 4,533 yesterday and while both the Liberal and Conservative lost ground in the numerical shuffle part of that decline was attributed to the light vote in both those camps. At any rate while the sidewalk propaganda of conjecture was preoccupied with the chances of Bruce Johnston through most of the campaign it declined in the last week while opinion seemed to be palpably swinging toward the Progressive Conservative under the party's powerful press and radio barrage, especially from its Toronto heights.

City Of Orel Falls To Red Army

Suicide Rearguard Fights Fiercely As Huns Withdraw

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Aug. 5 — (AP). — The Red Army battled its way through the streets of Orel today completing the occupation of the first great city to be wrested from the Germans in the summer campaign.

The Germans offered stubborn resistance, throwing tanks into bitter street fighting, but the action appeared to be only a rearguard defence rather than a serious effort to challenge the Russians for possession of the key fortified city.

Red Army infantry storming down from the hills east of Orel swept across the Oka River and were reported mopping up the enemy's rear-guards block by block.

Frontline dispatches said the Germans still were offering bitter resistance northwest and southwest of Orel in an effort to cover the retreat of the main body of their troops through the bottleneck to the west.

Soviet bombers, however, were reported blasting at the enemy's support lines and main bases behind the Orel salient, concentrating on the communication centre of Bryansk.

(The Berlin Radio announced last night that Nazi forces had evacuated Orel. Describing the retreat as an "evacuation according to plan," the announcement said German forces had taken up previously-prepared positions behind the city after destroying everything of value.)

The Russian announcement that the city's inner defences had cracked after 24 days of savage fighting during which Soviet armored units, infantry and cavalry stormed them from three directions, listed vast stores of ammunition and guns as captured.

Burma Bombing Shows No Let-up

NEW DELHI, Aug. 5 — (CP).—R.A.F. Blenheim bombers attacked Mawlaik on the Upper Chindwin River in Burma yesterday, and also dropped bombs on Kalemyo. Fires were started in buildings, a communique said. All aircraft returned safely.

The communique said that R. A. F. activity over Burma had been restricted by adverse weather for two days but that bombing and machine-gun attacks had been made on Japanese troop positions in the Kalemyo area and Apuk in the Pakokku district was also bombed.

American bombers struck at Japanese communications and an air field, a United States communique announced.

Heavy bombers attacked the Japanese railroad base at Thanbyuzayat while mediums blew up rolling stock and tracks at Wetlet, Moksogyon, Kinu and Thazi, all in Central Burma. Large explosions and fires were observed The raids occurred two days ago.

The mediums also bombed a dam at Meiktila while the heavy bombers attacked the Japanese air field at Pagoda Point along the coast.

One American bomber was lost.

Mosquitos Hit Ruhr Objectives

LONDON, Aug. 5 (CP) — Swift R.A.F. Mosquito bombers attacked objectives in the Ruhr and Rhineland last night in a renewal of assaults on German industry, it was announced today.

The British planes made the night attacks without loss, it was announced. British naval aircraft attacked a flotilla of eight German "E-boats" off Calais during the night and sank three nd seriously damaged a fourth, the Air Ministry News Service announced today.

Although the British planes encountered sharp anti-aircraft fire all returned safely.

The Berlin radio later reported that British motor torpedo boats had attacked a German convoy off Dunkirk just before dawn today but claimed they had been driven off.

Berlin also claimed that in another clash German E-boats had sunk a British minesweeper off the English coast.

Hit Shipyards

Escorted by squadrons of R.A.F. and Canadian Spitfires, fast medium bombers of the United States 8th Air Force chalked up one of their most successful raids on the French coast yesterday when they blasted the Letrait shipyards, knocking out the main power plant and wrecking other insallations. It was the 11th such attack in 10 days on German targets in France.

Pilot reported the power plant "going up in a huge flash" as they turned homeward. Boiler shops, a landing slip, an engine-erecting plant and anchored ships were laced by the precision bombing of the American airmen. Destroyers, torpedo boats and barges are products of the Letrait yards.

Soldier Proxies Quite Numerous

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 5 (CP).—Judge J. J. Coughlan, chairman of the Essex County Election Board, said today 125 proxies were certified for use in the four Windsor area ridings in yesterday's Ontario election.

On the other hand Harry Bondy, returning officer for military camp in the area, said that 80 per cent of the servicemen stationed here cast their ballots.

(Under the proxy voting system men and women serving with the armed forces outside Ontario designated a friend or relative at home to cast their ballots. Ontario men and women stationed in Ontario voted in their military camps the results of the voting being communicated to the ridings concerned and included in election night totals.)

May Picket Funerals

BOSTON, Aug. 5 (AP)—A resolution to picket funerals unless union-made caskets are utilized was set forth in a resolution by the Casket Makers and Furniture Workers Local No. 560, and adopted unanimously last night by 600 delegates at the convention of the Massachusetts Federation of Labor.

Party Change May Be Slow

Hepburn Went 21 Days Before Taking Office

TORONTO, Aug. 5—(CP).—Political sources at Queen's Park today suggested that it might be August 26 or September 1 before the Liberal Government of Premier Nixon gives up the reins of office after its defeat in yesterday's Ontario election.

One source recalled that in 1934 when Mitchell Hepburn led the Liberals to victory over George S. Henry's Conservative government, it was 21 days before the change in administration was made effective.

He said the usual course was for the Lieutenant-Governor to await for a recommendation from the defeated government before calling on one of the party leaders to form a new government. While Lieutenant-Governor Albert Matthews, who is holidaying in Muskoka, could not be reached for comment, this source recalled that in 1919 E. C. Drury, as leader of the U.F.A. with the largest number of seats, was called on to form a government although he did not have a majority over all other parties. If the same course is followed Lt.-Col. George A. Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, would be asked to take over.

Fall of Nazi Strongholds Disastrous

Capture Of Orel And Catania Leaves Hun Lines Unprotected

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

A couple of stout spikes have been driven into the coffin of Hitlerism in the capture of two highly strategic cities—Orel on the flaming Russian front, and ancient Catania in the northeast corner of Sicily.

Both these cities were vital anchor points for the Nazis.

The heavily-fortified and strongly-held railway centre of Orel has for almost two years been the hinge for Hitler's great battle line between this point, not far south of Moscow, and the Sea of Azov.

Catania, crouching under the great volcano of Etna, has been the powerful position to which the Nazis and Italians hooked the left wing of the front which they threw across the last remaining tip of northeast Sicily in defence of Messina and access to the Italian mainland, only two miles across the strait from that port.

Pincers Closing

These two operations are parts of offensives acting as a pair of mighty pincers on the German front in Russia. If the Russians have the reserve power with which to follow up their notable capture of Orel, it will endanger Hitler's entire right wing, and victory in Sicily brings the Allies near to possible invasion of the Balkans, which would further jeopardize that Nazi right wing.

In short, Hitler is being pushed steadily towards that day when he will have to pull back his entire vast line of more than 1,000 miles in Russia in order to reach new positions which will afford greater security.

While this is a historic moment for the Allies, we should remember that fierce fighting lies ahead in both theatres.

In Sicily the terrain within the remaining triangle which the Axis forces are defending is rugged and hilly. It's well adapted to defence and has been strongly fortified. There are said to be close to 100,000 Axis troops assigned to the desperate task of holding this "last ditch," something more than half of them being Germans.

Thus we have the makings of a great battle among the innumerable hilly strongholds, many of which probably will have to be taken at the point of the bayonet—assuming that the Axis forces don't fold up, and there's been no indication of this yet among the Germans. Ultimately the enemy must surrender or be annihilated, for there is no escape from this triangular trap for the vast majority of the Axis troops.

It's too soon to assay the full import of the Red capture of Orel. The cracking of this major fortress represents one of the great victories of the war. Into it have gone the lives of many scores of thousands of fighting men of both Germany and Russia.

Mitchell Gives Ultimatum

Strikers Must Return Without Agreement

OTTAWA, Aug. 5 (CP)—Possibility of Prime Minister Mackenzie King intervening in the order issued yesterday by Munitions Minister Howe and Labor Minister Mitchell in closing three strike-bound Montreal plants, seemed faint this morning.

A spokesman at the Prime Minister's office said no formal request had as yet been received from the Aircraft Workers' organibation.

This was one of the proposals contained in a statement issued last night by Robert Haddow, Aircraft Workers' Union representative. He also asked that the National War Labor Board reconsider the men's demand for back payment of Cost of Living Bonus, and promised to recommend that the strikers go back to work if either proposal was accepted.

Yesterday's dramatic announcement by the Ministers that the plants would remain closed until the strikers agreed to resume work with the understanding that their demands would not be met, was made after a meeting of the cabinet war committee, presided over by Mr. King.

KEY CITY FALLS TO ALLIES AS 3 ARMIES ADVANCE

Eighth Army Captures Catania City

Marks Beginning Of The End For Huns In Sicily

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 5 — (AP). — Allied headquarters announced today that the city of Catania, Axis stronghold on the east coast of Sicily, has fallen to besieging Allied troops.

Catania, the eastern anchor of the powerful German Etna line, was taken despite strong enemy resistance, a special communique declared.

The 8th Army, of which the Canadian 1st Division is a part, under Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery has been pounding at the gates of the big seaport for weeks.

Capture of the city threatened to roll back the entire German flank based around Mount Etna.

In a flanking movement designed to crush the southern wing of the Axis Etna line in northeastern Sicily, Allied troops have bayoneted their way to within five miles of the vital supply road skirting the western base of Mount Etna.

The general advance through breaches in the enemy's western flank gained up to six miles yesterday as British, Canadian and American forces drove the bitterly defending Germans from their positions atop craggy hills in hand-to-hand fighting.

Allied infantry was advancing behind a steel curtain laid down by thundering artillery, swarms of planes, and—on the coastal sectors—the big guns of Royal Navy and American warships.

Keep Up Pressure

All the way down the Etna line to Catania, where the 8th Army edged closer to that east coast city, the Allies maintained their steady pressure against the enemy. Catenanuova, 22 miles west of Catania, fell to the Canadians after a stiff battle.

(In a delayed dispatch dated July 31 Ross Munro, Canadian Press War Corespondent, said the West Nova Scotia Regiment stormed Catenanuova on the night of July 29-30, and quickly mopped it up, after the Royal 22nd Regiment of Quebec had led a difficult four-day advance toward the town.

(Also taking part in the fight for the town, said Munro, was the New Brunswick Regiment, the Carleton and Yorks.)

The bitterest fighting was reported in the central sector of the Etna line where the Canadian 1st division and the famous 78th division of the 8th Army were slogging toward the

Voters Frown On Soldiers Only 2 Succeed

TORONTO, Aug. 5—(CP)—Eleven members of Canada's armed services were candidates in yesterday's Ontario general election but only two won seats in the legislature.

Hon. Capt. the Rev. A. W. Downer, now overseas, was re-elected as Progressive Conservative candidate in Dufferin-Simcoe while Fl. Lt. L. E. Wismer, serving in Canada with the R.C.A.F., won Toronto Riverdale as a C.C.F. candidate.

Nine other servicemen were defeated, three serving overseas and six in Canada.

Overseas candidates defeated were: Col. E. J. Young, Progressive Conservative, in Nipissing; Lt.-Col. Colin Campbell, Liberal, in Sault Ste. Marie which he represented in the last Legislature; and Capt. A. L. Elliott, Liberal candidate in Peterborough which he represented in the last legislature.

The six serving in Canada who were defeated were: Sgt. P. Tierney, Progressive Conservative, in Prescott; FO. W. H. Temple, C.C.F., in Toronto High Park; Sqdn. Ldr. Allan Lamport, Liberal, in Toronto St. David which he represented in the last legislature; Sub-Lt. John Osler, C.C.F., in Toronto St. Patrick; Major D. A. Croll, Liberal, in Windsor-Walkerville; Lieut. W. Allan, Liberal, Toronto Riverdale.

Gov't Sponsors Extra Service

TORONTO, Aug. 5 — (CP). — Ontario's daily newspapers and the national telegraph systems co-operated — through The Canadian Press—in giving Canada the result of Ontario's stalemate election approximately two hours after the close of the polls.

At 9:10 p.m. The Canadian Press announced the defeat of the Liberal Government on the basis of returns indicating that the Liberals coud not obtain a majority. Ten minutes later a stalemate was announced on indications that none of the three leading parties could obtain half of the 90 seats.

The record number of three-man contests delayed concessions as compared to the 1940 election when the return of the Liberal Government was flashed 97 minutes after the close of the polls. In the 1934 election, defeat of the Conservative Government was flashed two hours after the polls closed.

The Canadian Press delivered its election service to the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, and, through the CP's subsidiary, Press News Limited, to private broadcasting stations in Canada.

CAMPBELLFORD

W. A. Goodfellow Wins Easily In Northumberland

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 5 (ENS)—With rain falling throughout most of the day the election passed quietly in Campbellford as approximately 300 fewer voters went to the polls than in the 1937 election. By 9 o'clock the election of the Progressive Conservative candidate, William A. Goodfellow was conceded and from figures supplied by the various polling sub-divisions to Cobourg a majority of 2,200 votes over the Liberal candidate, John Callahan was indicated.

Returns from the four sub-divisions in this town gave the Conservative candidate a clear majority of 211 votes over the C.C.F. candidate W. J. Harold Dunk and the Liberal John Callahan. And Tories, who had failed to elect a candidate to the Legislature in this constituency since 1933 when the Hepburn Government swept into office, lost little time in staging a victory parade through the town as a band was rapidly assembled in honour of Mr. Goodfellow who was here when he learned of his election. Results of the election were as follows.

MORE ABOUT—

based on the heights of Mount Etna was in grave danger from the British success achieved after terrific and incessant combat since the giant Allied offensive on the entire Sicilian front began on Sunday.

Pressed back from the western edge of the Catania Plain and smothered under a furious, massed artillery barrage that continued day and night, the German line around bomb and fire-scarred Catania broke early to-day.

Catania was taken despite strong enemy resistance, a special communique said.

The Allied advance continued all along the front, headquarters said, as British, Canadian and United States troops drove the Germans back toward their last escape port of Messina, 55 miles north of Catania, and tremendous aerial and sea blows were hammered home in support of the great drive.

British ships rained shells upon the Taormina road and railway midway between Catania and Messina yesterday, giving that exposed communication centre what was believed to be its heaviest bombardment yet.

American cruisers and destroyers ranging the northeast coast continued their day and night shelling of German positions ahead of the American 7th Army troops swinging rapidly along the coast beyond San Stefano.

From the air, Allied bombers and fighters swept over enemy communication centres and supply lines to disrupt the German defence. Heavy bombers again smashed at docks and submarine bases at Naples in the fourth raid in four days and the 'target was well covered by bombs," an air communique reported.

The battle of Catania ended and the battle for Messina began, for all along the enemy's mountainous bridgehead British, Canadian and American forces plunged forward for new gains.

The British Fleet by continued bombardments of Taormina acted to paralyze if not cut the Germans' east coast supply—and retreat—route.

The enemy's line of retreat from Catania is a three-mile-wide corridor between the mountains and the sea and in that harsh, rugged strip there are a number of points where he might attempt a stand.

Flank Is Turned

Catania's capture in effect turned the German flank on the east coast and British troops surged ahead on the slopes of Mt. Etna facing the sea.

The enemy frantically planted mines and blew up bridges in attempting to stem the inexorable Allied advance.

To wipe out the Germans' grip on Catania, the 8th Army first had to break enemy control of Etna's heights northwest of this second most important port in Sicily.

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Canadian and British "left hook" hurled across the Dittaino River and smashing through Regalbuto, Centuripe and other points this week paved the way for the Catania triumph.

The epic siege of Catania began July 15 when a quick British onrush up the east coast reached the Primsola Bridge seven miles south of the city. A daredevil assault the preceding night by British parachute troops had prevented the enemy from demolishing this vital span.

The Germans rushed at least six parachute troop battalions to the sector for use as fist-line infantry and diverted a considerable portion of their armor and artillery to hold off Gen. Montgomery. But cannily and skilfully, Gen. Montgomery explored the Catania plains for weaker points for 15 days while the general Allied offensive was prepared.

Catania represented the hardest victory of the entire campaign.

But official reports said Gen. Montgomery's triumph, as brilliant as any he achieved in Africa, was made at a relatively slight cost of his soldiers' lives.

An official statement said:—

"The enemy was forced out of this vital point by a combination of superior numbers, the element of surprise and the pressure applied correctly and suddenly at the vital point. Thus important strategic results were obtained with great economy of force avoiding greater casualties on our side.

"Even if the enemy had foreseen this thrust, pressure elsewhere would have forbidden withdrawing additional supporting troops to the threatened sector.

"The German withdrawal was definitely not according to any plan. The Allies have hurried any attempt at withdrawal and by heavy bombing and ground strafing have demoralized Italian troops and disrupted supply lines."

Catania can be converted rapidly to Allied use. The port once accommodated 2,000 ships a year and liners of 50-foot draft entered there.

Front dispatches said American troops were making steady progress in the north.

An official report said relations between German and Italian troops were worsening. One Italian captured in Catania said he had been a Sapper but was forced into the infantry for the final defence of the city during which "I killed more Germans than I killed Englishmen."

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG. Aug. 5 — (CP). — Light offerings and support from Southern interests sent wheat futures fractionally higher yesterday on Winnipeg Grain Exchange. At the close of trading values were ¼c to ⅝c a bushel higher.

Shippers were active in the cash wheat market and were credited with taking 600,000 bushels of Nos. 1 and 2 Northern, and 500,000 bushels of No. 3 Northern. Transactions in cash coarse grains were confined to odd carlots.

Trading in rye futures was on a better scale with some local spreading indicated. This involved buying the October and December options and selling the May. American houses made purchases.

No trades were reported in oats and barley futures with prices remaining at the ceiling.

Peace Parley Called By Badoglio

Cabinet Session Believed Of Great Importance

By FRANK BUTTO
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERNE, Switzerland, Aug. 5 — (AP). — Announcement that the Italian Government would meet to-day to examine "important measures" again stirred the hopes of the Italian people that steps would be taken to remove them from the war.

(Associated Press dispatches from London said Britons looked for the meeting to bring an answer to the Italian people's cries for peace and Germany's demands that Italy stay in the war.)

Cardinal Maglione, Papal Secretary of State, meanwhile convoked an extraordinary session of the 16 cardinals now in Rome for the apparents purpose, said the Corriere Della Sera of Milan, of discussing questions connected with the international situation.

At the same time a constant stream of ambassadors, ministers, apostolic nuncios and other diplomats was reported flowing in and out of the Foreign Office in Rome lending credence to the belief that some important development was in the offing.

Peace Whispers

The Lavora Italiano, taking a different tack than that of the past two days, when the press on orders from Premier Badoglio warned the Italian people that "the war must go on," to-day declared the sessions of the British Cabinet held last Tuesday "have been interpreted in many capitals as a prelude to an eventual armistice."

The newspaper said the position of Italy and her allies was "very fluid and very dangerous" in a moment when "the voices of the diplomats should be raised."

"The problems of peace are more difficult than those of war—but that is exactly the reason that a solution should be attempted without threats of blackmail, which are contrary to the idea of a just peace for all peoples and all nations," Lavora Italiano asserted.

The Corriere Della Sera declared that thoughts of liberty and war dominated Italian minds today, adding that "many have awaited, during these unforgettable days, clearer words, and so are able to receive without excessive fear and without shame the thought of coming peace."

Nation Is Quiet

There was little news of disturbances in Italy early today, but reports from frontier towns said that half-hour strikes were continuing in Milan and in factories in other industrial cities in northern Italy as a protest against the government's insistence that the war must be continued.

The military commander in Milan was reported to have ruled that officers not on active service would not be permitted to wear uniforms without special permission. The rule was promulgated, it was said, because Fascists who were officers in the Italian army had donned uniforms in their efforts to evade surveilance by the government.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 5.—(AP).—A Swedish Foreign Office spokesman said today that an announcement of the stoppage of German military traffic through neutral Sweden possibly would come today.

He said details remained to be worked out and the time of such an announcement was uncertain.

Reports abroad that the transit agreement already had been cancelled were declared premature.

Had Indigestion, Backache, Headaches; Praises Syntona

"Also Felt Tired, Nervous and Rundown," Says Local Lady —Often a Common Result of Faulty Assimilation and Elimination. Tells of Relief.

In every section there are grateful men and women who have used Syntona and found it to be just what they needed to put new energy in rundown systems and relieve common disorders of stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels. Syntona aids in ridding the system of excess acids and poisonous waste matter and promotes better assimilation of food to help build strong, healthy nerves and increase strength and energy. Many hundreds of people are recommending Syntona daily. Thousands have written us telling of the good results they have obtained.

For instance, here is the experience of Miss Jean Ali, 196 Wellington Street North, Hamilton, Ontario, who said:

"Because of a badly disordered stomach, I was having an awful time with attacks of gas, indigestion and heartburn after my meals. I used to get very bad headaches and my nerves were always on edge. I often got sick, dizzy spells. My back was aching all the time and I felt tired and rundown from the beginning of each day.

"A very good friend of mine suggested that I try Syntona. I'm afraid I didn't have very much faith in it at first. However, I did take it regularly and now I have found it so helpful that I cannot praise it highly enough. It relieved the gas, heartburn and attacks of indigestion so that I began to enjoy my meals again. Then I began to improve in other ways. The headaches and dizziness stopped troubling me. My nerves have quieted down. I don't feel tired as I used to and I have more energy. I am more than pleased with the good results Syntona has given me and I am glad to tell others about it."

MISS JEAN ALI

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store.—(Advt.)

Malta Gets First Kick-off At Axis

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 5 — (AP). —The Island of Malta was disclosed yesterday to have been Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's operational headquarters for the Allied attack on Sicily.

The General and his staff went there four days before the scheduled beginning of the offensive and he stayed in a palace built in 1540 by the Knights of St. John. He was a guest of Field-Marshal Lord Gort, Governor of Malta.

These facts were disclosed yesterday as the Allied Commander-in-Chief paid special tribute to the Island's people, "the most bombed and shot on earth," to Lord Gort and to the Malta Air Force.

Stayed in Tunnels.

During Gen. Eisenhower's stay there, offices were placed in limestone tunnels, grim reminders of the year in which the Island was subjected to more than 2,000 raids.

There were two raids during that time, but one of the General's aides said neither produced as much discomfort as sand flies capable of producing a fever of 104 degrees. Several of his staff were laid low that way while waiting for the invasion to begin.

Malta's Heroism.

In one of his tributes yesterday, Gen. Eisenhower said:

"The epic of Malta is a symbolic experience of the United Nations in this war. Malta has passed successively through the stages of woeful unpreparedness, tenacious endurance, intensive preparation and the initiation of a fierce offensive. It is resolutely determined to maintain the rising srescendo of attack until the whole task is complete. For this inspiring example, the United Nations will be forever indebted to Field-Marshal Lord Gort and the fighting services under his command and to every citizen for the heroic stand."

Gen. Eisenhower also told Sir Keith Park, Commander of the Malta Air Force, the invasion of Sicily might not have been possible without the Force's preliminary work.

It was disclosed that the invasion moved smoothly except for one hitch that developed between American Naval and Army units over the question of transportation of burros from Malta to Sicily.

Navy officers resolutely declined to carry the animals in landing craft that later would be needed to carry men. They finally compromised, the soldiers agreeing to clean up the vessels after the burros had been transported.

The night before the invasion was scheduled the wind began rising, and Eisenhower was one of the first to spot the fact. Malta is dotted with windmills practically identical with those used throughout the Middle West, and the Commander-in-Chief noted that they were gaining speed.

Commander Watched.

Throughout the anxious hours before dawn he kept watching them to gauge the velocity of the wind, which was an important factor if landing craft and barges were to reach the Sicilian beaches safely.

Nevertheless, parachute and glider troops took off on schedule and ships based on Malta left at the appointed time. Many landing craft were manned by amateur sailors, there being too few trained sailors to crew the vast invasion fleet.

Eisenhower and his staff slept that night in a room cut into the solid rock next to the naval war room. Between 4 and 5 a.m. word arrived that the landings had been successfully accomplished. The news began to circulate on the Island and the Maltese went wild with joy. It was new experience for them to be on the attacking instead of the receiving end.

Leader Warns Group Food Shortage Looms

MONTREAL, Aug. 4—(CP)—Elie Lalumiere, Montreal district investigator of the Quebec Farm Labor Committee, said in an interview today that "because of the plight of farmers today, Montrealers are going to be lining up to buy food a few months from now."

Mr. Lalumiere said that the whole country will soon be faced with a serious food crisis because of the shortage of farm labor and because of unfavorable weather. He urged the immediate release of 10,000 experienced farm workers from the armed forces.

"What is the use of drafting experienced men from the farms into the army and sending inexperienced men from the cities to the farms?" he asked.

Red Cross Supports More Aid To Russia

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 5. — A request for continued support to the Canadian Aid to Russia Society was made yesterday by the local branch of the Red Cross Society.

In a report from the secretary, Miss Lillian Benor, it was pointed out that since January 26, carloads of clothing, most of it new and the rest in good wearable condition, have been shipped to Russia.

"These shipments included 588,149 units, on which were placed the absurdly low value of $1.50 per pound to make a total of $1,170,000. In short, this has been a practical expression of the average Canadian's desire to contribute to United Nation's unity and to strengthen our battle fraternity with the heroic Soviet people."

It was pointed out that the central depot at 918 St. Clair Ave., West, will be kept open for all who want to send additional clothing. The need is great and is a challenge to Canadians to help a gallant ally.

Members of the Red Cross Society were asked not to forget the request made some time ago for small articles for the sailors' housewives. These included black and white thread No. 10 and No. 30, black shoe laces 45 inches long; needles, pins, safety pins, black mending wool, darning needles. Donations of any of these articles may be left at the library and anyone willing to knit heavy service socks may obtain yarn at the library. More long-sleeved sweaters and gloves are required for prisoner of war parcels and members are urged to assist in filling this quota.

Victory Gardens Help Food Supply

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 5 (ENS) —The Northumberland Girls' Victory Garden competition has in the opinion of Agriculture Representative R. C. Banbury, done much to assist the food supplies in homes of the district.

The principal contestants were 26 girls in the Castleton, Colborne and Vernonville area and the contest was encouraged greatly by Women's Institutes in the district. The girls received seeds and planting instructions last spring. Leadership in the culinary sphere has been given by Miss Jean M. Scott of the W.I. branch and gardens have just been visited by R. C. Banbury of Brighton who commented that in general all gardens helped the production of vegetables for the family, but some were more attractive and had received better care.

Each garden has some newer and little known vegetable such as Chinese cabbage, endive, kohl-rabi, as well as the standard kinds usually found. In some cases the gardens were decorated with flowers which were included with the seeds. Following are the best half of the gardens in order of scoring but many of them were very close in valuation: May Telford, Evelyn Finlay, Jacqueline Gibson, Shirley Harnden, Marian Deviney, Mary Rutherford, Muriel Rutherford, Dorothy Haig, Madeline Poole, Eleanor Naish, Ruth Onyon, Ruth Wilson, Mildred Welton.

When the vegetables are harvested an Achievement Day will be held at which the girls will show and exhibit of their vegetables, some canning, record books and demonstrate their knowledge of the knowing, growing, storing and cooking of the garden products.

The Provincial Election

Our first duty in commenting on the Provincial election is to congratulate Mr. Harold Scott, the successful Progressive Conservative candidate in this riding. Although he is a newcomer to politics he made a very favourable impression on the electorate during his campaign, and this newspaper is convinced of his ability to represent Peterborough more than adequately at Queen's Park. Mr. Scott will understand that we do not speak in derogation of him, however, when we say that his election was as much the result of circumstance as of his own efforts. The returns make it fairly clear that the Conservative Party stood solidly behind him, yielding few votes to the C.C.F., whereas the Liberals lost heavily to that party. It is also clear that the local Liberal organization was not well advised to offer to the electorate a candidate who was in the Army. Candidates who are in the services have fared badly in this election, and the argument that a man cannot adequately do two jobs has been vindicated. Mr. Scott's election is a local indication of a Provincial situation—the Progressive Conservatives and the C.C.F. are gaining adherents and the Liberal Party is losing them in considerable numbers.

The Progressive Conservative gains, however, have not been impressive enough to give that party a working majority in the House. The real gain has been in the ranks of the C.C.F. This election, so unsatisfactory in many ways, has surely taught the two senior parties that in the C.C.F. they are facing a vigorous and determined opponent which will not be disposed of by calling names. The C.C.F., an avowedly Socialist party, has appealed with striking success to the electorate of Ontario, and in a sense this election is a great victory for them. If the Progressive Conservatives and Liberals hope to maintain their former influence in this Province they must set to work at once to make better offers to the people than the C.C.F., and to follow those offers up with satisfactory performances. Their offers will not be of the same nature or on the same scale as those made by the C.C.F.—they would be unwise to enter a competition in Government by Hand-Out—but the offers will have to be good.

The local situation reflects the Provincial one in another important respect—that of the lightness of the vote. The local electorate may roughly be estimated at 34,000, and of this number something better than 17,000 went to the polls. The C.C.F. supporters, we believe, turned out in force; the Liberals and Conservatives stayed at home, perhaps to avoid the rain. At a time when a great war is being fought to preserve democracy, approximately half the voters thought it worth while to make use of the franchise; those who did not vote will no doubt feel as free to complain about the government as those who did. As we have said in these columns before, a system of compulsory voting in this country would be a most valuable educational measure.

Only a rash prophet will write now of coalitions; they are not so easily arranged as many people seem to think. But one thing is clear: we do not want another election now, and the present disposition of seats, though it would lead to many amusing incidents in the Legislature, would not contribute to constructive government policy. Nor can we accept the view of those who believe that the result of this election is an indication of what would happen if the Federal Liberal government were to go to the country. The decisive defeat of the Nixon administration does not mean that the country is tired of the Ottawa government; it does mean, however, that the people are heartily sick of the bickering which has gone on at Queen's Park during the last two years. In every election it is the floating vote which turns the tide, and the people whose party allegiance is not strong have given their opinion of Liberal leadership at the polls. Those who look upon the election results as a sign of permanent decline in the Provincial Liberal party are mistaken, but those who believe that Ontario Liberal ranks need thorough reorganizing and revitalizing are right.

An indecisive election is always a frustrating thing. But this election, indecisive in result, is nevertheless full of implications and suggestions, particularly for the two senior parties. They will have the opportunity now to show the people how good they are at learning a lesson.

Nicholls Hospital Again

At the last meeting of the City Council a committee from the Board of Nicholls Hospital appeared to ask whether that institution might buy a new ironing machine, and have part of its building painted, with the assurance that the money would be forthcoming when payment was due. The ironing machine now in use was second-hand when it was bought thirty years ago, and is now quite inadequate for its tasks; the Hospital was last painted in 1933, and it needs new paint badly. The embarrassment of the Board at having to ask for money in order to keep the Hospital in reasonable running order may be imagined. But the city of Peterborough should feel an infinitely greater embarrassment that its Hospital is reduced to such shifts, and should move as quickly as possible to put Nicholls Hospital on a footing which corresponds to the size and dignity of this community.

It is no secret that a joint committee of the Hospital Board and the City Council are at work on a new constitution for Nicholls Hospital. The terms under which the late Charlotte Nicholls gave the Hospital to the city were characteristic of her day, and were efficient when Peterborough was a small town; they are not efficient today, and Peterborough has outgrown its hospital accommodation. Owing to Mrs. Nicholls' generosity this community has enjoyed cheap hospital care for several decades, and the time has now come when we must take on more of the responsibility of which her gift has hitherto relieved us. Until recently it has not been at all clear that the City Council realized the full extent of its obligation to see the spirit, and not merely the letter, of the Nicholls Hospital Trust carried out. The sum of money which comprises the Trust cannot be expected to suffice for the greatly increased needs of the Hospital, and the burden of maintaining the institution naturally shifts more and more to the city.

No action can be expected on the findings of the joint committee of the City Council and the Hospital Board until after the war, but then no time should be lost. We have pointed out before in these columns the dangers inherent in skimping on hospital care in an industrial and agricultural centre such as Peterborough. But in order to reorganize the Hospital on modern lines it will be necessary to reorganize the constitution of its Board. At present that Board consists largely of representatives from the Protestant churches. In Mrs. Nicholls' day such representation was doubtless adequate to cover the non-Catholic ratepayers, but in these changed times it is no longer so. It has been suggested that under the new organization the Board might be made up of the church representatives and the City Council, and that this large Board should appoint a smaller board from its own members and from ratepayers whose experience recommended them for such office, and that this smaller board should actually run the Hospital. The experience of other cities has shown the unsatisfactory nature of hospital boards which are elected by the people directly; politics and religious disagreements enter into such elections to a degree which is most undesirable and prevents the establishment of an efficient and secure governing body. Experience has shown that appointive hospital boards are best.

Until after the war Nicholls Hospital will have to manage as best it can under its present disabilities. But we hope that the Council will be as co-operative as possible. The Board, which after all is made up of citizens who are doing a public service and who do not deserve or relish humiliation, does not like to have to beg, hat in hand, for the money to replace a machine which has been worn out in the service of the people of Peterborough, and for paint to keep the Hospital decent. If the time has come for the city to foot the Hospital's bills let us do so with a good grace and a humble recollection of many years of very cheap service.

Parliament's Neglected Library

(By I. N. S. in the Ottawa Journal)

THE trouble with the Library of Parliament is that it is tucked away behind the Parliament Buildings. Out of sight out of mind.

About every two years since 1900 authorities have asked for more space to store its books and manuscripts. No luck.

In 1938 the Parliamentary Librarian died and authorities have intermittently urged a successor be named. No luck.

The Joint Committee on the Library of Parliament should meet every session of Parliament. Ten days ago it held its first meeting since 1939.

The Commons never did concur in the report presented by the Joint Committee in 1939, and the Commons did not concur in the report presented ten days ago.

IT is necessary that this background of inertia be given before considering the recent report lest anyone run away with the idea that anything recommended by the Joint Committee might be approved and put into effect.

Yet the Joint Committee of Commoners and Senators did present a rather interesting report in that they recommended the immediate filling of the vacant post of Parliamentary Librarian and the consideration of the desirability of creating a National Library. The second of these recommendations will most certainly await peace, but the first is one of those nice old plums that may fall any day or hang on for many a moon.

Before going further we must straighten out the posts up there. The Library is run by what Edward Blake once called a two-headed monstrosity; that is, there is a Parliamentary Librarian and a General Librarian. This is a rather strange arrangement that was born in politics amid much row and opposition, but has persisted down through the years. Mr. Felix Desrochers is just now the General Librarian and the Parliamentary Librarian's post is unfilled.

Well. Mr. Desrochers has now recommended to the Joint Committee which rules over the Library that the Government erect a National Library for use of the nation and retain the Parliamentary Library for use of Parliament. The Parliamentary Committee recommends the Government consider the idea.

THE suggestion is that a suitable building would be built in Ottawa to become a National Library. It would start out with about 350,000 of the present books in the Parliamentary Library that are not specifically of concern to legislation and political history. These remaining 150,000 books would stay in the present edifice for exclusive use of the chosen few.

The two libraries would have joint listings, however, so that a senator wanting a detective story could still send a messenger down from Parliament Hill to the National Library, or an earnest student seeking material for a thesis could be referred to the Parliamentary Library if his ambition matched his erudition.

The National Library would also serve to unite many of the 35 Departmental Libraries that are around Ottawa and it would become in time a noble collection of Canadiana, all the way from yesterday's copy of the Journal to the first poems written in Acadia.

This is by no means a new idea, but Mr. Desrochers stated it to the Joint Committee with considerable detail and it has now reached an advanced position in the realm of red-tape that may or may not merit it immediate post-war consideration.

LACK of space is probably the strongest impelling force behind any move to extend the present Library or create an additional one. In April, 1940, I wrote the following paragraph in a piece in Maclean's Magazine:

"The Library isn't nearly large enough today, and apparently wasn't large enough back in 1885 when Sir John A. Macdonald confessed to the same conclusion. Moreover, it picks up another 5,000 books each year. The law of square feet will eventually plop right down to the near-by House of Commons to present an unanswerable demand for more room. Then it will be a case of granting the Library another hall, or moving out the Commoners to make room for the books—a choice not as easy as it sounds."

And the situation gets merrily worse. The shelves are the despair of the librarians, three deep in books piled every which way. Extra shelves are erected right up and down narrow stone stairways, jut out into passageways and march boldly across the chamber. If nothing is heard of the Library staff one of these days it will simply be that by accident they have finally shut themselves in by shelving off the last remaining doorway.

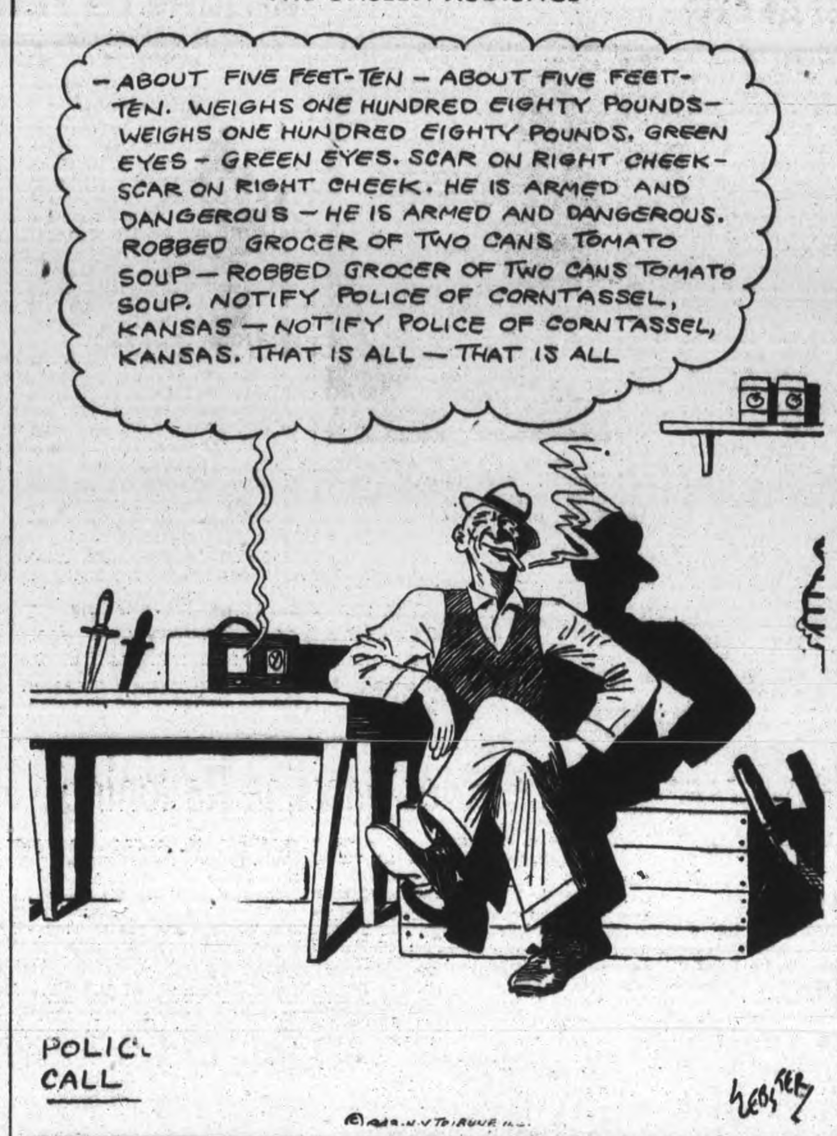
ONE reason the Library is overlooked is because it has no Minister to fight for it. During session it is the child of the two Speakers and the Joint Parliamentary Committee—a child allowed to fend for itself. Out of session it belongs to the Prime Minister—a man with other fish to fry.

Consequently virtually nothing has been done since the formal demands set up in 1900 for more space. The idea was that when the new Parliament Building was erected a lot of space would be given the Library. Actually only two small rooms to hold perhaps 15,000 volumes were given to the Library—and Parliament officials have been looking covetously on those two rooms ever since. Any day now they may be turned into a kitchen or a gymnasium. When the new Records Building was put up out at the Experimental Farm the Library was given space there. But not long ago the Library was ordered to tie up its packets in a hurry and move from the Records Building to the new Supreme Court Building. The next move may come at any time, particularly with Wartime Information and Income Tax bustling about in the Supreme Court, growing bigger and fiercer every day.

Meanwhile the doors and passages of the Library grow skinnier with each incoming mail. We can't jump at the Joint Committee's recommendation of a National Library because you don't jump at anything where the Library and Parliament are concerned. But it is a cinch that before long something must give: either Parliament's indifference or the Library's stone walls. Those are magnificent flying buttresses around the outside of the old Library, but even they will bear only so much weight and no more. From all accounts the Plimsoll Line is already well under water.

THE UNSEEN AUDIENCE



Italy's Little King

(ST. THOMAS TIMES-JOURNAL)

WITH a name like Victor Emmanuel, the King of Italy ought to be an imposing figure, but he is not. He stands just five feet three and a half inches, and if he were a boxer he would be in the flyweight class, weighing a little over 100 pounds. But he has a huge, German-born wife, who is almost exactly six feet. The marriage is said, however, to have been a very happy one.

One would think the most fitting place for Italians kings to be born would be Rome, but there is a belief in the House of Savoy that it is an unlucky place for any of their children to first see the light in. So Victor Emmanuel was born in a palace in Naples. He was educated for kingship, the first ten years of his student life being in the hands of a stern English governess, Elizabeth Lee. He went to university, and at 20 was said to be one of the best educated men in Europe. Certainly he is not the moron a United States Office of War Information spokesman said on the radio.

At the age of 29—he is now 74—he came to the throne through the assassination of his father. The country was poor. Parliament was corrupt and mostly in the hands of a self-centred nobility. The King honestly strove for social reforms but never got very far with a hostile administration. It was perhaps because of that that he welcomed Mussolini and the Fascist system. The Duce was a royalist at heart and has always been respectful and co-operative with His Majesty.

And now when he had to act against the Duce the King found him a pushover. That, plus what the King may do within the next few days or weeks, may do more to strengthen the foundations of the House of Savoy than anything Victor Emmanuel has done during all his reign.

The Function of the Written Word

THE letter one writes another in business, friendship or affection reveals something or other; it captures and transfers ideas, thoughts, feelings, and the like. The news story reveals events and, as we shall see, is usually written to a simple standard formula. The magazine article or other feature reveals facts, figures, fancies and much else in a variety of patterns. Short stories, novelettes, novels, plays, motion pictures, radio sketches and verse all reveal beauty, human feelings, motives and character. Advertising reveals, or at any rate is designed to reveal, the special merits of services and goods. And publicity fills many a gap by revealing that which its sponsors judge should be revealed.

Revelation has indeed been the central function of the written word from the very beginning of time....

One man goes forth and finds in the changing scene, in people about him, in himself, a wealth of beauty, imagery, meaning, which is his to give, ours to receive. He is but a means to an end, the sensitized instrument, receiving and sending both, or the catalyst, as in chemistry, suffering ordeals of fire and pressure, yet remaining nearly the same while transmuting old materials into new things....

It would indeed be strange if these new media, new conditions, and almost limitless increase in the numbers of those seeking to use and enjoy the written word, had not affected the nature as well as quantity of written things and writers. —From "Writing for Profit," by Donald Wilhelm. Whitehall Notebook

(By SCOTT YOUNG, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, Aug. 5.—(CP).—Some of the most heated political arguments going on around the lobbies of Parliament these days concern a couple of journalists, one of whom, Tom Driberg, doubles as a member of Parliament.

The other is Claude Cockburn, one of the most interesting figures among the political journalists. He is parliamentary correspondent of the Communist Daily Worker under the name of Frank Pitcairn, and over his own name writes a weekly news-letter called The Week.

While Driberg's case is mainly a domestic one—a difference of policy with the Daily Express, for which he wrote a column for 10 years under the name of William Hickey—Cockburn's has an international significance in that he went to Algiers with the sanction of the British Government, but after his first cable he was not allowed by the American authorities there to file any cable, even, he says, to his wife.

His first cabled story was passed, he was told, "as a favor," then a complete ban was put on.

"It is obvious that the real reason for trying to exclude diplomatic correspondents from North Africa is to turn out the lights on the political situation there," he said. "It has nothing to do with military security, but is purely a political move to prevent the British and American public being informed of the French political development in Algiers. The ban applied to all political correspondents."

After a question was asked in Parliament on the matter, Information Minister Brendan Bracken said in a written reply that his department never had attempted to interfere with regulations made by civilian authorities in Algiers with regard to civilians who are not accredited war correspondents.

It was disclosed in the question and answer that Cockburn had the approval of the Foreign Office, as well as the Ministry of Information, to make his trip.

Previously a group of correspondents was told to leave Algiers after original permits for a month's stay had lapsed.

Cockburn, before he formed his Communist affiliation, was Washington correspondent of the Times of London (in his mid-twenties) and was considered to have a brilliant future ahead of him with that most conservative among the international press.

Driberg's severance of his connection with the Daily Express followed a speech he made in his constituency saying he understood Supply Minister Sir Andrew Duncan was considering favorably an offer of £25,000 a year to corelate the policies of the two biggest industrial organizations in Britain, the Federation of British Industries and the British Employers' Federation. This was denied officially by Sir Andrew.

Driberg's pen name of William Hickey, originally that of an 18th-century diarist, is the property of the Daily Express and will be conferred on subsequent writers of the column.

A Bible Message

AND there appeared another wonder in heaven; and behold a great red dragon, having seven heads and ten horns, and seven crowns upon his heads....And there was war in heaven: Michael and his angels fought against the dragon; and the dragon fought with his angels, and prevailed not; neither was their place found any more in heaven. And the great dragon was cast out, that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world: he was cast out into the earth, and his angels were cast out with him....

And I heard a loud voice saying in heaven, Now is come salvation, and strength, and the kingdom of our God, and the power of his Christ: for the accuser of our brethren is cast down, which accused them before our God day and night. And they overcame him by the blood of the Lamb, and by the word of their testimony; and they loved not their lives unto the death. Therefore rejoice, ye heavens, and ye that dwell in them.—Rev. xii, 3, 7-12.

The lecture to the local literary circle came to an end, and the lecturer mingled with the crowd.

The secretary answered without thinking: "Oh, no," he explained. "It's nothing very much! He walks in his sleep."

Happy Ecuador

THE Republic of Ecuador, on the word of a friend who has lived in several South American countries, is as pleasant a place to dwell in as can be found in the Western Hemisphere. Living costs are low, the inhabitants are friendly, cultured people, and the climate is pleasant, in spite of the country's latitude.

A few years ago, the Government came close to having a revolution, the cause being a new law doubling the income tax. The difficulty was smoothed over and, at last accounts, internal affairs were peaceful.

The seriousness of the fiscal measure may be judged from the fact that the old income tax was two dollars for each thousand dollars of income.—The Printed Word.

Abducted Lady Married At Gunpoint

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5 (AP).— Attractive, brunette Josephine Singleton Robertson, 26, yesterday was granted an annulment of her four-months marriage to a Seattle Drug Store manager, Myles Robertson, 43, whom she accused of forcing her into the union at gunpoint and holding her prisoner for 10 days.

Judge Roy V. Rhoades, in granting dissolution of the marriage, said her story approximated an Arabian Nights tale.

She said she went to Seattle last spring and obtained work in a drug store where Singleton told her she looked like the reincarnation of his wife, who had died 11 years before.

"He came to my room one morning with a gun and told me he would blow my head off if I didn't marry him at once," she told Judge Rhodes. "On February 26 he went to the Marriage License Bureau and I could feel the gun he had in his pocket at my side. When we returned to my room he held me a captive until five days later when we were married by a Justice of the Peace."

She said she was imprisoned five days more and that Robertson threw a bottle of ink in her face "so you won't ever be able to see another man."

Mrs. Robertson said she escaped when her husband became intoxicated.

Eastern States In Furore Over Gasoline Rationing

By R. G. ANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 (CP).— The battle for oil was warming up in the United States today with charges and counter-charges flying thick and fast. Eastern motorists claimed they were being discriminated against, demanded an equalization of gasoline rationing. Apprehensive westerners cried, "hands off our 'A' cards!"

In between was Canada, target of many a dig because motorists there are equitably rationed with a basic unit of three gallons and may do as they please with their allotment. The fact that much of the Dominion's gasoline supply comes from the oil-parched United States has prompted some disparaging statements in recent weeks from American drivers, particularly in the States bordering Eastern Canada.

Ban in Force

As a result of transportation difficulties and heavy overseas shipments of gasoline and oil, a ban on pleasure automobile driving has been in force in the Eastern United States the last few months. Further, the basic "A" ration of three gallons was cut in half through the expedient of making the ration coupon last twice as long as in the rest of the country.

In other States, the basic "A" ration now is four gallons. Motorists may use the gas as they will, which riles the East these hot-weather days when lake and beach invite. Alleviating the situation was the recent ruling by the office of price administration that Eastern motorists may make one vacation trip—if they can make it on their reduced allotment.

So strong have become the East's protests that the possibility arose this week that rationing would be made equitable throughout the country, with the pleasure-driving ban in the East lifted. Interior Secretary Harold Ickes, petroleum administrator, is to meet Midwestern Congressmen in Chicago this week, presumably to discuss such a development.

COBOURG

Business Men To Get Land For Factory

COBOURG, Aug. 5 — (ENS). — Cobourg business men have canvassed among themselves to pledge around $3,000 to purchase an industrial site which will be presented to a firm which has been negotiating with Mayor Jack Burnet, with the view of building in Cobourg. At a meeting held in the Town Hall, Mayor Burnet outlined the proposition, emphasizing that, although it was close to election time, the factory proposition was in no way connected with politics.

The factory would employ about 175 hands and its financial status had been looked into by Walter Johnston, local bank manager, who said that it was a strong company financially, it was revealed. The company had five factories in the United States and one in Canada, and the company was now considering Cobourg and a centre in Quebec for its new plant.

Tax Exemption.

Hamilton township was willing to pass a by-law covering tax exemption for ten years, the Mayor said. The factory site is located in Hamilton township near Cobourg.

"If the proper incentive is offered the factory might locate here. We recall that when the De Laval Co. was looking at Cobourg for a site, a matter of $2,000 stood between Cobourg and Peterborough, and the latter place got the factory. We know what the De Laval did for Peterborough," said Mayor Burnet.

The Mayor added that the town was legally powerless to offer the company a site, but it could be done by buying some 33 acres with funds from private canvass, and giving it to the company. He suggested that the business men get together and guarantee this amount.

Sailor Dares Sharks For Burial Service

LONDON, Aug. 5— (CP). — A Bible clenched between his teeth, an officer of a torpedoed British merchant ship swam from one lifeboat to another in the shark-infested waters of the South Atlantic to read the burial service for a dead shipmate.

The story of this heroic act has just been revealed with the awarding of the George Medal to the officer Vernon Upton. The 22-year-old second officer took command of 40 men in two lifeboats when his superiors were killed by the torpedo explosions. The survivors were more than a month's sailing from the South American coast.

After a few days Upton, heedless of the sharks which closely followed the boats, swam from one to the other to tend the wounded and revive flagging spirits. On the 12th day the first man died, after having gone insane. Holding a Bible in his teeth to keep it above water, Upton again slipped into the shark-filled seas and swam to the second boat to conduct a proper burial service. On the next day—the 13th of the ordeal—rescue came.

KINGSTON PONIES MEET HAMILTON IN BASEBALL PRELIMINARY

Teamwork Gets Senators Into The Money

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5—(AP)—There's really no mystery about the current success of the Washington Senators. It's merely a case of the pitchers pitching and the hitters hitting at the same time—synchronization, so to speak.

Bluege, freshman pilot of the Senators, took his second-place crew on the road today for one of the toughest- out-of-town assignments ever dealt a ball club. Washington plays 29 of its next 32 games on the road, facing Boston, Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago, St. Louis, New York and Philadelphia.

The Senators take with them a mow-'em-down streak that has perked up enthusiasm here.

The enthusiasm for the current edition of the Senators, which has brought near record crowds to the ball park, started early in the season, and lasted until the mid-way mark. The Washingtons stayed in on around first and second place, largely by luck. They won games by the dozen on fluke hits, daredevil runs on the bases on so-so pitching. When the mound work was good, the batters were marvels at popping to the infield.

But fans stayed away from the ball park in droves when the breaks changed. Both the hitting and the pitching flopped, and the team did likewise—down to fifth place.

Last week the team, and the crowds, began to change, and for the better. Good hurling by old Dutch Leonard, Milo Candini, Rae Scarborough, Early Wynn and Milt Haeffner was in tune with lusty hitting by Stan Spence, Gerry Priddy, Jimmy Vernon, George Case, Gene More, Jake Early and the rest.

From Prison

Donald (Scotty) MacGregor, new back for the professional Philadelphia Eagles' football team, is shown in action. Scotty came to the Eagles from the Iowa State Penitentiary, where he just finished serving four years and 10 months in prison for a prank that a judge couldn't regard as funny. Not long out of high school, MacGregor and some companions went out on a party one night in Des Moines. They borrowed an automobile without bothering to ask the owner's permission, and Scotty went to jail. The Eagles management is grateful to that humorless judge, for they say it made a football player of MacGregor. He was the sparkplug of the prison team.

LAWN BOWLING

Although it was Wednesday, and it rained as usual, one of the biggest tournaments to be held for this year, was staged yesterday. Beginning at 8 a.m. and running right through till 7 p.m., not even stopping for lunch.

With 90 entries from away down east to the far west, from Lake Ontario to James Bay in the north, it was open to all comers. It was no plus and minus affair. It was straight elimination. Who won? We don't know, but off hand we'd say the loser is sitting in the driver's seat. It may be a case of playing both ends against the middle. The rain stopped our bowling but the greens can take it and the rest will do them good.

Now about to-morrow night. We will hold a men's tournament for rinks. Draw from the board at the usual hour, 7.30 p.m.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

In preparation for the army track and field championships in Great Britain, a Canadian division ran off a sports program in which former athletic titlists matched strides with mere rookies of the cinder path. Typical clashes were the half and one-mile runs, the former being won by Lieut. C. A. Conway of Toronto, former Olympic runner, in 2.07 from Pte A. J. Shartrand, Campberville, Man., who turned the tables on Conway in the mile with a 4.51.09 performance.

The star of the sprints was Cpl. W. H. Cox of Fort William, whose times were 10.9 for the century and 24.4 in the 220-yard dash. Cox was also the anchor man for the 440-yard relay winners who included Pte. AR. C. Gereau of Port Arthur, Pte. S. T. McNeill of Stavely, Alta., and Gdsm. A. Drummond of Verdun, Que.

The divisional meet was featured by the presence of a large crowd, probably far in excess of the attendance for a pre-war meet in Canada. Prizes for the winners and runners-up were presented by Maj. Gen. F. F. Worthington.

Harness racing fans will have two additional weeks of their favored sport at Empire City track, New York where the Sulky Associations of New York State are holding a combined meeting, the added time being the weeks commencing Aug. 16 and Aug. 30.

Deacon Dies.

Through injuries suffered in a fall from the balcony of an apartment building in Vancouver, Don Deacon, former player with Detroit Red Wings Hockey Club, is dead. J. Edward Eade, acting coroner, decided that death was accidental.

After firing and hiring managers and losing pitcher Si Johnson to the U.S. Army in the bargain, president William Cox of the National Phillies started an ivory hunt. The club announced purchase of shortstop Ray Hamrick from the Nashville club for a reported $25,000 and infielder Charlie Brewster.

Pleasant Pay-Off

The daily double payoff at Washington Park yesterday was $1,030 through the coupling of Stars at Night in the first dash and Malhigh in the second, both carrying the colours of W. W. Guernsey of Kansas City, O. Stars at Night paid $81.20 to win and Malhigh $28.80.

James V. Orlando, former Detroit Red Wings hockey player, yesterday gave notice of appeal at Detroit, through his lawyer, from the sentence of four years in prison and $2,000 fine after conviction in Federal Court for violating selective service regulations by giving false information.

London Army insured its hold on first place in the Inter-County baseball race last night at the Forest City with a 3-2 win over Ingersoll Combines, breaking a 2-all deadlock in the ninth to take the decision. London had to use three twirlers, at that.

No Racing At Laurel During Fall Months

BALTIMORE, Aug. 5—(AP)—Goss L. Stryker, president of Maryland State Fair, Inc., declared today there would be no racing at the Laurel track this fall and said his group would centre its attention on the joint meeting scheduled for Pimlico this fall.

"There's no possible chance of racing at Laurel this fall," said the head of the organization which operates Laurel Park. "In the first place, lifting the ban on pleasure driving would not afford the fans enough gas to drive to Laurel. Secondly, the railroads are unable to provide any service whatsoever."

With Laurel definitely out of the picture for a separate meeting, President Harry Parr of Pimlico is expected to call a meeting of his advisers to draw up a list of the stakes to be run at Pimlico from Oct. 9 to Nov. 13.

Battery-Genelec Game Friday

The Battery-Genelec playoff game scheduled for last night was called off on account of wet grounds, and will be played Friday night. Both managers agreed to the postponement.

Friday night was selected for this important game so as not to conflict with the girls' playoffs. The teams in the men's loop playoffs will be in action every night next week.

Westclox and Aircraft will play the second game of their playoff series tonight and will then have a week's rest while the Aircrafters are on holidays. The game is billed to start at 7:00 o'clock at the East City Bowl.

Golf Players Guess Scores

AMARILLO, Tex., Aug. 5.—(CP).—Think about a golf tournament where you can qualify by just estimating your score.

If the weather isn't suitable you can give the officials a rough idea of what you would have shot and that's that.

It's the annual Tri-State Senior Tournament which Amarillo has been holding for nine years now.

If a man is at least 50 years old—he has to be at the half-century mark to belong to the association—he's as good as qualified. For instance, in this year's tournament rain bogged the qualifying round. The golfers just went out and shot a little, then came in and reported or estimated their scores and the various flights were constructed on those facts and figures.

Take H. E. Winter of Marshalltown, Iowa. He's 79 years old. He came so far for the tournament they told him not to go out in the bad weather to qualify. They just estimated he shot 85. There was no one who could prove he couldn't have done it. They're just a bunch of quiet-loving guys who want to play golf with opponents of their own size. More than anything they don't want any young squirts beating them around the course.

Sky Cowboys

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo., Aug. 5—(AP)—There's a new twist to the old Western roundup—sky cowboys. Airplanes are being used to round up wild horses in a campaign supervised by the United States Grazing Service to rid Southwestern Wyoming sheep and cattle ranges of the mustangs.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5 (AP) — Manager Harry R. Metzger, 37, stared silent, unmoving, from the box office of the Roxie Theatre when a customer asked for a ticket. Employees discovered that Metzger was dead from a heart attack.

Semi-Finals To Start Friday Night

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 5 (CP)—The final drive toward the Canadian Amateur Baseball championship gets underway here tonight when Halifax Navy meets London Army and Kingston Ponies play Hamilton Coops in a preliminary round to the semi-final of the National Baseball Congress Tournament.

The winners of the preliminary round play in a semi-final double-header Friday night along with Toronto Tip-Tops and Montreal R.C.A.F., who were given byes into the semi-final.

Halifax Navy shows several Ontario names in its lineup, including Ernie Beland, formerly of Brantford, Eddy Parker of St. Catharines and Bud Heximer of Windsor and Niagara Falls. Parker is a pitcher, Heximer is a centre fielder and Beland a shortstop.

Pete White, London moundman, is expected to give the Haligonians a good workout. White has been turning in good performances in the Inter County League and has been largely instrumental in the London Soldiers holding the top spot in the League. Doug Ralbraith, who played professional hockey with Hershey Bears, is London's second baseman.

Kingston Ponies, Central Ontario champions, are offering a mixture of veterans and youth as opposition to the Hamilton Coops. Joe Corkey and Bob Elliott are scheduled as the Ponies' catchers while Arnie Jarrell, Jake Edwards and How Wilson will form the Kingston pitching staff. The Ponies have a strong infield and outfield lined up against a formidable Hamilton club.

Toronto Tip-Tops owe much of their success to Stan Stenoff who pitched the Tailors to victory over Trenton R.C.A.F. and Army Invaders last week-end in the Toronto district series. Other clubs competing in the championship series were elected by district officials.

MR. PICOBAC TAKES OFF HIS HAT

Mr. Picobac came in from hoeing potatoes in his Victory garden dripping with perspiration.

"Mother," said he, mopping his brow, "I take off my hat."

"I don't see any hat," smiled Mrs. Picobac.

"I'm thinking of all those boys and girls who left their homes and schools to help the farmers," said Mr. Picobac. "They deserve the thanks of the country."

"Especially this weather," agreed Mrs. Picobac heartily. "God bless them."

From his hip pocket Mr. Picobac extracted a pouch of the most popular pipe tobacco in all Canada, with the evident intention of relaxing from war-work long enough to inaugurate a mild . . . cool . . . sweet smoke.

"Canada's future will be in safe hands," declared he confidently. "Canada's youth is good stuff."

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 — (AP). — Betcha never knew this—a collection of odd and unimportant items culled from sports history.

Fifth wheel:

Connie Mack's famous "$100,000" infield was composed of five men —Stuffy McInnis, Eddie Collins, Jack Barry, and Home Run Baker (the four you've heard about) and Danny Murphy, who cost Connie about $500.....Murphy arrived late for his first game with the A's on July 8, 1902, so Jud Castro played the first inning and got a hit..... Then Murphy turned up and smacked six consecutive blows, so his late arrival cost him a chance to get his name into the record books with the all-time leaders.

Sounds fishy:

When the first team of Finnish athletes, including the great Hannes Kohlemainen, came to the United States. Lawson Robertson escorted them on a trip to Canada....Before entering a Pullman car in the New York station, the Finns all removed their shoes.... At lunch time someone brought out a suitcase big enough to hold a fiddle, extracted a wicked looking knife, a loaf of bread as long as the case, an equally large fish and sliced them down the middle for sandwiches.....By the time Paavo Nurmi followed their trail, the Finns had learned more about what can be done with an expense account.

Block off the old chip:

George Chip, who bossed the middleweight division in 1913-14, probably was the only champion who lost his title while serving as a substitute.....George's kid brother Joe had given an unknown named Al McCoy a licking, but when a return bout was arranged in Brooklyn, Joe got hurt in training......The promoter thought it would be smart to get George to sub for his brother in a no-decision affair.....At the bell, Chip swarmed all over McCoy; his first assault failed to put Al down and George stepped back to get his breath....As he relaxed a moment, a punch came from nowhere. The fight was all over in just 45 seconds and McCoy was the new champion.

Familiar names, but in a new setting. Herb Hein, LEFT, Bud Garnaas, CENTRE, and Herman Frickey were well-known gridders at the University of Minnesota and here they are back for summer practice. Unusual thing, however, is that the boys are practicing with Northwestern U., where they are stationed in the Navy V-12 program. Frickey and Garnaas are backs, Hein is an end.

Louis Americo Chalks Up 11th Victory

By The Associated Press

Louis Americo (Crip) Polli is one of the real International League veterans and its his misfortune this year to toil for Jersey City Giants. The Little Giants are at the bottom of the standing and they've been shut out oftener than any other team in the league, which is somewhat of a handicap for a pitcher.

But Louis Americo managed to mark up his 11th victory of the season yesterday, as compared to seven losses, when the Jerseys put on the day's only hitting show to beat the Rochester Red Wings 4-1. Crip yielded only five hits and three walks and whitewashed the Wings until the eight, when his mates already had pounded Bill Trotter hard enough to win.

Good pitching was in order all down the line yesterday as Montreal's Bob Chipman started with three-hit tossing against Newark to take the first half of an afternoon double-header, 4-2. The nightcap went to Newark, 1-0, as Walt Dubiel and Lloyd Dietz both came up with four-hitters. Two of the hits off Dietz, who was making his first start for the Royals, came in the seventh and last inning for the only run as Don Savage doubled and scored on Joe Dwyer's single.

Ruff Gentry and Ed Klieman allowed three hits apiece as Buffalo whipped Baltimore, 1-0. Klieman aiming at his 20th victory, gave up a walk and two singles in the third and that cost him the ball game as Gentry passed only two batsmen and fanned seven. Johnny Bero's base hit, bringing in Pat McNair from second, accounted for the lone run.

STILL CAPABLE — By Jack Sords

Pirates Drub Phillies 6-2; All Others Idle

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The major leagues may be able to boast of 10 or more 20-game winning pitchers this year compared to only four in 1942.

Where only Mort Cooper, Johnny Beazley, Ernie Bonham and Tex Hughson were able to make the grade a year ago, five twirlers already seem certain of reaching the coveted 20-game goal with 10 others having better than an even chance.

Topped, of course, by the veteran 35-year-old Rip Sewell, of Pittsburgh Pirates, the National League claims four of the five twirlers virtually certain of winning 20 games. Sewell has won 17 and lost two. Cooper, Cardinal ace has a record of 15-6, Elmer Riddle of Cincinnati, 14-5, and Hi Bithorn of the Cubs 13-8.

Chandler Close

Soud Chandler, of New York Yankees, is the only American League pitcher within whistling distance of the charmed circle. He has won 13 and lost three. But, Bonham, who won 21 for the Yankees last year, and Hughson, who was credited with 22 for Boston Red Sox in 1942, each have a chance to repeat. Big Ernie has won 10 and last five for the Yanks; Hughson has chalked up 11 wins against seven setbacks.

In the "maybe" class may be placed Ray Starr, of Cincinnati, 10-8; Claude Passeau, of the Cubs, 10-7; Oscar Judd, of the Red Sox 10-6; Alex Carrasquel and Early Wynn, of Washington, 10-5 and 11 and 7, respectively; Jim Bagby and Al Smith of Cleveland, 11-10 and 10-3, respectively; Dizzy Trout of Detroit, 10-9; and Orval Grove, of the White Sox, 10-1.

Al Javery, of Boston Braves; Johnny Vander Meer, of the Reds, Virgil Trucks of Detroit; and Buck Newsom, of the Browns, have an "outside" chance of hitting the 20 game mark. Each have won nine times.

Pittsburgh came up with four runs in the seventh inning to beat the Phillies, 6-2, in the only game played in both leagues yesterday.

Vince DiMaggio's 13th homer of the season, coming with one man on base, capped the uprising and gave Max Butcher his sixth win of the year.

Ryder Cup Pairs Named At Detroit

DETROIT, Aug. 5 — (AP). — Captains Craig Wood and Walter Hagen yesterday announced pairing for the Ryder Cup matches this week-end at the Plum Hollow course.

The pairings:

Byron Nelson and Harold McSpaden (Cuppers) v. Melvin Harbert and O'Neil White.

Jimmy Demaret and Lloyd Mangrum (Cuppers) v. Willie Goggin and Sammy Byrd.

Wood and Sgt. Vic Ghezzi (Cuppers) v. Jimmy Thomson and Bobby Cruickshank.

Gene Sarazen and Frank Walsh (Cuppers) v. Harry Cooper and Hagen.

Hagen, captain of the challengers, will be making his first appearance as a player in the series, having served as non-playing captain of both the cup team and the challenging squad.

[illegible] last year whipped Hagen's challenging squad, 10-5, but Hagen gets his chance to square accounts in the War Relief series in 18-hole foursome play Saturday and 36-hole, hand-to-hand singles Sunday.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Aug. 5—(CP)—Maybe there'll be a report before the week is out about a red, white and blue mare winning a race at Calgary's Victoria Park. If so it won't be because some reporter had the heeby-jeebies. Shortly after arrival at Victoria Park from Saskatoon, Edmunton Ball, five-year-old daughter of Barbican-Audrey Y, broke away from her handler and ran wild in a barn used to store hundreds of cans of paint of all colors. In her mad dash Edmunton Ball didn't miss any of it. Paint flew in every direction and the inside of the building now sports rainbow decorations. At last report, grooms were still trying to scrape paint from the mare. So begins the modern version of the bull in the china shop.

In Memory

Don Deacon, 30-year-old Regina athlete killed in an accident last week-end while serving with an Army unit in Vancouver, might have been one of the National Hockey League's greatest stars had he been able to keep his weight down. That was the opinion of experts while Decon served with the Detroit hockey chain. But Deacon failed to keep a ceiling on his avoirdupois which hovered between 190 and 200 pounds on a five-foot-nine frame. Even at that, in seven years of professional hockey with Detroit, Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Indianapolis Don compiled a total of 122 goals, 159 assists for a total of 281 points, an average of 40 a season. His best year was 1938-39 with Pittsburgh when he scored 65 points. A year ago he enlisted and last season helped Calgary Army win the Alberta Senior Hockey title. A left-handed shot, Deacon played centre. After graduating from Regina junior hockey ranks he played two seasons of senior hockey with Prince Albert Mintos before turning professional.

Incidentally

And what's the wurrrld comin' too! The Scottish sports held at Antigonish, N.S., this year were staged at O'Brien Field . . . Johnny McCreedy, former Toronto Maple Leafs hockey star now on leave in Winnipeg, is posted to No. 12 elementary flying training school, R.C.A.F., at Goderich, Ont., and hopes to be a pilot . . . Pat Griffin, Montreal Oilers basketball ace who suffered an eye injury in the 1942 Canadian final with Victoria Dominoes, hopes he may be able to return to the game this year after missing one entire season . . . If the doctor turns thumbs down on his hopes to resume playing, Pat figures to do some coaching.

LINDSAY

Leslie M. Frost Re-elected By Wide Margin

LINDSAY, Aug. 5.—(Special). — Leslie M. Frost, Progressive Conservative candidate for Victoria-Haliburton Counties, was re-elected yesterday by a sweeping majority. With only a few outlying polls to hear from, Frost's majority this morning stood at 2,532 over Frank Welch, Liberal-Progressive. Latest totals give Frost 5,619 votes, Welch 3,087 and John Hand, C.C.F., 909.

Only about half of the 1,937 votes were polled, and it is estimated that less than ten per cent. of the soldiers from this riding voted by proxy. Frost's election was conceded within an hour after the polls closed when the Lindsay vote gave him a majority of 1,420. Later returns gave him a majority in nearly every poll. Welch won his own district of Minden by a small majority and received his greatest support from Downeyville with 128 votes to Frost's 22. Omemee voted 176-53 in favor of the Conservative party.

L. M. Frost, barrister of Lindsay, first entered the political field in 1934 when he was defeated by William Newman, Liberal-Progressive. In 1937 he again contested against Newman, defeating him by only a slight majority. A veteran of the Great War, Mr. Frost gained popularity with his protest against the proxy votes. He has been assistant leader to Col. Drew and in all probability will be in the field for a Cabinet position.

In a brief address following his election he stressed the trend of provincial vote as a challenge to the Government to assure proper conditions for return of active service men.

50 Per Cent.

Examiner was from Mrs. W. Tillcock's house on Lafayette Avenue, which was assumed to be a barometer of the industrial South-end. It was clocked at 7:14 giving Johnston 63 votes to 51 for Scott and 43 for Elliott.

A few minutes later the poll at James Harrison's, 733 George Street, in the north-end, shifted Johnston to third place, with Scott in front and Elliott second. The count at that poll was Elliott 46, Scott 43, and Johnston 19.

The third poll to be heard from was Milburn's School on the Chemong Road, with 69 for Elliott, 37 for Scott, and 39 for Johnston.

Those three polls, indicating both city and country balloting, gave Elliott 158 votes, Scott 151, and Johnston 121.

The second polling booth at Harrison's in the north-end followed with a sharp swing to Scott, and from then on the candidate of the Drew party was never headed.

The figures at that spot were: 76 for Scott, 39 for Elliott, and 23 for Johnston; and the totals were: Scott 227, Elliott 198, and Johnston 144.

The next series of polls slightly increased the Progressive Conservative plurality. Thirteen of them thrust Scott in front with 70 votes over Elliott. The totals at that stage were: Scott 65., Elliott 586, and Johnston 416.

Some of the succeeding individual polls shuffled preferences about, but in their totals they steadily advanced the Scott margin over his opponents.

The Examiner's eight o'clock bulletin for 58 of the 143 polls gave Scott 3,091, Elliott 2,522 and Johnston 2,035. That meant a plurality of more than 500 for Scott with one-third of the course behind them.

The figures for 64 polls were:—Scott 3,325, Elliott 2,737 and Johnston 2,360.

By that time about 8:10 o'clock several opinions were taking definite shape, one that all the persistent campaign ballyhoo about the C.C.F. strength as about to sweep the riding was not materializing, and the other that rural support for the Liberal candidate was faltering behind the expectations of those who had carried the heat and labor of the fight on behalf of Alex Elliott.

Scott Is Strong

Tabulations from time to time tended to confirm the strong position Scott maintained along through the stretch of the race as it was indicated in the returns. Seventy-four polls gave him a plurality of 542, and 79 left him with 526 over Elliott. Several polls from Douro and Ennismore clung to the Liberal standard and cut the Scott plurality to 435 for 83 polls, but the next ten polls boosted that margin to 604.

Returns from 99 of the 143 polls had piled up 4780 for Scott, 4,264 for Elliott and Johnston 3,158, a lead of 516.

And at that stage the Liberals reluctantly conceded the election of Harold Scott. At 9:30 the results were decisive: 129 polls gave Scott 6,326, Elliott 5,574 and Johnston 4,535. Scott's plurality was 752.

The night's final was Scott by 680 votes over Elliott, placing Peterborough in the Progressive Conservative company of its neighbours, Durham, and Northumberland, two other gains for the Drew forces with the Hastings and Victoria seats remaining unchanged.

The election of Harold Scott, was followed by an eager, confident crowd in the committee rooms on Charlotte street Wednesday night.

Numerous to start with, as returns began to pile up in rapid succession a half hour after the closing of the polls and the trend toward Scott became increasingly sharp, people filled the hall and lustily applauded each new gain posted for their candidate, and each announcement indicating leads established by Progressive Conservatives in other ridings in the Province.

In the first hour returns were coming in fast, and the first fifty polls to report gave Capt. Scott a substantial lead that put the large gathering in the committee rooms in a jovial and exultant frame of mind. The announcement made at eight o'clock that Scott's majority at that time amounted to some 950 votes was greeted by prolonged bursts of applause. Though a slow-down in the posting of returns occurred thereafter and most of the doubtful rural polls had yet to be tabulated, little apprehension of the final result was apparent in the crowd and most of the speculation was regarding headway being made by other party candidates in different ridings.

Rural Support

After nine o'clock a batch of reports arrived from some of the rural polls, and the fact that they did not reverse the Progressive Conservative trend to any alarming degree settled the mind of the people assembled that it was only a question of time before the election would be conceded.

At 9:45 Capt. Scott's election was assured beyond any possibility of doubt, and an impromptu gathering of the successful candidate and his co-workers in the victory was held on the platform in the hall.

The newly elected provincial member was greeted by three resounding cheers. He addressed a few words of heartfelt thanks for the token of esteem shown him by the voters of this riding, and pledged to do his best to carry into effect the 22-point program of Col. Drew, Progressive Conservative leader. He said that he had been approached with suggestions that a parade be held in honor of the victory, but stated that exhibitions of this sort, with all their attendan fanfare, were out of place in times like these when Canadian boys were fighting in Sicily.

Senator Fallis enumerated certain major factors contributing to the party's success in Peterborough, and stated that the first and foremost among these was the character of the candidate himself She expressed the hope that Col. Drew would have sufficient majority in the province to put through legislation that would make his program operative.

Gordon Fraser, M.P. declared: "I cannot tell how happy I am at the result of this election. In Scott we have a man who has the welfare of the little man right in his heart, and no man has better thoughts or better ability than the candidate we have elected tonight." Mr. Fraser predicted that with John Bracken "we can win the Dominion election, and I know we will."

J. Fordyce Strickland uttered a word of caution to the assembled throng, stating that the latest province-wide returns still indicated no clear majority for any one party. He expressed the wish that a Federal election might soon be held—and the sooner the better— to give this province a chance to show what it thought of Mackenzie King.

In a statement given the press Capt. Scott said: "I am glad to have the opportunity to assist Col. Drew in carrying out his 22-point program."

Opposition Party

An almost solid block of C.C.F. members was elected in Northern Ontario and the party took eight of the 17 seats in Toronto district, "Tory Toronto" until 1934 when the Liberals took eight ridings.

The C.C.F. and Progressive Conservatives divided Central Ontario fairly even between them—an area dominted by the Liberals in 1937; and they split 17 seats between them in Western Ontario—a section where neither Conservatives nor C.C.F. elected a single member in 1937.

Yesterday's vote—the smallest in three elections — was somewhere around 1,200,000, compared with more than 1,500,000 in 1934 and 1937. The Progressive Conservatives, electing the largest number of candidates, received about 36 per cent. of the ballots cast; the C.C.F. got a fraction less than 32 per cent.; and the Liberals a fraction more than 30.

3rd Province.

If the C.C.F. becomes the official Opposition in Ontario—a development seemingly in prospect—this will be the third province where that has happened. The party already forms the official Opposition to the Coalition government of British Columbia and to the Liberal Administration in Saskatchewan.

Along with the three party leaders, Mr. Hepburn, who resigned the government leadership last October to Hon. Gordon Conant, now Master of the Ontario Supreme Court, was re-elected in Elgin. His was the first victory to be conceded after vote-counting began.

Agnesq Macphail, who 22 years ago became the first women Member of Parliament under the United Farmer Party label, repeated that feat yesterday when she became the first woman elected to the Ontario Legislature; but as a C.C. F. member.

Before the night was out another of the six women candidates also wasq known to be elected—Mrs. Rae Lucknock, C.C.F. for Toronto Bracondale.

Most "name" candidates went by the board as the ballots were cast. Of the seven members of the Nixon Cabinet defeated, four were beaten by C.C.F. candidates and three by Progressive Conservatives.

Besides Mr. Nixon, re-elected Ministers were 39-year-old Hon. Farquhar Oliver, Minister of Public Works and Welfare, and youngest member of the retiring Cabinet who ran in Grey South; Hon. Robert Laurier, Minister of Mines, who contested Ottawa East; and Hon. A. St. Clair Gordon, 48-year-old Provincial Treasurer and chairman of the Ontario Liquor Control Board, running in Kent West.

Failed To Place.

Here are some of the prominent candidates who failed to make the grade:

Health Minister Harold J. Kirby, 48, Toronto's only representative in the Cabinet, defeated by Progressive Conservative Leslie Blackwell in Toronto Eglington.

Agriculture Minister P. M. Dewan, 52, native of Eastern Ontario but a resident of Woodstock for many years, defeated by Progressive Conservative T. R. Dent in Western Ontario's Oxford.

Labor Minister Peter Heenan, 68, Irish-born locomotive engineer, defeated by William Docker, C.C.F., in Kenora, Northern Ontario.

Highways Minister T. B. McQuesten, 61, prominent in public affairs in Hamilton for many years, defeated by C.C.F. Candidate Fred W. Warren in Hamilton-Wentworth.

Lands Minister Norman Hipel, 53, former Speaker of the Legislature, defeated by Grieve Robinson, C.C.F., in Waterloo South, the riding where Mr. Hipel was born.

Attorney-General Eric Cross, 39, Simcoe, Ont., who resigned from the cabinet in 1940 and was called back to it when Mr. Nixon took over the Premiership last May, defeated by Progressive Conservative Walace W. Walsh in Haldimand-Norfolk.

Hon. William L. Houck, 50-year-old minister without portfolio and Niagara Falls farmer who has bred some of the world's finest Holstein cattle, defeated by Cyril Overall, C.C.F. in Niagara Falls.

Lt.-Col. Colin Campbell, 42-year-old mining engineer now on active service, who asked to be relieved of his post as Minister of Public Works after he went overseas, defeated by George Harvey, C.C.F.

Croll Defeated.

Maj. David Croll, former Welfare Minister and ex-Mayor of Windsor, defeated in Windsor-Walkerville by W. C. Riss, C.C.F.

Maj. James H. Clark, Speaker of the Legislature who said in a Detroit radio forum address June 13 that 40 to 45 per cent. of Canadians would favour political union with the United States if a vote were held, defeated by George Bennett, C.C.F., in Windsor-Sandwich.

From the very outset Progressive Conservative and C.C.F. strength was plainly visible. With returns slower from Northern Ontario the full scope of the C.C.F. landslide there was not immediately apparent, however.

At 9.10 p.m. (E.D.T.), two hours and 10 minutes after the polls closed, The Canadian Press announced the defeat of the Liberal government. Fourteen minutes later —on the basis of incomplete returns which showed no single party could expect to obtain a majority in the Legislature — Canadian Press announced the election had resulted in a stalemate.

The Liberals were swept out of the 17 Toronto-area constituencies where they elected nine members in 1937. The C.C.F. took four seats from them, the Progresive Conservatives three, and Labor candidates two.

Northern Ontario became a C.C.F. stronghold. Whereas the Liberals elected 11 members there in the last voting, this time the C.C.F. took 10 seats and the Liberals only one. Early today the winner in the remaining northern seat—Cochrane North—was still in doubt.

Hepburn Back

Western Ontario, with 26 ridings, was predominantly Liberal after 1937, with 22 members elected by that party then, along with two Liberal-Progressives, an Independent Liberal and a United Farmer. Yesterday the C.C.F. and Progressive Conservatives took eight and nine respectively, with the Liberals cut to eight. Mr. Hepburn, an Independent Liberal, won Elgin, the other seat.

Eastern Ontario, where the Progressive Conservatives had numerical superiority in 1937 with 10 members to the Liberals' seven, showed two Progressive Conservative gains. That party elected 12 members and the Liberals five. Eastern Ontario was the only geographical section which returned no C.C.F. candidate.

Central Ontario, where the Liberals had 14 members and the Conservatives four after 1937, was split this time between the C.C.F. and Progressive Conservatives. The Liberals failed to gain a seat as the C.C.F. took seven and Progressive Conservatives 10. One seat, Muskoka-Ontario, was in doubt early today.

Col. Drew, chosen leader of his party in 1938 and member for Simcoe East in the last legislature, campaigned on a 22-plank platform emphasizing a program for post-war rehabilitation and maintenance of British institutions.

While he has been for four years a personal critic of the Federal Liberal Administration of Prime Minister Mackenzie King his party is pledged to co-operation with the Dominion Government in the war effort. One of his promises was a reduction of taxation and increases in Mothers' Allowances and Old-Age Pensions.

"Above all, our effort will be directed toward making this province worthy of the young men and women who deserve the best this country can offer them."

The C.C.F. under Mr. Joliffe campaigned on a 15-point program calling for development of plans for employment for after the war and social ownership and control of monopolies; enactment of "an Effective Trade Union Act" to guarantee the right of collective bargaining to labor; higher Mothers' Allowances and Old-Age Pensions; an extensive housing program; and lower coal, bread and Hydro prices.

Another development reported from Rome today was the establishment of a commission to investigate the riches that Fascist office-holders were reported to have acquired between Oct. 22, 1922 and July 14, 1943, during the reign of Fascism.

Fortunes irregularly obtained, it was said, will be confiscated by the state.

The possibility was seen that one of the hardest hit may be Galeazzo Ciano, Mussolini's son-in-law, and former foreign minister. Ciano reputedly is one of the richest men in Italy, having built up a huge personal fortune through real estate manipulations and other deals while he was in office.

towns of Biancavilla and Aderno, which lie astride the western Mount Etna supply road.

(An unconfirmed CBS broadcast from Algiers today said the Canadians "when last heard from" were about five miles from Aderno.)

Battle Seesaws

Agira, previously reported captured, was disclosed to have changed hands a number of times in fierce battles before the Canadians advancing westward finaly blasted out the town's last defenders. A final German armored counter-attack was beaten back, and the Allied troops pushed ahead over rough terrain littered with German dead.

(The Berlin radio said that three to four divisions, including Americans, were being thrown into this thrust.)

The German Hermann Goering and the 15th armored divisions were reported putting up a suicidal defence action in that sector in an attempt to delay the flanking movement. Front line dispatches said the Germans were bitterly contesting every inch of the ground despite serious losses.

Use Bayonets

The fighting was rgaing in craggy, broken country ideally suited to defence action.

Enemy positions built on hilltops and cut into the rocks are first heavily pounded with artillery and mortars, and then the Allied infantry moves into mop up the strongholds at bayonet point.

In the north, the American 7th Army, sweeping eastward toward Mesina, pushed four miles beyond fallen Stan Stefano to occupy Caronia and its port, Caronia Marina.

Axis defenders along the coastal route were harassed by American destroyers which pumped shells into defence targets from the battle line to Cape Orlando, 18 miles to the east.

killed and 18 enemy tanks were knocked out as the Germans fought bitterly and even counter-attacked in desperate attempts to check the Red Army masses pouring into the city's streets, a Soviet communique said.

Orel was the hinge and key defence position of the long south-central German line extending to the Sea of Azov, and its recapture will reopen vital railway lines linking the Ukraine with Moscow.

The Orel - Belgorod sector was used by the Germans as the spring board for their 1943 offensive, generally considered to be Hitler's final, desperate effort to crash through south of Moscow.

In London, it was generally believed that Orel's fall would have an immediate and far-reaching effect on German morale, which has already suffered this summer from Allied victories in Sicily, the Italian crisis, and intensified Allied aerial attacks on German industrial cities.

Germany had never admitted to the homeland that the first 1943 offensive on the western front had been launched by the Nazis themselves.

Frowns On Allies

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 (AP) — The National Broadcasting Company quoted a dispatch today from its Stockholm correspondent, David Anderson, as saying that Sweden had cancelled an agreement with Berlin permitting German troop transit through that country.

Associated Press dispatches from Stockholm earlier in the week had reported that action of this sort appeared imminent.

Sweden has permitted the transit of German troops on leave from and to Norway, provided they carry no arms.

Young Farmers Make $22 For War Victims

With the city of Peterborough as its central point, the young people from the surrounding district within about a 20-mile radius, bounded by Norwood, Lakehurst and Bailleboro, have united into a group known as the United Farm Young People's Club, with Reg. Hunter of Highway 28 as president, Bruce Clark of the Lindsay highway as vice-president, Ferne Armstrong of Fairview as secretary and Charles Whittingdon of Springville as treasurer.

There are approximately one hundred members drawn from all parts of the district, and they meet regularly twice a month during the season, a large part of their program being of an educational character, something which spells advancement which should materially assist all in their journey through life.

Recently this group held a dance at Chemong, from the proceeds of which they have now handed in the sum of $22.00 to go on its way through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund to assist those whom the misfortunes of war have afflicted in the front line in Britain, thus enlarging their sphere of usefulness, which reacts all the more to their credit.

From time to time, donations have appeared in this column which were given in memory of loved ones who had passed on, there being no finer way in which to pay a tribute to their memory, by giving a helping hand to those now in need. Another of these appears today under the heading of "In Memory of Dad."

Exhibition Next Wednesday

The Eastern Ontario Gladiolus Society, which has its headquarters in this city, is joining with the Peterborough Aquarium Society to put on an exhibition and show in the market hall Wednesday, August 11, from which all the net proceeds will come to the fund.

Much interest is being aroused in this first annual event, for apart from the opportunity being given to all to display their flowers without even an entry fee, this will be the very first showing of aquariums of tropical fish ever to be seen in this district.

In conjunction with this event, tickets are now on sale at 25 cents each or five for one dollar, which besides giving free admission to the show, also are eligible for a draw on five good prizes, which include a half ton of coal donated by the Peterborough Fuel and Transfer Co., Ltd., a small rug donated by the Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Co., Ltd., an $8 framed portrait donated by Cripps Studio, an eleven-piece Pyrex set donated by the H. S. Routley china store, and a War Savings Certificate donated by T. F. Doughty.

These tickets may be procured from the members of both societies, or at The Examiner office, the Peterborough Pet Stock store, H. S. Routley china store, N. T. Routley's grocery store and Welch's barber shop.

ELECTION NOTES

Albert Juby is still picking winners. It was he who nominated Harold Scott at the Conservative convention.

Poll 32 at J. Harrison's house, George street, was the home grounds of both Elliott and Scott. The voters gave their allegiance as follows: Elliott 39, Johnston 23, Scott 76.

Friends of Capt. Elliott believe he decined to forward his proxy vote. Proxies came from some of his associates, such as Major Ralph Honey, who supported him on the platform in 1937, but the overseas mail brought no balloting authority from the Liberal candidate. And they remarked that it was characteristic of him, the sporting gesture.

Mrs. Nancy Clarke, 92 years old, might have found in her years cause for remaining at home yesterday and leaving the business and duty of voting to the younger generations. Instead she walked from Prince street to Albertus avenue in the Lansdowne-Look district.

The three villages gave Scott majorities: Lakefield 6, Norwood 24, Havelock 54.

An example of the result of quiet spading was shown in Lakefield where the C.C.F. has been more active than in other centres beyond the city. They polled 165 votes, the same as the Liberals, and only six behind Scott. That observation apparently provides proof of the axiom that organization is usually essential to political success.

Among the townships giving Elliott pluralities were: Ennismore 102, Asphodel 86, Otonabee 183, Dummer 62, Douro 130, Galway and Cavendish 36.

Revision of the returns received from the polls last night will not be possible until next Wednesday night when the boxes will be opened at 7 p.m. by A. J. McClellan, returning officer, and the summaries of the deputy returning officers will be tabulated.

Unlike the olden days when ballot boxes were not returned from the northern fringes of the riding until they arrived by horse and buggy, one of the Galway-Cavendish boxes reached the city by 9 o'clock last night. Frank Mangus travelled more than fifty miles from the northwestern corner of the riding, thereby completing his day's work. His house was polling place No. 101, the very last one in the numerical order of the county's electoral subdivisions.

Absence Vindicated Former Premier Says

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Aug. 5. — (CP).—Mitchell F. Hepburn told an election crowd on the main street of this Elgin County city last ngiht that he had retired as premier of the province last Oct. 21 with dignity and honor. He added that he believed the course he followed had been vindicated by his re-election as an Independent Liberal candidate.

Mr. Hepburn, who led the Liberals to victory in the provincial elections of 1934 and 1937, said: "It is my sincere hope that I will be able to carry on in a manner creditable to me and one that will reflect honor on the grand old party I represent."

Object To Calling Women 45-50

LONDON, Aug. 5 (CP Cable).—Criticism from women members of parliament was levelled in the House today at Labor Minister Bevin's proposal to call up women between the ages of 45 and 50.

Viscountess Davidson, Conservative, described it as "a very great mistake... Unless they are treated with great tolerance and understanding I am afraid the Government will lose more than it has gained."

Meanwhile 27 M.P.'s tabled a motion protesting the proposal on the grounds it "would have a most serious effect on the home life of thousands of married men and upon the health of women."

M. S. McCorquodale, joint parliamentary secretary to the Ministry of Labor, said "there is no intention of sending this type of woman all over the country. In the main they will be regarded as immobile."

He said they could release younger women for work in factories by doing hospital work and serving as midwives.

R. D. Arnott, K.C. Elected In Hastings West

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Aug. 5. — True to the traditions that West and East Hastings have always remained in the Conservative ranks in both Provincial and Federal elections, the electors on Wednesday again sent back Richard D. Arnott, K.C., Belleville barrister, as representative for West Hastings, and Roscoe Robson, Reeve of Thurlow Township and influential farmer, as representative for East Hastings, in the Progressive Conservative ranks. Both secured substantial majorities over that obtained in the 1937 election despite the fact that both were opposed by Liberal and C.C.F. candidates.

The large majorities obtained were not the result of a big vote in any one subdivision but a gradual piling up of a plurality vote as the results seeped through from the far distant polling booths. "Dick" Arnott polled 6,297; Douglas W. Bews, C.C.F. 2,984, and Lt.-Col. Roscoe Vanderwater, D.S.O., Liberal, 3,926. In East Hastings Roscoe Robson polled 4,388, J. A. Macninch, C.C.F. 927 and Edward Brown 3,110.

Succeeds Welsh

Mr. Robson was the choice of the convention to contest the seat left vacant by the tragedy befalling Dr. Harold E. Welsh, who was drowned while on a fishing trip to Algonquin Park. In many of the polling subdivisions, namely Marysville, Tyendinaga township and White Lake, where a Liberal candidate generally polls a majority of the votes. Mr. Robson secured substantial majorities and it was clearly seen that he would be elected by a large plurality. Mr. Mcaninch, the C.C.F. candidate, was not a resident of the riding and he ran just that way. He secured his largest vote in the industrial sections of the riding at Corbyville and Point Anne. Mr. Brown, a resident of Madoc, carried his own village by a small majority but this was a personal vote rather than the will of the people.

West Hastings saw a most spirited race caused by the injection of Mr. Bews as a C.C.F. candidate and who received the support of the industries in Belleville. He ran a good second to the winning candidate in the city and he also ran well in Trenton but after this flurry the race resolved itself between the two old parties with the Conservative candidate forging steadily ahead over his Liberal rival.

It was expected that Vanderwater had developed some strength among the farming communities in the northern part of the county, but Arnott won Marmora Village and Bancroft Village quite handily. Vanderwater was defeated in Sidney Township, a municipality he has served for many years and in which he resides. He did, however, carry his own poll, but only by a slight majority. The vote was exceptionally light throughout both ridings, being down nearly 20 per cent from the election of 1937.

Citizens Warned Against Coupon Juggling

Under no circumstances may consumers place orders with their butchers for meat to be delivered after the date on which their coupons expire, it was said today by W. E. Foley of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Peterborough branch. "It is absolutely illegal to place such orders," Mr. Foley stated.

He announced that the "fair share" principle was being applied to the distribution of all goods in short supply according to a new plan outlined to wholesalers and retailers. The feature of the plan is that all suppliers must distribute their goods ratably to all customers in proportion to sales made them in the calendar year, 1941. Special provision is made for areas in which large population changes have occurred, and emergency situations will be adjusted from a common pool into which each wholesaler will contribute a percentage of his stock, Mr. Foley said.

Landlords who have made or renewed leases since April 16, 1942, are reminded by the W.P.T.B. that severe penalties exist for failure to file form RC 40, which is required of them if the lease embodies any change: a change of tenant, a new tenancy, a change of rental or services, or a change of equipment or accommodation. This applies whether the lease is oral or written, Mr. Foley said.

Canadian Sailors To Parade Friday At Noon

Canada needs more men for the Navy and to facilitate recruiting an officer will be in the Duffus Building on Water street in the Board Room on the second floor on Thursday, August 5 from 7.30 until 9.30 in the evening and again on Friday, Aug. 6 from 10 to 12 in the morning, from 2 to 4.30 in the afternoon and from 7.30 until 9.30 on Friday night.

A great many recruits are needed as Ordinary Seamen, Stokers and Cooks, and no previous experience is required. All applicants must have at least passed the Entrance class and must be over 17½ years of age.

Peterborough people will be given an opportunity of seeing a few of the Canadian sailors on parade at 11.30 noon when a naval unit of 60 men will parade from McDonnel and George streets, and will proceed down George to Charlotte, out Charlotte to Rubidge, down Rubidge to Albert and out Albert past the C.G.E. to Monaghan Road and the Staff House. On their return they will leave the Staff House at 2 o'clock, proceed north on Monaghan Road to Charlotte, on Charlotte to George and north on George to Confederation Square.

Hundreds of Peterborough boys and also boys from the district are now serving in the navy and many of them have been given technical training that will be invaluable when they return to civilian life. Hundreds of others can be accommodated, and many who have been anxious to join, but could not make the trip to Kingston, now will have an opportunity of talking with a naval officer right here in Peterborough.

THANK YOU!
I wish to thank all those who supported me at the polls yesterday. I realize that the program outlined by Col. Drew was the reason for the results in this district yet I also feel that you are placing your confidence in me to support him in carrying this program through and I will do my utmost to justify your trust.
The brunt of the work has fallen heavily on the ladies in this campaign. I wish to thank them especially for the way they rallied to my support, also all the other workers who sacrificed their time and leisure to help, and used their cars in spite of the shortage of gas and tires.
This has been a good clean fight and my two friends who opposed me would also have been worthy representatives of the Peterborough Riding.
In closing this message of thanks my one hope is that before we have another election all our boys overseas will be home with us and that they will return to a happy future well planned in advance for them.
Sincerely,
HAROLD SCOTT

Tables Turned As Wrens Paddle Canoes

AN EASTERN CANADIAN PORT, Aug. 4.P(CP).—There was a time when salty sailors thrilled their girl-friends with canoe rides, but it's a diferent story nowadays—the tables are turned.

The Wrens are stealing the sailors' thunder, says the Navy in a press release to-day, for it's a familiar sight along the waterfront these warm summer evenings to see winsome wrens paddling their way along with the sailor boy-friend resting his head on the soft cushion and dangling his burly arms over the side.

The girls like it. But, what's more, so do the boys.

"It's great fun and I go every chance I get," says Switchboard Operator Gwen Parsons of Port Arthur. "I'm really not much of a paddler, though."

"I can't get out often enough," is the complaint of Writer Rena War, of Woodstock, Ont.

DOROTHY DIX

GIRLS MAY MISTAKE LOVE FOR ROMANCE FOR ENDURING APPEAL

Don't Marry Until Affection Thoroughly Tested and Feelings Are Proven.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a young girl who has left her home for the first time and gone to a city where I know no one to work in the Civil Service. My problem is that I have met several boys and each time thought I was in love. However, subsequent events prove that this was not the case.

Recently, while accompanied to a dance by a young man with whom I thought I was in love, I was introduced to another young man and we danced together most of the evening. He has been very attentive to me ever since and I am considering getting married to him. But do you think I might be rushing things?

DOUBTFUL MARY.

In Love With Love

ANSWER — Well, Mary, I think that after your experience with the other young men of whom you tired so easily you do well to be doubtful, not to say suspicious, of your feelings towards this current youth. You evidently thought that each of the other lads was the ONLY ONE at the time, yet you discovered that there was always another with a more alluring line whom you liked better. And while swapping dance partners, if you lose your taste for them, is an easy thing to do before marriage, swapping husbands is something else yet again.

You see, the trouble with you is that you are in love with love and you are so sloshing over with sentiment that you are ready to pour it over any youth who comes along. You are like the girls in the old Floradora sextette who used to sing "I must love somebody and it might as well be you." And so you can imagine yourself as cherishing a deathless devotion to a man one day, and yet being tired of him the next. Lots of girls make the mistake of thinking they are in love with a man when they are only in love with romance.

Don't be one of them. Don't marry any man until you have tested out your affection thoroughly and are sure of your feelings about him. It takes time for that. You can't tell whether you really love a man or not until you have seen him when he was sick and when he was well; when he was sitting on top of the world and when he was groveling in the slough of despond; when things were going right with him and when he was bucking hard luck until you have found out whether you can trust him, or whether he will be a broken reed on which to lean in times of trouble.

You seem to think that you are in love with this last suitor because you dance well together. Your step matches his so you think on that evidence you are congenial. Well, daughter, there isn't very much dancing in marriage after a poor girl and boy set up housekeeping together. It is mostly work and worry and bills and babies, and it is more important to find out if a boy will make the kind of a husband who will walk the hard road with you, instead of dancing the rumba.

A successful business man says that it takes a year for a man to get well enough acquainted with another man to know if he will make a good partner. That goes double for marriage. Don't be in a hurry about signing a life contract on the dotted line. Take time to think it over. Be sure of yourself as well as being sure of him.

DEAR MISS DIX—I have a husband who is patriotism itself until some sacrifice is required of him, then he lets the other fellow make it. We have a fine son in the service of his country, and in order to help him and all the other boys who are fighting for us I have been following diligently every request asked of housewives and co-operating in every possible way I can in order to do my bit on the home front.

My greatest problem is my husband who does not see why the war should interfere with his comfort, or why he should deprive himself of anything he wants—meat, sugar, gas, coffee, clothing. He storms over every meatless meal. He refuses to ride to work on the streetcar or bus. He loudly demands a second cup of coffee. He raves and destroys the pleasure and peace of the household. What do you think of a man like that?

NONPLUSSED WIFE.

Gagging Proper For Fair-Weather Patriots

ANSWER—Oh, I think there are plenty of men and women, too, who take their patriotism out in flag-waving. If they could win the war with their tongues, their breasts would be covered with medals for gallantry in action. But when it comes to making a personal sacrifice of their comforts, they are AWOL.

They want somebody else to endure hardships and make the sacrifices and do the fighting, while they criticize the way things are done and tell exactly how every campaign should be run.

Certainly human selfishness and self-centeredness has its ultimate expression in the people who are not willing to fight themselves, or to have their husbands or sons fight, and who resent having to give up any of the pleasures and luxuries they are accustomed to in order to meet war needs. What they want is

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, August 6

WITH SUCH a breathtaking and thrilling chain of planetary configurations, almost any extravagance of prediction might be happily discounted. Events, adventures and situations unpredictable, and unprecedented are probable. While there is this sign of skyrocket and explosive precipitancy there are also sound and logical auguries and justifications. All in all it is time for reaching for the highest goals, with all the acumen and skill possible, but there should be sound, safe and sane preparation should a dramatic windfall suddenly materialize. Financial success, promotion, public acclaim, romance and adventure in all phases of human life are likely to eventuate. Accept what the planetry gods sent with balance as well as gratitude.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a memorable year of dramatic, thrilling and possibly unprecedented adventures, romances and experiences out of the ordinary or unexpected. Promotion, honors, favors, publicity, social or professional fulfillments, sustained by the solid values of increased credit, financial expansion, and many objective realizations. These should be sought for with efficiency, skill, talent and the utilization of personality, charm and power.

A child born on this day may be exceptionally fitted for the attainment of high place and power in life, through its own wordly equipment as well as by its innate qualities of mind and temperament.

BANDANNA GIRL

THEY'RE a proud sisterhood, the girls who wear the bandannas, proud of doing a man's job producing the tools of war. Gwen Bechard used to be a salesgirl, now welds gun parts. "Early shift starts at 7:30," says Gwen, "means no time to waste in the morning. That's why I like Kellogg's Corn Flakes . . . ready in 30 seconds and taste swell! No pots and pans to wash either. They're economical, too . . . no waste or left-overs." Let Kellogg's save time, fuel and work for you. Two convenient sizes. Get some tomorrow.

Of Interest to Women

Necessity Has Become Mother of Many Dishes

By MARY MOORE

When a thunderstorm sours your milk and cream (kept in a melting-ice-box) and you make a chocolate pudding from it and everybody wants more; when you order a wing roast from a small town butcher and find the kidney attached and serve it fried accompanied by some canned ham fried; when you have no dessert so wander around the place picking the biggest of the green apples you can find on the old apple trees for applesauce; when the news reaches you by farm telegraph that there's a fine stand of wild raspberries in the clearing in your own thicket — then you begin to appreciate the ingenuity of all farmers' wives in the art of "making do."

Any little tricks that I discover and repeat I find they've known for years,—and that I would learn a lot by listening to and talking with them for a while.

Take the preserving of snap beans for instance; while I might curtly say that unless you have a steam pressure cooker it is not safe to can them, the farmer's wife promptly tell me she wouldn't can them anyway—she brines the snaps, and dries the ripened ones.

Now while I have tasted many brined beans in my day the beans I tasted yesterday at the farmhouse from last year's crop were the best yet.

Since the brining of vegetables is receiving a great deal of attention in the food industry at present, I want to give you the method so you won't be tempted to can them at boiling point and thus risk some spoilage.

If you do not have a pressure canner do not can beans; try this brining method.

Brined Snap Beans

Wash, dry and weight the beans and cut them into inch lengths. Pack the cut beans into a clean 2-gallon crock and pour over them one gallon of brine made by dissolving 1 lb. salt in 1 gallon lukewarm water. Let brine cool and pour over vegetables in crock. Cover with double thickness of cheesecloth. After 24 hours add ½ lb. salt (¾ cup) for every 5 lbs. vegetables. Then add three tablespoons of salt once each week for 4 or 5 weeks (for every five lbs., vegetables). When adding salt it should be placed on the cheesecloth and allowed to dissolve slowly.

When ready to use beans freshen them by soaking in clear water until they taste palatable—changing the water about 3 times in 3 hours.

Brining is being used extensively for corn, cauliflower, green tomatoes and of course cucumbers and to a lesser extent for green peppers, onions and turnips.

The following offerings are some of the dishes I have had to make do with because of our isolation on our fishing trip.

Kidney and Canned Ham Grill

These are both unrationed meats, so . . .

Slice a beef, or veal or baby beef kidney in slices ½ - inch thick and soak in salt water for 20 minutes. Drain well and dip in flour and fry in ham fat until cooked through, salting when turned over. Slice one of the canned ham products (there are at least six of them on the market) dip in flour and quickly fry them in the ham fat left in pan after kidneys are done. Arrange on platter and garnish with watercress from the creek not more than 100 yards from your back door!

This pudding is made from slightly soured milk that has not yet become thick.

One quart sour milk, ½ cup sugar, 4 tablespoons cornstarch, 4 tablespoons flour, 1-3 teaspoon salt, 2 beaten egg yolks, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 egg whites, stiffly beaten, 4 tablespoons good quality cocoa. Heat the milk in top of double boiler, reserving 1 cup to mix with dry ingredients. Mix together the sugar, cornstarch, flour, salt and cocoa, and mix to a paste with the 1 cup cold milk. When milk is scalding hot, stir in the paste, then mix it in with a rotary beater until it thickens, cover and let cook 20 minutes. Pour a little of it over the beaten yolks, and return this to the double boiler, mixing well, and let cook 2 minutes longer. Add vanilla. Let cool and when cool add the stiffly beaten whites, and pour into the dishes in which it is to be served. This amount will serve 12 people amply—we had company from the next farmhouse—so I know. We passed sugar and cream because they expectd it, but I think it is quite nice without either.

Sour Cream Dressing

One-half cup sour cream, 1 tablespoon white wine vinegar or lemon juice, 1 tablespoon chopped chives or onions, ½ teaspoon salt, shake of white pepper, shake of paprika. Mix and beat ingredients together with a rotary beater, beating until all is light—serve on lettuce or any desired green salad.

The folks who own the cottage we are in picked all the black currants from the long row of them at the back of their property that they wanted and said we could have the rest. We borrowed pint jars from our treasure of a farmer's wife and having tasted her last year's black currant preserves did ours her way.

Mrs. Hughes' Black Currant Preserves

Two quarts black currants, 4 cups water, 10 cups sugar (that 10 cups made a terrific vacancy in our sugar jar). Wash and pick over the black currants and add the water to them and simmer over low heat until currants are tender—about 20 minutes. Add the sugar, bring quickly to boiling point stirring often and boil 2 minutes, and pour into sterile pint jars and seal with sterile rubbers, tops and rings. (Mrs. Hughes says the top part of the jar pours off very thick as jam, and in the bottom there is about a 1½-inch layer of the loveliest jelly you could wish for—I'm too covetous of mine to open it, but I tasted hers and when I tip mine can see that the bottom is a firm jelly.) Remember that black currants contain the elusive Vitamin G.

One of our friends has a brother in the vegetable propagating business, and she has sent us celtuce and rhubarb chard. The celtuce is a combination of celery and lettuce and is pale green, the texture of the heart of a lettuce, but mild and tender like celery—delicious cubed in potato or cabbage salad, or in strips iced. The rhubarb chard loks like immense beet tops, but the stems are cerise in color, and the leaves are big and shiny. They made a delicious dish of "cooked greens." Be on the watch for both of these delicious new and mild vegetables.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: I have been pickling our own beets from the garden for many years, but think there might be a better way than I do them—I want the method that would be given me if I had gone to cooking school. I think mine too sour. Could you also tell me how to can mulberries?—Mrs. Hugh O'Connell.

ANSWER: The sourness of beets is a matter of choice but this is a standard method of pickling them:

PICKLED BEETS.

Select beets of uniform size, cut off tops, but allow at least 1 inch of stems to remain so that beets will not bleed and lose their color and sweetness. Wash and cook until tender in enough water to cover—for young beets this requires ½ hour. When tender plunge into cold water, remove skins by slipping them off, and when cool cut in halves or slices or leave whole if beets are small. Pack into jars, to each pint add ½ teaspoon salt, and fill with a mixture of vinegar and sugar of equal measures—that is if you need 4 cups vinegar you will add 4 cups sugar. Some vinegar is very acid—if so dilute one-quarter with boiling water. Heat vinegar and sugar mixture to boiling point to dissolve sugar, and then pour over the beets— seal with sterile rubbers, tops and rings.

CANNED MULBERRIES

(or Blueberries or Raspberries).

Mulberries are so soft they must be gathered fresh in shallow vessels to prevent crushing. Wash, pick over and drop into sterile jars. Cover with moderately light syrup of 2 cups sugar to each 4 cups of water, brought to boiling point and boiled 5 minutes before pouring over the fruit. Seal jars, with sterile rubbers, tops and rings and process in hot water bath 20 minutes, counting time after water in bath begins to boil. Tighten seal—never open jars. This method is correct for both blueberries and raspberries, too.

QUESTION: Although I think it will use up just as much sugar in the end, I want to can some of my fruit with water only. I think I could space my canning sugar better that way if I added it to the fruit when we ate it. Besides I think my family is getting used to having things a little less sweet and by winter they may be even a little more tolerant of undersweetened fruit. Give me general directions for canning fruit without sugar—just using water—I never have any fruit go bad, so think my methods of sterilizing are safe. Thanking you in advance.—Mayme Bates.

ANSWER: You have mentioned the one precaution that must be emphasized in sugarless canning—perfect sterilization.

CANNING FRUITS SANS SUGAR

Sugar may be added or not in canning fruit—it is a common practice to can fruit without sugar for diabettics. For fruits such as berries, cherries, currants and plums, that have a lot of juice, no water is needed, but some of the juice is extracted from the less perfect fruit, by boiling and straining, and then poured over the prepared fruit in jars.

Pack prepared, perfect fruit in sterile jars. If fruits are large and not very juicy like, apples, peaches and pears, pour boiling water over them and seal. If juicy, pack in jars and pour over them boiling hot juice from less perfect fruit. Seal any fruit with sterile rubbers, tops and rings and process in hot water bath. Apples 20 min., peaches 30 min., pears 30 min., berries 20 min., plums 20 min., fruit juices 20 min., cherries 25 min.

1943's New Shirtmaker

Maurice Rentner

A honey-toned beige English wool eponge for this softly tailored frock, which features a set-in wide waistline, fly front blouse with convertible collar, fake flap pockets.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

NOTHING stark or stingy about this shirtmaker frock which demonstrates wartime necessity for smartness that avoids chichi and a limited role in the wardrobe. Becoming to all types and heights of figure, slender without being sausage case difficult, it's our favorite American fashion skillfully cut from a minimum of fabric and bedizened with discretion to take it out of any flat uniform look. The big shiny gilt buttons are a fad of the famous New York creator who turned out this honey for the coming season.

This Week's Best Wartime Recipe

Contributed By Mary Moore Readers

DEAR MARY MOORE: I am trying to find ways to use unrationed meat, and while I don't want to serve weiners too often I use them about once every 2 weeks and did them this way last wek, and the family liked them very much.

ESCALLOPED CABBAGE AND WIENERS.

One-quarter cup dripping, ¼ cup flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon basil and ground bay leaves (this may be left out of you don't like them), ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 2 cups milk, 1 small head cabbage cut in wedges, 12 wieners cut lengthwise. Prepare white sauce as follows: Melt drippings, add flour and seasonings, mix well, then add milk, stirring until thick. Arrange the wedges of cabbage in shallow casserole, pour white sauce over and bake at 350 degrees Fahr. until the cabbage is tender—about 40 minutes. Brush cut side of wieners with drippings, place over cabbage in casserole, cut side up. Place under broiler for about 5 minutes, or until nicely tinged brown. — Bachelor-Girl.

This is a good standard method to use for kale and sausages, cauliflower and pork chops, sliced potatoes and bacon or ham, etc. Besides saving an extra cooking pan, it conserves all the minerals and the majority of vitamins in the vegetables. Thanks and come again—some man is missing a good cook.

for other men, other peoples' husbands and sons to defend them. Other people go without meat and sugar that they may have a double share. They want us still to be America, not Norway, or Holland, or Poland, but they want others to hand them freedom and a right to a way of life on a silver salver.

These fair-weather patriots make the balance of us very tired. And it is a pity, they can't be gagged, or something.

DEAR MISS DIX—My husband is in the army and he wants me to come where he is, but my mother and her friends are against it. What I really want to do myself is to go to him so that I can be with him as much as possible.

We have a baby 18 months old and my husband says that he gets so lonesome for us that he can hardly stand it, and I feel the same way about him. He says she will find a place for me to stay before I come. But my mother says that if I ever leave that I can't come back to her. Whenever she gets mad she tells me to take my things and go. That is another reason I prefer to be with my husband.

I have enough money to live on and to come and go. What do you think I should do?

MRS. H. M.

ANSWER—If your husband can find a place for you to live in and you have the money to go on, I should think it will be perfectly alright for you to go to your husband and be with him as long as you can. The objection to wives going to camps to join their husbands has been that in so many places there has been a housing shortage and they could find no decent place to live, and also because it was more expensive than many of them could afford.

Your mother must be a very high-tempered and unreasonable woman to even threaten to have nothing to do with you if you follow your normal impulses to go to your husband. Probably she doesn't mean it. But if you are wise you will not attempt to live with her again.

Flowers Look Lovely in a Summer Garden

PERENNIALS FROM SPRING TO FALL

Summer's cooler and sweeter when you have a lovely garden—and this one is easily grown.

It's a garden of perennials that comes up year after year, and blooms from spring to fall. Plant it along a porch or picket fence—or anywhere!

Flowers are lovely in the summer time and just as important as vegetables.

In hot summer, have cool chaste pastels — pink and white phlox, daisy-like anthemis and blue narebells. And in autumn, your glorious, victorious purple asters, red-bronze chrysanthemums!

Most perannials like more sun than shade, so choose an open spot for yours. In planting, consider height; little harebells should be placed before taller anthemis and phlox.

Our 32-page booklet tells all about raising garden perennials and annuals, bulbs, roses, vines, shrubs, herbs, trees, lawns. Diagrams right way to prepare soil and prune shrubs; explains what to do about plant pests.

For your copy of HOW TO PLANT AND CARE FOR YOUR GARDEN send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHAT COULD HE HAVE?

YOU MUST give your opponents credit for having some sense. To base your defense against their contract on the idea that one of them had bid with practically nothing in his hand will not pay very consistent dividends. You will be better off generally to consider that the other fellow probably had about the same strength you would have required if you had made the same bid he did. By using tactics which have a chance to work against good opponents, you are not giving yourself the worst of it.

North: ♠ 7 3 ♥ J 8 7 6 2 ♦ A 3 ♣ A K 7 2

West: ♠ K J 5 4 ♥ A 10 9 5 ♦ K 5 4 ♣ 6 4

East: ♠ A Q 9 8 2 ♥ 4 ♦ Q 6 2 ♣ 9 8 5 3

South: ♠ 10 6 ♥ K Q 3 ♦ J 10 9 8 7 ♣ Q J 10

(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	Pass	1♥
1♠	2♦	3♠	Pass
Pass	4♥	Dbl	Pass
4♠	Pass	Pass	Dbl

Imagining North's double betokened a desire to ruff diamonds, South led the J of his own suit. Seeing that he figured to take three tricks with his own top cards and counting on his partner for some defensive ability, North decided that his partner might have the spade A; if so, he could set the contract an additional trick with a diamond ruff.

So, when the declarer played low on the diamond lead, North came in with his A and returned the 3. Imagine his chagrin when the declarer, after winning this with dummy's K, was able to drop the hostile trumps in two rounds, saving two in the dummy to ruff clubs. As a consequence, all that the declarer lost was three tricks, two in clubs and only one in diamonds.

If North had given East credit for a little soundness, he would have realized that the spade A was almost surely in the declarer's hand, and that his own diamond A had better be kept to knock off the K. Had he done that, and played low on the opening lead, nothing in the world could have prevented East from losing two tricks in each minor. Treating East as a fellow who would bid on nothing cost North's side about 500 points.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ J 7 5 ♥ 10 9 7 3 ♦ A K J ♣ J 7 6

West: ♠ 8 3 ♥ A 4 ♦ Q 10 7 4 2 ♣ K Q 9 2

South: ♠ 10 9 6 ♥ Q 8 6 5 ♦ 9 6 3 ♣ 5 4 3

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

If East bids spades twice, West diamonds and then clubs, and East finally 3-No Trumps, what suits ordinarily would be considered the best and worst to lead?

Canadian Industry Conserves Critical Materials

Millions of dollars, man-hours, machine-hours, and thousands of tons of vital raw materials are being saved by substitution, redesign, and improved production methods adopted in hundreds of Canadian war plants. Co-operation on the part of labor and management, feats of ingenuity and engineering, and the pooling of information have been the main factors in assuring the success of the country-wide industrial conservation campaign launched by a special committee operating under Production Co-ordinator H. J. Carmichael, of the Department of Munitions and Supply. In the ABOVE picture, two Ottawa girl war workers, Edna Hogue, LEFT, and Leone Sharpe, are examining an inspection lamp, one of more than 1,000 items displayed in the war-time industrial conservation exhibit at Ottawa. Handle of the lamp, part of the equipment supplied with Canadian-built army trucks, was once made of rubber. It is now made of wood, a substitution which saves 28,000 pounds of precious rubber on annual production.

Catholic Bishop Consecrated At Ogdensburg

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 (AP)—With the pomp and color the Roman Catholic Church lavishes on the centuries-old ceremony, Rev. Bryan McEntegart, widely-known in child welfare work, was consecrated Bishop of Ogdensburg yesterday in St. Patrick's cathedral.

Most Rev. Archbishop Francis J. Spellman occupied a special throne on the epistle side of the sanctuary as the Most Rev. Amelto Giovanni Cicognani, apostolic delegate to the United States, conducted the three-hour service as consecrator. He was assisted by Bishop Edmund F. Gibbons of Albany and Bishop Auxiliary Stephen J. Donahue of New York, co-consecrators.

Three other archbishops attended the ceremony. They were Most Rev. Alexandre Vachon, Archbishop of Ottawa; Most Rev. Moses E. Kiley of Milwaukee and Most Rev. Edward Mooney, Archbishop of Detroit.

Right Rev. William A. A. Scully, who gave the consecration sermon, declared that Bishop McEntegart became a member of the American hierarchy "at the beginning of a new era," when a post-war world would demand courageous leadership and careful planning.

"The many injustices of the old order will be swept away," he said. "It is our hope that the old formula of materialism and irreligion likewise will be case aside, for their failure is now evident in the harvest of destruction and chaos seen in the present war."

British Liberals Re-organizing

By SYDNEY GRUSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 5 (CP). — The Liberals of Britain, split into divided political camps since 1931, seemingly are drawing together again.

The leaders of the movement to cement Liberal strength under one banner are Ernest Brown and Sir Archibald Sinclair, respective heads of the Liberal Nationals and straight Liberals who walked opposite paths in the party's stormy paths of 1931 and 1932.

Now they are together again in the Coalition Government, Brown as Minister of Health and Sir Archibald as Air Secretary. And apparently with the hope of infusing a measure of the strength the party enjoyed in Britain's political affairs many years ago, Brown has held out the Olive branch and Sir Archibald has taken hold of it.

When Lloyd George and Sir Herbert Samuel broke with Viscount Simon, who formed the Liberal National Party in 1931, over the question of support of Ramsay Macdonald's Coalition Government, bitter words were spoken by both sides. Many of them were uttered by Sir Archibald, aligned with Sir Herbert, and Brown, and a strong supporter of Sir John.

Important Meeting Held In Vatican

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 (AP).—The Rome radio, in a Vatican City dispatch, reported an hour and a half meeting today of the congregation of extraordinary ecclesiastic affairs, which it pointed out had charge of handling all affairs to be concluded between the Holy See and foreign governments and of examining matters submitted to it by the Pope through the papal secretary of state.

The broadcast, recorded by The Associated Press, said "particular importance" was attached to the meeting, but gave no hint of subjects discussed.

The Old Remedy For Children

Few people, especially children, escape an attack of summer complaint during the hot weather.

Summer complaint begins with a profuse diarrhoea very often accompanied by vomiting and purging. The matter excreted from the stomach has a bilious appearance, and that from the bowels watery, whitish, ill-smelling, or even odorless.

When the children show any sign of looseness of the bowels the mother should administer a few doses of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry so as to bring quick relief.

This medicine has been on the market for the past 94 years. Refuse substitutes. They may be dangerous.

Phoney Doctor Faces Charge

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Aug. 5 (CP)—Michael Marcus, fruit dealer, today was committed to trial for manslaughter in connection with the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Landry, of Joggins, N.S., in a hotel here on June 23.

The next circuit court is scheduled to meet September 28. Bail of $20,000 was continued.

Marcus was placed under arrest following a verdict by a coroner's jury that Mrs. Landry "came to her death as a result of arsenic poisoning absorbed through repeated applications of an arsenous paste to the breast of Michael Marcus."

Evidence was that the woman, suffering from an affliction to the right breast, came to Saint John from Joggins to receive treatment from a man spoken of by witnesses as "Doctor" Marcus.

New Allied Aerial Tornado Blasting Messina; Americans Take Gagliano

Germans Retreating In Area Near Etna After Severe Fighting Canadians Register Substantial Gains

By RELMAN MORIN—Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Aug. 6—(AP).—United States troops have plunged forward two to three miles on the north coastal road to Messina, and in the central sector of Sicily have seized Gagliano in a steady rollback of Germans west of Mount Etna, an Allied communique announced today.

The Allied aerial tornado meanwhile reached a new climax as heavy bombers bludgeoned Messina, the last big Axis escape hatch to the mainland, and air and naval forces continued to blast open the path on the north coast.

British and Canadian troops in the centre smashed ahead toward Aderno in "steady progress" forward from Centuripe and Regalbuto, headquarters said, but the Germans are resisting fiercely.

Gagliano lies back of a line between Troina, taken by Americans, and Regalbuto which was seized by Canadian and British troops. Its fall helps straig[illegible] the Allied line and further endangers the German defence shielding withdrawal of large Axis forces from the south and central areas of Sicily.

The communique said that a British 8th Army brigade accepted unconditional surrender af Catania, the east coast seaport and anchor of the Etna line, at 10:15 a.m. yesterday, and that British troops then swept northwest to take Misterbianco and cross the Simeto River to Paterno 10 miles away.

Other British 8th Army units were smashing ahead north up the east coast toward Taormina and Messina 55 miles away.

Closer To Messina

On the north coast the Americans are threatening San Fratello and late reports put them within two miles of that road junction, capture of which would cut the last lateral roads still in enemy hands.

The assault upon Messina marked the first time in many weeks that the Allies' heaviest air weapons have been used against that badly-battered Sicilian target.

R.A.F. Wellingtons blasted the beaches near Messina in a follow-up raid during the night, to disrupt German supply efforts and the evacuation of non - essential personnel reported underway for about a week. Small boats can ply the narrow Messina Straits despite the continuous Allied air and naval siege of those waters. A ship offshore was fired by a direct hit last night.

Swarms of medium bombers, fighter-bombers and fighters continued to fill the sky over the dwindling enemy bridgehead, roving unopposed over roads and railroads, hurling steel into troop convoys and blasting the towns of Aderno, Francavilla and other key points of the German defence system.

The Germans were putting up a particularly bitter defence in the

Sicily Invasion Needed 3,266 Allied Ships

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 6 (AP).—The official Allied naval story of the Sicilian invasion was released today and its disclosed that 3,266 surface craft of all types from battleships to motor torpedo boats took part.

The naval commanders in actual charge of the landings were identified as Rear Admirals Rhoderick R. McGrigor, Sir Philip Vian and Thomas Hope Troubridge of the Royal Navy, and Alan G. Kirk John L. Hall and Richard L. Connolly of the U.S. Navy.

The report said the British hospital ship Talamba, lying three miles to seaward of one of the British anchorages and fully lighted in accordance with the Geneva Convention, was deliberately bombed, with considerable loss of life, the first day of the invasion.

(This was the first disclosure of a loss of life in the attack upon the Talamba. Allied Headquarters announced on July 12 that she was sunk by Axis bombers off the Sicilian coast and said 400 wound-[illegible] aboard were transferred suc-[illegible]ssfully.)

In stressing the importance of Allied naval and merchant fleets in "the great amphibious expedition ever undertaken," the official statement said "an invading army cannot live upon the country."

"Food and even water may have to be provided by sea," it said. "Even an air force cannot operate without fuel carried in ships."

City Of Aderno Almost Isolated

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 6 — (CP Cable) — Aderno is seriously threatened by troops of the Canadian First Division who are reported officially to be progressing steadily in an area of Sicily west of Regalbuto.

If the Canadians succeed in capturing Aderno, probably with help from the British 78th Division, it was said here to-day, the defenders' only lateral line of communication from the foot of Mount Etna will be cut and the German chances of extricating themselves greatly reduced.

The highway is already further south at Paterno and Misterbianca, both captured by the British [illegible]h Army.

Aderno is a great bottleneck of communications in the area in front of the advancing Canadian and British troops.

Edmonton Unit Invades Desolate Stretch

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN SICILY, Aug. 5.—(Delayed).—(CP Cable).—The loyal Edmonton regiment, chosen for the job because a number of the officers and men know the Rockies and also many of the men, farmers and ranchers, know how to care for horses, were sent on a daring thrust eastward through wild mountainous country of central Sicily.

They travelled through Terrain where no vehicles can be used, where water, rations and ammunition are carried by mule trains. While earlier they had been through a great deal of rough fighting, this advance through the mountains was one of the most difficult operations they have attempted.

This is a partial story of the mountain attack obtained from an officer and a private who had been in touch with the operation.

The Edmontons first sent patrols into the mountains and as no enemy was reported the battalion moved forward with its first mule train.

Creeks Are Dry

They went into barren country where all streams were dried up. I went forward to the fringe of this area and it is a jumble of rolling high mounds and brown mountain slopes with some patches of green trees giving the only relief to the desolate scene in the glaring sun.

Haze drifted across the peaks.

When the infantrymen got into a valley German observation outposts picked them out and there was a crossfire from mortars and machine-guns. The Canadians lost some mules and their wireless communications broke down when the sets were damaged.

There were some casualties and they were all evacuated by stretch-

Railway Union Demands Pay Increases For 140,000 Workers On Canadian Routes

MONTREAL, Aug. 6 — (CP).—Fourteen railway companies in Canada have been asked to increase their employees basic wage rates, it was announced today by J. W. Ward, chairman of the General Conference Committee of the 18th railway labor organization.

Mr. Ward said that for employees in the "running trade," such as engineers, firemen, conductors, trainmen, yardmen, etc. the organization demanded "an increase in existing basic rates to the extent necessary to equalize Canadian rates with rates paid for similar service in the eastern United States, plus the amount by which such rates may be increased as a result of negotiations and hearings now being conducted in the United States."

For employees not in the running trade, the organization demanded an increase of 23 cents an hour in the basic wage rate.

The organization served the notices on the Canadian National Railways and subsidiaries, the Canadian Pacific Railway and subsidiaries, and others.

The statement said that "almost all of the large Canadian industries have granted their employees one and in some cases two increases in wages during the present war but railway employees have not been given basic increases since 1927."

Liberals To Meet Tuesday Two Seats Still In Doubt

TORONTO, Aug. 6 — (CP). — Premier Nixon returned to Queen's Park today and said at a press conference that a general meeting of his Cabinet will be held Tuesday when a final decision will be reached as to when the Government will resign as a result of its defeat in Wednesday's election.

The Premier, who indicated that the resignation of his Liberal administration might be forthcoming immediately after the Tuesday Cabinet meeting, said that Lieutenant-Governor Albert Matthews has returned to the city from his summer home and he will confer with him today.

Asked which party he would recommend the Lieutenant-Governor to ask to form a government, the Premier said "It is pretty obvious," but declined to say definitely it would be the Progressive Conservatives, led by Lt.-Col. George A. Drew, who have most seats with 38 and are leading in another.

"Final decisions will be made on Tuesday," said Mr. Nixon. "But we are resigning. That is our obvious first duty after defeat."

He added that he had not conferred either with Col. Drew or the C.C.F. leader, E. B. Jolliffe, whose party won 34 seats in the election.

Asked about factors contributing to the Liberal defeat, Mr. Nixon said: "I'm not much for post mortems. There's no use going into that now."

He ended his press conference by saying, "I'm sorry I can't announce a reorganization of the Cabinet" which would have been done if the government had been re-elected.

Meanwhile the result in two ridings—Muskoka-Ontario and Perth—remained in doubt. Frank Kelly, Liberal, led in Muskoka-Ontario by 11 votes with three polls still to report. His total was 4,244 compared with 4,233 for John Gibson, Pro-

First Canadian Lancaster Ready For Flight

TORONTO, Aug. 6—(CP). — Six Western Canadians and an Ontario airman—called the "outsider" — left Toronto today for nearby Malton airport where they will board the first Canadian-built Lancaster bomber and fly it to England.

The thought of flying the huge machine, however, ranked second to the excitement that reigned in their Toronto hotel rooms. A small, fluffy, French poodle given to one of the men for a mascot held their attention.

The airmen, who have all seen service overseas, arrived back in Canada a month ago. In the group are Sqdn. Ldr. Reg. J. Lane, D.S.O., D.F.C., of Victoria; PO. Steve Boczar, Saskatoon; PO. Jean Carrere, Cochrane, Ont.; Sgt. Ross S. Webb, Glenavon, Sask.; Flt. Sgt. Reg. K. Burgar, Traynor, Sask.; Sgt. Mike Baczinski, Brandon, Man., and Flt. Sgt. R. W. (Bill) Wright, D.F.M., of Saskatoon.

Five members of the party—PO. Boczar, PO. Carrere, Flt. Sgt. Burgar, Sgt. Webb and Sgt. Browell—flew together overseas. They went to England together in May, 1942, and in the fall of the same year were crew members of a Lancaster bomber. Two Englishmen completed the crew.

Flt.-Sgt. Burgar said the plane which they flew on operations has since been "cracked up by a green crew."

Sqdn. Ldr. Lane, 23, has 51 operational flights to his credit, having made many raids over Europe. He took part in two daylight raids on the warships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau at Brest but he said the toughest spot of his career was in a raid over Cologne when "flak" cut a petrol line when his aircraft was over the target and two tanks of gasoline were lost. Later his plane was attacked but he landed safely.

32 Days Of Bitter Fighting Kills 1,671 Japanese Takes Vital Enemy Point

Fall Of Airbase Gives American Fliers Ideal Vantage Point To Cut Supply Routes Of Japan's Outposts

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, Aug. 6—(AP).—All organized Japanese resistance at Munda has ceased, Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced today.

Grim evidence of the bitter campaign to wrest the key base from the enemy, a total of 1,671 Japanese dead were counted. There was no immediate announcement as to Allied casualties.

Activity of the American troops now is limited to mopping-up operations.

A special communique said:—

"Munda is now in our hands. All organized enemy resistance has ceased. Action is now limited to desruction of isolated enemy groups.. 1,671 enemy dead have already been collected."

Hundreds of the enemy already had been slain by U.S. infantrymen advancing on their foxholes and coral caves with flame throwers.

The Japanese aircraft has been subjected to one of the fiercest aerial poundings of the Pacific war. To help soften its defences U.S. naval forces bombarded the base on at least one occasion. Tanks and mortars were brought up for the assault after enemy resistance stiffened perceptibly within 2,100 yards of the field itself.

Munda's capture placed the U.S. airforce within fighter plane range of the big Japanese base at Rabaul, 50 miles to the northwest. Its possession by American forces will weaken the importance of such intervening Japanese bases as the Kahili airdrome of South Bougainville, the Buin-Faisi shipping centre, and the big supply depot of Vilva, Kolombangara.

Munda's capture places the United States air force within fighter plane range of the big Japanese air and shipping base of Rabaul, 450 miles to the northwest, and greatly weakens the importance of such intervening Japanese bases at the Kahili airdrome of South Bougainvile, the Buin-Faisa shipping centre, and the big supply depot of Vila, Kolombangara.

On northeastern New Guinea, the Allies' objective, the Salamaua air base, was so seriously menaced that the Japanese attempted numerous counter-attacks five miles below there. The attacks were heavily repulsed.

Red Offensive Envelops Orel, Belgorod

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer.

MOSCOW, Aug. 6 — (AP). — Germany's entire Eastern Front was threatened with collapse today as the Red Army rolled through gaps made by the capture of Orel and Belgorod in the first great Russian summer offensive of the war.

The Red Army's new objectives appeared to be Bryansk and Kharkov. Russian troops pressing south from Belgorod were less than 45 miles from Kharkov, while in the north the Russian armies pushing through Orel were about 75 miles from Bryansk.

The Kharkov salient now bulges out in the German line and the Nazi garrison there is in the same position as their cohorts at Orel before they gave up the city.

Moscow was in a holiday mood for the first time in the war over the twin victories.

The double victory which pried loose two of the most important German strongholds in the south-central front was hailed by Premier Joseph Stalin in a special announcement broadcast from Moscow as dispelling "the legend of the Germans that Soviet troops are allegedly unable to wake a successful offensive in the summertime."

"Death to the German invaders!" he told his victorious forces.

As Belgorod fell to the Russian drive threatening to push the cream of Hitler's forces back into the rich grain fields of the Ukraine, Nazi forces falling back from reconquered Orel are subjected to withering punishment from the Red air fleet.

Northwest of Orel, the Germans launched sharp counter-attacks but the Russians said their forces continued the general advance after annihilating more than 1,000 of the enemy and knocking out 16 tanks and 22 guns.

The Russian advance also was reported continuing south and southwest of the city where more than 30 villages were reoccupied.

3,000 Huns Die

More than 3,000 Germans died in the last phases of the battle for Belgorod, the Soviet announcement said, when the Nazis defended the city bitterly and launched numerous counter-attacks. The Germans also threw fighter planes and bombers at the charging forces before Belgorod, but the Russians said their airmen brought down 66 enemy planes.

As supreme commander-in-chief of the Russian armies, Premier Stalin ordered the double victory celebrated in Moscow by 12 volleys from 120 guns at midnight.

"Eternal glory to the heroes who fell in the struggle for freedom of our motherland," his special message concluded.

Orel's occupation had been expected but Belgorod's fall came with stunning surprise, as official Soviet

Jungle Veterans Return To War

AN ADVANCED SOUTH PACIFIC BASE, Aug. 6 — (AP) — The man who led the United States marines ashore at Guadalcanal one year ago to-day and directed the jungle fights that followed until Japanese resistance was broken, is back in the South Pacific ready for more action.

T.-Gen. Alexander Archer Vandegrift greeted correspondents on the anniversary of the first land offensive in the Pacific with a quiet confidence in victory against Japan.

Back from the United States, where he was decorated with the Congressional Medal of Honor and promoted from Major General to the rank of Lieutenant General in the Marine Corps, Vandegrift has assumed command of the First Marine Amphibious Corps and will direct all marine operations in this area.

Japan never will be defeated by threats, ultimatums or propaganda, he indicated.

"We will have to knock these people out completely, sink their ships and destroy them in the air."

29,057 More Now Working

Almost 2 Million In Industry June 1

OTTAWA, Aug. 6—(CP).—An increase of 29,057 in the number of Canadian workers in May over April was reported today by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, with the 13,689 firms co-operating in the latest survey reporting a combined working force of 1,818,240 men and women at June 1, compared with 1,789,183 at May 1.

The bureau said the increase, amounting to 1.6 per cent., was accompanied by a rise of 2.7 per cent. in the weekly payrolls disbursed, the per capita average salary advancing to $30.91 at June 1 from $30.58 at May 1 and $28.20 at June 1, 1942.

The increase in recorded employment raised the index from 178.2 at May 1 to 181.1 at the beginning of June.

From January 1 to June 1, there was a decline of 1.4 per cent., while employment between these two dates in the period 1921-1939 showed an average advance of 6.8 per cent. In the first three years of the war, the general increase at June 1 as compared with January 1 was 7.1 per cent.

Badoglio's Actions Worry King Victor

Italian Public Wants Peace, But Leader Connives With Nazis

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Old Marshal Badoglio is attempting some mighty risky juggling with the throne of Italy in his efforts to divert at one and the same time the attention of the Allies, who demand unconditional surrender forthwith, and the Germans, who are said to threaten reprisals if he throws up the sponge.

The Italian public wants peace. Fiery demonstrations in many sections of the country show that the people are in that frame of mind which bodes no good for anyone who stands between them and the return to normal for which they so longed have yearned. The fact that Badoglio os keeping the lid on by a vigorous display of force doesn't alter that fact.

May Surrender

It was King Victor Emmanuel who, unwillingly or otherwise, named Badoglio chief of state, with dictatorial powers, when Mussolini collapsed the other day. That inevitably must link the little monarch in the minds of his subjects with any fresh misfortunes which may come to them because of the Marshal's failure to accept the Allied terms, thus inviting bombing and invasion.

Badoglio may see the writing on the wall and surrender. If he persists in playing the Hitlerian games, however, and so condemn his unfortunate country to the horrors of further war, he may precipitate an ulimate political change with far - reaching consequences.

Badoglio or no Badoglio, the Allies are going to take over Italy. Then in due course when the fires of war have died away in Europe, the people of the country will be permitted to choose the form of government under which they wish to live—so long as it isn't Fascist or Nazi. The United Nations have promised this to the Axis countries.

Will the people want to retain a king who contributed to their suffering? Will they even want to keep the monarchy?

Only time can answer those momentous questions. However, we are bound to note that during the recent days of crisis political elements in various parts of the country have been demonstrating in favor of other forms of government.

Among the demonstrants are said to be Communists. One would indeed be short of memory to forget that Mussolini founded Fascism for the avowed purpose of uprooting Bolshevism in Italy, and one would be shortsighted not to see that Communism has taken on strength from the great victories of the Red Army.

HAMILTON, Aug. 6.—(CP).—Police said last night that Elwood Nicholson of Kingston, Ont., was attacked and robbed by three men while walking along a street just outside the city limits. The thieves stole $70 in cash, his watch and suit coat.

Nicholson was taken to hospital for emergency treatment for a possible fractured nose and a cut and bruise on the face.

Prison Production Soars

30,000 Convicts Aiding War Effort

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP). — The convicts of the United States are in this war too—on the home front production line.

Once-idle prisoners are working overtime making everything from bedding to assault boats for the armed forces —everything almost, except guns.

Nearly 30,000 prisoners are working on government contracts in 47 states and production already is at a $20,000,000 a year clip.

It started because of the governments clamp on the non-essential use of steel.

"Prison officials called on me and really kicked it up," said Murray Maverick, former Texas Congressman who heads the government division of the War Production Board. "It meant their auto tag plants would have to close. They were afraid of riots and everything else if their convicts weren't busy."

The result was the prison industries branch of W.P.B., set up specifically to get state penitentiary factories converted to war production.

BADOGLIO TRIES HARD TO WIN MASSES TO NEW WARTIME REGIME

Messina Port Hammered In Big Raid

Troops, Cross Roads Attacked Throughout Sicily

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Aug. 6—(AP).—Heavy Allied bombers attacked Messina yesterday and numerous aerial attacks were made on enemy concentrations and road junctions to follow up the ground sweep through Mount Etna's southern defences, it was announced today.

A communique from Allied Headquarters said road and railway communications in Messina, the key to the dwindling Axis bridgehead in Sicily, was attacked by the heavy bombers with fighter escort.

"Medium bombers attacked road communications at Francavilla (north of Mount Etna and 28 miles southwest of Messina), while light bombers attacked similar targets at Aderno (imperilled enemy base on the Mount Etna road 15 miles northwest of fallen Catania)," the communique said.

8 Planes Lost.

Fighter-bombers carried out repeated attacks on masses of enemy troops and cross roads areas, it was announced.

"Electrical installations on Sardinia were attacked during the day," the communique said. "Intruder aircraft operated over southern Italy during the night of August 4-5.

"Last night our bombers attacked enemy troops and shipping in the neighborhood of Messina.

"From all these operations, eight of our aircraft are missing."

The British 8th Army which yesterday captured Catania, Sicily's second largest city, as well as Misterbianco and Paterno, sent out two columns to operate due north towards Messina, some 55 miles distant, and northwestward around the base of Mount Etna.

The coastal column had as its immediate objective Acireale, nine miles from Catania, while the other appeared headed for a junction with the Canadian-British troops smashing into the German lines in the central section of the front.

The Canadian-British troops—the Canadian 1st division and the British 78th division—aimed their advance at Aderno following the mopping up of rough, hilly country around Regalbuto and Centuripe.

area about Troina.

(Dispatches reaching Allied headquarters in North Africa three days ago said the Americans had taken Troina. Earlier, Prime Minister Churchill said they were reported to have entered Troina, but apparently heavy German counter-attacks developed before the entry could be consolidated.)

Troina Doubtful

The reason for the desperation of the German defence lies in the strategic importance of Troina. Should the town be captured, Axis elements already forced out of Catania, Misterbianco and Paterno would be in danger of being flanked while attempting to retreat around the western slope of Mount Etna.

The battle of Troina therefore is regarded as actually a large-scale rearguard action designed to cover the withdrawal of the Army that lost Catania and has been beaten back by Canadian and British forces in the South and Central sectors.

What are described as "secondary elements"—Axis Army personnel not engaged in actual front line fighting—have already been moving northeastward in the direction of Messina and some have been sent across the straits to the mainland.

A full-scale enemy withdrawal from Sicily has not begun yet so far as is known, but it is believed that Axis commanders are endeavoring to get back to a shorter line north and east of Mt. Etna.

Allied airmen reported significantly that the concentration of anti-aircraft guns around the Messina Straits was the heaviest yet met in the Mediterranean.

Scores of barges employed to shuttle troops and supplies between the mainland and Sicily have been sunk in the Straits.

Two Allied armies—the Americans in the north and the British in the south—now are within 50 miles of Messina and advancing steadily, it was stated authoritatively.

The Canadian drive within six miles of Aderno was threatening still another major link of the Axis communications.

British forces that broke into Catania yesterday captured almost the entire Italian 434th coastal battalion.

The Italians said the Germans pulled out first, leaving them as a rearguard — and, pursuing their habitual tactics, the Nazis failed to notify their allies of their departure.

The Italians said the first indication they had that the city was taken, was when they saw British troops.

Blunt Answer

When they asked for terms the commander of the 8th Army brigade replied curtly: "Unconditional surrender," and they gladly accepted.

Two Allied units were singled out for special mention in the fighting in the past few days. They are an Irish brigade of the 78th British division which has been credited with the capture of Centuripe, and the 4th French Goums, a battalion of wild-fighting Moroccan troops.

The Goums have been battling with particular effectiveness in the tortuous hill country of the northern sector.

Since the initial stages, heavy bombers had not been directed against targets in Sicily. The destructive power of their heavy bombs has been concentrated on bigger objectives on the Italian mainland.

The fact that they have been thrown in against Messina to prevent Axis forces from escaping the island indicates the climax of the struggle is at hand.

In yesterday's raid they aimed principally at harbor installations, and the crews reported excellent results. They had fighter escorts, but met no enemy fighter opposition.

"It was a beautiful piece of bombing," said one pilot.

On 31 Raids

PO. Boczar has been on 31 trips over Europe, always in Lancasters, receiving his commission after five trips as a sergeant. He and his companion, PO. Carrere, have always been together.

PO. Carrere tried to join the R.C.A.F. in 1939 but was rejected and joined the army of another country, later escaping from Europe in 1940.

A graduate of the University of Montreal, he then made his way back to Canada and joined the air force as an air gunner.

Sgt. Webb, 30-year-old wireless gunner, has made 32 operational trips. He said, like other members of the crew, that he has little affection for "Happy Valley," as the Ruhr is called. "It's the most-heavily defended area in Germany but it's really getting pranged," he said. "The last time we were over Essen it was a shamble."

Flt. Sgt. Burgar, 28, mid-upper gunner, is noted among the crew for his uncanny sight in the dark.

Sgt. Baczinsky, a flight engineer, replaced one of the Englishmen. He has made 26 operational flights. Flt. Sgt. Wright replaces the other Englishman as bomb aimer. Sgt. That connotes the kind of charge the police had made out. Mr. Barnecott seems to have caused some trouble in a restaurant. The court will hear more about it next week.

Bracken Lauds Drew's Success

REGINA, Aug. 6 — (CP).—John Bracken, National Progressive-Conservative Leader, said yesterday in a statement that the result of Wednesday's Ontario election "confirms the commonly held opinion that the political parties of to-day must serve in accordance with to-day's appreciation of the common man's problems."

"In view of our system of party government, there will be general regret that George Drew (Ontario Progressive-Conservative Leader), while he will have the largest group does not have a clear majority," Mr. Bracken said. "But, he is to be congratulated upon the recognition which the people of Ontario have accorded to his outstanding qualities of leadership.

"I am delighted with the response the Progressive-Conservative candidates received from the rural ridings. The farmers are the forgotten men of Canada, but they will be heard from in the future."

Nixon Prepares To Vacate

TORONTO, Aug. 6.—(CP).—Premier Nixon to-day prepared to meet the ministers of his defeated government and it was reported they would discuss preparations to vacate office as soon as possible.

Result of the election in one riding— Muskoka-Ontario— still remained in doubt with Frank Kelly, Liberal, holding an 11-vote majority over his Progressive Conservative rival, John Gibson, on the basis of latest returns with seven polls still to report. Kelly had 4,242 votes and Gison 4,231. Gibert Mills, C.C.F., had 3,772.

Lt.-Col. George A. Drew, Progressive Conservative leaded, who heads the largest group in the House with 38 seats, left yesterday for a short fishing trip from which he is expected to return next week. Although his party lacks a clear majority in the 90-seat Legislature, political sources said Col. Drew probably will be called on by Lieutenant Governor Albert Matthews to form a government.

The C.C.F. leader, E. B. Jolliffe, whose party has the second largest group in the House with 34 seats, left to-day for Montreal to take part in the Federal by-election campaign in Montreal Cartier, where David Lewis, national secretary of the C.C.F., is a candidate.

Meanwhile it was reported that the direct vote taken in military camps in Ontario was not compiled in time to be telegraphed to returning officers to be included in returns election night. Major Alex Lewis, chief election officer, said six days were allowed for inclusion of the military camp vote in riding totals.

er bearers who had to carry the wounded three or four miles. Then the regiment became a ghost battalion. Headquarters did not hear from it for hours. There were some worried officers until a couple of the Edmontons made their way back with the latest reports.

Needed Food

They were doing all right, and making progress. But they needed food, water and ammunition.

A mule train had been prepared before this to go in to them, and away it went. It was under mortar fire en route, too, but reached the battalion with the first rations to get up in 36 hours, during which the troops had lived on the small amount of rations and water they carried with them.

The Edmontons have taken some prisoners, identified as troops drawn from the Catania front within the past week.

I drove to other Canadian sectors on the way down to Regalbuto, latest town to fall to the combined Canadian and British advance. On the Macadam road which corkscrews its way from Agira to Regalbuto I passed a destroyed German armored car, a German tank, half a dozen big enemy guns and a dozen overturned Nazi trucks.

There had been hard fighting here as our troops battled to the top of these hills around Regalbuto and forced the Germans out. The town was captured more by absorption via these dominating hills than by direct assault.

Passed Many Graves

I passed German graves by the roadside—Some British and Canadian ones too, with the soldiers' name and his tin hat on each cross.

Regalbuto itself was a fearful sight.

It was bombed, shelled and mortared. Few buildings were unhit. The main square was covered with rubble. I had trouble getting through the streets, but they were being cleared by Sappers. Columns of Canadian infantry slogged through the ruined streets, marching eastward.

The war hit Regalbuto harder than any other Sicilian town through which we have passed. Roofs have been blown off houses, towers of chief buildings have been holed by shells, streets blown up by bombs and ruin and desolation are everywhere.

With Americans on the left flank, the Canadians are seeing a great deal of their neighbors these days. American and Canadian convoys wind in and out of each other on the roads. American and Canadian provost officers direct traffic jointly in some towns. They exchange smokes if they have any and are as co-operative and friendly as if they had been campaigning together for years instead of a matter of weeks.

American correspondents are beginning to come over to the Canadian lines to get some stories, for the exploits of the "Red Patch Devils" are beginning to get around the front.

ly 2,000 vessels, big and little war ships and merchantmen, took part in the first assaults on Sicilian beaches before dawn, July 10.

"In the operations as a whole no fewer than 3,266 ships, vessels and craft of all types played a part. They flew the flags of not only Britain and the United States but of practically all the United Nations. Units of the Royal Canadian, Royal Indian, Dutch, Polish and Greek navies participated in the widespread operations."

The statement said the collection of the invasion vessels was a heavy task and entailed a serious drain upon the shipping resources of the Allies under Admiral of the Fleet Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham, naval commander-in-chief in the Mediterranean.

Working heads of the operation were Admiral Sir Bertram H. Ramsay of the Royal Navy and Vice Admiral Henry K. Hewitt of the U.S. Navy.

On the eve of the invasion with the waters south of Sicily crowded with convoys and their escorts Admiral Cunningham messaged all ships:—

"We are about to embark on the most momentous enterprise of the war, striking for the first time at the enemy in his own land.

Our object is clear and our primary duty is to place this vast expedition ashore in minimum time and subsequently to maintain our military and air forces as they drive relentlessly forward into enemy territory.

"In the light of this great duty, great risks must and are to be accepted. The safety of our own ships and all distracting considerations are to be relegated to second place or disregarded as the accomplishment of our primary duty may require."

Before dawn July 10 two British cruisers, accompanied by destroyers and motor torpedo boats, bombarded Catania which was to fall yesterday.

On the American beaches, from six miles west of Licata to Cape Scalambri, and on the British-Canadian coastline from seven miles west of Cape Correnti to Cape Murro Di Porco just south of Syracuse the initial forces of 160,000 Allied troops, 14,000 vehicles, 600 tans and 1,800 guns were being unloaded.

The first tanks were rolled out through the surf by 5 a.m. in the British-Canadian sector, while the covering fire of cruisers, monitors, destroyers and gunboats beat down enemy resistance.

Rode Heavy Surf.

Despite heavy surf in some places, the Americans also successfully seized their beachheads early in the morning.

Axis fighter-bombers caused some casualties among British landing craft and personnel during the first day and German dive-bombers inflicted damage to landing forces in the American sector.

To United States' landing craft at the western beaches fell the hardest task and the standard of seamanship and resolution displayed were of high order, the official naval statement said.

During Catania's siege strong British naval forces supported the 8th Army by shelling the entrenched German garrison and the official statement departed from its serious tone to relate one incident involving an old battleship engaged in the Catania attack.

Despite having fought in the battle of Jutland in the First Great War and being regarded as extremely aged, she developed a remarkable turn of speed, thanks to the efforts of her engineers, and evoked the following signal from the commander-in-chief;

"Operations well carried out. There's no question that when the old lady lifts her skirts she can run."

Vital Waterway Coveted By Nazis, Allies

By WILLIAM B. KING
Associated Press Staff Writer

ANKARA, Turkey, Aug. 6—(AP).—The Dardanelles, strategically important gateway between the Black Sea and the Mediterranean, once again are the cynosure of covetous eyes as a possible prize of war.

The western half of the Turkish straits, swum by the love-stricken Leander of the Hellenistic love-story and by the Poet Byron 133 years ago, could become an important supply route for the embattled Russian Army.

During the First Great War, the Allies tried to take the straits from the Turks with the aim of assisting Russia, but a 10-month campaign failed.

The Dardanelles, coupled with the Straits of the Bosphorus on the opposite side of the Sea of Marmora, would provide a "short cut" for shipping supplies to the Red Army.

The vital waterway would mean to Russia roughly what the Strait of Gibraltar and the Panama Canal mean to the Allies. However, it cannot become an alternative to the overland supply route through Iraq until Russia has won back the Crimea and the Allies conquer the southern end of the Balkan Peninsula and the Aegean Sea.

On paper, the Straits cannot be used by commercial vessels assisting at war. This was decreed by a treaty signed in 1936 by Turkey on one hand and Great Britain, France, Russia, Japan, Rumania, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Greece on the other. The treaty also allowed Turkey to remilitarize the Straits.

Huns Hold Aegean.

At any rate, the Germans hold the island-dotted Aegean and, with the Bulgarian and Rumanian satellites, maintain at least surface control of the western half of the Black Sea. This would make the passage of a single supply ship—even with full Turkish co-operation—mostly a matter of luck.

Use of the route by hundreds of ships, which would be necessary to

Soviet Clamors For 2nd Front

MOSCOW, Aug. 6—(AP)—An urgent appeal for speedy establishment of a second front in Europe came today from the Soviet publication "War and the Working Classes," which asserted it would be "the key to victory over Hitler in 1943."

Declaring that the war had reached a turning point with Axis defeats on the Russian front, in Tunisia and Sicily, the trade unions magazine said that "the victory of freedom-loving countries over Hitlerite Germany is possible in the very near future."

But the paper warned lest the opportunities which now face the Allies be lost and urged united action to end the war at the earliest possible moment.

Creation of a second front should divert at least 60 German divisions from Russia, the article said.

gressive-Conservative, and 3,776 for Gilbert Mills, C.C.F. In addition to the three polls, further returns also are expected from military camps in Ontario.

Perth Undecided

In Perth Fred Edwards, Progressive-Conservative candidate, has 7,542 votes, two more than Angus Dickson, Liberal. The C.C.F. candidate, Bert Davies, has 4,168. On the basis of complete returns from the 169 polls in the county Dickson's election was conceded Wednesday night, but returns from military camps in Ontario wiped out the majority of 12 he held then to put the seat in the doubtful class.

Reports on the military vote in Ontario did not reach returning officers in all the ridings Wednesday night, some still coming in today. Major Alex Lewis, chief election officer, said last night that six days were allowed for inclusion of the military camp vote in ridings totals. Members of the armed forces stationed in Ontario voted at their camps and the vote is transmitted to their home ridings for inclusion in the totals there.

The soldier vote has reduced the lead held by T. A. Murphy, Progressive-Conservative, whose election in Toronto Beaches, was conceded Wednesday night. Now he leads Gordon Ferguson, C.C.F., by 48. His previous majority was 80.

Obituary

MISS JOHANNA WALSH

The funeral of Miss Johanna Walsh, last surviving member of the family of the late Richard Walsh and Catherine Ryan, took place from the residence of her nephew, Stafford Walsh, lot 14, concession 1, Asphodel, on Thursday morning to St. Paul's Church, Norwood, where requiem mass was offered by her nephew, Rev. James Walsh, of the Immaculate Conception Church. Rev. J. J. Garvey and Rev. C. J. Carroll were present in the sanctuary.

There was a large gathering of relatives and friends present to assist at the services and pay tribute to a life-long resident of Peterborough County. She was possessed of a wide circle of friends, as was evidenced by the many spiritual tokens presented at the home. Rev. C. J. Carroll delivered an appropriate address on death and paid tribute to one who was deeply interested in the welfare of the church during her life.

Interment was made in the family plot in St. Paul's Cemetery, Rev. C. J. Carroll conducting the graveside services, assisted by Rev. James Walsh.

Pallbearers were Fred Walsh, Michael Sheehan, John Lynch, Frank Walsh, David Walsh and Richard Sheehan.

Relatives and friends were present from Peterborough, Hastings, Douro and Warkworth.

Sea Cadets Return Saturday Night

Peterborough Sea Cadets, returning home Saturday after two weeks training spent at the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Camp, Minnicog Island, Georgian Bay, will arrive on the 8:42 p.m. Canadian National train. The Scouts have been sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, and its president, Dick Raine, is anxious that as many Kiwanians as possible turn out to greet the returning seafarers when their train pulls in at the station Saturday evening.

Pay-Day Drunks Dispersed With Gas

VANCOUVER, Wash., Aug. 6. — (AP).—Chief of Police John Blaker to-day blamed "hoodlums" and "pay-day drunks" for inciting a riot last night which police finally dispersed with tear gas.

Three men were hospitalized and eight jailed.

Chief Blaker said the suspected ringleader of the rioters was in custody but no charges had been filed.

Hundreds of persons drinking in waterfront beer taverns where the trouble started piled into the street. They were joined by soldiers and pedestrians. A crowd of approximately 1,000 persons quickly gathered. Taunts were flung at police and fighting broke out.

Military police called to the scene had all soldiers back in their barracks within an hour. City police, aided by auxiliary civilian defence police, deputy sheriffs, state patrolmen and firemen who laid hoses as a threat finally scattered the crowd.

Cabinet Session Deals With War Measures

By FRANK BRUTTO
Associated Press Staff Writer.

BERNE, Aug. 6 — (AP).— Failure of the new Italian Government to give any outward signs that it is seeking peace renewed the unrest of the Italian people to-day—an unrest accentuated by news of the fall of Catania, Orel and Belgorod.

The Milan correspondent of the Zurich Die Tat reported;

"Everyone is talking of peace these decisive hours and the possibility of re-establishing Italy's honor." He added that the Allied conquests of Orel and Catania "caused an enormous sensation. The people asked each other 'How can Badoglio still hesitate?'"

The cabinet, however, gave no sign that Badoglio was seeking peace. The announced result of its long session was the enactment of a series of measures continuing the destruction of the Fascist Party structure, revising methods of administering the country's penal code, abolishing racial laws and instituting severe controls of the press for the duration of the war.

Fascists Wealthy.

All these measures, plus an investigation into the wealth accumulated by leaders of the Fascist Party, said the Tribune de Geneve in a Rome dispatch approved by the Italian censor, are intended to win the support of the Italian massets for the foreign policies of the Badoglio regime.

The dispatch added that the new government is "firmly determined to continue the war and is asking the Italian people to defend their liberties by strict collaboration with German National Socialism."

Factory workers in Northern Italian cities were reported still holding half-hour daily strikes in protest against prolonging the war.

In Milan, however, the Die Tat correspondent said, the people already are whispering of a new government in which Marshal Pietro Caviglia, hero of the First Great War, would play an important role. Caviglia is reported to have taken a prominent part in the events leading up to the fall of Fascism, and is known to be a close counsellor of King Victor Emanuel. He is also said to be popular among the working classes.

Birds Were Warned

GRANITE CITY, Ill., Aug. 6 — (AP). — For three summers, a noisy flock of 1,500 blackbirds defied a residential neighborhood's counter-offensive of cowbells and hanging tin cans. Then with police permission, residents got their shotguns, roped off the street and stood by to blast the birds as they came to roost at dusk. No birds arrived.

A Bird Mania

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 6 —(AP). —Judge Emmet H. Wilson wondered why anyone with a name like Walker would want to change it to Cassowary, which is an ostrich-like creature. Archie Walker, 46, negro, explained: He belongs to a religious order which believes all members should take the names of birds.

Tax Payments Heavier Council Told

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 6—(ENS)—The session of council held here Thursday night turned out to be one of the shortest regular meetings that body has held in years. Members usually take two hours but the business of the month was finished in one hour flat.

The main item concerned re-flooring the bridge on Balaclava Street and Bridge Chairman MacMillan estimated the cost of lumber to do the job at about $80.00. On motion the problem was left with the Committee with power to act. The Deputy Reeve also reported that the sewer and water service project on Mark Street had been completed and that a similar project on Mill Street had been excavated and was ready for the tile.

Tax Returns Good

Best news of the evening came from Tax Collector J. C. Birmingham who revealed payments had been what he termed 'extra good' during July. Total collections of 1943 taxes in that month amounted to $22,881.23 while another $1,004.35 had been paid on arrears. His only complaint was that such heavy payments would leave little to collect during the remainder of the year.

Little, if any progress had been made towards making the proposed wading pool on Thirty-foot Lane a reality. According to Legal Chairman H. J. Taylor, the trouble was with property owners who were stalling on the petition they were asked to sign. By giving their signatures, property owners on that street would commit themselves to doing their share of digging and filling for the sewer and water main necessary for the pool. Several of the owners, who had been approached were reluctant, claiming their share of the work was going to cost them more money than they felt like spending. He concluded there was little the committee could do to further the undertaking till the petition was signed.

The Town Solicitor, N. Alex MacColl, told council he had been in communication with the Imperial Oil Company about moving a sign they had placed over a monument at the corner of Bridge and Rear streets. He said, the firm had expressed willingness to remove the sign as requested by the corporation. Councillor Brady said it had been drawn to his attention that the approach to the railway crossing on Centre Street was dangerous partly because of a large growth of weeds in town property adjoining the track. A motion was passed authorizing the Property Committee to have the weeds removed.

Meeting Earlier

With Labor Day coinciding with the next regular meeting of Council on September 6 the date for that meeting was pushed back to September 2. Communications read by the clerk included a circular letter from the Wartime Prices and Trade Board regarding certain ammendments to regulations dealing with the establishment or expanding of a business. A letter from Parkinson, Gardner and Willis, attorneys for T. E. Hall, (with whom the corporation had been negotiating to have the collapsed curling rink either repaired or dismantled, said the property was under lease to the Trent Valley Cloth Co. till August [illegible], 1943.

"The fact that we have notified him of our views in the matter clears us", observed the Mayor who had previously expressed his view that the property was both unsightly, dangerous and a fire trap.

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind was granted permission to hold a tag day on September 18 and the Salvation Army Red Shield Fund was given permission to hold one on October 2.

A letter from the Department of Highways Engineer, Port Hope, pointed out that the town would be responsible for removing the accumulation of snow on streets after they had been cleared by the Government Plough and Councillors agreed that this had been understood when negotiations to have the work done had been first taken up.

The Fire Marshall called attention to the meeting of the Dominion Association of Fire Chiefs to be held in St. Catherines on August 24 and the matter was turned over to the Fire, Water and Light Committee with power to act.

The bands will visit Montreal Aug. 23 and Kingston, Ont., Aug. 24.

War Prisoners To Sleep At Farms

OTTAWA, Aug. 6 (CP). — An order-in-council providing for prisoners of war used in farm labor to reside on the farm premises was made public today in Canadian War Orders and Regulations.

The order said there was "a substantial demand for prisoner of war labor, and in particular by farmers who desire that such prisoners should reside on the premises of the employer rather than in a labor camp or hostel."

Reasons given were the expense, inconvenience and working time lost in taking prisoners to and from camps.

Toronto Woman Clubbed On Street

TORONTO, Aug. 6 — (CP). — Veronica Hapichuk, 42, and Michael Berenda were rushed to hospital today in critical condition following what police described as an attack on a Runnymede district street in Toronto West End, earlier. Both lived at the same address on Maria Avenue.

Officers said Berenda battered the woman over the head several times with a claw-hammer and then pulled a jack-knife from his pocket and cut his throat.

Miss Hapichuk is believed to be suffering from a fractured skull. Hospital authorities reported her condition "critical." It was believed Berenda cut his jugular vein and windpipe. He was given blood transfusions shortly after his admittance to hospital.

Federal Vote Unlikely During 1943

OTTAWA, Aug. 6 (CP). —Wednesday's crushing defeat of the Liberal party in the Ontario general elections was believed in political circles here to have removed any possibility of a Dominion election this year—if any such possibility existed.

There has been no surface indication that Prime Minister Mackenzie King was even thinking of an election this year, although in some quarters, particularly in Quebec, such a possibility was raised a short time ago among politicians.

The present Dominion parliament was elected in March, 1940, and Mr. King could wait until the summer of 1945 before going to the country again, if she chose to do so.

The last Conservative administration under Hon. R. B. Bennett (now Viscount Bennett) remained in office for the full statutory term of five years.

Mr. King has an overwhelming majority in the House of Commons with 171 straight Liberals and the support of three Liberal Progrressive and three Independent Liberals, in a house of 245 members.

A general election is expected to be held in Quebec this year and it is not believed here the results in Ontario would greatly influence the decision of Premier Godbout in that respect.

By-Elections

He would, perhaps, attach more significance to the two Federal by-elections in Quebec, Stanstead and the Montreal Cartier, where voting takes place Aug. 9.

With two exceptions, the last one in 1897, Quebec legislatures have not remained in office more than four years. The present legislature was elected late in 1939 and has held four sessions.

The Liberal administration has a huge majority of the 86 seats in the Quebec Legislature. The standing on Feb. 10 last was 62 Liberals, 17 Union Nationale and seven seats vacant.

Mr. King heard the news of the election returns last night without comment. A spokesman at his office said he did not expect the Prime Minister would make any statement immediately, and that it was not his custom to make statemens to the press on provincial election results.

No other House of Commons leaders were in the capital.

Princess Alice Christens Sea Cadet Camp

MIDLAND, Aug. 6 — The Royal Standard flew proudly over H.M.C.S. Princess Alice yesterday as Her Royal Highness the Princess Alice formally christened the camp named in her honor by the Sea Cadet Corps. More than 300 sun-tanned youngsters, thrilled to the core by the visit of Royalty, cheered the blue-clad Princess as she walked through the ranks, visited their quarters, lunched with their officers and then spoke to them following the christening ceremony.

The Princess had flown into Midland early today from Ottawa in an R.C.A.F. amphibian plane, boarding H.M.C.S. Haida and with a naval escort had sailed the blue waters of Georgian Bay to Minnicog Island. She left by plane last night. She was accompanied by Miss Vera Grenfell, lady-in-waiting, and Lieut. the Hon. Ernie Chatfield, aide-de-camp.

In a brief speech, Princess Alice declared she was glad the camp should bear her name. "In our small, tough little island of England we are never far from the smell of the sea," she said, "and therefore life on the sea is in our bones, so to speak. All our hearts naturally go out to the men of the Roal Navy and the merchant service. That is one reason I was glad to visit you Sea Cadets."

Navy League Commended

Referring to the Navy League, which sponsors the Sea Cadet movement, she declared: "It has always played a great part in our national life, not only by giving boys a grand training and a happy and useful form of recreation, but for inspiring sons of the hills and plains far away from our sea coasts with a veritable passion for the sea. It is notable that the largest percentage of naval recruits come from inland homes.

"This is not only true in Canada, for when my husband was Governor-General of South Africa we noted the best recruits and the largest numbers came from up country where the boys, unlike you, had no great lakes or rivers on which to disport themselves. At best they rowed and sailed on a pond. But what they did possess was a fine training ship on the coast to which they went before joining up.

"I am very glad to hear that the King has recently granted you permission to call yourselves the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps, showing what he thinks of his cadets and what good reports have reached him of your doings. For although many of you may not join the navy, your training and the good work you put into it will fit you equally well for the army or air force or the position of good citizens of your great country.

Good Leaders Needed.

"Canada needs strong men and good leaders who are prepared to serve her not only in wartime but in all the responsibilities of ordinary everyday life which is going to be full of problems and equally of possibilities greater than any of your pioneer fathers had to face.

"One of the most remarkable achievements of the many remarkable things that the people of Canada have been doing in this time of war besides fighting are the great ships they are turning out and the number of splendid young men who have come forward to man these ships. It is far easier, though, to build a ship than to man her with trained sailors, and we all hope that many of you cadets when you reach the age will make it your business to join one of the ships of the Royal Canadian Navy. It is the most wonderful and glorious career for any man," she said.

The Eighth Army Charges

A British official photo sent by radio, shows troops of the British Eighth Army charging through a rail viaduct to storm an enemy strong point in a railway station in Sicily. The picture probably was made in the vicinity of Catania, upon which the Eighth Army is advancing relentlessly.

Sub Carries Stolen Jeep Across Pacific Trades It For 3 Gallons Of Ice Cream

IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC, Aug. 6 — (AP). — A story of a sea-going jeep:

It was on one of those South Pacific islands with secret, deep bays where American warships anchor long enough to support a naval offifcers' club on the beach.

In front of the club was the most dilapidated jeep you ever saw.

"That," an officer related, "is probably the only jeep in the world that ever travelled on a submarine."

"One of our submarines swiped it from a pier at Pearl Harbor. When they'd submerge, they'd take out the motor and remove the tires and put them inside the sub. Then they'd lash the rest of it to the conning tower outside. Went all over the Pacific that way."

Some one asked how it got on the beach.

"The sub officers didn't get into port often enough to enjoy using it," the officer explained. "So they sold it to the captain of that warship out in the bay for three gallons of ice-cream.

"It still runs good."

Catania People Hungry Reporter Says

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent

CATANIA, Sicily, Aug. 6—(AP)—Catania surendered to the victorious British 8th Army at 8:20 a.m. today after troops entered the outskirts of the battered second City of Sicily soon after dawn.

(This was 10 minutes earlier than announced by Allied headquarters.)

The majority of the defenders who had covered roads to the city from pillboxes fled during the night.

The surrender, which was handed to the colonel who led the first infantry units into the town, in turn was handed to war correspondents at 8:35 a.m. As our caravan entered the streets and frenzied civilians ran alongside the cars, cheering, clapping hands and reaching through car windows to pull at our hands and kiss them.

This dispatch is being written in an automible in the city's main square, Piazzo Duomo, facing the cathedral.

The square is littered with debris left by Allied bombs, which shattered many buildings in the area, and by dropping power lines. The cathedral appears to be undamaged.

Beg For Food

At the windows of my car men, women and children are interrupting me frequently to beg for food.

Occasionally a man asks timidly for a cigaret. Others merely stare at the novel sight of a group of men in uniform who drive into town and immediately start pounding typewriters. Some people speak English enough to tell us they have been virtually without food of any kind for a week.

It is easy to believe when we watch the children walking along slowly, their eyes on the pavement in the hope of spotting a scrap of anything edible.

The reception here appears to be spontaneous beyond the mere bowing to a conquering force.

No one in our car understands Italian, but there is no mistaking the words in which the 8th Army is being hailed as Liberators.

Poor Labor Policies

TORONTO, Aug. 5—(CP)—Alderman J. B. Salsberg, newly-elected Labor member of the Legislature, told the Toronto and District Labor Council last night that the labor policies of the Dominion Government and the "Selective Service muddle" contributed as much as anything else to the downfall of the Ontario Liberal Government.

Visit Him Every Week in Snapshots

Our boys want snapshots. They've said so, themselves . . .

So let's make sure they get them. Lots of snapshots of the things they're always thinking of . . . the home faces, the homey scenes.

Of course there isn't as much film for your picture-taking as in normal times. Kodak Film is now rationed to dealers because the Navy, Army and Air Force need so much. So make every roll of it count, in doing the important job. Visit him every week in snapshots.

Election Retrospect

Now that the tumult and the shouting have died it may not be inappropriate to comment upon certain minor phases of the election before they pass from the public mind. To begin with, what was the reason for the rather poor grade of electioneering which was observable everywhere? It cannot be said that .cern over the prosecution of the war took the minds of the leaders, speakers and party workers off their tasks. For the period of the campaign the war managed very nicely without direct help from Ontario politicians. And yet everywhere meetings were poorly attended, even when the party leaders spoke; Mr. Nixon drew very poor crowds, but so did Mr. Drew. Meetings of a purely local character roused little enthusiasm. Why?

We are convinced that the public is more mature politically than it used to be, and cannot be attracted to meetings where it is certain to hear specious argument and abuse of the other side. true, this was not a particularly abusive election, but that may have been caused by lack of talent, rather than lack of desire, on the part of the candidates and their leaders. Now we do not suggest for a moment that crowds can be attracted to political rallies by speeches which are mere juiceless statements of fact and academic argument. But they want something more meaty than was offered them this time. They want good sense, and they want a generous dash of showmanship as well. This election was sadly lacking in showmanship of the right kind, and any politician who neglects that quality is depriving himself of one of the best legitimate tricks in the bag.

The foregoing remarks are meant to apply to the two senior parties only. The C.C.F. took considerable pains with its campaign, organized some good meetings, and made some effective speeches. That is why they polled such a big vote. True, they were no more generous with showmanship than the Grits and Tories, and their leaders exhibited no more personality. But possibly the C.C.F. regards personality as a form of monopoly and private enterprise, and shuns it for that reason

All three parties were lavish with paper. Pamphlets and handbills, brief biographies and mimeographed "personal letters" filled the mails. Only one piece of paper was grudged and that was the slip which tells the voter where his right polling-booth is to be found; it was a pity that no enterprising party thought of those, for if they had done so the vote might not have been so light. Being professionally interested in the arts of persuasion we examined most of the party literature carefully, and it was certainly not stuff to change an opinion or win new adherents. Four pages of small type is useless as campaign literature; a crisp slogan in big type is the thing.

The usual election inconsistencies and humours were present. A section of the press contrived to condemn the wickedness of Mr. King in approving of Mr. Nixon by letter, while overlooking the more vigorous and vocal approval shown by Messrs. Bracken and Coldwell of Messrs. Drew and Jolliffe. A prominent publisher revealed on the radio that he had only a hazy notion of what, or who, Frankenstein was. The Toronto Telegram cast aspersions upon the independence of the Peterborough Examiner, which was an unjust proceeding; our independence in disagreeing categorically with the Telegram is one which we exercise with the greatest consistency. And the upshot of the matter is that we have an oddly constituted Legislature in which Mr. Nixon, if he so chooses, will hold the balance of power, and in which the C.C.F., which has been accused of inexperience, is going to get plenty of excellent experience in Opposition.

Unaccountable Announcement

On the last day of July the German radio made what appears to be an unaccountable announcement. It said that henceforth no new clothes will be manufactured in Germany save uniforms for pilots and garments of mourning. Such a decree strikes chill to the heart. What a wealth of meaning it must carry to the Germans who are feeling the terrible impact of war!

We have heard much of the psychological insight of Dr. Goebbels, and of his ability to maintain the morale of the German people even when events are going against them. If this is an example of the Doctor's science we are not impressed by it. Germany must now wear its clothes to rags; only those who go to fight in the air, or who have lost men in the struggle, may have new garments. Fighters and mourners shall be clothed; others may patch and darn and make what shift they can.

The need for pilot's uniforms we can understand The recovery of uniforms from men who die in the field, or in hospitals is not unknown, but when a pilot has been shot down hi: uniform is beyond recovery. But why permit the manufacture of mourning? Surely not in order to throw the sorrow of the bereaved into greater relief, and to thrust it upon the attention of others? Surely if Dr. Goebbels were really clever he would forbid the wearing of mourning altogether? And wha place has mourning in a state which prides itself on its brutal strength, and declares that its delight is to give its sons in the service of the Fatherland?

The decree is as unaccountable as it is symptomatic.

What Will Italy Do?

The high hopes engendered by the deposition of Mussolini have now given way to a more sober view of the Italian situation, and the opinion of a number of careful observers is now that Italy will not surrender to the United Nations without putting up some kind of a fight, and thus involving us in an invasion of the Italian mainland. But if United Nations forces invade Italy, they may not attempt to take the whole peninsula; they may very well be satisfied with the southern part of it, avoiding an engagement with the defence forces which Hitler has ranged along the Po. An occupation of the southern part of Italy would give us command of the Adriatic, and thus clear the way for landings in Yugoslavia, Albania or Greece.

A very large fleet was needed to land our troops in Sicily, and this is now at rest in Tunisian ports; it could be used again to shift men from Southern Italy to the Balkans, avoiding the drive against the Germans in Northern Italy, which would certainly be costly and might give us very slight advantage. In Yugoslavia and Greece, on the contrary, there are large guerilla forces which can be depended on to help the Allies.

It is possible, of course, that the Italians might fold up very quickly once our forces had landed on their shores, and in that event a decision might be taken to drive against the Germans at once. It is even possible—though not very likely—that the Italians might elect to help the Allies drive the Germans from Italian soil, and in that case an attack on the Germans would be even more probable.

But if the Allies have to fight hard for southern Italy they may be content to strike across the Adriatic, taking the Balkan route into Europe; it leads by the shortest way to Hitler's European fortress. As matters stand, the Germans are kept guessing, and that is a thing which they have never endured with equanimity.

A National Library?

The proposal has been made that a national library be established at Ottawa as soon as circumstances permit. There are at present 350,000 volumes in the Parliamentary Library which could be used as a nucleus for such a collection. The Parliamentary Library is grossly overcrowded, and the removal of these books would improve its efficiency greatly.

Few people will dispute the excellence of this idea. The Archives at Ottawa contain much material which could more suitably be housed in a library, and it would provide a home for many collections of Canadiana which at present go to universities, and are not therefore conveniently located for reference. A home for Canadiana and for a first-rate collection of books, accessible to scholars and the public, would be a splendid addition to the amenities of the capital.

NOTE AND COMMENT

If all pedestrians were laid end to end it would certainly simplify the extermination work of the motorists.

A contemporary suggests that in these hard times an attractive recruiting slogan for the forces might be: "Made-To-Measure Suits for Ladies and Gentlemen".

Smuts Is Africa's Giant

By JULIAN MOCKFORD
(Well-known South African Journalist)

FIELD MARSHAL JAN CHRISTIAN SMUTS, Prime Minister of the Union of South Africa and Commander-in-Chief of her armed forces, celebrated his seventy-third birthday in May, 1943. But he remains robust and vigorous. His steel-grey eyes are as bright and keen as ever; and his brain still works with its customary lightning speed and ranges easily over world problems.

Smuts is a citizen of the world, if ever there was one. He is a European in the sense that he recognises the great contributions in the spheres of culture, science, art and philosophy that Europe has made to the world; and he believes that Europe can be reconstituted into a happy, thriving continent of co-operating nations.

But though he salutes what is good in the past, he gladly welcomes new ideas, political reforms and social progress. He is a man with a young mind.

MORE particularly, of course, Smuts is a man of South Africa, his birth-place, to whose welfare he has devoted all his talents and energies throughout his long and active public life; but this means, in his view, that he is a man of Africa also—an Africa which he supposes is at the beginning of vast changes and intensive development in world economy.

For nearly half a century Smuts has taken a leading part in shaping South Africa, where a small white race has succeeded during the 300 years of its history in establishing, maintaining and extending its dominion in a continent that is and must remain chiefly inhabited by blacks of two main races (Negro and Bantu) and many tribes speaking different languages.

Smuts is a descendant of the original colonists of the Dutch East India Company which established the Cape of Good Hope, the southernmost part of Africa, as a victualling station for its ships trading between Holland and the spice islands such as Java and Sumatra, which have in this war been seized by the Japanese.

After stuying law at Stellenbosch University, in the Cape, and at Cambridge University in England, he went to the Transvaal to practice law. Now the Cape in those days was a British Colony; but the Transvaal was a Boer Republic. The President of the Boer Republic was Paul Kruger, who selected Smuts as his State Attorney.

He was State Attorney when war broke out between Great Britain and the Boers; but he was soon on horseback as a general of commando forces which raided the British lines first in the Transvaal and then the Cape itself.

WHEN peace was made between the Boers and the British at Vereeniging in the Transvaal, General Smuts, toughened by the campaign, settled down in Pretoria. Pretoria, the capital of the Transvaal, was the centre of the new political scene in South Africa. Here he linked his career with that of General Louis Botha, who had been Commandant General of the Boer forces in the field; and soon Botha and he were given new life and hope to the Boer people, who quickly revived under a liberal British administration.

Both Boer Republics—the Transvaal and the Orange Free State—were given responsible government and then encouraged towards union with the British colonies of the Cape and Natal. Smuts, under the leadership of Botha, played a leading part both in creating the self-governing Union of South Africa in 1910, and in making it a working proposition under Boer control.

Only four years later, in 1914, Botha and Smuts repaid British generosity by marshalling the people of South Africa on the side of the Allies in their war against Germany. Botha led his burghers into South West Africa, the German colony, and conquered it; Smuts led an army composed of Boers, British and Indians into East Africa and occupied the German colony of Tanganyika. Then they sent a South African force to take up its position on the Western Front, where it fought in several of the major battles, as part of a British Army.

"IN EFFECT," says Colonel Deneys Reitz, the South African High Commissioner in London, "the British not only gave us back the two Republics, but they threw in the Cape Colony and Natal for full measure, and today, we who fought against the British in the old days, realise that we enjoy a greater measure of liberty than we had even under our own rule."

Today, Smuts, fierce disciplinarian though he remains, has mellowed in his contacts with his fellow human-beings. The faith that he placed in Britain's word has been justified. Britain has fulfilled her promises to the Boer people.

So he looks south from Pretoria and smiles gladly at his Union of South Africa, spreading out over the plains of the Transvaal and the Orange Free State, which the Boer voortrekkers first occupied in the thirties and forties of last century; he looks beyond to the fertile valleys of Natal and the Cape, which were once British colonies but which are now being developed under his hand.

THEN Smuts turns westwards to contemplate the grazing lands of the former German colony of South West Africa, which he administers under a mandate from the League of Nations and whose Legislative Assembly in Windhoek has just passed a resolution asking him to incorporate it into his Union as its Fifth Province.

Finally, Smuts gazes north, to the neighbouring British colonies of Rhodesia, Nyasaland, Tanganyika, Kenya and Uganda — territories that form a continuous wedge to the Great Lakes—and to Uganda and Egypt through which his troops have marched to take part in the battles of North Africa. And he envisages a future in which all these territories will work in closer harmony for the development of Africa as a whole.

"DOG DAYS!"

How Trees Grow

(THE BOSTON HERALD)

IT would be unreasonable to suspect that the editors and cartoonists of that organ of sophisticated urbanity, The New Yorker, ever carved their names, entwined with the names of their inamoratas, upon the barl of trees; or at any rate, if they did, that they ever returned in after years to the scenes of such sylvan sentimentality. Hence it is no doubt unreasonable to criticize the unnatural history displayed in a cartoon in the current New Yorker.

In this picture a middle-aged man and woman sit beneath a large tree, and he is saying: "Won't you please make up your mind, Mabel?" Fifteen feet above their heads, cut in the bark, are the names "George" and "Mabel," and a heart pierced by an arrow. The point of the joke can scarcely be missed, which the editor might say is all that matters. Still, there are among the readers of our smartest magazine a certain number who will wonder if George brought a ladder along when he carved the names 20 years before, or if the cartoonist ever watched a tree grow.

Exactly the same error was the basis of a comic strip cartoon in the newspapers not long ago. Perhaps it is not an error of ignorance on the cartoonist's part, but on the critic's. Perhaps it is a conyential device for achieving humour which those wise in the lore of the comics accept, just as we accept the convention of the removed fourth wall in the theatre. Perhaps. But if you will show that New Yorker cartoon to the first dozen people you encounter with it, the chances are that ten of them can't tell you; it will seem all right to them.

One fears that it seemed all right to the editor of The New Yorker in his sanctum on West 43rd Street. But his sanctum is but a short block from Bryant Park. If he can dodge the watchful eye of Commissioner Moses, he might run over and carve "Mabel" on a tree there, exactly five feet from the ground. Then let him periodically inspect his work. When he totters over in 1973, unless a new Commissioner has dug the park all up again, he will find "Mabel" exactly five feet from the ground.

Not By Marching Armies

WHAT first strikes us in surveying British history is its continuity. The British have had their share of daring innovators; but as a people they like to attain their objectives by a series of logical, moderate steps, rather than by upheavals that break sharply with the past. In this they bear a resemblance to the ancient Romans of republican days, who also preferred evolution to revolution. It is signficant that in the political sphere the two greatest revolutionary leaders of British blood were Oliver Cromwell and George Washington, neither of whom could by any srtetch of language be termed radical. Cromwell labored earnestly to maintain most of the ancient forms and institutions of the and; and when his son and successor proved incapable of infusing them with authority and power, the British people repudiated the republican regime. The "Glorious Revolution" of 1688 typified the English love of continuity even in change. It was a brief and bloodless readjustment which altered both the monarch and the monarch's position, but kept close to the legitimate line of descent and to the fundamental tenets of the Constitution. Nothing like the French or the Russian revolutions is to be found in British history, nothing so frenzied, sweeping or decisive in its cleavage between two eras.

This continuity of British history arises in part from the dislike of the people for abrupt and radical change. It arises in still larger part from the fact that in British history a great dominant theme lies full in view—the growth of civil and political liberty. Of this we shall say more in a moment. But it must be clearly understood that it is not only in political affairs that the British have achieved their progress by slowly broadening down from pdecedent to precedent. Their social, intellectual, and religious history presents the same emphasis upon a comparatively steady, evolutionary type of advance. The Anglican church is a logical product of patriotic and religious forces working towards a natural fusion. The greatest of the British contributions to scientific thought, the orderly mechanics of Newton and the evolutionary doctrines of Darwin, fit precisely the general British cast of mind. And the "revolution" by which the British did most to remake the world was not effected by marching armies; it was the industrial revolution of sliding pistons and whirring machines. . . .In Britain the ruling principle has rather been one of moderation, conciliatory adjustment, and willingness to wait upon the slow evolution of opinion.—J. B. Brebner and Allan Nevins, in "The Making of Modern Britain." (New York: Norton.)

Washington Spotlight

(By J. F. SANDERSON, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—(CP).—The time is within sight when some portions of American industry will begin to shift from production of war supplies to production of goods for civilian use. At first this will centre on textiles, shoes and other products not made of metal.

As far as production is concerned, the United States is showing the world something few people believed a nation could accomplish—it is making war on a scale measured in dollar terms at $90,000,000,000 a year and, at the same time, turning out civilian goods on a scale calculated to permit a retail trade this year of $60,000,000,000.

The vastness and efficiency of this production machine will provide a major problem in the peace, when some formula will be required to maintain its pace and distribute its products, but, meanwhile, it is the deciding factor in Allied war effort.

FOX—HE NO SMELL

Two weeks before American troops landed on the Aleutian island of Attu, a low-flying reconnaissance plane spotted a blue fox ambling along, taking its time, obviously unconcerned about human smells and human distractions.

It was decided to trust the fox, to launch one of the invading forces through the valley he was travelling, on the theory there would be no Japanese nearby.

The plan was put into operation and the fox was right—there were no Japanese in that section of the rocky island, giving the Americans an initial success that had considerable to do with the ultimate victory over the Japanese.

Ten congressional teams, each with a Republican and a Democrat, are touring the country these days urging public support for the Senate resolution declaring that the United States now favors the establishment of United Nations machinery for the suppression — by force, if necessary—of any future attempt at military aggression by any nation.

OUR FLAG PROBLEM AGAIN

Because Canada has no distinctive flag, the men who plot the Sicilian campaign on newsmaps for American newspapers are having difficulty in deciding how to represent the Canadian 1st Division. The Union Jack does for the British 8th Army and the Stars and Stripes for the American 7th Army, but almost anything is used to symbolize Maj.-Gen. Guy Simmond's men.

The red ensign, bearing the Canadian coat of arms, Canada's unofficial flag, is used on some maps, but this reporter has seen the Canadian army symbolized by a white flag with the Union Jack in the upper left-hand corner, a red flag with only the Canadian coat of arms on it and, a distinctive touch, a red flag with a constellation of stars on it, somewhat resembling the Australian flag.

TO THE DOGS

By the end of 1943, the United States army, coast guard and marine corps will have 32,000 dogs at work as sentries, first aid, scouting, beach patrol and as sled and pack dogs. Most of them are German Shepherds, Doberman Pinchers, Boxers and Retrievers. Entrance requirements are stiff and only 100 out of 250 dogs pass them. Practically all are donated.

President Roosevelt confesses he is "sometimes bewildered by conflicting statements that I see in the press," first that the war will end in the Pacific in 1943, then that the American navy is preparing to fight in the Pacific until 1949. He didn't mention the sources for the two predictions—Admiral William F. Halsey, the optimistic one; Vice-Admiral Frederick J. Horne, on the pessimistic side.

"How do you do. I want to make a statement."

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

ASSOCIATE yourselves, O ye people, and ye shall be broken in pieces. . . .Take counsel together, and it shall come to nought; speak the word, and it shall not stand: for God is with us. For the Lord spake thus to me with a strong hand, and instructed me that I should not walk in the way of this people, saying, Say ye not, A confederacy, to all them to whom this people shall say, A confederacy; neither fear ye their fear, nor be afraid. Sanctify the Lord of hosts himself; and let him be your fear, and let him be your dread. . . .

And when they shall say unto you, Seek unto them that have familiar spirits, and unto wizards that peep, and that mutter: should not a people seek unto their God? for the living to the dead? To the law and to the testimony: if they speak not according to this word, it is because there is no light in them. (Isa. 8: 9, 10-13, 19, 20.)

Regard not them that have familiar spirits, neither seek after wizards, to be defiled by them: I am the Lord your God. (Lev. 19: 31.)

Letter To The Editor

PRE-ELECTION PROMISES

The Editor, The Peterborough Examiner.

Dear Sir: Pre-election promises of reform followed by post-election failure to fulfill them is a game played by politicians since Confederation, and today are apt to fall on deaf ears. The popular verdict, that politicians are dishonest, is not just or explanatory; the cause is due to misplaced emphasis. The primary objective of political parties is to achieve office, and the function of government is subordinate to that objective. The true function of government is to protect its citizens in the free enjoyment of their natural rights which, being done, wrongs no one. From the beginning to the present government is an art or artifice found out by man's wisdom occasioned by necessity; not a deduction from principles of natural rights and freedom. A ruling class enjoying special privileges dominates governments, and the necessity is to give special privileges a semblance of equity and stability and so appeal to the sense of justice inherent in mankind. The laws of society—our social-fiscal system—are not laws of nature but are contrary to them, full of injustice and absurd contradictions. No body of men, however capable, can evolve from it just government. That system, founded on special privileges, is firmly determined to maintain them at whatever cost, and reforms threatening them, cannot be implemented within its framework. Numerous attempts by various political groups to enact reforms suffered shipwreck on that account. An elected administration cannot enacts reforms in advance of popular opinion, but it can foster and promote a spirit of enquiry leading to reforms.

Politicians are averse to reforms, being stricken with the paralysis of indecision. There should be no hesitation about conclusions because there is no room for doubt about the fact that reforms are imperative. Politicians have a choice, either to accept reforms, or by ignoring them, risk an upheaval.

Alouette Fliers Battered Sicily's Dromes

By MAURICE DESJARDINS
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE ALOUETTE SQAUDRON, North Africa, Aug. 4 — (Delayed) — (CP Cable). — Specialists in high precision night bombing, the Alouette squadron was entrusted with a special mission the night preceding the Allied landings in Sicily.

While a part of the French-Canadian squadron was bombing Catania, others made a difficult raid on Syracuse, the idea was to isolate Syracuse on its peninsula by riddling with bombs the strip of land joining it to the mainland of Sicily.

PO Denis Turenne of St. Pierre, Man., a young pilot who has just finished his first series of war assignments, said "we each had a target and it was easy to see the precision of our bombing." Other members of his crew, now enjoying a rest, were PO. Armand Meilleur, Montreal, PO. Bud Williamson, Winnipeg, PO. Jack Stellings, Gadsby, Alta., and Sgt. Rod Campsall, Hardington, Ont.

The first excursion of the Alouettes in North Africa was a raid on the airdrome of Sciacca in Sicily. A few days later they hammered the airdrome of Gerbini and then made several raids over Sardinia. Once the Allied landings started, the Alouettes turned their attention to the Italian mainland, bombing ports and airdromes used by the enemy to bring reinforcements into Sicily. Naples was visited several times, as well as Sangi, Vanni, Reggio and Capocichino.

"We knew that Canadians were fighting," said Flt. Lt. Charles Delisle of Montreal, another pilot whose crew has finished its first test. "We experienced real satisfaction in being able to ease their task."

Canadians Move Up

Canadian troops on the Sicilian front are pictured moving up through the town of Valguarnera, Sicily, after some of the toughest fighting of the campaign.

Allied Officials Confer In London

LONDON, Aug. 6 (CP) — Prime Minister Churchill presided Wednesday at a meeting of the Pacific War Council, it was announced today.

Soong; the Netherlands and Chinese Ambassadors to Great Britain, and Vice-Admiral C. E. L. Helfrick, commander of Netherlands naval forces in the Southwest Pacific:

Ontario Vote Condemns Labor Policy

MONTREAL, Aug. 6 — (CP).— Officials of Aircraft Lodge 712 of The International Association of Machinists (A.F.L.) said in a prepared statement Thursday that "the results of the Ontario elections are a striking confirmation of the charge by Lodge 712 that the present aircraft crisis in Montreal arises out of government policy, not labor's stubborness or unreasonableness."

The lodge represents the workers of Canadian Vickers Aircraft Fairchild Aircraft and Noorduyn Aviation who have been on strike since Tuesday. The plants have been closed by government order until the men are willing to return to work without their demand for back-payment of a cost-of-living bonus being met.

"The Dominion Cabinet," the statement said, "is no doubt studying deeply the Ontario vote which swept the Liberals from office. It is one of the outstanding features of the election that in the industrial - districts labor candidates were elected, especially in those areas where steelworkers, aircraft workers and munitions workers live and vote. The support of these workers for the labor candidates is a sharp condemnation of the government's labor policy, which had led to the aircraft crisis in Montreal."

Alert Soldier Nabs Hun Prisoner

NORTH BAY, Ont., Aug. 6—(CP) —The capture yesterday of Lieut. Peter Krug, German bomber pilot who escaped on Monday from a prisoner-of-war camp at Gravenhurst. Ont., was described simply by his captor—Sgt. S. M. Devine.

"....I assisted him into the jeep and proceeded to the North Bay Police station. He put up no fight."

Sgt. Devine, a member of the Canadian Provost Corps and former member of the Timmins, Ont., Police Force, was on duty at the Canadian Pacific railway station when he first saw Krug.

"Shortly after the train pulled out for Montreal (2:20 a.m.) I noticed a chap who was about to pass in front of me suddenly change his mind and pass behind. This attracted my attention and when he turned to look back, evidently to see if he was being watched, I instantly recognized him as Krug, the prisoner of war.

"I followed him around the station, called to L.-Cpl. Oliver. We followed him in the jeep to Oak Street, where we pulled into the curb and stopped him.

Had Some Money.

"I asked him who he was and where he was going. In his reply, he spoke good English but with a faintly detectable German accent.

"'You are Peter Krug, Get into the car,' I said.

"He did not reply and I stated again, 'You are Peter Krug,' and then assisted him into the jeep. We proceeded to the North Bay Police Station. He put up no fight." Both Sgt. Devine and L.-Cpl. Oliver, also a member of the Provost Corps, were unarmed.

On arrival at the police station, Krug was searched. He carried concenttrated food in cube-form, concentrated food in cube-form, and a neatly-drawn map of Montreal.

"At first he insisted that his name was Michael Lasnovitch, that being the name on the false identification card he carried," said Sgt. Devine, but "after several hours questioning he admitted to being Krug."

"He had numerous false identification papers besides the registration card and wore khaki trousers and a khaki shirt over which was a black and red-checked windbreaker. His blue peaked cap was handmade as was his belt. He carried half a crown, two sixpenny pieces, and a couple of pennies in English money, as well as a few Canadian coins hidden in the belt."

Sgt. Devine is well known in North Bay. He has been stationed near here since joining the Provost Corps two years ago. His wife and son live at Timmins and a daughter resides in Galt, Ont.

Communist Seeks New 2nd Front

LONDON, Aug. 6 — (CP). — The Red Army's successful drive for Orel prompted fresh urging to-day for the quick opening of a western front in Europe when the only Communist member of Parliament, William Gallagher, asked Foreign Secretary Eden to tell the War Cabinet the Russian victory offers the opportunity to bring the war to a quick conclusion.

Eden replied:—

"The Orel news is grand news for the House today but I think you will also agree that British and American forces have made their contribution recently and we have some confidence that that contribution will continue between now and when we meet again."

Eden announced that on the first sitting after the Parliamentary recess the Government would make a statement on the war situation and offer an opportunity for debate.

The Parliamentary recess begins today and ends sometime after Sept. 19.

The Orel victory was greeted with particular enthusiasm in London because it marked the initial major success for the Red Army's first summer offensive and was seen as a milestone in the offensive growth of the Russian forces which hitherto have been forced to use winter weather as an ally for attacks.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug.. 6—(AP). — Tennis solves the manpower problem ...The turf court tennis circuit in the United States this summer is down to three events—the eastern championships at Rye, N.Y., next week, the Southampton invitation and the nationals at Forest Hills.... Rye is limiting its fields to 16 men and 24 women; Southampton plans a 10-man round-robin tournament and a similar event for women stars, who will be allowed to play on the masculine Meadow Club courts for the first time; the Nationals will have 32 players in each division and Walter Merrill Hall, who handles the entries, claims that after the first round it will be as good a tournament as ever....That seems to be getting a lot out of a few players.

Come to think of it, with the Rye tennis starting, Gunder Haegg finishing his tour and the trotting horses putting on their Hambletonian show, next Wednesday will be a right busy day hereabouts.

Dodgering the issue:
Said Mel Ott to Camilli,
"Our team may look silly
"And falling apart at the seams,
"But Medwick and you are a pair who will do
"To get us right back on the beam."
Answered Dolph:
"I ain't hitting and soon I'd be sitting "On the splintery Polo Ground bench.
"For the rest of the year I'll pitch hay to the steers
"On my big Californ-i-a (x) ranch."
(x-Stretching for high one).

Conclusion:

Max Schmeling once told Jack Conway, Jack Sharkey's legal adviser, that he had a lot of dough invested in Hamburg apartment houses...Right now Max's apartments probably look about the way Max did after Joe Louis bombed him.

Knights Defeat St. Peters Boys

At Armour Field a powerful K. of C. squad smeared the league-leading St. Peter's 15-8 on Thursday night.

Playing their best ball of the season K. of C. piled up an early lead and held it throughout, fighting hard for a playoff berth. Although short four of their regulars Saints fought hard but could not overtake their powerful opponents.

Backed by good support Collins for K. of C. pitched steady ball throughout the game. Gordon on the mound for St. Peter's weakened in the fifth, being replaced by Tompkins, who could do little to check K. of C. batting power.

Big hitters for K. of C. were E. Wolff with a double and two singles, Harrington and Clark with a double and single apiece and Maloney with three for four trips Bang-up men for Saints were Conroy with a triple and two singles, and Perdue with two for three trips to the plate.

K. of C.: Maloney, ss; Masterson, cf; Johnston, rf; Wolff, 1b; Anthony, 3b; Tracy, 3b; Sheehan, c; Harrington, lf; Clark, 2b; Collins, p.

St. Peter's: G. Sullivan, 2b; Conroy, 1b; Tompkins, 3b, p; Perdue, c; J. Herr, lf; Gordon, p; Byrnes, ss; B. Sullivan, cf; Herr, rf.

LAWN BOWLING

As a result of last night's schedule games, the standing of the rinks in Group No. 1 got quite a jolt.

With the defeat of one or two of the top ranking teams it has thrown the contest wide open. True, R. Payne's rink holds a slight edge, but with three games yet to play the result is very uncertain.

Off hand, and this is only a guess, we think that G. Coleman, B Chesler, R. Burns and maybe G. Gimblett, are all bunched tighter than cordwood, for second place and as some of these rinks have to play one another, some other rink might easily slip through to the wire. However, no matter which way you figure it out the finish is going to be close.

A number of the boys are taking in the twlight doubles over at Lindsay this evening.

It will be men's rinks out on our local greens this evening. Same time and same fee.

Winners Pile Up Seven Runs In Ninth Inning

The Westclox girls made it two straight when they defeated the throw to first and Watson scored. of the finals of the City Ladies' Softball League senior series. The winners showed more class in the pinches and played good steady ball while the Aircrafts slipped in a couple of innings to let the Clockmakers pile up their score. Marg. Watson, pitching for the Westclox, had good control and with the exception of the first and last innings kept the hits well scattered. Marg. Selkirk hurled a good game for the Aircrafts and deserved a much lower score. She pitched herself out of a couple of tight spots and only for her support in the field slipping the Westclox 13 runs might have been cut to eight.

Aircrafts started off with a bang when Bigelow the first up singled and Patterson tripled. However, Marg. Watson settled the next three with an infield fly and two strike-outs. Aircrafts scored again in the second when Hewett first up singled, Lowe walked, Strickland sacrificed and Lowe scored on Bigelow's fly to centre field. The Aircrafts were then held scoreless until the ninth when they collected their final two runs on singles by Lowe, Strickland and Patterson.

Westclox failed to get into the scoring column until the fourth when after two were out Watson singled, Dobbin was safe on a wild thro to first and Watson scored. The Clockmakers got two more in the sixth when Bullock walked, Hawthorne singled and Armstrong walked to fill the bases, Watson and Armstrong were out on infield flies and Rome was safe on another wild throw to first, scoring Hawthorne and Armstrong. The Clockmakers scored one in the seventh on hits by Anderson, McLean and Bullock, two in the eighth on a walk and three hits, and seven in the ninth on five hits with Hawthorne getting two of them, and a couple of errors thrown in around third and first.

John Katan All Set To Battle Big Earl McCready

John Katan has signed once more to meet Earl McCready here on Monday night, and this time he says he will make it stick. Katan, when he was prompted by Frank Tunney, readily came through with a money forfeit of five hundred dollars to guarantee his presence for the match. The Ontario Athletic Commission have approved the bout and the appearance money is up. Although Katan has no Scotch blood in his veins, the huge Canadian-Ukrainian wrestler is in no mood to lose any of his hard-earned cash. Further states Katan, "I never had any intention of dodging McCready before, and I'm glad to have a second chance at him next Monday, because I know I can beat him." There are many people here who will disagree with the Palermo grappler's confident claim. In fact, Peterborough fans are very much like Toronto fans in that way that a big percentage believe Earl McCready to be the best of all the big men. However, it must be admitted that John Katan is a very rugged specimen and already holds a decision over McCready from their bout in New Zealand several years ago.

Toar Morgan, who has made a great hit here, will be back in the semi-final against the Greek, George Tofalos. In the opener Dick Hogan will wrestle Joe Maich.

Canadian Derby Is Scheduled At Harness Meet

TORONTO, Ont., August .6 — Harness horse fans are looking forward to the big "Derby' next Wednesday at New Hamburg when the Canadian free-for-all with a purse of $1,500 will be run. It promises to be a great race with such horses as Miss Vera Bars, Saratoga and William Direct, Miller Brooke, Pine Ridge Alex, Lastic Grattan and Oxford Lad in the field.

The Quebec Derby raced at Richelieu Park, Montreal, was won by Brady Hanover. Chestnut Bars won the first heat in 2.06½ and Brady Hanover the second and third in 2.09½ and 2.06½. There was a spill in the second heat that Pine Ridge Alex and Miss Vera Bars figured in, spoiling all chances they had to earn any of the big purse.

Two new harness horse trophies go into competition in the next two meets. The Stewart Scott Memorial for trotters at New Hamburg, and the Harry Biggar Trophy, also for trotters at Stratford.

Aug. 8 is the day the futurity colts pay their starting fee and determines the amount of the stake. There are 23 eligibles, and it is expected that the purse will reach $2,500. These, with three other races for $400 each, will go at Stratford on Aug. 18.

Bruce Henley (2.12), the converted trotter, has won more races as a trotter in 1943 than he did all the years he was pacing. His real test will come in the next two meets. He is trained and driven by his owner, Ken Thompson, Elora.

Philipp Gignac and J. W. Brown, who are distributing the entry blanks for the fall and winter stakes at Dufferin Park, opening Nov. 6 and 8, report a great interest taken in the increased purse events, and say that a large contingent of Maritime and Province of Quebec trotters and pacers will be competing at "Little Saratoga" this winter. Dave Pinkney reports that reservations at hotels in Stratford for the futurities are double those of last year, many coming from the West to take in the rich events.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

While Walter Hagen prepared to return to golf competition with a practice 72 on the Plum Hollow course, Detroit, and Gene Sarazen, veteran shotmaker, duplicated this par score by way of rehearsal, a mere army sergeant, Vic Ghezzi, from Fort Monmouth, N.J., whizzed through with a 66 on the same links.

It happened while preparations were in progress yesterday for a reopening of Ryder golf play Saturday and Sunday. As captain of one team, he has chosen Melvin (Chick) Harbert of Battle Creek, Mich., as his partner. Craig Wood and Sarazen will form the other half of the foursome. The sizzling sergeant, Ghezzi, and Jimmy Demaret have been matched with Lawson Little and Ligthhouse Harry Cooper in what should be a rare battle. Byron Nelson and Harold (Jug) McSpaden will face Willie Goggin and O'Neill White and the fourth foursome is: Lloyd Mangrum and Frank Walsh vs. Jimmy Thompson and Sam Byrd.

Ryder Cup play actually is a war casualty but these games are being staged for war relief and the proceeds, expected to hit $30,000, are tabbed for the American Red Cross.

More Softball.

The strength of organized softball in Ontario is indicated in the draw announced by the Ontario Softball Association at Hamilton last night for the playoff series of member leagues to start August 16. Listed in different series are teams of Sarnia, Chatham, around to Niagara Falls, as far east as Kingston, and in the north country including North Bay and Sault Ste. Marie.

Because of unfavorable conditions, all events on yesterday's harness racing card at Old Orchard Beach, Me., were run over a 5½-furlong distance. Over the shortened course, the $5,000 Hambletonian Test Stake was won by Volo Song, owned by W. H. Strong of Brooklyn and driven by Ben White. Phonograph took the first heat but was second in the next two.

HAMILTON ELIMINATES KINGSTON PONIES 7-6 AFTER 10 INNINGS

Cincinnati Reds Climb Past Dodgers

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sport Writer

Cincinnati Reds, who have been blowing hot and cold all season, apparently are generating a full head of steam that may blow Pittsburgh out of second place in the National League and possibly prove very annoying to the first place St. Louis Cardinals.

Behind a masterful six-hit pitching performance by Bucky Walters the Reds yesterday beat Chicago Cubs, 4-1, and dropped the crumbling Brooklyn Dodgers from third to fourth. The Reds took over the third place position, only 2½ games behind the second place Pirates. In this spot they can profit regardless how the Pirates-Cards series, opening tonight in St. Louis, turns out. If the Cards win, the Reds gain on the Pirates. If Pittsburgh wins, the Reds take a step closer to first place.

With all other major league clubs idle, the rise of the Rhinelanders shared interest with Dolph Camilli's announcement he had quit baseball. The former Brooklyn first baseman—traded to the New York Giants last Saturday—said he was "washed up" thus voluntarily ending an 11-year career in the majors with the Cubs, Phillies and Dodgers.

It may be only a coincidence, but the return to form of Walters seems to have inspired the Reds. They have won four of their last five starts and Bucky, the third baseman turned pitcher, has won two of them. If Johnny Vander Meer begins to win regularly, along with Elmer Riddle, Ray Starr and Walters the Reds will be formidable indeed. They already boast a snappy double play combination in Shortstop Eddie Miller and Second Baseman Lonnie Frey and are getting some timely hitting, especially from Eric Tipton and Ray Mueller.

Cincinnati was widely known as "Porkopolis" before the Civil War because of its extensive pork packing industry.

Dolph Camilli Quits Baseball

NEW YORK, Aug. 6—(AP)—Dolph Camilli, veteran first baseman recently obtained by New York Giants from Brooklyn Dodgers, announced today he was quitting baseball.

Camilli, who came to the Giants with Pitcher Johnny Allen in a deal that sent Pitchers Bill Lohrman and Bill Sayles and Infielder Joe Orengo to Brooklyn, made the announcement after a two-hour conference with Manager Melt Ott and President Horace Stoneham of the New York club.

"I feel that I can't be of any help to the Giants" said Camilli, who is experiencing his poorest year at the plate. Two years ago he was voted the National League's most valuable player award and topped the circuit in home runs and runs batted in. This season he has hit only six homers and is batting under .250.

Bob Fritz, young Toronto track star, broke the Scottish all-comers record when he ran the quarter-mile in 48 sceonds in an athletic meet at Glasgow five years ago today. He defeated Johnny Loaring of Windsor, Ont., and lowered the old record by four-tenths of a second.

Wilson-Edwards Divide Hurling Duties

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 6 (CP).—London Army and Hamilton Co-Ops will meet tonight in the semi-final of the National Baseball Congress Canadian championship tournament as a result of their victories last night over Halifax Navy and Kingston Ponies. London defeated Halifax 5-4 in the nightcap of a doubleheader after Hamilton eliminated Kingston 7-6.

Toronto Tip Tops and Lachine R.C.A.F. who drew byes, will play in the other semi-final as part of a doubleheader with the London-Hamilton game. The winners of the two games will meet tomorrow at Toronto in the final with tonight's losers playing in a consolation game.

How Wilson started the pitching chore for Kingston last night but after allowing five runs on seven hits was taken out in the fifth inning and Jake Edwards came in to finish the game. Edwards held the Co-Ops to three hits but even at that the Hamiltonians squeezed in two runs.

Hamilton scored two in the second, one in the third and two more in the fifth before Wilson headed to the showers. Edwards pitched a tight game until the ninth but two hits and an error by Edwards gave up the tying run. Bonk, Hamilton centre fielder, brought the game to a close in the 10th inning when he singled and then completed the route on a passed ball.

Knocked From Slab

Kingston scored three in their part of the sixth frame and added three more in the eighth, forcing Cotter, the Co-Ops starting pitcher to retire. Anderson took over the job and held the Ponies scoreless.

In the second game Halifax Navy took a brief lead in the 3rd, scoring the opening run, but London Army tied the count in the fourth and added two more in the fifth. The Sailors threatened in the fifth and sixth innings and forced a 3-3 deadlock before Tony Diasetti, on first base, and Johnny Moyer, pitcher switched positions. Diasetti's hurling stopped a threatened Navy rally and left the Soldiers in command.

London added two in their half of the eighth while Navy countered with a single run.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

TORONTO, Aug. 6— (CP)— An excited woman hurled both her shoes at Bunny Dunlop, 239-pound wrestler, during a bout in Peterborough, Ont., Monday night... Dunlop obliged by bashing his opponent, Joe Maitch, over the head with one of the spike-heeled brogans... Bunny's ire-rousing technique would be valuable in the U.S. but what's the point in Canada where shoes are not rationed?...A Waterloo at Kitchener intercounty bantam baseball game scheduled for Monday was cancelled because a band festival was being staged on the diamond at Victoria Park—postponed on account of band concert!

That Man Again!

Bill Walshe of the Kingston Whig-Standard scatters some more words over the Kingston bid for hockey's hall of fame. Bill quotes Frank G. Menke, noted U.S. sports historian, as stating Kingston's claim as the birthplace of hockey is based on "conclusions without one basic fact to support them."

In revising his encyclopedia of sport, however, Menke plans to print Kingston's claim as well as those from Montreal and Halifax.

Guess Bee!

Ralph Adams of the North Bay Nugget wonders what happened to detour Messrs. Shore and Sutphin from their earlier aim to plant Buffalo and Cleveland in the National Hockey League. Ralph figures the American Hockey League backers kept the Shore-Sutphin lambs in the fold with whispers that A.H.L. will soon rival the N.H.L. as a major league.

The Sport Chute:

Archie McDiarmid, former Vancouver fire chief, made his 36th annual appearance in Vancouver's Caledonia games last Saturday... Jim Coleman of the Toronto Globe and Mail investigated the report that Ted Atkinson, currently the outstanding jockey in United States, is a native Torontonian Jim found hat Atkinson was born here 27 years ago but moved to the States at the age of four and apparently has not been back... Saskatoon had high-class hockey last winter with such stars as Eddie Wiseman and Roy Conacher. Prospects are gloomy for next winter and the city may be without senior hockey.

22 Free Passes Issued As Royals Win

By The Associated Press

Montreal Royals and Newark Bears might be a little weak on their running attack, but there was no reason today to doubt the effectiveness of their passing games. The two teams nearly walked each other out of the park yesterday as the Royals turned in an 8-7 victory to creep a game closer to the Bears in the battle for second place in the International League.

A total of 22 bases on balls was registered, each side contributing 11, with Holcombe and Barney the chief offenders. Holcombe passed eight men and Barney seven.

Home runs played a major part in the contest, Don Savage connecting for a two-run drive, his 12th of the year, in the second inning to help the Bears to a 5-2 lead at that point. In the seventh Roberto Ortiz hit one of the longest drives ever seen at Ruppert Stadium to account for three runs.

Buffalo Bisons made it four in a row over Baltimore Orioles, 7-2. Floyd Giebell allowed the Orioles 10 hits, but steered clear of trouble most of the time. The Bisons collected only eight safeties, one of them being a home run by Kobesky in the ninth.

With Luke Hamlin and Harry Shuman turning in neat pitching performances, Toronto Maple Leafs took a twin bill for Syracuse Chiefs, 2-0 and 4-2, Hamlin turning in the shutout. Frank Kelleher's two-run home run in the second game accounted for the only Chief scores.

communiques had referred to action there as of local importance. Only the Wednesday midnight communique, which announced gains up to six miles in the Belgorod sector, hinted at the scope of the assault on that city.

There was no official hint where Russia's armies might next strike the long German line extending from Stalingrad to the Sea of Azov, but Kharkov, Ukrainian stronghold 45 miles southwest of Belgorod, appeared in danger of being outflanked by the Soviet forces charging into the Ukraine.

German propagandists, who announced Wednesday that their forces had evacuated Orel "according to plan", ignored the Belgorod retreat and attempted to minimize Orel's importance.

be of any real value to the Russian armies, appears entirely out of question in the present phase of the war.

Even the recapture of Crete and a landing in Greece would not free Allied shipping on the Aegean side of the Dardanelles. The German-held key to the Straits is the island of Lemnos. Its capture can hardly be expected before Salonika is taken, which in turn implies a well-advanced Balkan campaign.

Once through the Bosphorous, Russia-bound Allied shipping now would have to run the gauntlet of Axis war vessels, which although not particularly numerous, maintain control of the western half of the Black Sea.

patch from Ross Munro, Canadian Press War Correspondent, dated Aug. 5.

He told of Western Canadian infantry, the loyal Edmontons and the Seaforth Highlanders of the 1st division, advancing on foot and with horses and mules over dried-out river beds, up slopes and along great ridges where mechanized progress was impossible.

Whole battalions of Canadians were engaged in fierce guerilla fighting with the Germans, along the main crests of the ridges, Munro said, adding that the full story of their exploit has yet to come out of the mountains.

(The Rome Radio quoted the Italian communique as saying that shipping in the Allied-held Sicilian ports of Palermo and Augusta had been damaged by Axis bombers.

(The communique belatedly admitted the evacuation of Catania, which the Allies announced yesterday had been captured.

(The broadcast said that Italian assault naval units escorted by a submarine penetrated Gibraltar harbor Thursday night and sank a tanker and two merchant ships. The same submarine had entered the harbor on the night of May 7 and 8, when two British steamers totalling 17,500 tons and an American vessel of 7,500 tons were sunk by naval assault units, the broadcast said. All these claims were without Allied confirmation.

(The communique said that casualties in the Naples raid, presumably Friday's raid in which heavy Allied bombers blasted that main Italian port, had been set at 210 dead and 474 injured.)

Police Thwarted In Search For Evaders

QUEBEC, Aug. 6 (CP).—Inspector Noel Courtois, director of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police here, said to-day that two of his men were prevented by youths yesterday from searching a sawmill in St. Georges de Beauce where they believed an army evader from Thetford Mines was hiding.

The man the R.C.M.P. were looking for escaped Monday when some 150 miners of the Asbestos Corporation at Thetford Mines prevented four members of the Army Provost Corps from taking him away. The miner, arrested in a 600-foot pit, fled when the miners on the surface surrounded the Provost Corps men.

Inspector Courtois said that a group of youths ranging in age from 14 to 16 prevented his men from searching the St. Georges sawmill. St. Georges is about 30 miles east of Thedford. "There was no brawl as reported earlier," Inspector Courtois said.

ANOTHER WAR PLANT FLATTENED! Another submarine base blasted! Another transport column blown into a tangle of scrap iron! Every night the R.C.A.F. attack teams tell of the havoc their bombs are spreading.

Perhaps you, too, can share in these thrilling days and nights of flying adventure. R.C.A.F. aircrews take the world in their stride. The world respects them. The enemy fears them. Canada offers more young men the chance for such a career.

The biggest job is still to be done. What is to prevent you from getting into the fight? No job in Canada is as important as the job of blasting the fortress of Europe into unconditional surrender.

If you are physically fit, mentally alert, over 17½ and not yet 33, you are eligible for aircrew training. You do not require a High School Education. You can be in uniform at once.

F. C. Paterson, agricultural representative, said this morning he had on his list a capable farmer, married and with two children, available for help on a farm that will provide a reasonable suitable house.

BUILDING IN JULY.

Building permits to the end of July amounted to $138,563 as compared with $194,075 for seven months last year. Last month's total was $32,218, and for the same month last year $74,764.

GOOD START

The Navy recruiting unit stated today that they received nine applications at their office in the Duffus Building Thursday night. This initial success has decided them to stay over until 8 o'clock Saturday night. They will take applications for Wrens as well as men.

CLOSED TO MONDAY.

For the first time in nearly thirty years, they were saying down at the Empress this morning, the dining room is going to suspend operations for several days while a new refrigerator is being installed in the kitchen. The last closing was on October 14, 1914, and since then, it was roughly estimated, the number of meals served has been close to 31,000. Multiply that by 200, representing the number of guests, and you get some idea of the Empress activity.

Victor Caban Killed In Sicily Father Trying To Join Navy

Six weeks ago he wrote to his father,—"Dad, if I come home we sure will have a good time."

Somewhere in Sicily on July 16, Private Victor William Caban, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Caban, 543 Park street, was killed in action.

He was only twenty, his father told the Examiner this morning; and he had been with the Canadian forces in England for three years and a half.

"He was just sixteen when he came to me one day, it seems a long time ago now. He said he thought he could get into the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment by changing his age.

Need Your Help

"But there's no use of me trying unless you are willing, because I know you could have me turned back on account of my age." That is what he said, and I simply told him to go ahead and join up; I wouldn't do anything to stop him. That is how he got into the army. He hadn't reached the age of even having a steady job. He used to work down at Stocks Bread at nights, but just off and on. You could hardly say he had at that time grown up for a place at work, but he was keen on getting into the army; and he went down to Picton to enlist."

To the recruiting officer Victor Caban added months enough to his age to admit him to the "Hastie-Peas." He was born in Toronto, and the family had been living in Peterborough sixteen years.

An older brother, John Caban, is also in Sicily. He enlisted two years ago and had been with the Peterborough Rangers seven years.

Whole Family In

The Caban family was attracted to the war and its call to duty, and the third son to join up was Donald, 19. He enlisted here, and at Camp Borden was transferred to a Toronto unit, has been in the army a year and a half, and overseas nearly two months.

"The last we heard from them, John and Donald were together in the Toronto regiment, but I cannot say that they still are. I know that John is in Sicily, and that is the last definite word we received."

The daughter of the Caban household, Katherine, was overseas on a trip when the war broke out. She went to work in a munitions factory, but was unable to continue in that strenuous war employment. She is now with the Canadian Legion overseas.

PTE. VICTOR W. KABAN

In the meantime she married George Frodsham of one of the British regiments. He was captured in the Libyan campaign, and in a letter to his young wife he wrote that he was working in a salt mine as a German prisoner.

Navy or Else

The father of this sturdy family tried to enlist early in the war but was rejected. His sons followed his example, and now the first of them has fallen on some field or slope of Sicily.

"I'm going to try to get into the Navy,' Mr. Caban said today. "Maybe they'll take me as a cook."

He was born on the high seas.

"My father was a Russian from Kiev and my mother was a Scottish girl. After their marriage they began thinking of coming out to Canada, and finally they decided to take the chance. That is how it came about that I was born on the Atlantic. I worked for quite a while here a a shoemaker and repairer, but I have been with Stocks Bread for some years as stoker engineer."

More Lavender Gives Aid To War Victims

Most people in this country know of lavender only as a perfume, few having ever seen it growing, although those who have migrated from England will probably recall it, where to the native it is almost to him what the heather is to a Scotsman.

It will be of interest to know that hereabouts someone is growing it with success, for on three successive summers this individual has sold this product of their garden, and given it to go on its way to render first aid to those who have been stricken through air raids over Britain, through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund.

In all probability, this lavender had its beginning in England, which makes it all the more appropriate that it should return to them in such munificent fashion, and the amount on this occasion is $6.50, enough to provide a home for a family who has lost their own through enemy action for time at least to give them a good breathing spell and get into another of their own.

This beautiful flower, and its product which gets tucked away into the drawers of dressers for the lovely perfume it exhumes to all that it comes in contact with, has as ready a sale in England as anything of a like nature, being popular enough to have a well known song (across the pond) entitled "Who'll buy my pretty Lavender" composed particularly for it.

From Crawford's Grove comes another nice contribution of $5.60, which accumulated through Mrs. H. McMahon placing aside the odd change from her husband's pay cheque, this being a repeat of quite a number which have been given and collected in the same manner.

Saturday's Market

This Saturday, Mrs. John E. Parker will again be on hand with a varied assortment of produce at the regular stall to help raise money for the fund, and any who might care to assist by donating garden produce, flowers or homemade baking, should take them to her, where they will be sold to the best advantage possible to give the ultimate in assistance to the fund.

FO. Fitzgerald Said Missing After Air Raid

More bad news reached Peterborough Thursday when Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Fitzgerald, 254 Aylmer street, were notified that their son, FO. Gerald William Fitzgerald, who has been serving with the R.C.A.F. overseas since October 1942, has been reported missing from air operations.

FO. GERALD FITZGERALD

After nine months' training in Canada at Mont Joli, Belleville, and Malton, FO. Fitzgerald went overseas and continued training as a navigator until June of this year when he began flying operations, mostly night work. He served with a mixed crew, whose pilot was a Scotsman, and the remainder Englishmen wnth one Indian flier from Ceylon. Although he was keen on flying, "Jerry" indicated to his parents that he found the operations quite a strain.

FO. Fitzgerald attended Prince of Wales school and the Collegiate Institute where he was a popular student. Following his graduation he was employed on the office staff at the Quaker Oats.

His father, who has returned from the Aalaskan Highway, where he was working since the winter months, considers his home-coming nothing less than providence playing a hand, and he said that he and his wife and their daughter Adele hold out every hope that Jerry will be reported safe and sound.

Word that this airman was missing was received about the same time as that telling that Pte. Victor Cuban had been killed fighting in Sicily.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Aug. 6 — (CP). — Lotteries of all kinds, including those for charitable purposes, were banned in Bermuda yesterday by a defence regulation issued by the Governor-in-Council.

Nazi Brutality

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 6—(AP).—Heinz Hanmerschmidt, 34, who was brought out of Germany through the determined efforts of relatives here, still has the upper hand over Hitler. While in a German concentration camp Gestapo officers had left Hammerschmidt to die after after they had broken his arches, smashed his knee, knocked out some teeth, shot him in the arm and stabbed him in the eye and neck with a bayonet. Despite the injuries, he was inducted into the United States Army here.

Want Children Accompanied At Inverlea

A proposal to exclude from the beach at Inverlea Park, children under 10 years unaccompanied by parent or other adult was put forth to the council this week by Alderman Curtis, park committee chairman, with the intention of relieving the supervisor of excessive duty.

"I would like to change that to six years", said Alderman Curtis, suggesting an amendment of the bylaw as it reached the council. "One Sunday recently there were 560 children at the beach. They were all the way from two to nine years, and one life guard can't take care of that many."

Alderman Curtis said he was concerned only about the safety of the children who went up to Inverlea in the hot weather.

The council balked at the idea of requiring parents to go along with their children, and a motion by Aldermen Dutton and Sullivan sent the bylaw back to committee for reconsideration.

Opposing this resolution were Aldermen Gordon, Curtis and Swanston.

Lots Of Babies

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 6.—(CP).— So now the storq too thinks seven a lucky number. Every one of July's 31 days, he brought seven new Londoners to town. During the month there were 217 births in the district as compared with 77 in July, 1042.

Tax Payments Reduce Bank Interest

Ten years ago the city's interest payments to its banker amounted to $9,137.

The corresponding bill to the Bank of Montreal this year will be no more than $2,166.

M. E. Shaver, city treasurer, quoted this comparison this morning in explaining the significance of his remark that "Peterborough is now out of the red for the rest of the year."

Payment of the first instalment of taxes plus the incoming second instalment has created a credit position at the bank.

Credit Standing

"Ratepayers know that for the first part of the year we have to fall back on the bank for accomodation to pay our municipal operating expenses," Mr. Shaver said. "The Council appropriated for interest charges this year the sum of $2,600, and at the end of July we had actually spent $2,166 and we passed from a debit to a credit standing as we ended the month.

"For the rest of the year we do not have to depend on an overdraft at the bank to meet our financing. The instalment plan of paying taxes provides funds at the bank much earlier than by the one-payment method, and the advantage is shown in the figures I have just quoted.

Surplus Funds

"The taxpayers now have money in the bank for the city's needs. With a surplus of funds we do not incur any more interest charges for the rest of the year, and in the interest account the Council will show a surplus of more than $400.

"Back in 1933 the city paid bank interest of $9,137 and the comparison will explain clearly to taxpayers how they make a saving by the instalment plan of tax payments."

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, August 7

STABILITY, poise and common sense should be faithfully applied, this day, to putting on a firm and enduring basis the windfalls, graces and fertile fulfilments that should have been precipitated and earned during immediately preceding periods: Such fruition comes as rewards of merit, labor and high purpose, and not fortuitously or by chance "fate." The present task is to solidify, expand, crystallize and establish for permanency and security.

Those whose birthday it is should apply thmselves diligently and sensibly to pleasing recent culmination of good fortune and proven worth and responsibility by past performances, by seeking security and increasing and enduring stability. System, attention to details, tying up loose ends, perhaps wrestling with some upsetting or surprising developments may be in order. Sound ideas, programs and policies need not eliminate incidental fun, celebration, or romance. Others may offer wise counsel which may be confidently sought, but with discretion.

A child born on this day may have stability and dependability of character, with proper qualities for wisely managing and increasing a probable inheritance or gift.

She carried Bettertime roses and cornflowers. Dr. Don Mackey was his brother's best man, and the ushers were Mr. Tom Mackey and Mr. Bruce Graham, brothers of the bride and groom.

Wife Must Be Happy Combination of "Alice-by-Fire" and Gypsy Rose Lee

One of the reasons that so few women come up to their husbands' blue print of what a good wife should be is because wifehood is the most complicated job on earth. Compared with it building a flying fortress, or devising a secret weapon or maneuvering a submarine is mere child's play. For a wife can't give satisfaction by possessing any one standardized line of charms and virtues. She has to be able to juggle all sorts of contradictory qualities, and then draw a new one out of her hat when her husband shows signs of losing his taste for the old line.

When a married man develops a wandering foot, people always blame his wife for it "Why didn't she hold him?" they cry. Heavens and earth, how could she hold him when she didn't know whether he wanted her to be a lady love or a vaccum cleaner, a stay-at-homer or a night-clubber? Or rather, if he wanted her to weave spells about him with one hand while she did the family laundry with the other, and to be a happy combination of Alice-sit-by-the-fire and Gypsy Rose Lee. When a wife thinks about the different roles her husband expects her to play, she understands why men are always inclined towards polygamy. It takes a dozen different women to fill the bill.

Qualifications For Successful Wife

Probably men themselves don't know what they want in their wives beyond a general desire for them to be always young and beautiful, practical, romantic, domestic, giddy, economical, the best-dressed women in town, college graduates, dumb, sophisticated, naive and credulous, and to always look up to them and believe they hung the moon.

This is a tall order that takes a bit of doing, as the English say. Yet every day we see husbands dragging their homely old wives into divorce courts because they are not Miss Americas, and we witness the heartbreaking spectacle of wives starving themselves to death and going through the tortures of the Inquisition trying to stay young and glamorous, which is a patent impossibility, Time doing the things to women it does do.

Then, consider some of the other diverse stunts that the average husband expects the average wife to pull off as mere routine. There is intelligence, to begin with. Every man wants a wife who will be an interesting companion, who reads and thinks and understands what he is talking about, but she must on no account have a good a mind as he has, or be better educated.

Most married philanderers are men who are so bored by nitwit wives that they have gone abroad in search of some clever woman who entertains thm, while thousands of other wandering spouses are hunting up ladies who will burn incense before them and tell them how great and wonderful they are. So there is nothing left for the poor wife to do but to be clever enough never to let her husband find out how smart she is.

Good Housekeepers Expected, Wisecrackers Wanted

Then there is domesticity. Naturally every husband wants his wife to be a good housekeeper and a crackerjack good cook. For in time romance fades and thrills peter out and every husband knows his wife's little bag of tricks by heart. But a man keeps his appetite to the last, and as long as his wife can work magic with the pots and pans she has a charm to conjure with.

But mere food does not suffice and, although cooking is in itself an art that requires as definite a talent and into which one must put as much thought and labor and devotion as one would into painting or music or writing or business, men expect their wives to do it as a sort of a side issue and be, besides, glamour girls, or wisecrackers, or what are you. They must never smell of the kitchen. They must read Proust instead of the Cook Book, and flavor their conversation with transcendental philosophy instead of garlic. Not having a duel personality that enables them to be a gas range and a parlor ornament at one and the same time, goes a long ways towards explaining why so many husbands are disappointed in their wives.

And there is money. Most husbands want their wives to look like a million dollars when they step out, but they expect them to do it in basement bargains, and they never can see why a woman needs more than one hat a season. Also, the size of the bills is a matter of perpetual shock to them. They never can understand why the children are always having to have new shoes, or how it is possible for one family to eat up as much food as the butcher and the baker have charged

THE EXPERTS SAY . . .

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

OTTAWA, Aug. 6.—(CP).—Helpful hints to war-worried housewives from those in the know.

Hosiery Helps—Hang your hose; don't pin them on the clothes-line. Squeeze them out of the rinse water; don't wring them. Dry them in a warm place; NOT in direct sunlight or over a radiator. These are a few suggestions from the Price Board's consumer branch on stocking preservation. On the basis of a recent survey, the branch said that office workers are washing their hose out at night and putting them on again the next morning. This, says the branch, is fatal to their life-span, for damp rayon hosiery is 50 per cent. weaker than when absolutely dry. The branch advises a 36-hour drying period.

Spotting the Spot—There's many a time when a dress gets a trip to the cleaners because it's spotted. It may have been worn just once, but the spots spoil the spic and span look, so off it goes. Now, to relieve their over-taxed establishments, dry-cleaning men across the Dominion are offering to identify spots and tell how to remove them. The consumer branch suggests housewives avail themselves of this service, and try a job of home cleaning.

Blueberry Doughboys — Plump blueberries are one of our most attractive native fruits. And from Laura Pepper, chief of the Agriculture Department's consumer section, comes a recipe for blueberry doughboys—a sumptious, easily prepared dessert. Here it is: Put two cups of blueberries, 1-3 cup of sugar and ¾ cup of water in a saucepan. Bring to boiling point and simmer five minutes Meanwhile, mix and sift two cups all-purpose flour with two tablespoons sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt and four teaspoons baking powder. Cut in three tablespoons shortening and add 2-3 cup milk to make a soft dough. Drop this picture by spoonfuls into the simmering blueberries, as you would dumplings, cover the saucepan and cook 15 minutes. Serve hot with the blueberries over the top.

Kitchen Short-Cut — Eliminate the potato-peeling chore from your kitchen routine and your potatoes will make a really valuable contribution to the family meal—in Vitamin C and iron. Marion Harlow of the Health Department's nutrition services tells us that the skin of the potato acts as a sort of waterproof jacket, keeping the goodness where it belongs.

Living Alone on the Ration—There have been suggestions that ration coupons, especially those for meat, be perforated so that rationed commodities could be purchased in smaller quantities by those who have small families or live alone. Prices Board officials have a word of explanation, pointing out that as it stands, the public, the banks and the ration administration share the burden of responsibility. If coupons were perforated, it would complicate the process of coupon flow-back. They also remind us that certain rationed meats may be bought at the rate of one-half pound per coupon, which would simplify the problem for those who don't want to buy too much at one time.

Of Interest to Women

Price Control Ration News

The Women's Regional Advisory Committee, Consumer Branch, Central Ontario, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, answers questions put to this paper regarding price control and ration regulations.

Q.—Could I apply for tea ration for my girl who was 12 years old last March?

A.— Yes, if you will give particulars of the date of birth to the officer distributing the new ration book No. 3 at the end of August, she will receive a ration book including tea coupons.

Q.—Are the prices of fresh fruits and vegetables controlled in any way?

A. — Onions, potatoes, oranges and bananas have been placed under the price ceiling. Prices of the other fresh fruits and vegetables are being watched closely by the Board. We are assured, however, that steps will be taken if the present high prices continue, even though it may mean radical changes in the present marketing methods.

Q.—I have lost my ration book. How do I get another one?

A.—You must go to your local ration board office to obtain a statutory declaration form which must be filled out and sworn to. This application will then be considered by the proper authorities.

Q.—I paid $2 for a live rooster weighing six lbs. from a farmer who delivers our eggs weekly. Was this too much?

A.—The highest retail price set for old roosters, five lbs. and over from May 1st to Dec. 31st in Ontario is 17 cents lb. If the bird you bought was over a year old with a hard breast bone and spurs it must have been an old rooster and by paying 33 cents lb., you were overcharged. . . . However, if the bird was under a year with soft breast bone it was either a roaster or a fryer and the ceiling price for these is 32c plus carrying charges; in this case you did not pay too much .. .. If you think you were overcharged for the rooster, please report particulars giving the farmer's name and address, etc., to the nearest Wartime Prices and Trade Board office or to us for investigation.

Please send your questions or your requests for Price Ceiling Record Book (the book in which you keep track of your ceiling prices) mentioning the name of this newspaper to: Wartime Prices and Trade Board, 406 Metropolitan Building, Toronto.

Canadian Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 6 — (CP Cable) — Canadian nursing sisters were the first women of the Allied forces to reach Sicily after the invasion of the island July 10.

Acting as personnel of a Canadian military hospital and recruited mostly in Winnipeg and other points in Western Canada, the nurses are tending Canadian wounded a score of miles behind the front line.

The girls were given a royal reception by the troops after they landed from a transport which brought the hospital from Britain by way of North Africa. As they moved inland in lorries, soldiers literally showered the girls with gifts of tins of tomatoes, lemons, ice cream and melons.

When one of the trucks stopped beside a motorcycle parked on a side road the rider exclaimed: "Women, for gosh sakes. Where'd you come from — Blighty?"

The girls chorused, "Yes." It developed he was from Taplow, Bucks, where the hospital was last located in England.

The first girl in blue ashore was Lieut. Elizabeth Lawson of Saint John, N.B.

She was followed by Lieut. Tremnie Hunter of Winnipeg who explained, "the only reason I wanted to get off in a hurry was just to see if my husband was waiting for me again as he was in Algiers—but no luck this time."

Married Reporter.

(Hunter, writer of this dispatch, did not explain that he himself was the husband referred to. The Canadian Press war correspondent was sent to Algiers just before the Allied invasion of Sicily and when his wife, Lieut. Trennie Hunter, arrived there with the Canadian Hospital party en route to Sicily, Hunter met his wife. They were married in London last March 20.)

The lorry convoy carrying the girls from the port where they landed was cheered by troops all the way to their destination.

"We seemed to drive for ages and the cheers along the way made us feel 100 per cent. happier," Lieut. Hunter said. "We finally got to our destination where a big mug of tea was waiting for us. I never appreciated a cup of tea as much as that one. We were all hot, tired and dirty. My blue tie was white with dust."

Their first night in camp was memorable.

"We were mighty thankful to find bed," Lieut. Hunter said. "There was no water to wash with and there was an alert during the night. After a good seep we were ready to work. We really are quite comfortable now—except for the heat."

Connie Brown of Fort William, Ont., and Anna Cran of Winnipeg agreed the meals were "fine" as they supplemented the army's "compo" rations with lemons, tomatoes and grapes—luxuries unknown to them in their years in England.

Some Sisters ventured into town near the hospital and went on a spending splurge, buying face powder, rouge and even lipstick which are scarce in Britain.

One was given the surprise of her life. Sister Dorothy Quail of Fort William, Ont., was busy tending patients in the ward when there was a tap on her shoulder.

She turned to find her husband, Capt. E. B. Quail. They had parted in England and did not know when or where they were to meet again.

Millbrook

A basket of gladioli, gypsophila, and baby's breath, to the right of the lectern in St. Andrew's church on Sunday, was placed there in memory of Flight Sergeant Jack Arundel, R.C.A.F., who was killed about one year ago while engaged in rescue work over the English Channel in the vicinity of Dunkirk. His mother, Mrs. James H. Bingham, of Peterborough, made the gift of flowers.

Mrs. George Sedgewick, of Peterborough, spent the holiday with her mother, Mrs. H. Ross Edmunds; her husband, LAC. George Sedgewick, R.C.A.F., has been posted to another station.

Signal Sergeant Henry W. Gray, who has been on furlough here for the past two weeks, left on Tuesday evening to return to his station; Mrs. Gray accompanied her husband, and will visit with his brother, Dr. Alvin Gray and Mrs. Gray.

A successful sale of house furnishings was held by Mrs. L. Ingram on Saturday, her home on Anne street having been sold to Lavergne Fallis, who is moving to the village to reside.

Miss Blanche Clarry, Reg. N. was called to New York this week to relieve her sister, Miss Augusta Clarry, Reg. N., the latter requiring a holiday from a lengthy nursing case.

Mrs. L. Browne Wins Kawartha Title

Repeating her win of 1941, Mrs. Lionel Browne yesterday won the Kawartha Club Women's Handicap championship, defeating Mrs. George Solmes in the final.

The match ended on the fifteenth green, Mrs. Browne winning the match and cup, four up and three to go.

Play for the Women's Club Championship will start immediately, and should prove an interesting series. There are a number of very fine lady golfers playing at Kawartha, and the Club Championship will be keenly contested.

The draw for the Men's Championship has been made and these games are underway.

Riley Cup, President's Cup and Kawartha Cup matches are progressing favorably, and this week-end should find a lot more matches played.

The date of the Glover-Dobbin Trophy match was erroneously reported in the Examiner early in the week, when we stated that this match would be played at the Peterborough Club, August 24. The correct date in August 14, one week from Saturday. The Kawartha golfers carry a 25 point lead into the second match, and all members who will be available for play on that date are asked to submit their names to Lionel Browne, chairman of the Kawartha Club handicap committee.

Harold Lloyd Rescued By Wife

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 6—(AP). — Former film star Harold Lloyd was overcome but rescued yesterday in an explosion and fire at his Benedict Canyon Drive estate. Irreplaceable original films of his silent era comedies, which he valued at $2,000,000, were destroyed.

Lloyd was rescued by his wife, Mildred Davis Lloyd, who caught him as he collapsed in the doorway of his film vault, where the explosion occurred. She dragged him to safety outdoors. Seven firemen and an employee at the Lloyd estate were overcome by chlorine gas, and were taken to the Beverly Hills Emergency Hospital. Lloyd's former secretary, Roy Brooks, now a United States Navy yeoman, was blown from his bed by the force of the explosion.

Brooks was sleeping next to the engine room, which is connected with the film vault, swimming pool, gymnasium and other service buildings on the estate. These buildings are located some distance from the Lloyd mansion, which was undamaged.

Lloyd, hearing the explosion, rushed to the film vault and reeled backward from the flames and the acrid smoke. His wife was at his side as he collapsed.

them with. And they feel that if their wives weren't spendthrifts these calamities wouldn't happen.

But let Friend Wife try cutting down on the menus and serving poor dinners, and wearing her last year's bird's nest and Husband wants to know if she is going to starve the family and make everybody think he can't dress his wife decently.

So there the wife is. And inasmuch as men demand the impossible of the mere human beings to whom they are married, it is no wonder that so few wives come up to their husbands' hearts' desire.

Expensive-Looking Gift You Can Make Yourself

Bill File Becomes Recipe File

From one good housewife to another, this gay indexed recipe file is a perfect gift—though it's only an inexpensive bill file you smarten with wallpaper, a picture and a red satin bow!

You cut off the flap of the bill file and, for its front and back, prepare 2 pieces of cardboard, each ½ inch wider and longer than the file.

Paste a small-patterned wallpaper over the cardboards, cutting the paper large enough to be turned and glued down on the wrong sides. Now glue cardboards to file, with their edges extending like book covers.

On the front you might paste a colorful flower picture or a photograph of a pretty table setting. And finally glue ribbons to inside front and back and tie on top in a whopping bow!

Our 32-page booklet tells the simplest way to make all these gifts, as well as a bookrack table, vanity set, many other charming novelties. Special gifts for children.

For your copy of HAND MADE GIFT NOVELTIES send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

BUT CAN YOU TAKE IT?

ANYBODY CAN remain loyal to the tactics which he knows to be sound, so long as he is "dishing it out" thereby. But can you "take it" if the very best move on a hand proves to be the most expensive to your side, when the worst possible bridge would have brought you maximum results? If you can, you have the winning attitude, the one which will make you a successful player in the long run. If you lose faith in your own soundness, and become a guesser, it will cost you plenty ultimately.

If, without looking at your hand, you were analyzing the merits of the various suits which might be led against that bidding, wouldn't you rate them approximately in this order:

1. Worst lead of all, the first suit bid by the dummy, diamonds, because your lead probably would start the declarer on his job of setting it up before the dummy's side entries got disturbed or your own side worked on its own suit.

2. Best lead of all, the unbid suit, hearts, especially since it is a major.

3. Ranking between best and worst, the other suits bid by the opponents, spades and clubs.

Yet, as it turned out, this time the result was exactly the reverse. When you can see all of the hands, you can note that the declarer automatically runs 12 tricks if you lead a heart, 11 if you lead a spade or club, and only 10 if you open a diamond.

Please, if you got a bottom score on such a deal for making the soundest lead, while the worst player in the game got a top for making the most unsound one, don't let it make you a wild man the next time, tossing away all you have learned. In the long haul, you will far outscore the unsound player with your greater acumen, no matter what happens on some one unhappy occasion.

Many Friends Attend Last Rites

HASTINGS, Aug. 6 (ENS). With the passing of Timothy A. Coughlan, druggist, the village of Hastings lost its longest established merchant and one of its most prominent citizens. He was born August 26, 1882, the son of the late John Coughlan and Margaret Dougherty. His grandfather, the late Timothy Coughlan, had been the first reeve of Hastings and one of its earliest merchants.

His keen interest in the welfare of his community is attested by the number of offices in which he has so capably served. Since opening business in Hastings he has been the local manager of The Bell Telephone Company and was a member of the Telephone Pioneers of America. He was also the first secretary-treasurer of the Hastings Hydro-Electric Commission from which office he resigned a short time ago. He has served as chairman of the Hastings Separate School Board of which he has been a trustee for many years. The late Mr. Coughlan also served as a member of the village council and as a director of the Trent Waterways Association.

The funeral was held Monday, August 2, 1943, at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church, Hastings, where solemn requiem mass was celebrated by Rev. J. J. Garvey, P.P. assisted by Rev. J. V. McAuley, P.P. of Lindsay as deacon and John F. Coughlan, son of the deceased, as subdeacon. Daniel and George Black of Campbellford, nephews of the deceased served as acolytes.

Present in the sanctuary were Very Reverend Dean Ferguson, P.P. of Warkworth, Rev. C. J. Carroll, P.P. of Norwood and Rev. Father Kelly, C.S.B. of St. Michael's College, Toronto. The Very Reverend Dean Ferguson, P.P. conducted the prayers at the graveside assisted by Rev. J. J. Garvey, P.P., Rev. J. V. McAuley, P.P., Rev. C. J. Carroll, P.P. and Rev. Father Kelly, C.S.B.

The pallbearers were Dr. W. E. Wilson, Messrs. W. M. Fowlds, J. F. Walsh, William Armstrong, D. H. Walsh and F. M. Barry.

The late Timothy A. Coughlan leave to mourn the loss of a loving husband, his wife, Olive O'Shea whom he married on June 30, 1915. He is survived by four sons, John F. of St. Augustine's Seminary, Toronto, LAC. Paul J. of the R.C.A.F. Timothy B. of St. Michael's College, Toronto, and Emmett J. at home; and three daughters, Helen and Margaret Jean of Toronto and Olive at home. One son, Gerald, died in infancy. There are left to mourn five sisters, Rev. Mother St. George, Quebec City; Sister M. Carmita, O.S.F. of Boston, Mass.; Mrs. Charles Black of Campbelford; Gertrude of Hastings and Mrs. Sylvester Lamey of Blairmore, Alta. and one brother, John B. of Calgary. A sister, Sister Mary John predeceased him.

The many spiritual and floral offerings were an evidence of the high esteem in which he was held by all th community.

Base Hospital Set Up In Sicily

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 6 —(CP). —Word from Sicily that a Canadian base hospital is established in that island with about 70 nursing sisters recalled that arrival of a large contingent of Canadian nursing sisters in North Africa was announced just after the Allied invasion of Sicily started on July 10.

It was presumed that the personnel of the hospital was drawn from this contingent.

Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent, in a delayed dispatch dated August 1, mentioned the base hospital and added there is another hospital in North Africa.

The contingent of nurses which arrived here recently from Britain was drawn from all over Canada.

One Against Three

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, July 31 — (Delayed) — (AP). — A four-engined heavy bomber on armed reconnaissance attacked three Japanese destroyers with bombs off Buca Island, north of St. George Channel in the Northern Solomons to-day then fought off 10 Zeros possibly destroying three, and returned to base.

Heavy anti-aircraft fire from the destroyers prevented a successful bombing run. Zeros harassed the big bomber for a quarter of an hour before they were driven off.

Destoyer Ducks Submarine As Doctor Operates

A BRITISH PORT, Aug. 6 (CP) —The third successful sea-going appendectomy performed by a medical officer of the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve has been chalked up by Surgeon-Lt. B. A. Campbell, R.C.N.V.R., of Strathroy, Ont., the Royal Canadian Navy announced today in press release.

Now "doing well," the patient was Able Seaman A. H. King of the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve, and the operation was performed in the day-cabin—it still reeks of ether—of a Royal Navy destroyer captain with a Nazi U-boat just close enough to make things uncomfortable.

The job involved more than the mere removal of a perky appendix. Both patient and anaethetist had to be transferred in mid-Atlantic to Surgeon-Lt. Campbell's ship but this went off smoothly with a combination of fair weather and adequate small-boat work.

Just before the operation started, a report came in that a U-boat had been sighted nearby and attacked, with inconclusive results, by one of the R.C.A.F.'s long-range aircraft. Naval escorts were detached to hunt for raider, while Surgeon-Lt. Campbell went to work with scalpel and suture, using the captain's dining-table as an operating table.

Straight Course

The destroyer then abandoned her zig-zag, reduced speed and settled on a course designed to cut the ship's motion to a minimum but which made her a slightly better target for any U-boat close enough to launch a "fish."

"Keep her as steady as you can," said the officer on the watch to the man at the wheel. "The doctor's doing a carving job down aft."

"It would have been tough in any circumstances," said Surgeon-Lt. Campbell, launching into incomprehensible technicalities to prove his statement. "I wouldn't have done it if I'd thought it safe to leave it until we got to port. These jobs aren't any fun at sea."

The Surgeon-Lt. Campbell, 29, is the son of Rev. A. C. Campbell of St. Mary's, Ont. He was educated at Western University and joined the Navy in December, 1940. He has a two-weeks old daughter, Mary Lou.

Expert Claims Alfred de Marigny Left Fingermark

By E. V. W. JONES
Associated Press Staff Writer.

NASSAU, Bahamas, Aug. 6 (AP) —A New York identification expert, Frank Conway, swore today a fingerprint on a paper-covered wooden screen in the room where Sir Harry Oakes was bludgeoned and burned to death was made by the multi-millionaire baronet's son-in-law, Alfred de Marigny.

Conway, of the New York Bureau of Criminal Identification, testifying at a preliminary hearing for the tall, bearded De Marigny, before Magistrate F. E. Field, exhibited pictures, one of which he said was a view of the fingerprint on the screen and the other a fingerprint impression made by De Marigny.

De Marigny, who is charged with murder, left the defendant's chair and went to the rail to inspect the pictures closely.

"These fingerprints were made by the same person," Conway said.

After Conway completed his testimony and cross-examination, Field adjourned the hearing until next Tuesday.

The fingerprint in question is a key part of the case the Crown has been outlining against De Marigny.

Step by step during the preliminary hearing, Capt. Edward W. Melchen and Capt. James O. Barker of Miami have built a structure of evidence on which the prosecution will ask that De Marigny be ordered to trial for murder.

Stress 4 Points.

To this, technical evidence will be added today by Detective Frank Conway of the New York police force.

Four principal points have been made by the Miami detectives during the first two days of the hearing.

Melchen testified that De Marigny declared he hated Sir Harry, his father-in-law, whose battered and burned body was found in the Oakes home July 8.

The detective said De Marigny told him of "heated arguments" with Sir Harry and added that he had not been in Westbourne, the spacious Oakes residence, in three years.

Melchen's colleague, Barker, testified earlier that De Marigny's fingerprint was found on a screen in the room where Sir Harry was slain.

Barker said he questioned De Marigny about the clothing he wore on the night of the murder.

"He said he had on a tan shirt and trousers and sport shoes. The shirt he said he wore is missing."

Godfrey Higgs, defence attorney, is cross-examining each witness at length.

He disclosed last night that the screen on which fingerprints were found would be one of the vital exhibits in the case.

Close Election Held In Lakefield

LAKEFIELD, Aug. 6.—(ENS). —Rain acted as a damper when only 61 per cent. of Lakefield's 810 eligible voters turned out at the polls for Wednesday's election, to give Harold Scott, the Conservative candidate, a bare six vote margin over his two opponents, in the village.

The winning candidate polled a total of 171 votes against a tie vote of 165 each for the Liberal member, Capt. A. L. Elliott and the C. C. F. candidate, Bruce Johnston.

Scott received his big majority at Poll 57 (Mrs. MacMillan's house) polling 106 votes against Elliott's 89 and Johnston's 72, but at the Town Hall (Poll 56) the C.C.F. cohorts rallied to give Johnston 93 votes against Elliott's 76 and Scott's 65.

Pine Grove (Poll 80) returns were first in at 7.20 and gave an indication of the trend in the district with the tally showing Scott 62, Elliott 38, Johnston 15.

The Temperance Hall at Selwyn (Poll 48) followed closely, swinging Liberal with 39 for Elliott, 26 for Scott and 20 for Johnston.

The Maples (Poll 47) was third with the pendulum back strongly for Scott at 84 and Elliott and Johnston tied with 29 each.

Young's Point gave Scott a slight edge of 68 to 65 for Elliott, Johnston running well back with 17.

By 7.40 the whole Lakefield district was in, the six polls giving the Conservative candidate an edge of 75 over the Liberal standard bearer and 165 over the C.C.F. choice.

BURLINGTON, Ont., Aug. 6—(CP).—Many Burlington citizens visited the home of Mrs. W. E. Dalton recently when 14 blossoms came out on a plant—a member of the night-blooming cereus family. Mrs. Dalton believes her plant to be the most prolific in the province as far as blooms are concerned.

Americans Have 6,741 Casualties

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP).—American casualties in Sicily through July 22 totalled 6,741—501 killed, 3,870 wounded and 2,370 missing, War Secretary Henry Stimson reported today.

He said he did not have the figures on British and Canadian casualties for the same period, but they were "not a great deal higher." Casualties since July 22 were believed to be "relatively light."

Prisoners taken in Sicily total nearly 100,000, including several thousand Germans, he said.

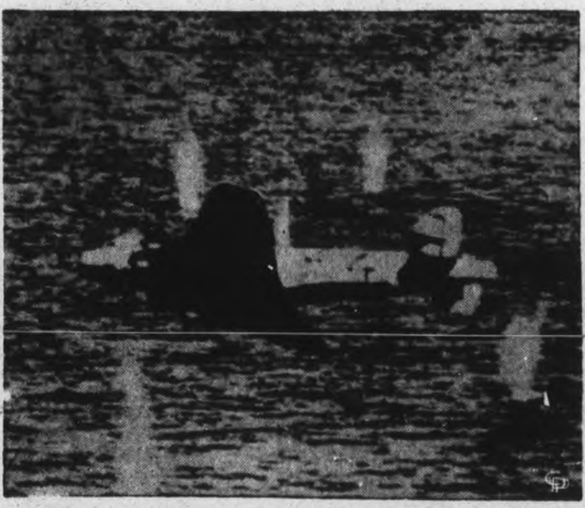
Norwegian Faces Charge Of Murder

HALIFAX, Aug. 6 (CP). — AB. Arnt Thornsen, 32, of the Royal Norwegian Navy, was arraigned today on a charge of murdering Alf Toldnes, 34, also of the Royal Norwegian Navy, aboard an Allied warship in Halifax harbor.

The fatality occurred shortly after midnight. Describing a quarrel between the two men, witnesess at the hearing said the accused struck Toldnes in the face as they mounted a companionway. Toldnes fell back eight feet, lost consciousness and died soon after, they testified.

The hearing was adjourned until today for medical testimony.

Death Of A Nazi Transport



Cannon shots fired by an R.A.F. "marauder" splatter the water below a huge German Junkers transport off the coast of Bastia, Corsica. Moments later, the troop-carrying Nazi craft was hit fatally and cracked up. More than a score of these "sitting ducks" were shot down recently attempting to reinforce Sicily.—Radiophoto.

Flier At Dance Hurt By Bomb

BRANDON, Man., Aug. 6 (CP)—A coroner's jury last night decided that Lloyd Wesley Shields, 22, of Roseland, Man., was accidentally killed by a bomb from a Royal Canadian Air Force plane while at an outdoor dance near Roseland, July 17. The jury's verdict exonerated the crew of the plane from any blame.

The bomb was accidentally released from a training aircraft operating from No. 5 Air Observers' school during a routine bombing exercise, said an R.C.A.F. statement after the mishap.

Investigation revealed that the lighted dance floor was mistaken for a bombing range.

The jury recommended that identification marks be placed on bombing areas to permit recognition of targets from any angle of approach.

Five other persons were injured when the bomb crashed into the centre of the dance floor.

Troina Falls To Americans After Savage Battle Along Mount Etna Flank

Americans Also Occupy Island Of Ustica 40 Miles North Of Sicily Was Used As Fascist Penal Settlement

By DANIEL DE LUCE—Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Aug. 7—(AP).—American 1st Division troops have stormed and captured the vital mountain fortress town of Troina in central Sicily and Allied forces advanced on other sectors to sweep up a total of 125,000 Axis prisoners, headquarters announced today.

"The German line is now disjointed" by seizure of Troina guarding the escape hatch west of Mount Etna, it was announced. U.S. units inflicted heavy casualties on German Elite troops defending the town in some of the most savage fighting of the entire campaign.

American naval forces occupied the Island of Ustica, 40 miles north of Palermo, and Allied bombers shattered Messina in their heaviest attack devastating this last Sicilian escape port. British warships again pounded the east coastal road of withdrawal near Taormina.

The fall of Troina threatened to prevent junction of the German 15th Armored Division and Herman Goering Division in their retreat toward Messina.

8th Army Moves Up.

The British-Canadian 8th Army advanced on all sectors, threatening the communications town of Aderno, 14 miles southeast of Troina on the main road skirting Mt. Etna. The Germans demolished nine bridges and a 12-mile stretch of road as they fell back.

Allied airplanes paced by heavy bombers struck Messina yesterday with the heaviest, most concentrated assault yet attempted during the Sicilian campaign.

350 Tons of Bombs

Approximately 350 tons of bombs were poured on the small strip of territory around Messina. The huge concentration of enemy anti-aircraft guns about the port—described as rivalling the defences of the Ruhr area of Germany—offered "considerably less fire" yesterday, returning airmen said, and no enemy planes were sighted.

Other Allied planes ranged over the narrowing Messina bridgehead, pounding road communications and supply centres around Mount Etna and strafing evacuation beaches on the coast.

No Italian troops were fighting anywhere on the Sicilian front.

The powerful sledgehammer drives by the Americans and British again cracked the dwindling bridgehead still held by the enemy and with the Allied Air Force pounding enemy roads and beaches by day and night, the Germans were in a precarious position.

The Sicilian front on July 20 was 175 miles wide. Today its narrow width of 45 miles enabled the employment of tremendous firepower and air power by the Allies.

American naval and military forces took about 100 Italian soldiers and sailors prisoner at Ustica, and found 216 Italian civil prisoners on the island. Ustica has been used by the Fascists as a penal settlement.

(A list of casualties from Allied air raids mentioned Naples, Messina, Elboli and Battipaglia in Salerno Province and Paola in Cosenza Province as targets of Allied attacks. The communique reported 54 persons killed and 71 injured at all these places.)

Near the east of towering Mount Etna, British and Canadian troops were slowly closing in on Aderno, while the American 7th Army was locked with the German defenders of Troina in the most fierce fighting it has encountered since the Sicilian invasion began.

Mrs. C. G. Power Christens Giant Bomber

MALTON, Aug. 7—Section One of the "Ruhr Express" left Toronto last night and headed for "parts east" on the first leg of a journey which will eventually find it pounding the Axis countries.

First Lancaster aircraft ever built in Canada, the giant airplane considered the world's best bomber, was christened by Mrs. C. G. Power, wife of the Minister for Air, in a colorful ceremony in front of Victory Aircraft, where it was constructed. There were marching members of the Women's Division, Air Force, Army and Navy; bands played; a champagne bottle was broken on the nose of the machine and thousands of employees cheered.

The airmen were Sqdn. Ldr. Reg. J. Lane, D.S.O., D.F.C., of Victoria; PO. Steve Boczar, Saskatoon; PO. John Carrere, Cochrane; Sgt. Ross S. Webb, Glenavon, Sask.; Flt. Sgt. Reg. Burgar, Traynor, Sask.; owner of the pup; Sgt. Mike Baczinski, Brandon, Man., and Flt. Sgt. R. W. right, D.F.M., of Saskatoon. Another member who returned from England to take the new ship back is Sgt. George Browell, Yellow Grass, Sask., who is in hospital at Regina and "is heartbroken about it," according to the rest of the crew.

Munitions Minister C. D. Howe told the assembled crowd that Prime Minister Churchill had said the best birthday present he could receive would be 1,000 bombers. "I am now able to cable Mr. Churchill that the first edition of his birthday present is on the way," he said.

Americans Have Japs On Run

NAVAL HEADQUARTERS IN SOUTH PACIFIC, Aug. 7—(AP)—Admiral William Halsey Jr. on the first anniversary of the start of the battle for the South Pacific promised today that the United Nations will carry the war into Japan itself.

"We will destroy the enemy," Halsey told a press conference. "We shall push forward until the battle of the South Pacific becomes the battle of Japan."

The commander-in-chief of naval forces in this war theatre said the United States is entering the second year of the South Pacific campaign "with every confidence in ultimate victory."

"We view what lies ahead with the satisfaction that comes from having thus far soundly beaten a powerful enemy in every phase of air and sea warfare," he continued.

Nazis Build Dummy Stations

Fail To Fool Allied Fliers Who Find Targets

AT THE GERMAN FRONTIER, Aug. 7—(AP)—An elaborate system of brightly-lighted dummy railway stations, built by Nazi authorities to receive Allied night bombers but which failed to accomplish their purpose, were described today by travellers reaching this border town.

"Those raiders somehow seem to find everything," the travellers said. One man, describing his first impression in crossing into Germany, said there was an "incredible muddle" at all Nazi railway stations.

Railway equipment is old and decrepit and new material is gobbled up by the army for the transport of troops and war materials to the various fronts, he said.

This traveller, who visited many parts of the Reich, said that the scent of death pervades the heavily-bombed German cities, with the inhabitants suffering from raid psychosis. They are completely indifferent about the fate of their property, expecting it to be blasted into smoke at any time.

Duesseldorf was a "terrible sight." He said he saw it two days after a raid and thousands of workers were still busy clearing away the wreckage. There was no electricity, gas or water and over all hung the penetrating odor of decay. This odor was typical of all the bombed cities he visited, he said.

First Lancaster Bomber Built In Canada Takes Off From Malton

Heavy Bombers Pulverize Port

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Aug. 7—(AP)—The massed power of Allied air fleets laid waste the Axis escape port of Messina in northeast Sicily yesterday in round-the-clock attacks.

Approximately 350 tons of bombs were rained upon the area around Messina as the air blows upon the enemy evacuation route from Sicily surprassed in concentration anything yet attempted by the Allied air forces during the campaign.

Wellingtons, Flying Fortresses, Maurauders and Mitchells pulverized roads, evacuation beaches and other points opposite the Italian mainland, and Mitchells, Bostons, and Invaders rained explosives on Aderno, Bronte, and Randazzo in the circular section around Mt. Etna still held by the Germans.

Naples Hit Again

Canadian Wellingtons also attacked Naples in the fifth Allied raid against that big southern Italian port this month, dropping blockbusters.

(An R.A.F. survey showed that 12,000 Axis planes were destroyed or captured in the Middle East and North African campaigns since Italy entered the war, the London Daily Mail said in a Cairo dispatch. Eight thousand of them were German.)

Punished by continued bombard ment, the heavy concentration of enemy ground defences in the Messina area offered "considerably less fire" yesterday than previously and Allied airmen saw no enemy planes over the targets there.

Red Cross Supplies Shipped Overseas Recovered By Troops Now In Sicily Fight

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

With the Canadians in Sicily, Aug. 6—(Delayed)—(CP Cable.) — Among the captured medical stores in Sicily, Canalian officials found some Canadian Red Cross supplies.

While clearing up captured hospital supplies from a warehouse in Leonforte about a dozen bales of pillowslips and sheets stamped "Canadian Red Cross Society, Quebec Province Branch," were uncovered.

They were sent to a Canadian General Hospital in Sicily.

Maj. J. K. Bell, of Sarnia, Ont., Assistant Director of Medical Services, said: "It is pure supposition as to the source of reason of these stores being in enemy hands in Sicily, but there are two logical conjectures. The supplies may have been sent to our prisoners of war or to suffering people of the occupied countries such as Greece and transferred to Sicily."

He added: "The Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps which appreciated the fact that Red Cross supplies now are available."

A Canadian General Hospital in Sicily has been equipped out of captured Italian and German army hospital supplies in addition to regular Canadian supplies.

A number of Canadian wounded are being treated at the hospital and others are being evacuated by air and boat to another General Hospital in North Africa.

Economists Voice Warning Peace Will Not Be Panacea

By SYDNEY GRUSON—Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 7—(CP).—The military situation for the Allies having bettered, the British economists have been able to turn much of their energies to the task of preparing the country for the peace.

They, perhaps, better than any one else in a position to know the economic facts to be faced after the war, realize that post-war controls of manpower, food, currency and such will be as necessary then as now.

Turning point in the work being done on post-war planning was reached recently when Prime Minister Churchill summarized the Government's hopes and plans for post-war social legislation. Government economists agree that until this spring it would have been premature to have concentrated on the economic work for the post-war period.

"With the enemy at the very gates the time was not propitious for anything but military planning, and economic planning was tied indivisably to the military strategy," says L. C. Robbins, one of Britain's leading government economists.

WITH THE CANADIANS FACING MOUNT ETNA, Sicily, Aug. 3—(Delayed)—(CP Cable)—In the valley of the Simeto River, which twists through mountains dominated by volcanic Mount Etna the British and Canadian forces may seal the fate of German's Sicilian garrison before another week passes.

Making the most of the Canadian bridgehead established across the Dittaino river with the fall of Catenanuova, captured July 30, infantry, tanks and guns slogged and fought their way eastward over the mountains. With the fall of Regalbuto and Centuripe Aug. 2 the next obstacle is the Simeto Valley where a strong German Mount Etna Line is believed to be formed principally on the north side of the dried riverbed.

The Canadian and British forces are pointing their guns and infantry towards the valley now and the threat is drawing German reserves from Catania front. Crack German paratroop battalions fighting as infantry moved into the line opposite the hinge between the British 8th and American 7th Armies to try to block the Canadian-British menace.

(Since this dispatch was written, Catania has been captured by the 8th Army.)

A sweeping Canadian flanking movement from Pachino to the outskirts of Enna, and then east through Agira and Regalbuto is beginning to show full results. With

Kharkov City Next Target As Red Armies Continue Speedy Advance

37-Mile Drive Cuts Kharkov-Bryansk Rwy. Threatens To Isolate City German Dead Set At 120,000 Since July 12

By HENRY C. CASSIDY—Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Aug. 7—(AP).—Two Russian army groups which outflanked Kharkov from the north in a swift drive through Belgorod, were threatening the rear of the German positions around that third largest city in the Soviet Union today, front line dispatches said.

Descending the valley by way of the Uby River, the Russians raced through Zolochev, a little more than 20 miles northwest of Kharkov in a flank attack similar to the action farther north which drove the Germans from Orel and opened the way for a simultaneous push toward Bryansk.

Both Kharkov and Bryansk, 275 miles to the northwest, were threatened by the broad advance.

Russian troops battering their way westward beyond Belgorod have already advanced 37 miles to cut the Kharkov-Bryansk railroad at Zolochev, 25 miles to the northwest of Kharkov, the Russians reported.

A Third Prong.

(The German radio said in a broadcast recorded in London that another Russian column was poised at Chuguyev, 24 miles southeast of Kharkov, which gave rise to the belief that the Russian high command was preparing another pincers operation similar to the one which pinched off Orel at the north end of the Kursk salient.)

A Red Army war communique, which indicated there was to be no letup in the initiative seized from the German Army on July 12, summarized the month of fighting with figures showing the Germans' ill-starred attempt to erase the Kursk salient had cost them 120,000 dead and the destruction of 4,605 tanks, 11,000 trucks, 2,492 planes and 1,623 guns. In addition, the Russians said they took 12,418 prisoners and captured 621 tanks, 875 guns and 2,251 machine guns and 325 supply and munitions depots.

The momentum of the advance which brought the Red Army into Belgorod on Thursday has carried them well beyond the city in the new offensive operations centring around the strongly-defended Kharkov area, the communique said. The Russians said they already had captured 150 villages along a 44-mile front including the railroad town of Zolochev and seven district centres.

To the north, the Russians said they routed picked German forces to advance on Bryansk, which lies about 80 miles to the west and slightly north of Orel.

The movement toward Byansk gained up to six miles in yesterday's fighting, giving the Russians 70 villages including the town of Kromi, 26 miles northwest of Orel.

The advances on Kharkov and Byansk were being heavily supported by the Red Army air force operating on a round-the-clock schedule to bomb and strafe German concentrations and supply dumps. Thirty-six Nazi planes were shot down in combat during the day, the Russians said.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 7.—(AP). — Anti-aircraft fire from a German merchantman yesterday struck a Swedish fighter plane flying over the boundary between Swedish territorial and international waters—first incident since Sweden's suspension of German military traffic to Norway.

Liberal Wins Seat In Muskoka Riding

TORONTO, Aug. 7 (CP)—Results of the service vote, trickling in from camps and barracks throughout the Province, left most of the candidates elected Wednesday in the Ontario general election secure in their constituencies but the outcome in Perth today continued to be in doubt.

Wednesday, the Perth seat was conceded to Angus Dickson, Liberal, who showed a 12-vote advantage over Fred Edwards, Progressive Conservative, but the service vote sent the constituency into the doubtful class and at present Mr. Edwards is leading by seven votes.

William Pratt, Perth returning officer, said in Stratford last night he did not know how many camps had yet to report.

In Toronto Beaches the 129-vote majority held by T. A. Murphy, Progressive Conservative, over Gordon Ferguson, C.C.F., was cut to 48 by the service vote reported up to last night and additional military camps have yet to be heard from.

The Muskoka-Ontario riding that remained in the doubtful column for two days was finally conceded to Frank Kelly, Liberal, who late yesterday showed a 42-vote majority over the Progressive Conservative candidate, John Gibson. There still is one poll to be heard from but Norman Alexander, returning officer, said there were only about 35 voters there.

Ask Guerillas To Be Patient

LONDON, Aug. 7 (CP) — Greeks and Yugoslavs were asked to "be patient a little longer" and counselled "not to allow the enemy to sow confusion" in their ranks in a special message from the Allied high command broadcast by the BBC throughout today.

The so-called Fortress of Europe is threatened "from within and without" since the collapse of the Mussolini regime and the exposure of Europe's underside in the Balkan Peninsula, the message said.

But the Germans will not relax their grip easily, the broadcast warned, and "would not hesitate to use weapons of the most odious barbarism, the most devilish deceit in a panic endeavor to destroy and disorganize the active resistance of the Greeks and Yugoslavs."

Red Triumph Paves Way for Invasion

Allied Bombing Has Covered Landing Points In Western Europe

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The Red Army's double-barreled triumph in the capture of the strategic cities of Orel and Belgorod — a stupendous feat which threatens the security of Hitler's entire 1,000 mile line in Russia—might rapidly develop into a situation which would produce the "second front" for which the Muscovites are again begging.

The loss of these two heavily fortified railway centres is a major defeat for the Nazis as it now stands, and potentially it's a catastrophe. Whether it actually will develop into a catastrophe depends on what reserve strengthen the Russians have with which which to follow up their successes.

Latest reports show the Reds smashing forward with great striking power to capitalize the capture of the two key positions. Should the Nazis lose much more ground in these vital sectors, their High Command would be compelled to withdraw their entire right wing, which is anchored on the Sea of Azov, west of Rostov. This in turn would force an adjustment of the rest of the front to the north, clear to Leningrad. If the Germans are compelled to retreat, they likely will fall back in the first instance to the line of the Dneiper River.

Dangerous Operation

A withdrawal of this magnitude, under heavy enemy pressure, is one of the most difficult and dangerous operations in war. It could easily be turned into a rout.

This new and great Russian success, coupled with the rapid progress of the Allied operations in Sicily, is calculated to cause the Allied command to check immediately and seriously whether now is the moment for the great adventure of landing an army in France. That might not fit in with current plans, but it seems likely that the Allied program is flexible enough so that a quick change could be made.

One circumstance which might favor an invasion of France in the near future is the happy state of the Allied campaign of bombing Western Europe. Careful analysis of the daily objectives of the Anglo-American forces over a long period would indicate that much attention has been paid to "invasion points," quite apart from the big industrial centres and communications.

Pope Urges Peace Prayers

Badoglio Continues Strong War Talk

LONDON, Aug. 7.—(CP).—Italy's people were cheered to-day by the timely call for prayers for peace issuel by Pope Pius, which provided a strong antidote to the war-like utterances of Premier Pietro Badoglio.

The Pope's action came as any hope that Italy might be rescued by Germany from ultimate surrender to the Allies faded on the battlefields of Russia and Sicily and in the bomb-shattered Reich itself.

Typical of Badoglio's new militaristic propaganda line was a broadcast from Rome this morning that "a large number of lads under military age have asked to be allowed to join the army as volunteers."

It appeared, however, that Hitler has not completely abandoned hope of holding Italy in the Axis orbit. An Italian frontier report said that Nazi Foreign Minister Ribentrop met the new Italian Foreign Minister, Raffaele Guariglia, somewhere in Northern Italy yesterday. It was presumed the Nazi leader sounded out Italy's plans for the immediate future and her position regarding her alliance with Germany. How long Ribbentrop planned to stay in Italy was not divulged.

Reuters News Agency reported from Lisbon that airport officials there have been told that a special Italian plane would arrive from Rome to-day, but there was no indication as to who might be aboard.

MASS STAMPEDE FROM HUN CAPITAL EXPECTED AT ANY MOMENT

Americans Lash Jap Bases At Many Points

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Aug. 7.—(AP).—Vulnerable spots where the next blows against the Japanese may fall, now that Munda has been captured, felt the impact of America's air might in the Pacific during raids reported in to-day's communique from Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

United States' fighters whipped a numerically superior enemy in an air battle off Southern Bougainville. That enemy air and shipping sector is the most formidable barrier still between Allied forces and Japan's mighty fortress of Rabaul, New Britain.

Bombers with fighter escorts blasted Rekata Bay, a float-plane base, with 65 tons of explosives. It is on Santa Isabel Island, northeast of New Georgia, flanking the line of advance and supply from Guadalcanal to Munda.

Other bombers 750 miles to the west ranged along the New Guinea coast, wrecking the supply barges Japan is utilizing to maintain the garrison at Salamaua, New Guinea. Salamaua, menaced by Australians and Americans only five miles away, is the objective of the left prong of the offensive which opened last June 30. Munda was the goal on the right.

On Munda, jungle troops fanned out from the newly won 4,000-foot airstrip into nearby Mangrove swamps tracking down fleeing stragglers of the crushed Japanese garrison.

7 Zeros Downed

More than 1,600 enemy dead have already been counted.

In the Bougainville air fight, 16 United States planes sought battle with 30 Zeros, downing seven at the cost of one.

(Hints of developments to come in the Pacific were supplied at two other points. At an unidentified advance base, it was disclosed that Lt.-Gen. Alexander Archer Vandegrift, who led the marines ashore at Guadalcanal just one year ago today, is back on the job. Expressing openly his pleasure over the planes, ships and men available for current operations, he gave assurance "the Amphibious Corps is ready for action anywhere."

(And at Honolulu, the commander-in-chief of the Pacific Fleet, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, said the Japanese, after "temporary conquests" now "must stand ready everywhere for assault from the surface and air . . .")

Meanwhile, the complete victory at Munda drew a message of commendation from Gen. Douglas MacArthur for Admiral William F. Halsey, his local commanders in the South Pacific and for "all components of the forces engaged, ground, naval and air."

A Trap That Failed

SANTA CRUZ, Calif., Aug. 7—(AP).—Raccoons raided Joseph Majors' ranch. He set traps on the ground, dangling chunks of meat over them. Next morning he found the 'coons had climbed the tree from which the bait dangled. They'd pulled up the strings, eaten the meat, and left the cords thoroughly tangled in the boughs

Bus Sideswipes Rock Wall Injuring Nine

LINDSAY, Aug. 7—(ENS)—Two people were removed to the Lindsay hospital and seven others were injured in an accident which occurred south of Minden last night when the Lindsay-Haliburton bus driven by Jack Begley of Lindsay sideswiped a rock wall bordering the edge of the highway. The entire side of the bus was slipped off including seats several of the passengers were resting on.

Fred Ockerman, 253 George street, Toronto and Mrs. A. C. Clay, 40 Ottawa street, Hamilton, were taken by ambulance to Lindsay suffering fractured ribs, deep cuts and internal injuries. Other persons less seriously injured were: Miss Esme Thomlinson, 295 McDonnel street, Peterborough; Miss Elizabeth Thomlinson, Y.W.C.A., Peterborough; Mrs. Reuben Ford and daughter, Virginia of Little Britain; Mrs. M. L. Houghton, 67 Hayden street, Toronto; Leading Stoker Bruce Potts, Trenton; Mrs. E. Little, 497 Ontario street, Toronto. Doctors B. E. Meek of Toronto, Mosball and Ingram of Coboconk attended.

Provincial Constable W. Hendren and W. McBridge who investigated were informed by Begley that the accident occurred when he was forced to swing too far out on the edge of the road to avoid a car coming around the curve. The bus wheels slipped into the ditch and the right side was sheared off by sharp-edge granite rocks. Only for the high wall the large vehicle would probably have tipped over.

The damaged bus was purchased new about a month ago by the Haliburton bus line owner, Walter Angel, to take care of the increased traffic to the northland district.

BAILIEBORO

Gasoline Thieves Blamed For Fire

BAILIEBORO, Aug. 7 — (ENS). —Reginald Armstrong, a farmer of this district, suffered the loss of the major part of his farm equipment, valued at more than $3,000, when a fire broke out in his farm implement shed on Friday morning at three o'clock.

A tractor, binder, and mower, as well as other equipment, were ruined in the blaze, though the loss is partly covered by insurance.

The origin of the fire has not been determined, but it is Mr. Armstrong's supposition that it may have been started by thieves who broke into the shed to steal gasoline from the tractor tank.

When he came out to move the tractor from the burning shed Mr. Armstrong was unable to start it, though he has never had any trouble with it before.

Worker Survey Brings Frank Answers

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 7 — J. H. Kindelberger, president of North American Aviation, Inc., with plants in Inglewood, Cal., Dallas and Kansas City, recently surveyed his thousands of employees on scores of questions and the surprising answers he got revealed to him, among other things, that they did not want to be "coddled."

Known to his employees as "Dutch," the North American president had his survey printed in the plants' newspapers for depositing, after filling out, in ballot boxes. No signatures were required.

One question was: "What do you think can accomplish most toward building morale among North American employees?" To this 32 per cent checked "longer hours of work and less coddling," and 25 per cent checked "all the truth about our defeats as well as our victories."

Another startler was the response to: "How do you feel about possible enemy attacks on this plant?" Said 49 per cent of the workers: "Let them come; we can take it as well as the British," and 28 per cent said: "I'd be scared but willing to take my chances." Less than 1 per cent said they would quit before the second raid.

Following are some of the questions asked and the percentages of answers given:

Do you think America and the United Nations are winning the war? Yes, 81.5 per cent.

In your opinion, what is the most serious problem this company and its employees must overcome in order to make the greatest possible contribution to victory? Inadequately trained personnel, 28.8 per cent; shortage of materials, 26.3 per cent; absenteeism, 17.4 per cent.

Do you think the top management at North American is competent? Sincere? Interested in you? Replies, respectively, were 60.4 per cent, 60.2 per cent and 41.5 per cent yes.

Do you think the majority of your fellow-employees are doing their best? Only 46.2 per cent said yes, and 44.9 per cent said no.

Does your forman play favorites? To this 45.9 per cent said yes, 41.8 per cent said no.

Exploding Shell Killed Colonel

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

With Canadians in Sicily, Aug. 6—(Delayed)—(CP Cable.)—Lt.-Col. Bruce Sutcliffe of Trenton, Ont., was killed by shellfire while making a reconnassance ahead of the front line July 20, it was disclosed today.

Col. Sutcliffe's death was announced by his wife in Trenton July 29).

The reconnaissance he was on was aimed at completing final plans for the subsequently successful attack by the Hastings anl Prince Edward Regiment up the 2,500-foot cliffs at Assoro, which Canadians captured.

On the afternoon of July 20 Col. Sutcliffe and a brigadier with a small party officers went forward over a valley leading to the Assoro peak, then strongly held by Germans.

Col. Sutcliffe wanted to look over the ground personally before leading his Hastings and Prince Edward Battalion into a surprise attack that night. In addition there were some German 88-millimetre guns which had been firing on the battalion area and he wanted to spot them to bring Canadian artillery to bear on them.

The party was in an orange orchard about a mile from Assoro when Col. Sutcliffe told the brigadier he was going a few hundred yards to the right to get a better view and perhaps spot the German guns.

He had hardly left the party when the Germans shelled the area where he had gone. Col. Sutcliffe was killed instantly by an 88-mm. shell which burst near him.

The plan which he had prepared was carried through with brilliant success that night when his regiment clawed its way up the precipice and surprised and took Assoro town.

Col. Sutcliffe, aged 38, was one of the youngest officers commanding an infantry regiment in the Canadian army. He went overseas a major with the Canadian 1st Division in December, 1939.

He was born in Toronto, son of J. A. and Mrs. Sutcliffe, and had lived in Trenton for a number of years.

Mrs. Sutcliffe survives with three small children and the colonel's parents.

turned to post-war problems, we are wondering whether people will say in the post-victory period, 'We put up with these controls during the war, and there's no good reason why they should be continued now when the Axis is defeated'."

There has been an increasing tendency on the part of government officials to recognize that the people must be educated—and educated while the war is on—to a recognition of the fact that the return of peace will not mean the immediate return or normal conditions.

The period for which the post-war controls will be necessary will depend on how quickly readjustment of the world's economy can be made to fit the shape laid down by Allied leaders. No attempt to guess at the length of this period was made by Hugh Dalton in his latest discussion of the problem, but the President of the Board of Trade declared emphatically:

"Controls must be continued after the war to such an extent as may be necessary to maintain economic stability and to prevent the inflation we had after the last war."

the British support the Canadians now are receiving, it may be the key to final victory.

The Canadian and British formations are faced with the task now of clearing the way between Regalbuto and Simeto Valley to come to grips with the main German force if it makes a stand there. Adriano in the valley is a link-up point between the Germans in the north facing the Americans and the southern sector of their line, facing the Canadian and British forces.

The Germans are exploiting every geographic advantage and one officer said: "The enemy is using Mount Etna as we would use three divisions. It is worth three divisions to them."

One of the most encouraging features in this particular sector is the way the commanders avoided pushing the infantry forward without strong artillery support. There has been nothing approaching a blood bath where whole battalions came out of the line in remnants.

The campaign has been fought with maximum consideration, in this sector at any rate, for human lives. The commanders are making the guns and tanks work for the infantry, clearing paths and giving support.

"I'm calling up the guns now for the battalion," he said. "While they could take the hills themselves they won't lose half as many men with the guns behind. That's the rule I follow."

Leaflet Raid Panics Berlin Citizens

LONDON, Aug. 7—(CP)—Rising fears approaching a "state of panic" that Berlin will be the next target for massed Allied air raids, and serious strikes by German peace demonstrators, were reported today to have dealt new blows to Nazi morale.

Reuters News Agency quoted arrivals in Zurich from Berlin as saying that the capital's authorities were "at their wits end to control a mass stampede from the city." Many arrests have been made among refugees from bomb-battered Hamburg, Reuters said, to prevent their spreading stories of fantastic casualties in that north port city.

Berliners' fears that their city will be singled out for devastation when autumn nights make longer Allied raids possible were reported heightened also, Swedish dispatches said, when the R.A.F. showered leaflets over the capital warning that Berlin would serve as a sequel to the fate of Hamburg, which has become the world's most battered city.

Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels has admitted a partial evacuation of Berlin, but he said the list was restricted to non-essential residents.

Reuters also quoted reports heard in Istanbul that the Germans were preparing to proclaim Berlin and open city and remove the ministries and other servies to Dresden, Leipzig, Munich and Prague.

The Zurich Die Weltwoche said that strikers demanding peace had piled new troubles upon Germany's already overtaxed war industries, that workers in some factories in Austria had refused to work and

Lost Much By Not Studying Ideals of the Ascension

REV. E. R. JAMES

Jesus saith unto Mary: I ascend unto My Father and your Father, unto My God and your God. St. John 20:17.

Are you amazed that our Lord's uppermost thought after His resurrection is His ascension to heaven. He looked forward to that moment when He shall pass into the very presence of the Father Himself. Over and over He reminded His Apostles that He came down from the Father. In His famous interview with Nicodemus our Lord makes the tremendous claim:—No man hath ascended up to heaven but He that came down from heaven, even the Son of Man which is in heaven."

Few doctrines of the faith have been so lightly held as that of the ascension of our Lord. Many look upon the ascension as the statement of a fact which happened but has little to do with the personal life and character of the individual. We have lost much by not pondering upon the uplifting ideals and inspiration of our Lord's ascension.

The Greeks and Romans taught the deification of their great men; that because of their greatness they had a place among the gods. We must never think of our Lord in that light. There is a great gulf between the deification of a man and the ascension of our Lord. The Christian teaching is that God became man, born of the Virgin Mother by the operation of the Holy Spirit. He lived a man's life and died a real death and rose from the dead and returned to heaven. The ancient Creed emphasises this truth: —"I believe in one Lord Jesus Christ, Who for us men and for our salvation came down from heaven and was incarnate by the Holy Ghost of the Virgin Mary and was made man."

The ascension of the Lord saved the Apostles from a grave spiritual peril. The young Carpenter of Nazareth chose a small body of men "that they might be with Him"; to be gripped and fascinated by His personality. They came to love Him. More than that, as Bishop Gore reminds us, "unconsciously they gave Him the value of God." Then came the resurrection from the dead and the forty days during which He taught them the things pertaining to the Kingdom of God. Their love and knowledge of Him might have weakened their sense of awe. But His ascension changed everything; the danger passed away. Now "He was exalted to the right Hand of God." He is Man; He is God also. This is the mystery and wonder of the Christian religion.

He was taken up. The expression implies that the Father was completely satisfied with the perfect life lived on earth by His beloved Son. "Thou art My Beloved Son in Whom I am well pleased." Let us not forget that He took up with Him that which had never been in heaven before. He took up His perfect humanity; His humanity perfected and strengthened through the resistance to temptation. He had woven the Best Robe through agony, tears, darkness and death. It is the Best Robe of perfect righteousness which He is prepared to last over every repentant sinner as he pleads for forgiveness before the Father's Throne. "Look, Father, look on His anointed face and only look on us as found in Him.'

Our Lord's human soul longed to gaze upon the Father's face. "No man hath seen God at any time." True. The perfect Man is the visible image of God. With His inward eye our Lord saw something of the beauty and glory of the Father but His human soul longed for the complete satisfaction of beholding the Face of His Father. At our Lord's ascension the Father beheld all that He expected of man when He created Him in His own image. The angels of God ushering Him into the Presence cried:—Behold, the Man.

A word of practical teaching. How comforting it is for the dying man to remember that his Judge will be the God-Man, Jesus Christ, Who was in all points tempted and tested even as we are, yet without sin. From Him he will receive not only Justice but mercy. He knows what is in man. His heart is full of compassion for His brethren. "Thanks be unto Thee, O Lord."

To him that overcometh will I grant to sit with Me in My Throne, even as I also overcame, and am set down with My Father in His Throne.

Archbishop Speaks on Protest

TORONTO, Aug. 6—(CP).—Most Rev. J. C. McGuigan, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Toronto, today issued a statement expressing surprise at being asked by the Toronto District Labor Council to intervene "in a matter which is clearly within the jurisdiction of the Separate School Board."

He was referring to a protest, addressed to him by a Labor Council meeting last night, against a decision of the Toronto Suburban and Separate School Board to erect a new school with non-union labor.

Archbishop McGuigan's statement said in part: "...I shall continue to use my authority and influence in favor of fair standard wages and the principle of labor union but...I must respect the right of the Separate School Board...to conduct its own business on its own responsibility."

Remember Families

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 7 (AP). —There was going to be a strike at the Quaker City Iron Works but it's off, because Charles Daggert, president of the Tank and Body Builders Local No. 1 made a speech on company time. Daggert told the workers, who were demanding a 10 per cent increase: "All of you have sons, brothers, other relatives, in the services. If you walked out now you'd be going back on them." He called for a show of hands on a back-to-work motion. Every hand went up.

God Shows His People Way to Promised Land

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for August 8 is Exodus 13-15, the Golden Text being Exodus 15:2, "Jehovah is my strength and song, and He is become my salvation.")

WHEN THE Israelites went out of Egypt, they gathered together at Succoth, in the northwest of Egypt, and there Moses told the people what God expected of them in return for His deliverance of them. For seven days they should eat no leavened bread, and every year at that time the first born of man and beast should be dedicated to the Lord.

Moses had arranged the setting forth from Egypt at dawn so that all the company, from the various places where the Israelites had settled, could come together. If they had not departed thus the Egyptians themselves would have driven them out, for none felt safe with the Israelites in their midst after the dreadful plagues. Thus all were gathered together to hear Moses proclaim the word of God to them.

The Lord did not lead His people out of Egypt through the land of the Philistines, which was near because the Philistines were at war, and He feared they might repent when they saw the war and return to Egypt. So He led them through the wilderness of the Red Sea.

Take Joseph's Bones

Do you remember that when Joseph died in Egypt he made those gathered about his bed to take oath that they would gather up his bones and take them with them when they left Egypt? So Moses took Joseph's bones with them, and the procession wended its way toward the Red sea. "And the Lord went before them by day in a pillar of a cloud, to lead them the way; and by night in a pillar of fire, to give them light; to go by day and night."

God commanded Moses to take the children of Israel to encamp by the sea, "for Pharaoh will say of the children of Israel, they are entangled in the land, the wilderness hath shut them in."

Now when it was told the king of Egypt that the Israelites had fled, he and his servants were sorry that they had consented to their exodus, for they missed the services they had given them. So Pharaoh made ready 600 chosen chariots, all the chariots of Egypt, and a captain over each chariot, and his horsemen and army, and followed after the Hebrews to bring them back.

When the Israelites saw the host coming, they immediately began to complain to Moses saying, "Because there was no graves in Egypt, has thou taken us away to die in the wilderness? wherefore hast thou dealt thus with us, to carry us out of Egypt?"

But Moses answered them, "Fear not, stand still, and see the salvation of the Lord, which He will shew to you today; for the Egyptians whom ye have seen today, ye shall see no more forever."

Moses commanded the Israelites to form a column, facing a certain portion of the shore; to load their beasts, bring their cattle together and have everything in readiness for a start. Moses stood at the head of the column with his rod in his hand, and he stretched out his hand over the sea. At once a strong east or northeast wind blew and drove the upper water of the shallow bay toward the west or south, and the lower water in the opposite direction so the bed of the sea was laid bare and the Israelites walked over in safety.

The Egyptians doubtless thought they could do the same, and went in after them, their chariots, horsemen —all the vast army. The angel of the Lord "troubled the Egyptians," took off their chariot wheels so that they drove heavily through the sand, and the Egyptians became frightened and said, "Let us flee from the face of Israel; for the Lord fighteth for them against the Egyptians."

It was too late, for Moses, on the other side of the sea, raised his rod, the water came together and buried the Egyptians, their men, horses, chariots and all. Not one was left, and "Israel saw the Egyptians dead upon the sea shore."

Thus was Israel saved, and Moses and all the children of Israel sang this song unto the Lord:

"I will sing unto the Lord, for He hath triumphed gloriously;
"The horse and his rider hath He thrown into the sea,
"The Lord is my strength and song,
"And He is my salvation."

And Miriam, the prophetess, sister of Aaron, took a timbrel in her hand; and all the women went out after her with timbrels and with dances.

Church Opposes Sale of Lands

OTTAWA, Aug. 6 (CP) — The Rideau Summer Conference, an undenominational meeting on social problems held last week at Merrickville, Ont., United church, in findings made public today criticized the sale by the government of property owned by Japanese of Canadian birth.

The report said:—

"This Conference deplores the action of the responsible authorities who have seized and sold the property of Japanese of Canadian birth without their consent.

"This action is un-Canadian and restitution should be made.

"The placing of these Canadian Japanese in interment areas without providing educational facilities for their children is condemned, especially when educational advantages were made available to enemy aliens in Canadian Universities."

The Conference also went on record as favoring the admission of Chinese and other Asiatics to Canada "on a basis comparable to other Commonwealth and foreign nationals."

Total disarmament of the Axis nations was proposed in a section dealing with peace terms.

God Shows His People the Way — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Exodus 12-15

After the Egyptians escaped from Egypt, Moses spoke to them, reminding them of their obligation to the Lord, and telling them what they must do to show their gratitude.

As the children of Israel went on their way, the Lord led them in a pillar of cloud by day, and a pillar of fire by night, to give them light to travel by day and night.

When it was told the king of Egypt that the people of Israel had fled, his heart was turned against them and his servants', too, and he made ready his chariots to pursue them.

The Israelites were terrified when they saw the Egyptians coming toward the Red Sea, but Moses raised his rod, the waters parted, and they went through. (GOLDEN TEXT—Exodus 15:2.

Is Coalition In The Cards?

Says the Montreal Gazette, commenting on the result of the Ontario election, "Coalition seems to be in Ontario's cards". We are not so sure about that. Mr. Drew has said that he does not favour a coalition; Mr. Jolliffe has declared himself against a coalition. What about Mr. Nixon?

Well, Mr. Nixon has shown himself to be an inefficient leader in a campaign, but no one has ever accused him of being an inexperienced politician; he knows the ropes better than either of the other two party leaders, and we predict that he will be quite as much opposed to a coalition as they are. Although it suffered a heavy defeat at the polls, the Liberal vote amounted to a little less than 31 per cent. of the total, and the Liberal party in Ontario is a going concern. If Mr. Nixon were to take his twelve disciples into a coalition with Mr. Drew they would probably degenerate in time into the seedy rump of a Conservative government and the Liberal party would suffer severely. But if he remains independent he can, on certain occasions at least, hold the balance of power in the house, and if for any reason he wishes to make overtures to Mr. Drew we are sure that Mr. Hepburn would be glad to act as intermediary. After all, the Nixon members represent a considerable body of Ontario opinion, and if they attach themselves too closely to Mr. Drew they will not be entirely free to say their say. Perhaps Mr. Nixon will be accused of putting party interest before the cause of the Right if he shows no inclination to unite with Mr. Drew against the Left, but he is used to accusations and knows how little they mean.

The Liberal defeat in Ontario has been interpreted as an expression of opinion against the Federal Government of Mr. Mackenzie King, and there is much truth in such a contention. Wartime governments decrease in popularity with every month of their power, and it is quite possible that in the next federal election the present administration will suffer a heavy defeat. But the tasks of a wartime government are to tax to the limit, and to apply restrictions wherever they seem to be needed; it must often act in an arbitrary manner, and sometimes it must temporize in what appears to be an unaccountable manner; it has, in fact, to do many very unpleasant things which ruin its popularity, in order to make as good a job as it can of the conduct of the war. And, of course, a government which has fought a war is often glad to relinquish power, and to allow its opponents to cope with the myriad problems which come with peace. Those voters who took the Ontario election as a chance to express their opinion of the Ottawa government may have felt, in some cases, that there is another group in Canada which could do a better wartime job than the present administration; other voters may have sought revenge for high taxes and a host of restrictions. But such expressions of opinion do not really tell us whether the Ottawa government is doing a good job or not. That will be for history to say, and we have a good idea of the verdict which history will give.

A Slump In Spinach

Children may be interested to hear that a slump in spinach is coming. For years this vegetable has been highly praised by parents as an efficacious aid toward growing big and strong like Daddy, making the hair curl, and preserving the bones from premature rot. Now Dr. Henry C. Sherman, a professor of chemistry at Columbia University, declares that spinach is a dubious vegetable, certainly not healthful and possibly injurious to the system.

How the legend that spinach was a healthful food grew up we do not know, but we expect that it had something to do with the rise of Puritanism and the decline of Merrie England. The Puritans, observing that boiled spinach had an objectionable smell, a flat and slightly nauseating taste, and an appearance as of scrapings from the bottom of an old boat, said "Aha, just the thing to feed to children! We'll tell the little perishers that it is good for them and ram it down their throats whether they choke or not". And thus began the great spinach legend which has persisted until this day.

From time to time the truth has broken out, as truth will. The Mayo brothers, who saw the horrible ravages wrought in the human stomach by this vegetable, warned against it, and for a time they were heeded. Another physician, a heart specialist, pointed out that spinach contained enough arsenic to be disturbing to delicate hearts. Now Dr. Sherman points out that spinach is full of oxalic acid, which is decidedly harmful to the inner man. The notion that spinach contained iron was exploded years ago; it is merely a nasty compound of oxalic acid, arsenic and sand, and just as bad for you as it looks.

We would not take spinach from anyone who has formed a spinach-habit; their systems have developed a tolerance for the stuff and they are entitled to do themselves harm if they wish it. But don't force spinach on innocent little children; it's cruel, as they themselves will be the first to tell you.

Are Our Schools Efficient?

We were surprised to read a dispatch from a member of the Women's Division of the R.C.A.F. which was distributed by The Canadian Press recently, in which she spoke of the trouble which she and her companions were having with English sterling currency. One girl is reported to have tendered a half-crown piece in payment of a bill which was six shillings and sixpence; another was surprised to find that a permanent wave cost her four pounds and not four shillings, and, as one is twenty times as great as the other, her surprise is understandable.

But her ignorance is not. Sterling currency is taught in our public schools, and it is not in the least difficult to understand. What the system is now, we do not know, but we well remember spending many arithmetic lessons in what used to be called Third Book turning sterling currency into decimal currency and back again. We were shown sterling coins and allowed to handle them in order that we might know what they looked like. A similar amount of time and effort was spent in mastering French currency. We assume that Ontario schools still teach these things.

Then why do the R.C.A.F. girls not know them? They must have a reasonable amount of education to enter that service; have they forgotten all they ever knew about sterling currency?

The French language is also taught in our Canadian High Schools, but how many members of our armed forces, or any other representative group, can speak or read French? If our schools teach these things why can't they make the knowledge stick?

The Post-War Song

This is the war without a war-song, and the men who spend their time writing the tear-jerkers of popular minstrelsy, such as I'm Dreaming of the Fuehrer's Face, and Johnny Zero Found a Rose In Ireland are gravely concerned about it. But the excellent suggestion has been made that attempts to write a war-song be abandoned, and all available genius be concentrated on a post-war song. What could be more appropriate? There are Reports enough at the moment promising us all rose-covered cottages, each complete with television, four freedoms and a red-hot momma, as soon as hostilities cease to warrant such action. The Columbia University Press publication, The Pleasures of Publishing, offers this as a verse—

I'll love you in Depression
As I loved you in Inflation
And we will stroll together
Down Reconstruction Lane!

and suggest this as the beginning of the chorus—

When the guns no longer thunder
And the battle flags are furled,
Then I'll be waiting for you
In the Post-War World.

To which we feel should be added, in the Widdecombe Fair manner—

Wi' Bill Beveridge
Lennie Marsh
Wendell Willkie
Harry Laski
Johnny Lewis
Charles de Gaulle
Old Uncle Joe Stalin and all

CHORUS:
OLD UNCLE JOE STALIN AND ALL.

A Problem In Translation

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

ONE of the best novels to come my way this year is "Ride This Night", a story of a peasant revolt in Sweden during the hard days which followed the Thirty Years War. It is written by Vilhelm Moberg, whose work has already appeared on this continent; he has produced a number of good novels about peasant life in Sweden in the present day, and of the adventures and perplexities of a young man who seeks to quit that life for the life of cosmopolitan society in Stockholm. "Ride This Night", so far as it is possible to judge from an incomplete acquaintance with his work, is a more ambitious novel than his others; its theme is tragic and the spirit in which he has approached it is simple. The result is a coherent, powerful and gripping story. Truly tragic novels are rare, and the writer who can eschew sentimental pathos in the handling of a tragic subject is one man in a million. I recommend this book to you without reserve, and I know that it will be just as good reading in a decade as it is now. Of how many modern novels can such a comparatively modest claim be made by a reviewer?

THE translator of Moberg's book is Professor Henry Alexander of Queen's University, and his part in the publication of this work in English deserves consideration. Translators are usually forgotten men, like the stage-director of grand opera and the veterinary at the zoo; they are indispensable, but few people ever give them a thought. Let us think about them now. To a remarkable degree a writer's reputation in a foreign country depends on the integrity, brains and literary skill of his translator. Not only must the translator tell the reader what the foreign author has said; he must also do his best to communicate the author's style, and that is a task requiring nice judgment, considerable literary ability, an unusual degree of self-effacing modesty and a rare appreciation of nuance. The English reader of Victor Hugo or Dumas, for instance, would never imagine that those men had any style at all, for the anonymous translators have produced works which almost any schoolboy of sensibility could improve. But the English reader of Marcel Proust has a literary masterpiece in his hand when he takes up Scott Moncrieff's "Remembrance of Things Past"; at one time it was the fad in France to read Proust in English. What greater compliment could a translator ask? Great praise must also be accorded the Tolstoy translations of Aylmer Maude. Read the other Russian novelists, who had no Maude to translate them, and the quality of the translator's work is immediately obvious.

PROFESSOR Alexander has done well by Moberg. Knowing no word of Swedish I cannot say whether his translation is faithful or not. But—and this is far more important—it reads like a book written in English by a Swede who had perfect command of our tongue. There are no clumsy translations of Swedish idiom, and there are no offensive attempts to substitute English idiom for what is clearly un-English thought. Professor Alexander, beside his obvious command of Swedish, knows English as a philologist knows it—or rather better, for few philologists are artists also—and he can pick the right word to express a shade of meaning with unerring accuracy. The highest praise that can be given to his book is to say that it gives no sign of being a translation, but as it is one we must take time to recognize and praise a splendid piece of craftsmanship.

THE story of "Ride This Night" is laid in Brandebol, a seventeenth-century Swedish village made up of twelve farmers and their families, who own their land by hereditary right. A new squire takes up his residence in the neighbourhood; he is Colonel Bartold Klewen, a German soldier of fortune who has served Queen Christina well and who has been awarded feudal privileges by her; among these privileges is the right to exact day-labour from the farmers of Brandebol, and to use any severe means to enforce his will. The men of Brandebol are already in poor case, for famine is very near, and when Klewen's agent demands that they serve on his estates they have not the will to resist, although they long to do so. But one young farmer escapes into the forests and lives the life of an outlaw, stirring up what trouble he can, and it is with his desperate and not especially effectual fight for freedom that the book is chiefly concerned.

THE parallells between this situation and that of many another freedom loving community in modern Europe is obvious, and Moberg stresses it almost too much. The prospective father-in-law of the young rebel is an appeaser, almost a Quisling; his bride-to-be suffers much for his sake, and is accused on witchcraft. The superstitions, customs and characteristic attitudes of mind revealed in this book of peasant life are introduced with skill, and add much to its powerfully tragic atmosphere. Do not permit yourself to miss "Ride This Night".

"GENTLEMEN OF VERONA"

The Tale of A Shirt

(By R. J. DEACHMAN)

ONE of my shirts, the one I like best, it always looks clean, developed a break half way between the elbow and the cuff.

Said I to my wife, "If you would take a piece off the tail of this shirt, which I don't need, and use it to patch the sleeve, it would give me a new shirt for nothing—free as a Social Credit dollar!"

No sooner said than done. I had a new shirt I wore it, then in course of time, it gave out again, this time at the elbow. Now being at times an observant chap I noted, by actual count one morning, that at least 98 per cent. of the women ended their sleeves some distance above the elbow, so I made a new suggestion, had the sleeves shortened and hemmed. I am wearing it now—new style. It's really delightful, cooler, fresher, better. Women, in some ways, know so much more than men.

THIS morning I put on my coat—nothing but convention made me do it. Walking down town I counted the people I saw on the street. 65 women, 48 men, a total of 113. Only 2 of the women had long sleeves, a little above the average percentage. One of them was forgiven. She wore a light coat and carried an over-night bag in her hand. I think she came off the train. The other was an elderly woman, doing house work. All the others looked cool and comfortable, at least cooler than the men.

Only one man was coatless and short-sleeved. He was a soldier. He was sauntering over from one house to another, felt chipper and whistled as he walked. At the corner of Queen and Metcalfe, a man and wife passed, the wife wheeling a baby carriage. They typified the difference in style. The woman wore short sleeves, very short, a light summer dress, no stockings. The man had heavy boots, a full suit, pants, vest, coat, no hat and believe it or not, in one hand a pair of gloves, the other, deep in the pocket of his trousers.

I SPEEDED up to pass them. In the carriage was a baby, as happy as a baby could be. Its arms were beating the air, the sleeves were very short, its legs were waving, there was nothing on them. Its tongue was out, it wanted to talk but didn't know how. It must have been a girl baby. If it had been a boy, it would have been smothered in clothes.

"Good Lord," I said to myself, "why are men so stupid? What makes them act this way? Then last week I got a new pair of trousers and the tailor left the watch pocket out and the cuffs off. By official regulation he was economizing in the use of cloth and by force of habit and natural inclination or perhaps pure cussedness men wear five times as much as they need. We are silly creatures aren't we? When? Oh, when will we free ourselves from the tyranny of style or change the styles to change the styles to serve a greater need, the comfort of men on hot days?

Burns Spoke Forth

ALL that remains of Burns, the writings he has left, seem to us, as we hinted above, no more than a poor mutilated fraction of what was in him; brief, broken glimpses of a genius that could never show itself complete; that wanted all things for completeness: culture, leisure, true effort, nay even length of life. His poems are, with scarcely any exception, mere occasional effusions; poured forth with little premeditation; eypressing, by such means as offered, the passion, opinion, or humor of the hour. Never in one instance was it permitted him to grapple with any subject with the full collection of his strength, to fuse and mould it in the concentrated fire of his genius. To try by the strictest rules of Art such imperfect fragments, would be at once unprofitable and unfair. Nevertheless, there is something in these poems, marred and defective as they are, which forbids the most fastidious student of poetry to pass them by. Some sort of enduring quality they must have: for after fifty years of the wildest vicissitudes in poetic taste, they still continue to be read. . . . The grounds of so singular and wide a popularity, which extends, in a literal sense, from the palace to the hut, and over all regions where the English tongue is spoken, are well worth inquiring into. After every just deduction, it seems to imply some rare excellence in these works. What is that excellence?

To answer this question will not lead us far. The excellence of Burns is, indeed, among the rarest, whether in poetry or prose; but, at the same time, it is plain and easily recognized: his sincerity, his indisputable air of truth. Here are no fabulous woes or joys: no hollow fantastic sentimentalities; no wire-drawn refinings, either in thought or feeling: the passion that is traced before us has glowed in a living heart; the opinion he utters has risen in his own understanding, and been a light to his own steps. He does not write from hearsay, but from sight and experience; it is the scenes that he has lived and labored amidst, that he describes: these scenes, rude and humble as they are, have kindled beautiful emotions in his soul, noble thoughts, and definite resolves; and he speaks forth what is in him, not from any outward call of vanity or interest, but because his heart is too full to be silent. He speaks it with such melody and modulation as he can; "in homely rustic jingle"; but it is his own, and genuine. This is the grand secret for finding readers and retaining them: let him who would move and convince others, be first moved and convinced himself. . . . In culture, in extent of view, we may stand above the speaker, or below him; but in either case, his words, if they are earnest and sincere, will find some response within us; for in spite of all casual varieties in outward rank or inward, as face answers to face, so does the heart of man to man.—From "Essay on Burns," by Thomas Carlyle. Capital Closeups

(By GEORGE KITCHEN, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

OTTAWA, Aug. 6—(CP)—One of the biggest headaches facing the men who handle Canada's food problems is that of building up a reserve of foodstuffs to help feed the hungry people of Axis-dominated countries liberated as the Allied victory drive unfolds.

Right now, for instance, some Canadian food is among that being distributed by the Allied occupation authorities to the under-fed people of Sicily. It didn't reach them directly from Canada but went through some other United Nation to which the Dominion had allotted foodstuffs under mutual-aid assistance.

It's a problem with many angles but there are sure signs that the solution lies in the not-too-distance future. The word in official quarters is that "tremendous" increases are expected within the next six months or so in production of meats of all kinds, poultry, eggs, milk and other staples.

While those increases might not be felt on the home front, they will go to help build up the needed reserves and increase supplies available for shipment to the United Kingdom and other Allied countries.

However, there's no need for worry on the home front. There is enough for all and, with rationing controls, each gets his share.

Diplomatic history was made in the capital this week when two ministers, on two successive days, presented their credentials to the Governor-general and took their places in Ottawa's rapidly-expanding diplomatic corps.

They were Ray Atherton, the darkly elegant and distinguished new United States Minister who succeeds the late J. Pierrepont Moffat, and Per Wijkman, the fair, youthful Swedish Minister, who became his country's first Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to Canada.

Further additions to the legation colony are expected shortly from Mexico, Peru and Cuba.

To reciprocate with Canadian Ministers to Mexico, Cuba, Peru and Sweden—the probable order in which the lagations will open—will place a heavy strain on Canada's trained diplomatic service and will present a problem in obtaining suitable ministerial appointees.

Speaking of diplomats calls to mind the story going the rounds about the legation official—comparatively new to Canada—who went fishing in northern Ontario waters and caught what he thought was a marine monstrosity.

Back to Ottawa came the fish, for expert opinion. It was a monstrosity in name only scientifically called the Horned Pout of Ameiurus nebulosus but known to Canadians as—Catfish.

A Bible Message

When the poor and needy seek water, and there is none, and their tongue faileth for thirst, I the Lord will hear them, I the God of Israel will not forsake them. I will open rivers in high places, and fountains in the midst of the valleys: I will make the spring of water...That they may see, and know, and consider, and understand together, that the hand of the Lord hath done this, and the Holy One of Israel hath created it. (Isa. 41: 17, 18, 20).

Then Jesus called his disciples unto him, and said, I have compassion on the mutitude, because they continue with me now three days, and have nothing to eat: and I will not send them away fasting, lest they faint in the way. And his disciples say unto him, Whence should we have so much bread in the wilderness, as to fill so great a multitude?

And Jesus saith unto them, How many loaves have ye? And they said, Seven, and a few little fishes.

And he commanded the multitude to sit down on the ground. And he took the seven loaves and the fishes, and gave thanks, and brake them, and gave to his disciples, and the disciples to the multitude. And they did all eat, and were filled: and they took up of the broken meat that was left seven baskets full. (Matt. 15: 32-37).

When Experts Differ

WOMEN who have been accustomed to preserving fruit at home, using half a pound of sugar to a pound of fruit, must have been impressed by the news that sugar is not needed in the process. This discovery became public about the same time as it was known that the ration of sugar for canning would be greatly reduced from the amount most housewives considered necessary.

Consultation with a number of cooks leads to the conclusion that most women are sceptical of the efficacy of sugarless canning, no matter how heartily it is advocated by Ottawa. This is a serious situation, for if women cease to believe what they are told, the effect on both the war effort and home life may be disastrous.

A special canning supplement published in a paper with a wide circulation in Canadian homes is not much help. One article repeats the official line, that heat is the preserving agent, and that sugar is not necessary. Another article in the same paper, discussing dehydration, says that this process, applied to fruits, concentrates the natural sugar contained in them and that this sugar then acts as a preservative.

For the sake of their own safety, the home economics experts should decide on one story, stick to it, and pray that the war will be over before the sugarless preserves begin to spoil.—The Printed Word.

Out of town guests at the Heslip-Laws wedding, which takes place today at St. Paul's church are Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Laws of Toronto; Rev. Marshall Heslip of Prescott, and Miss Elizabeth Heslip of Toronto.

Heslip-Laws Vows Taken At St. Paul's Today

St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, decorated with ferns and summer flowers, was the scene today for the wedding of Theresa Beatrice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Laws to Hugh Welch Heslip, son of Mrs. W. Heslip and the late Mr. Heslip. Rev. Marshall Heslip, uncle of the groom, performed the ceremony and wedding music was provided by Mr. Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O. at the organ, and Miss Doreen Groombridge, who sang "O Promise Me."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was beautiful in a gown of embossed white satin fashioned with a full bodice gathered to a fitted waistline, and fastened with tiny buttons at the back from sweetheart neckline to waist; leg-of-mutton sleeves were buttoned at the wrist and she wore a watch, gift of the groom, and a pearl necklace. Her veil of fine white net fell in a train from a coronet of pleated net and she carried a bouquet of bettertime roses and bouvardia.

Mrs. H. Babbs attended her sister as matron of honor, gowned in queen's blue sheer chiffon fashioned on long torso lines with inserts of matching suede lace, and carried a bouquet of pink gladioli. Miss Eva Clark was bridesmaid in yellow novelty sheer, floor-length, with pointed, torso-length bodice and short shirred sleeves, her flowers were orchid gladioli. Both wore triple-pointed coronets of matching material.

Mr. Richard Heslip was his brother's best man and the ushers were Marshall Heslip, also brother of the groom, and Howard Foley.

At the reception after the ceremony Mrs. Laws, mother of the bride, received in a two-piece navy alpaca weave rayon dress with navy accessories. Both wore corsages of Bettertime roses.

Later the bride and groom left on a two-weeks' motor trip to the Kawartha District and points north, the bride travelling in a powder blue gaberdine dress trimmed with navy, matching hat and purse, and white accessories. They will live in Peterborough.

"Merry Widow Once More Broadway Hit

By ELMER DULMAGE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 7—(CP).—The new theatre season opened in New York this week with a stunning revival of "The Merry Widow" and a trio of other offerings that range from good to indifferent. It wasn't a bad beginning at all.

The new opera company's modernized "The Merry Widow" is a quick hit, and probably will move alongside the established singing-dancing successes, "Rosalinda" and "Oklahoma!" as a top moneymaker.

Opening night was a gala occasion. In demanding one encore from Jan Kiepura, the Polish tenor who has the role of Prince Danilo, a whole section of the audience stood up and ecstatically shouted its "More! More!" The tenor's beautiful wife, Marta Eggerth, has the other leading role, that of Sonia.

CAMPBELLFORD

Women Painters Decorate Church Interior

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 7—(ENS) —Undaunted by the help shortage and the busiest summer in years, farm women, who belong to the congregation of Hoard's United Church, have just about completed the painting and decorating of the edifice. Because of the labor shortage the ladies have done all of the interior work themselves, meeting in groups of from 12 to 14 to do the job. The plan to do the re-decorating was made by members of the Women's Association and it was during the meeting of that group on Wednesday afternoon when it was revealed the work had been just about completed.

The gathering was held at the home of Mrs. W. S. Milne and took the form of a joint meeting with the W.M.S. The W.A. president, Miss Mildred Heagle opened the meeting and the devotional exercises were conducted by Mrs. John Rannie following which the business was discussed. Members accepted an invitation to hold the September meeting at the home of Mrs. J. R. Bick in Campbellford and this will be a Baby Band rally.

Mrs. John Rannie presided for the W.M.S. meeting which followed and this included a short program in which some of the Junior members of the group took part. The program included a reading by Miss Joyce Spencer; vocal solo, Miss Marylin Thompson; reading Miss Mildred Heagle; duet, Misses Jean Rannie and Phyllis Spencer. At the close Mrs. C. Heagle conducted a contest dealing with old proverbs.

Institute Shown Value of Oats

BAILIEBORO, Aug. 7 —(ENS). Mrs. L. Ballantyne, Toronto, director of Home Baking Service, was guest speaker at the August meeting of the Women's Institute, held in Fletcher's Hall on Tuesday, with Mrs. Harold Howson in the chair, and about 35 ladies present. Nutrition News and Ration Recipes was her theme. She stressed the nutritious value of oats, which are plentiful in Canada, and said that only through war economy and research has its valuable mineral and vitamin content been rediscovered. Leaflets were distributed containing recipes that have proved the value of rolled oats both in tasty dishes and in stretching rations.

Mrs. Reg. Armstrong moved a vote of thanks to the speaker, to which everyone heartily responded. Miss L. Jackson, secretary, reported $5.00 sent to the Jam Fund. Further committees were appointed for contests and races on Field Day.

SOLDIERS SHOULD NEVER WASTE REGRETS OVER FICKLE GIRLS.

Dear Miss Dix: I am in the Army. Just before I left home for the training camp I became engaged to a girl, but we thought it best not to marry until after the war. Four weeks later I received a letter from her telling me that she had met a former boy friend and he wanted her to return my ring and marry him, and she asked me to give her time to decide between us. That was five weeks ago and I haven't heard from her since. What do you think?

BEWILDERED SOLDIER.

Girl Easily Satisfied.

ANSWER: My guess is that she is probably married to the other chap by now. You were away, and he was Johnny-on-the-spot, and evidently she was like the lad who sang that he could be happy with either dear charmer were 'tother dear charmer away.

But my chief thought is how fortunate you are that this shallow-hearted and fickle girl found out how little she cared for you before marriage, instead of afterwards. She didn't really sincerely love you. To her you were just a date, somebody to take her about and give her a good time, a little bit of romance, another boy to play at love with, and she could shift her affections from one to another as easily and quickly as she could change her frock. You are to be congratulated upon your escape from her.

I get hundreds and hundreds of letters from boys in the Service that are practically a duplicate of yours. Sometimes they are broken-hearted because the girls to whom they were engaged have jilted them and married somebody else. Sometimes they are worried sick because they hear that their girls are running around with other boys. Sometimes a despeate man writes that the wife he trusted has been unfaithful to him. Often a boy, who is too young to marry and too poor to marry, asks me if it will not keep some girl he is in love with true to him while he is away if he marries her.

To all of these boys I should like to say, as I say to you, that they should look at the problem of the fickle woman realistically, instead of sentimentally, and that when she throws them over for some new man who has caught her changing fancy they should not waste a single regret over her. She is a good riddance of bad rubbish. They would never have any peace, nor happiness, nor sense of security with her, and they are lucky, indeed, if the break comes before marriage, instead of afterwards when there may be little children to be crushed in the wreck of a home, and when there is always scandal and wounds that leave scars that never heal.

Deep Feeling Not Possible in Such Girls.

Perhaps these flighty women are not much to blame. They are even as they were made. Their hearts are not flesh and blood. They are made of flimsy. It is not in them to have any deep feeling, or any loyalty, or sense of duty or responsibility. All they want is pleasure, excitement, pretty clothes, and they will change to any man who will give these to them. They are not fit to be trusted with a man's life and his name and his honor. So the man who grieves over losing one of them is as foolish as if he spent his days weeping over a broken doll.

When a real woman really loves a man, it goes deep. He is the ONLY one and she doesn't have to ask for time to decide whether she prefers him to another. And she doesn't need an engagement ring or a wedding ring to keep her true to him.

A man once told me about hearing an old mountaineer preach his wife's funeral service. He said: "May was as faithful to me as a yellow dog under a wagon." That is the only kind of woman who is worth grieving over.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My husband and I have been married a little over eight months and we have been very happy together, but now he has been called to the army and I have the problem that so many other young wives have, of how to live during his absence. GENELECS WHIP 4th BATTERY TO TAKE FIRST PLACE IN CITY LEAGUE

Five Regulars Of Battery On Holidays

Genelecs whitewashed the 4th Battery 12 to 0 in a sudden death game on Friday night to declare first place in the league standing. With Burton, Heal, Starr, Stewart and Ellis away on holidays and failing to show up Manager Dormer fielded a makeshift line up which was no match for the Genelecs. The game was watched by the largest crowd of the season who were more than disappointed with the brand of ball dished up.

The Genelecs now meet the Switchgear in the semi-finals on Monday night in the first of the best three out of five and on Tuesday night Battery and Soldiers clash in the other half of the semi-finals, also the best three out of five.

Woods, pitching for the winners, held the 4th Battery to four scattered hits and although he lacked control at times, walking six men, the Battery never really threatened to score. Wilson pitched for the Battery and the Genelecs bunched their 12 hits in four innings, scoring 11 of their 12 runs. Playford had a great night at bat, getting three hits and a walk in five times up and scored three of the winners runs. Giardino also got three hits in five and scored two of the runs.

The Battery's infield was sloppy, with numerous overthrows and poor fielding. Hawkes made the only circuit blow of the game, it coming in the eighth with two runners on.

Russian Player Now In Outfield

TORONTO, Aug. 7—John Paul Wargo, who came to the Rochester Red Wings as a pitcher, and is now stationed in the outfield, is back where he started. Until 1938 Paul played the outfield, and he must have been better han average, for in 1937 he was picked on the all-scholastic team of his distict in Pennsylvania, playing for Mayfield High School.

It was the following season that he took up pitching and turned in a brilliant no-hit game over Olyphant, Pa. High. That summer he was the youngest player in the Scranton City League and pitched his team to a pennant.

It was then that Joe Shaute, veteran pitcher, tried to sign the kid for the Boston Red Sox, but the St. Louis Cardinal crowd beat him to the draw.

He started out in the Cardinal farm system in 1939, but did not show a winning record until 1941. But Paul, himself a Russian, followed the example of Joe Stalin's warriors, who met with reverses at the start of the Nazi invasion, only to recover and beat back.

Playoffs Start Monday Night

Playoffs in the men's loop get under way Monday night when Genelecs and Switchgear hook up. The Switchgear boys have had a long rest waiting for the other three teams to get first place decided. The fourth-placers have not been idle, however, and have been practising right along keeping in shape.

The semi-final series between the four top teams will be best three-of-five and the winners will meet in the finals, which will be four-in-seven.

The fans are assured of two good series in the playdowns as all four teams play good ball and with the ultimate winner representing Peterborough in the Ontario playofs will be striving for that goal.

Manager Murph Chambers says his team is all set to go and that Gene Reynolds will probably be the starting twirler. Genelecs have Ron Akers and Terry Moore ready for hurling duties.

The schedule for the games next week appears elsewhere. The men's loop have no opposition for the week, the ladies' loop having finished their regular schedule and the girls' senior playoffs not booked again till August 16.

Three umpires will be used for the playoffs.

Tip Top Team Wins 13-2 Move Into Finals

HAMILTON, Aug. 7 (CP) — An 11-run splurge in the eighth inning gave Toronto Tip Tops 13-2 victory over Lachine R.C.A.F. last night, moving the Toronto club into the National Congress Baseball Canadian championship final against London Army. The Army qualified with a 9-3 victory over Hamilton Co-ops in the first game of a double-header here.

The final will be played at Toronto today with Montreal and Hamilton playing a consolation game.

Tip Tops, 1942 champions, and R.C.A.F. played an even game for seven innings with the Fliers taking a one-run lead in the opening frame. Tip Tops tied the count in the third and moved ahead 2-1 in the fourth. The game continued scoreless until the eighth inning when Lachine notched their second run for a 2-2 deadlock.

Loose fielding by the Fliers settled the issue in the last half of the eighth and Tip Tops rolled in their 11-run spree.

Morris Pitches

Jack Morris carried the brunt of the pitching task or Montreal but fell apart in the eighth and was relieved by Driscoll. Al Yarnell went the route for Toronto and gave up six hits to the R.C.A.F. team. Both teams were loose in the field and seven errors were marked up against each club.

London Army was more than a match for the Co-ops and behind the three-hit pitching of Max Samuely claimed their 9-3 victory. The Soldiers drew six hits each off Anderson and Macdonald with Anderson retiring in the third inning.

Army held mastery throughout the game with one run in the second, three in the fourth, two in the sixth and three more in the eighth. The Co-ops netted their score in the seventh when they collected three hits.

Hamilton had hoped to have Sal Maglie, former International League hurler, on the mound but he failed to show up.

Lacrosse Star Killed In Sicily

BRAMPTON, Aug. 6—(CP)—Pte. Bernard (Barney) Thomson, former Brampton lacrosse star, has been killed in action in Sicily according to word received yesterday by his parents.

Barney was the youngest of four brothers who two years ago were the mainstay of the Brampton lacrosse team. Of the others, Harold (Fish) now is in the army overseas; George (Mush) still is with the team and Wilfred (Moe) stopped playing last year and is working here.

Last night, 1,300 fans and 28 players of the Brampton-Mimico Combines and St. Catharines Athletics stood with bowed heads in a minute's silence in honor of Barney before the start of a lacrosse game.

Eugene Dopp, secretary of the Ontario Lacrosse Association said: "Barney was a fine player. You couldn't get a much better or cleaner sport on the field."

WITH THE R. C. A. F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Aug. 7. — (CP).—Baseball coach Flt. Lt. Frank Doughty of Toronto, is keeping a watchful eye on Leading Aircraftman Joseph Krakauskas, of Hamilton, Ont. Joe, former major leaguer with a negative decision, 7-2. The awaits posting as a radio mechanic to a night fighter squadron, but in the meantime is not letting his pitching arm go to seed.

The R.C.A.F. has already had a baseball match with the U.S. Army Air Force this year, and emerged with a negative decisqion, 7-2. The teams appeared in a "Wings for Victory" exhibition at Sutton, Surrey, and attracted 5,000 persons. The first ball pitched was later auctioned off and brought £50.

Leading Aircraftman Jack Whitby of London, Ont., was on the mound for the Canucks with Ft. Lt. Fred Alexander of Regina, who once caught for Iowa State University, on the receieving end.

Cpl. Red Groves, Stratford, Ont., played first base, Flt. Lt. Bob Wallace, Winnipeg, second; FO. Walt Batterby, Hamilton, shortstop; and FO. Cliff Dolan , Ottawa, third base; Outfielders were Sgt. C. A. Windsor, Westmount, Que., Cpl. Jack Heenan, Cobourg, Ont., and LAC. George Alexander, Vancouver.

Another member of Canadian Sports' famous "House of Dutton" is cropping up in the news these days, but not in the sport news this time. He is PO. William Dutton of Winnipeg, nephew of Mervyn Dutton, National Hockey League president, and former major league manager and star. Dutton has been riding Spitfires in the Malta sector. In 1935 he was a member of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers, when they nosed out the Hamilton Tigers in the Dominion rugby football finals.

Flt. Lt. Walter Martin, erstwhile Canadian Davis Cupper, and Canada's No. 1 player, has been featured in numerous Saturday Red Cross tennis exhibitions in England, and gets a big bang out of it. When partnered with Henry Billingdon recently, he split sets with Pat Hughes, the British Davis Cup doubles player, and Ellesworth Davenport, former United States ranking player, at the famous old Queen's Club. Hughes is one of England's greatest doubles players, and was a big factor in Great Britain winning the Davis Cup in the heyday of Perry and Austin. Hughes still displayed much of his canny doubles touch. Martin and Billington carried Hughes and John Olliff, another Davis Cup player, to five sets at Newport, Wales,, in another Red Cross Exhibition which drew 5,000 people. Bruce Harrison, R.C.A.F., has been an occasional practice opponent of Martin's. They both claiam Toronto Tennis Club as their home courts.

FO. George MacSween used to play professional baseball for the Glace Bay Miners in the Maritime League before joining the R.C.A.F. George qualified as a pilot in the summer of 1940, only to lose the sight of one eye in an accident. In Britain he has served as a flying control officer, and since going to the Middle East almost two years ago has been an air transport officer.

The Royal Canadian Navy staged its first track and field meet overseas, reported last night from "A Scottish port." A 27-event program was run off.

High aggregate winner was AB. Robert Lewis of British Columbia who scored firsts in three jumping events and finished second in two other contests. Both sprints were captured by Sub. Lt. George Orr of Toronto while the winner of the mile was Stoker Lloyd Laporte of Windsor, Ont., who came from behind to finish in five minutes, 45 seconds. Almost immediately Laporte ran off with the 880-yard event in two minutes, 43 seconds. Laporte was high-point man for the engineering branch. Another aspirant to gain two victories was Signalman J. Scott of Winnipeg, the events being the 440 and sack race.

The first dead heat of the Grand Circuit season was recorded yesterday at Old Orchard, Me., when Frances Guy and Baden Hanover finished even in the first dash of the 11 Bar Trot, with the former finally winning the event. Carty Nagle, a long shot, won the $2,500 Maine Pacing Derby in three straight heats.

Fergus Ahead

The Fergus team, recently added to the loop, took the lead in the Guelph and District Soccer League yesterday by defeating Netherlands Army 3-1 at Guelph. S. Blackburn, J. Patterson and J. Duffy scored for the winners.

Gruzdis earned the award with a mark of .418 while playing with Thomasville in the North Carolina State League.

Five Golfers Tied For First

MONTREAL, Aug. 7 — (CP).— Five players — four professionals and Amateur Phil Farley of Toronto — ended in a five-way tie for first place after 36 holes in the Quebec Victory Bond open golf tournament over the Summerlea Course yesterday.

Ending the regulation play with Farley at 149 were Gerry Proulx and Red McKenzie of Montreal, Bob Gray, former Toronto Scarboro pro, and Rudolph Huot of Royal Quebec. A playoff round will be staged on Monday.

Dick Borthwick of Toronto put together a 77 and a 75 for a 152 total, three off the pace. Farley shot a neat 72 in his second round to pull up among the leaders after starting out with a 77. Gray shot a steady 75-74.

One stroke behind the leaders was Gordon Bain, pro at Ottawa Chaudiere, and Stan Horne of Montreal Islemere. Bain had a 75 each round, and Horne had 76-74.

Right behind Borthwick, Adjutor Dussault of Quebec chalked up a 153 with a 75 and a 78, while Maurice Huot of Quebec had 80-76—156. Gordon Brydson of Toronto scored a 75 in his second round after a poor 79 start, for a total of 154, while Jack Little, Ontario open champion put together rounds of 80 and 75 for a 155 total.

"Killer" Katan Angry Over Run Out Tales

The bout the wrestling fans of this city want to see will come off on Monday night at the Brock Street Arena when Earl McCready finally angles wih big John Katan in the feature attraction of three-ply program. For what he claimed was good and sufficient reason, Katan failed to show up for the bout last Monday, but there will be nothing of that sort happen this time. The Palermo Panther, as Katan has been well nick-named, not only has put up a forfeit of five hundred (count 'em) dollars, but has arranged to be here early on Monday and will speak over the local broadcasting station. Honest John is not leaving anything to chance this time, and indeed was apparently as much disappointed as McCready when he was unable to hook up with the powerful Earl. Katan sincerely believes that he is "Moose" McCready's master and has some justification for his claim in a former decision over Earl several years ago.

But McCready is travelling at a fast and lofty clip these days, and in spite of Katan's reputation for rough work (they call him Killer Katan in Montreal), Earl feels he can meet all the attacks that will be thrown on him on Monday night and still hand out double. Once postponed because of Katan's defection, the big "do" is definitely scheduled to decide the merits of two of the greatest matmen Canada has ever produced.

Toar Morgan also wrestles on this card against Georgey-Porgey Tofalos, the little Greek who is built like a fireplace and often gets just as hot.

In the third bout Dick Hogan, the former Roughhouse Champion of the U.S. Navy, meets Jumping Joe Maich of Brantford.

TORONTO, Aug. 7 — (CP). — Dick Irvin, the eminent pigeon fancier and coach of National Hockey League teams, claims a Canadian record of 1,700 miles for one of his birds, which flew from Ottawa to Dick's home in Regina. "Gave him to a fellow down there last winter and first time he lets the bird out, home he comes," explained Irvin.. ..When Kenny Lindsay of Vancouver, R.C.A.F., and Charlie Bagnato of Toronto, Army, fight in Vancouver on August 19 it will be for the featherweight championship of the armed forces in Canada.

Glee Club:

Mike Rodden told Jim Coleman of the Toronto Globe and Mail the Hamilton Tigers of the late '20s were the gretatest Canadian football team of all time—and the daffiest. In 1927 when the Hamilton wooden stands caught fire while the boys were practising on the field, they all whooped into the dressing-room beneath the stands to rescue their clothes. "Despite the fact the joint was sizzling like a porterhouse steak, Alex Denman insisted on taking a shower bath before vacating. Just before the grand stand collapsed on top of the clubhouse, they discovered that Ernie Cox, the great snapback, was missing.....Ernie, of course, was a member of the Hamilton Fire Department.....Suddenly, Cox came stamping through the smoke, clad in full fire fighting regalia which he had donned in leisure in the burning clubhouse."

Near and far:

Eldon Shea, once a favorite jockey on British Columbia tracks, now is in the United States Medical Corps in North Carolina. A broken elbow suffered in a spill at Vancouver kept him out of the fighting forces.....Bill Gaynon of the Niagara Falls Review surmises that one reason Buffalo and Cleveland are remaining out of the National Hockey League is that Bisons and Barons objected to paying major league salaries to minor league players....One of the greatest plunging backs ever to show in the Western Inter-Provincial Football Union, Ed. Rorvig, former North Dakotan who played with Calgary Bronks, has enlisted in the Canadian Navy....Charlie Roe, a Western Canada racing official, thinks the sensational young jockey, Jimmy Jasperson, is another Longden. League Prexy Squelches Pseudo Hurlers

By the Associated Press.

There'll be no more catchers, infielders or outfielders masquerading as pitchers in the International League.

President Frank J. Shaughnessy ruled to-day that starting on Sunday managers in his loop will be permitted to send to the monud only those players whose names appear on the official roster as pitchers. He said the restriction was being imposed because some games this season have been turned into farces through the use of catchers, outfielders and infielders in the mound.

He gave Baltimore's 19-7 victory over Rochester on July 29 as an example. In that fray, Manager Pepper Martin of the Red Wings took up the pitching duties in the third and walked five of the first six men to face him Martin later was relieved by Pitcher-Outfielder Paul Wargo and Catcher Jerry Burmeister.

All the pitchers were bona-fide last night with stubby Bobby Coombs of Jersey City Giants especially effective. He won his sixth straight by shutting out the Montreal Royals 3-0, although the Canadians pounded him for 9 hits.

In other games, Buffalo and Syracuse divided a twin bill, the Chiefs taking the first 6-3, and the Bisons the 10-inning aftermath 4-3; Newark edged out Rochester 7-6 ,and Toronto smeared Baltimore 9-2.

Jim Tyack, newcomer in the Toronto outfield, further endeared himself to his new mates by smacking a home run in the Leafs' easy victory.

Gunder Haegg Gallops Tonight

CINCINNATI, Aug. 7 —(AP).— Gundar Haegg, Swedish runner of the measured miles, makes his second-to-final appearance on American cinder tracks at Withrow Stadium to-night, his sights set on clipping his own two-mile mark of 8:47.8.

Kjell Peterson, Haegg's interpreter-coach, telephoned A. A. U. officials from Jamestown, N.Y., that his charge preferred a try at the longer distance—he originally was sceduled to compete against his own American mile record of 4:06.3 — and that he would not reach Cincinnati until Saturday a few hours before his track appearance.

Pitted against him will be Gil Dodds, his chief American rival; Bill Hulse, New York University, who broke the American record for the outdoor mile in Cleveland last week while running second to Haegg and Bob Berger of Bay Village, O.

Berger, who was second in the two-mile event at Cleveland, will have a 660-yard start, or one and one-half laps around the stadium; Hulse has drawn one of 300 yds, and for his first big-time try at the two-mile distance, while Dodds will start from scratch.

Haegg's final appearance on his American tour will be in a mile handicap at New York next Wednesday.

Tomorrow night's show is being sponsored by the Cincinnati Firefighters' Association for benefit of the armed services.

Rip Sewell's 11-game winning streak for Pittsburgh Pirates ended abruptly last night as first place St. Louis Cardinals pounded out an 8-3 triumph.

The 35-year-old Sewell and his tantanlizing slow ball had handcuffed National League hitters since June 9 when he lost a 4-3 game to the Cards at Sportsman's Park. In his next start he beat Chicago Cubs, 4-2, and followed with victories over Cincinnati, Chicago, Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Brooklyn, St. Louis, Philadelphia, Brooklyn, New York and Boston for the longest winning streak of the year.

His bid for his 18th victory came to grief through the hitting of Stan Musial and Ray Sanders, backing up Max Lanier's five-hit pitching. Musial, league - leading swatsmith, whacked out four hits in four times at bat while Sanders drove in five runs with a double and triple.

Cincinnati climbed within 1½ games of the second place Pirates by again beating the Cubs, 9-7. The Reds piled up a big lead, but Ray Starr and Clyde Shoun couldn't hold it and had to call on Joe Beggs to stamp out a ninth inning Cub rally.

Hammered without mercy on their western trip, Brooklyn Dodgers returned to Ebbets Field and absorbed their eighth straight defeat, a 4-3, 10 inning setback at the hands of the Braves. Charley Workman won the game with a three-run homer in the top of the 10th.

Protests 'Hit

Whit Wyatt, Brooklyn starting pitcher, and Manager Leo Durocher were thumbed out of the game by Umpire Jocko Conlan for protesting too heatedly that Kirby Farrell's sixth inning double, that tied the score at 1-1, was foul. Les Webber came in and was the losing pitcher.

New York Yankees started a long road trip by taking a 4-0 shutout at the hands of Roger Wolff, knuckle ball artist of the Athletics. Pete Suder's sixth inning homer was all Wolff needed to win.

Johnny Niggeling of St. Louis Browns held Cleveland to only two hits, but dropped a touch 1-0 decision to Allie Reynolds, who twirled a three-hitter. Niggeling made the mistake of hitting Oris Hockett with a pitched ball in the fourth. Roy Cullenbine singled Hockett to third, from where he scored as Jeff Heath hit into a double play.

Detroit handed Orval Grove of the White Sox his second defeat of the year, 6-0, as Rudy York socked his 15th homer of the season.

Dutch Leonard won his eighth game in pitching Washington to a 4-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

The Phillies beat New York Giants 7-4, by virtue of Ron Northey's two homers and Bill Lee's relief pitching. The Giants, however, won the replay of the disputed June 13 game, originally won by the Phils, 6-3, but ordered by league president Ford Frick to be resumed as of the inning with the score tied at 3-3. The Giants won, 4-3, when Newt Kimball issued four bases on balls, forcing in the winning run.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7—(AP).—Well, it had to happen: Lew Jenkins is in Africa with the United States Coastguard...The boys put on a boxing show and Laughing Lew picked out a native and said he'd take him on. ...And the native only knocked Lew's ears off.

Dis-a and dat-a:

Luke Appling needs 10 more bingles to join the 2,000-hit club... There are only seyen active players now in it....Harry Mendel, the ex-six-day bike race boss who's promoting the Buster Crabbe-Gloria Callen water follies over in Paterson (N.J.) starting next Friday, wanted La Gloria to go over Passaic Falls in a barrel as a publicity stunt. She said No....National League President Ford Frick says Branch Rickey has a "moral if not a technical obligation to the Giants since Dolph Camilli retired immediately after the Dodgers traded him.

Nazis Promise No Reprisals For Swedish Act

By JOHN COLBURN
Associated Press Staff Writer

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 7 —(AP).— The Swedish public demonstrated pleasure today at the decision by the government of King Gustaf to bar Sweden's transit facilities to German troops and war material.

The average Swede never approved of the Nazi transit traffic between Germany and Norway and Finland through Sweden. It was accepted by the government as an expedient measure when war threatened the unprepared country in 1940.

Now the Swedes are better prepared militaristically than at any time in their history, with a well-equipped army of 400,000 men and coastal and other defences on 24-hour alert for any eventuality.

No Reprisals.

No reprisals have been indicated or threatened by the Nazis for the decision, announced yesterday, to stop the transport of German war material across Sweden August 15 and to halt the movement of troops August 20.

For Sweden, the drastic step lifted a heavy burden from her neutrality policy; for Germany it will force further use of the perilous North Sea route to Norway and it also added materially to the problem of supplying Nazi troops in Finland.

New encouragement was provided the loyal population of Norway, who have already reported the morale of the German occupational forces ebbing dangerously.

The growing possibility of an Allied invasion of Norway and Allied raids upon German objectives there July 24 brought to a head Swedish public demands that the traffic be ended.

Nazi Shipments.

A Foreign Office spokesman said the Nazi movements had proved a burden on both "the Swedish neutrality policy and relations with Norway."

Anywhere from 600 to 1,000 German troops have been moving daily on Swedish railways. The amount of war supplies freighted through is a military secret, but such traffic may have been more important than the transfer of the soldiers.

The Swedish Foreign Office said the decision does not affect ordinary passenger traffic and goods traffic.

Hospital trains with wounded and the ill will, even in the future, as cases arise, pass through Sweden in accordance with The Hague Convention.

With no railways through the mountainous region linking Trondheim to Narvik, the Germans will need one-third more ships to supply Norway by sea, one Swede estimated.

British Fight Axis On Nelson's Land

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 6 — (AP) — Allied troops fought their way today toward a strip of British-owned territory in Sicily defended by the Axis armies.

On the western slopes of Mount Etna, squarely in the path of the British and Canadian advance, is the town of Bronte. And just outside of Bronte, there is a large estate that still legally belongs to the heirs of Lord Nelson, renowned British admiral.

The King of Naples made him the Duke of Bronte in 1789 after his victory in the Battle of the Nile, and the title to the land has never been revoked.

Japs Lose 96 Ships 1,802 Warplanes

U.S. HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC, Aug. 7 —(AP). —Japan has lost more than twice as many warships and four times as many planes as the United States in the South Pacific since the beginning of the Solomons campaign one year ago.

A compilation based on official communiques covering the period of Aug. 8, 1942 to May 8, 1943, for the South Pacific only, placed Japanese losses as 96 warships sunk, 18 probably sunk and 129 damaged.

United States losses were 41 ships sunk and nine damaged.

Enemy aircraft destroyed totalled 1,802 planes of all categories. American losses were not listed in their entirety, but a Navy spokesman said American losses were less than one-fourth of the enemy's, or in the vicinity of 450 planes.

(An Associated Press tabulation based on United States and other Allied communiques and announcements to July 19 showed that Allied submarines, warships and planes have sunk at least 634 enemy naval and merchant ships since December, 1941.)

Licence Cancelled Curb Black Market

MONTREAL, Aug. 7 — (CP).— In the first action of its kind to wipe out black market activities, the Prices Board today cancelled the business licence of the Modern Poultry and Egg Company in Montreal central section.

The Board also served the proprietor with an order empowering the Board to take possession of all goods on hand. The goods will be sold at ceiling prices and the proceeds will be turned over to the company.

Two Royal Canadian Mounted Police Constables served the order on Koppel Mintz, holder of the Prices Board licence, his brother Issy Mintz, and their father, Wolfe Mintz.

Mr. Justice Joseph Archambault of the Quebec Superior Court on July 28 found that the company had been selling poultry wholesale at prices above ceiling by falsifying invoices and demanding extra payment on the side.

Something's Doing

MADRID, Aug. 7 (AP).— Spanish correspondents in Berlin have unanimously closed their articles during the last week with mysterious references to something they could tell if German censorship permitted.

A dispatch to the newspaper Informaciones today ended typically: "Obliged by circumstances to limit ourselves to military events, we must leave for another day subjects by no means less interesting."

OMEMEE

OMEMEE, Aug. 7 — (ENS). — The Omemee Council met on Monday night, with Reeve Bent in the chair and Councillors Parsons, Burgess, and James present. The treasurer's report showed a balance on hand of $535.78. Correspondence was read from F. L. Weldon, Canadian Institute for the Blind, and Ontario Municipal Association.

Indians Help Too

OTTAWA, Aug. 7 (CP)—Indian men, women and children at Fort McPherson, N.W.T., a northern trading post, have purchased more than $4,000 worth of War Savings Certificates so far this year, the Post Office Department said today.

It gave Rev. A. S. Dewdney, Fort McPherson postmaster, credit for his work in boosting sales; but Mr. Dewdney in a letter quoted by the Department said the main reason was a good year for muskrat, high fur prices and "the very real patriotism of these Loucheau Indians."

Need Grain Shortage

EDMONTON, Aug. 7 —(CP). — George Stephen of Montreal, vice-president of C.P.R., said yesterday any problem faced in handling the 1943 grain crop "will be one of storage and not of transportation."

Goebbels Admits Berlin Evacuated

LONDON, Aug. 7 (AP)— Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels announced in a statement broadcast from Berlin today that Berlin had been partially evacuated because "we expect the German capital will be the target of enemy attacks."

This transmission, recorded by Reuters News Agency, confirmed reports to Stockholm Aug. 2 that non-essential civilians were being moved from Berlin in fear that the city might follow Hamburg as the No. 1 target of Allied air forces.

Crew Of 4 Killed As Bomber Crashes

CORNWALL, Ont., Aug. 7 (CP). —A Hudson bomber said to be from the Dorval Airport crashed and exploded in a pasture five miles north of here shortly before noon to-day, killing the crew of four.

The bomber had apparently been in difficulties and eye-witnesses reported it was about to land when it burst into flames, and then exploded as it plowed into the ground.

Wreckage of the machine was scattered a distance of 200 feet.

The plane was on a routine training flight from Dorval Airport, Quebec.

Two R.C.A.F. officials from Ottawa flew to the scene of the crash and opened a preliminary inquiry.

Soldiers from Basic Training Centre 31 here were placed on guard over the wreckage.

Search For Bodies

SUTTON, W. Va., Aug. 7 (AP)— Rescuers searched today in the debris of a flood known to have claimed at least 15 lives for the bodies of six other persons believed to have perished.

The property toll in a battered house, broken bridges and other devastation rose above $2,000,000 as the Kanawha river, swollen yesterday in Central West Virginia to the greatest height in its history by raging mountain streams, left a thick layer of muck over the scene.

How To Win Friends, Influence People

Canadians Lose 13 Planes During Week

OTTAWA, Aug. 7 — (CP). — Canadian Halifax and Wellington squadrons based on Britain participated during the past week in two devastating raids on Hamburg and one on the industrial city of Remscheid just south of the Ruhr while R.C.A.F. fighter planes helped protect United States and R.A.F. bombers on other raids and carried out numerous offensive sorties in France, the Netherlands and Northwest Germany.

This heavy program was described in the weekly communique issued today by Air Force Headquarters on behalf of Air Marshal Harold (Gus) Edwards, air officer commanding-in-chief of the R.C.A.F. overseas.

Six enemy fighters were shot down by Canadian fighter pilots—four of them by airmen in a wing led by Wing Cmdr. L. V. Chadburn, D.F.C. of Aurora, Ont., during an attack by Coastal Command Beaufighters on a large enemy convoy off the Netherlands coast.

The R.C.A.F. lost 11 bombers, 1 fighter and a Beaufighter operating in Coastal Command.

Last Thursday night Halifax and Wellington squadrons took part in the third 2,300 ton raid on Hamburg.

Our bombers encountered clouds en route but over the target the sky was clear and visibility excellent," said the communique.

Heavy Ground Fire

"The ground defences over Germany's greatest port had been heavily reinforced but neither these nor numerous enemy fighters prevented the delivery of a highly - concentated and effective attack lasting only three-quarters of an hour.

"Numerous fires were added to those still burning from previous raids and smoke rose to great heights, often up to four miles."

Last Monday Halifax and Wellington squadrons again went to Hamburg on another shattering night attack.

"Bombers flew through storm and cloud to drop a great weight of high explosives and incendiary bombs. Through gaps in the clouds crews saw fires and much smoke, particularly in the dock area, but were unable to observe fully the results of the bombing.

"Even before this attack the attack the damage to Hamburg extended over seven square miles —nearly 4,500 acres — devastated by earlier day and night attacks.

Remschied was Bomber Command's target last Friday night and R.C.A.F. Halifax squadrons took part in a "heavy and concentrated attack," on that comparatively small city, one of Germany's main producers of machine and precision tools.

Japs Fear Air Attack Build Chinese Bases

CHUNGKING, Aug. 6.— (AP).— The Japanese, apparently fearful of air raids on Japan, are hurriedly enlarging their two main airfields in Hupeh province for attacks upon potential Allied bases in China, a Chinese military spokesman said to-day.

The spokesman told a press conference that the Japanese also have been reinforcing their air forces in China.

He said unusual Japanese naval activity had been observed off the coasts of Kwang and Fukien provinces in South China, with enemy warships carrying out patrols apparently to tighten the blockade on China and counter Allied submarine operations.

Hull Officials Have Protected Gambling Places

HULL, Que., Aug. 6 — (CP). — Mr. Justice Edouard Fabre Surveyer, in a report on his recent judicial inquiry into police administration in Hull from May, 1936, to December, 1940, said to-day ex-Mayor Alphonse Moussette, Alderman Achille Morin, and ex-Alderman Emile Dompierre had given protection to gambling establishments and interfered with police in the arrest of prostitutes.

Costs of the inquiry, expected to total about $2,000, were assessed against the three men, with Moussette to pay one-half, Morin one-third, and Dompierre one-sixth.

"I have no hesitation in finding that the three men have protected gambling houses," Mr. Justice Surveyer said in his 42-page report.

"And furtner that they have interfered with the work of the police officers in the arrest of prostitutes in the City of Hull for the sole purpose of proecting the trade of certain hotelmen and owners of clubs, cafes, or licensed restaurants," the report continued.

"It must be remembered that this manner of dealing with the keepers of gambling houses and the owners of places where prostitutes are admitted has been a practice in Hull for a long time, and that, until 1938, the Provincial Police tolerated those houses which were a source of revenue," he said.

VOL. LXXXVIII, No. 31 PETERBOROUGH, SATURDAY, AUGUST 7, 1943 PAGE 9

MAIN STREET TOPICS

RECEIVES WINGS

Robert Hendry, R.C.A.F., graduated Thursday and received his wings at an air station in Quebec. His father is Thomas Hendry, 37 Armour road.

IN THE NAVY.

Peterborough and district men taken on the strength of H.M.C.S. Cataraqui during the last month include: A. M Leefley, 219 Dublin Street; H. D. Martin, 55 Everett Street; A. R. Basciano, 378 Dublin; James R. Doherty, 211 Carlisle Avenue; E. J. Hunt, Lakehurst; and Frank Burrill, Wooler.

REGARDED As HAZARD.

"Don't wait until an accident happens and some children are hurt playing around the place," was the advice of Alderman Cotton the other night, calling attention to what he considered the unsafe condition of the old Baker planing mill on Dublin Street. City Engineer Parsons was asked to write the owners of the property pointing out the unsound state of the roof and walls. Council's opinion is that the building should be demolished.

NO GREASE COLLECTION

Girls have been going about the city recently collecting grease from housewives, representing themselves as Girl Guides. The Girl Guides collected grease all last winter, and will do so again, but they are not collecting it during the hot weather.

A LONG LIFE

Old cribbed wood that supported valve chambers under the street level at George and Charlotte and George and Simcoe streets has been replaced recently by the Utilities Commission with concrete filling. The wood, which had finally rotted, was placed in 1883, 60 years ago.

BANDED PIGEON

A pigeon hit by a truck and killed near Dewert's Mill Friday afternoon was picked up by two young boys, Philip Stark and Pat Harte-Maxwell, and found to have a band on each leg. The boys took the bird to Alex Kay for inspection and were told it was not a government-banded bird. The lettering on the bands reads as follows: Right leg, CF 43 TS 467; left leg, CN 43 TA 1356.

Tourist Camp Displeases Health Board

Because the Boyler's Creek area is within the city boundary, the council has been discussing the sanitary conveniences of the tourist camp along the arm of the river just above the No. 7 highway bridge at the locks.

It was reported that three cabins and two trailers have been occupied all summer, with just an ordinary Chick Sale job for the accommodation of the entire group. The premises were examined by Sanitary Inspector MacPherson who pointed out that the arrangement was contrary to the city's health regulations and could not be tolerated.

Mr. MacPherson set a month's limit on further use of this camp, as it is. The council has endorsed the Health Department's course, but it has discovered the present statute does not provide for cabin and trailer colonies.

On the suggestion of Aldermen Bradburn and Gordon the Board of Health was asked to enquire into this variation of housing accommodation and report back to the council any recommendations which they think should be adopted.

Born in Ennismore, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jorn O'Connor, he left this city 26 years ago to take up residence in Rochester. A member of the Roman Catholic Church, he belonged to the Holy Name Society, and was active in church affairs in Rochester.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife and one daughter, Bernice. The funeral will be held on Monday morning at 9 o'clock in Rochester.

Council Advertising For 5,000 Cords Wood

The fuel committee of the council decided Friday afternoon to advertise for supplies of wood up to 5,000 cords in the hope of obtaining a stock for domestic use.

Purchases from producers would be in quantities of not less than 50 cords.

Reports of higher prices in Belleville and Oshawa, as much as two dollars a cord more than in Peterborough, were mentioned at the meeting as diverting wood cutters from this market.

Gladiolus Show To Give Aid To War Victims

Next Wednesday, August 11, is the big day for the Gladiolus and Aquarium Show being run under the joint auspices of the Eastern Ontario Gladiolus Society, and the Peterborough Aquarium Society in the market hall.

There are a great many things to commend this exhibition to the public at large, for few have seen the tropical fish which will be displayed, and there will be sufficient of these in different varieties to hold ones attention for a considerable time, with members of the finny tribe from the waters of the Amazon Basin, India and the Gulf of Mexico among those to be shown.

Then the show is open to anyone not a member of either society without even the payment of an entry fee, and then the judging being open to the public in general, it will be an education in itself to see how the awards are made and why, for which there are awards, most of which take the form of war savings stamps, while a silver trophy has been donated by the T. Eaton Co. Ltd. for the one securing the most points in the show.

Draw Prizes

Then added to all this is the splendid feature whereby the entire net proceeds will be given Peterborough and District's own particular fund to help those who have suffered from air raids over Britain, so all who attend or buy a ticket will know that the money is doing a lot of good where it is really needed.

These tickets have a chance on five good prizes, which include a half a ton of coal donated by the Peterborough Fuel and Transfer Co. Ltd., a small rug donated by the Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Co. Ltd., an $8.00 framed portrait donated by the Cripps Studio, an eleven piece pyrex set donated by T. F. Doughty. The price of these is 25 cents each or five for one dollar, and of course they also carry admission to the show which will run all afternoon and evening, commencing at 1.30 o'clock.

The draw for these prizes will be made by His Worship Mayor Hamilton at 9.30 p.m., and it is expected that the members of the City Council will be in attendance, an invitation for such from the secretary of the fund having been graciously accepted.

Those wishing to show their gladiolus should get in touch with T. B. Ball at 161 Park street North, or telephone 9102, and those wishing information regarding the aquarium portion of the show can secure details from C. H. Bacon, 697 Ross street, or telephone 9021.

Regent Theatre Helps

A better than average contribution via the penny box at the Regent Theatre is listed in today's receipts, this amounting to $11.10, of which slightly over $7.00 was in coppers, there actually being a total of 744 coins in this box to wrap and roll when the secretary of the fund collected it on Friday. This box in common with the others located in the various theatres in the city, is amongst one of the best producers for the fund, and is largely supported by the young folk.

Ruth Gardner, who is 11 years of age, assisted by Margaret Donnelly and Irene Nichols, both around the same age held a bazaar, from which they are credited with the sum of $1.50 in today's list. These young girls had a lot of fun, but best of all, they were doing something to help others, which is one of the finest things for young people to be using their leisure time for to such good advantage.

Previously acknowledged	$61,426.50
Ruth Gardner, assisted by Margaret Donnelly and Irene Nichols	1.50
Penny Box Regent Theatre	11.10
Total to date	$61,439.10

Local Barber Gets Sentence

Allan B. Lewis, formerly a barber in Peterborough who was convicted July 30 on a charge of setting fire to a barber shop below some apartments at 1320 Bloor Street West, Toronto, was sentenced Friday to two years less a day determinate and two months indeterminate in the Ontario Reformatory.

Lewis pleaded guilty to a charge of arson after an investigation made by the Fire Marshall's department following an insurance claim revealed a number of irregularities. In his plea he stated that he had acted under the influence of liquor.

Magistrate J. L. Prentice said the offence was a serious one since loss of life might have resulted. Forty people were forced out to the streets in their night clothes.

SHORT TIME.

Victor Caban, whose son was reported Friday killed in the Sicilian campaign, requested the Examiner to correct a statement as published yesterday that he had been employed at Stocks Bread plant for "some years." It was only a period of some months, he said this morning, and the reason he asked for the correction was because he thought the report might in some way affect his effort to enlist as cook in the Canadian Navy.

21st Battalion Veteran Passes

Many war veterans in Peterborough, along with a great number of C.G.E. employees, paid final tribute this week to the late Dan Maconomy when he was laid to rest in Little Lake Cemetery.

Mr. Maconomy, a quarter-century club member in the C.G.E., was one of the most popular workers in the huge plant, where he worked from 1912 until his retirement in 1938. War veterans in particular knew and appreciated the sterling qualities of character and citizenship exemplified down through the years by this pleasant, friendly Scot, who was born in Hamilton, Lanarkshire, Scotland. Dan was a singer, a storyteller and one who loved the great outdoors, and these attributes, coupled with an ever-present good humour, added to his popularity.

Joined Highlanders

As a boy in his native Scotland, Dan Maconomy enlisted in the Argyl and Sutherland Highlanders, Imperial Army, and the kilt-wearing regiments were always his pride. When World War I broke out he enlisted with the 21st Battalion in October, 1914, and saw service in France, Belgium and with the army of occupation in Germany. In post-war years, he served a term as president of the 21st Battalion Club.

Since his retirement in 1938 from the C.G.E. his health has been poor, but his death was unexpected as he had shown strong signs of recovering.

He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. R. Hamilton (Jean) and Jessie, and one son, Malcolm, of St. Catharines. A brother, James, of Benton Harbor, Michigan, also survives.

Pallbearers were Arthur and Alan Maconomy, nephews from Benton Harbor; Robt. F. Hamilton, son-in-law; Norman E. Crowe, Reginald Butler and Peter G. Wallace, the last two representing the 21st Battalion.

Theatre To Show British News

A new film feature to be flown to Canada weekly will present at the Centre Theatre, from Thursday to Saturday, the enterprise of Associated British News in their camera records of latest British and foreign current events. The introductory reel this week showed preparations for the invasion of Sicily, troopships leaving England; North African harbors crowded with craft including the new barges designed for beach landings.

Pictures of actual landing on Sicilian shores will probably be the highlight of next week's film news. They have the advantage of British editing and of attractive vocal commentary accompaniment which Canadian audiences easily receive. Sid Goldstone, manager of the Centre, said he contracted for this British service for fifty-two weeks. It is more than possible that some of the shots of Sicily may show personal details of special interest here from the fact that they may include Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment personnel.

New Curriculum Teaches Child To Think

The school child today is better informed, more widely read and possessed of a better attitude towards education as a result of the new curriculum launched in the Peterborough elementary schools five years ago, it was said Friday by K. S. Wightman, public school inspector, addressing Kiwanians at the Empress Hotel.

This modern program, put into force over the objections of critics who felt it would introduce a "soft pedagogy" in the schools, has reached and even exceeded some of the standards originally set, Mr Wightman said.

Reviewing in his talk some of the accomplishments of the last few years, the speaker pointed out that most people don't give much thought to education in the lower grades and that a tendency exists to oversimplify its problems. "Beginners are always important," he said, "and it must be remembered that for many the elementary school is the only school."

The important feature of change in the newer education was a shift in emphasis towards greater flexibility and natural growth through activity, the speaker stated. Where formerly a pupil sat at a desk and listened, and learned by memorizing given sets of facts, to-day he was encouraged to follow his own particular interests and often to work by himself. In this way he could profit more than his predecessor, because facts found out for one's self became part of "the mind's backbone," whereas those learned as an unwelcome duty all too often remained external to the childs thinking.

Where there was education attuned to children's interests there would be lots of work done. "There is no taskmaster like interest," Mr Wightman said. Interest stimulated in a child would set him out on a hunt for knowledge, and effort expended in pursuits like these was far beyond what could be imposed by external authority. As an example, the speaker took the sometimes astonishing familiarity with all the different models of airplanes that youngsters will nowadays show, a knowledge acquired from a pure interest in the subject.

"Th must, it is true, be formal courses," Mr. Wightman said "but within the framework of our curriculum there is plenty of room for the encouragement of individual talent." It was never wise to have courses too set and cut-and-dried. "Where there is a fixed curriculum which is regarded as perfect you can know that it is already bad."

Recounting the difficulties to be overcome when the program was inaugurated, Mr. Wightman said that the type of equipment in school rooms was a handicap at first. The ordinary anchored desk was made for listening and not for working, while class-room libraries were deficient in their contents. These difficulties had to some extent been overcome. Libraries were being added to, and study-and-work tables were taking the place of the outmoded desks. "Within reasonable limits we have have begun to transform classrooms to working rooms."

"Public education started out as a mass-production effort, trying to teach all children to do the same thing at the same time," the speaker said. "The necessity of recognizing each child as an individual requiring individual attention was conveniently forgotten." As in manufacturing on a mass-production basis, it was less expensive this way. But now this error was being rectified, and today Peterborough had two special classes for children who couldn't fit in the regular classes. Children who couldn't come to school used to be forgotten, but now those who were sick had teachers come to them twice week. This was an example, Mr. Wightman pointed out, of the value of individual training, for such children would come back to school no worse off than if they had never been absent.

Speaking of his hopes for the future of elementary education, Mr. Wightman advocated the removal of the stigma attached to non-promotion. It was not to be considered a disgrace for the slower pupils that he should be promoted more slowly, and instilling a feeling of failure and frustration in him to be avoided. He advocated, too, smaller classes in order that the teacher might come to know his students better, and thought there should be more contact and co-operation between parents and teacher.

Vincent McCabe introduced the speaker and the vote of thanks was moved by John McKone.

Two Children Blamed For C.N.R. Break-in

LINDSAY, Aug. 7—(ENS)—Investigating a reported break-in at the C.N.R. freight sheds at Donald, Haliburton County, Detective Sergeant Ray Morden and Provincial Constable W. McBrien discovered that the entry was made by two children aged 5 and 3. After fleeing the building the children opened a case of lard and proceeded with a good job of greasing.

106 Motorists Pay Fines For Parking

Police issued 106 parking tickets during July, City Clerk Outram informed the Council this week. Ninety-eight offenders paid at the clerk's office the penalty of one dollar. The eight others were reported to the police, two were fined $3 each in court. Two tickets were cancelled because the owners were American visitors; and prosecutions are pending for four.

Since May 26, when the bylaw became effective permitting settlement at the city hall of parking infractions, 300 tickets have been handed out, and, of these, 286 have been settled by payment of one dollar each.

Mr. Outram also reviewed the police court record for the month as follows:

There were 44 persons convicted in police court during the month of July. Nineteen convictions were under the Liquor Control Act, three as second offenders, and in default of payment of fine of $50.00, were committed to gaol for one month. There were six convictions under the Highway Traffic Act, and eight under the City Traffic Bylaw. There were five convictions under the Criminal Code, one being for theft of car, and the sentence was 15 months in the Ontario Reformatory; theft of car 1, threatening letter 1. Under the Wartime Prices and Trade Board two charges were dismissed, 1 withdrawn and 1 adjourned to August.

The report of the finance committee was adopted, including the following clause: "That the city pay the account of T. J. Carley for his expenses in connection with the appeal regarding the closing of the C.N.R. between Millbrook and Port Hope, and that W. F. Huycke be paid $50 for his services in this connection; also that a grant of $100 be made to the Chamber of Commerce to permit payment of expenses of the deputation to Ottawa in this connection, and to finance the Chamber in its efforts to keep the Port Hope line in operation."

Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Limited offered the city $500 for title to the unopened road allowances on their property which are named Cordach avenue and the extension of Cambridge street, between McDonnel and Bonacord streets. Although marked on the map as streets, they have never been opened, and the company applied to the city for their official permanent closing.

The $500 offer from the company was recommended to the Council for acceptance, in the board of works report, and was confirmed by the Council.

Only one item appeared in the fire and light committee report: "That the chairman be authorized to have the Utilities Commission instal a street light on Armour road near the club house of the employees of Western Clock Company."

THE STARS SAY . . . .
By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, August 8

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds auguries of a particularly lively and active day although this movement may be noticed in a reign of both public and private indulgence and extravagances. Matters held within bound of reason and good sense should flourish but other trends may prove disastrous.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a lively and successful year, with enterprise, initiative and cleverness flourishing to a high degree. Particularly are new propositions and projects of importance encouraged. On the other hand there may be a menace through too expansive ideas or ambition or in an over-extravagant tendency; with personal and private lavishness.

A child born on this day may be energetic, clever, aggressive and ambitious, but it may defeat itself by exaggerated ideas.

For Monday, August 9

Monday's astrological forecast is for a day of business and personal contacts that call for extreme caution, self-control and patience, lest there be severe penalties for impetuosity, arrogance, loss of temper and other impulsive or reckless emotions and behavior. Employers or others in power are to be treated with due respect and restraint lest position be jeopardized. Physical safety must also be safeguarded. Personal relations, social or affectionally, may offer recompense.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a successful, progressive and happy year, if they determine to put the brakes rigidly on the impulses and emotions. Under the high tempo of attaining desired objectives there might be danger of excitement, loss of control, of tongue and temper, inciting want of cooperation from superiors or employers, to disastrous degree. The personal safety should also be protected. Social and sentimental associations may be compensatory.

A child born on this day may have a really kindly and well-intentioned nature, but may invite loss and regret through want of self-restraint and discipline.

I love my little home and I feel that I would be much happier in it, Especially as my mother is married again and I get along better with my stepfather when I don't see too much of him.

I am working in an aircraft defence factory and make good pay, so I am amply able to stay in my home. I have thought of taking in a girl to live with me and share expenses, as her husband is also in the army. What do you think I should do? Mrs. A. D.

Married Woman Should Keep Own Home.

ANSWER: By all means keep your home. You will be far happier in it, surrounded by your own things, than you will be living at your mother's and fighting with your stepfather. I don't know why exactly, but when a girl has once left home and had her own home she never can go baik and fit into her girlhood home. She has gotten accustomed to having things her own way and being independent, and when her mother treats her as if she were still a little girl in pinafores, it gets on her nerves.

Don't even make a hard-and-fast long term arrangement with the girl you are thinking of taking in with you. You may like her. You may not. Keep a door open that you can get out of if she gets on your nerves.

Dear Miss Dix: My girl is very temperamental and only comes to her senses after a sound spanking, which is necessary nearly every month. Though every girl may need one spanking to put her in her place, a girl who is still temperamental after a dozen spankings and admits she deserves them puzzles me.

Would it be wise to marry such a girl? Jack.

ANSWER: Certainly not. Wife-beating as a pastime appeals to very few men, and you cannot picture a happy home in which it is the husband's favorite indoor sport.

Undoubtedly when a woman acts like a spoiled child she deserves to be treated like one, but very often we cannot make the punishment fit the crime. For the average man would feel far more degraded in his own sight if he spanked his wife than she would by being spanked. A woman must have very little decency and self-respect who either deserves to be spanked, or who submits to it.

She is poor wife material, and my earnest advice to you is to pass her up for some girl who behaves herself without the fear of the rod before her eyes.

LAWN BOWLING

Over in Lindsay Friday evening the boys from our club took first and second in the annual twilight doubles tournament.

There was a capacity entry, and while some of our bowlers found the greens somewhat heavy, they soon got used to them and they gave a good account of themselves.

Ten pairs from here helped to swell the attendance.

Winners

Judge S. Smoke and G. Gimblett —1st, each War Saving Stamps.

C. Williamson and G. Coleman— 2nd, each War Saving Samps.

It is going to be a real tight finish in group No. 1 of the men's schedule.

Just to see how things looked we took time out and made a check on the standing. Any one of the seven leading rinks might yet come home ahead.

The present standing is:

	Won	Lost
R. Payne	11	3
B. Chesler	10	4
G. Coleman	10	4
T. McMillan	10	4
E. Wall	10	4
G. Gimblett	9	5
R. Burns	9	5

Each of the above teams have three games yet to play, and some have to play against each other. It is interesting, isn't it?

Good Table Manners Are Most Important

CORRECT WAY TO DRINK

Do you hesitate over the correct way to do things at the dinner table? No need to fear that you're not holding your knife and fork right or not drinking your tea in a polite manner. If you're not sure, you can soon learn.

Coffee and tea, after having been stirred with a spoon, are drunk from the cup which is held by the handle, not cuddled in both hands. Unlike bouillon, coffee and tea are never sipped from the spoon. Also, many people think it necessary to hold the cup with the fingers crooked away from the cup. It is good form simply to hold the cup, as pictured above.

Good table manners are really simple — once learned they seem so natural that you will never forget them.

Our 32-page booklet gives a full discussion of well-bred ways at the table and will serve as a guide and reminder to those anxious to learn.

Don't offend your dinner partner by your offensive manner of eating. Nothing rates a person so quickly as bad table manners.

Any careless habit which calls attention to the unbeautiful physical act of eating is likely to offend.

For your copy of GOOD TABLE MANNERS send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

"The Authority on Authorities"

LET HIM HELP MORE

SOME players seem to have a genius for helping their opponents. You probably have met the type. Let's hope you are not one. You know, the kind who has a genius for doing just the very thing his opposition hopes he will do. Who not only makes bids which guide them in later play, but also falls for temptation when you give him a chance to make some one particular mistake. When you recognize one, please let him have every chance possible to help you accomplish additional things.

North: ♠ 8 6 3 ♥ 7 6 ♦ 10 7 4 3 ♣ 6 5 3 2

West: ♠ 7 4 2 ♥ K 9 5 3 ♦ K J ♣ A K 9 7

East: ♠ A J 9 ♥ A 10 4 2 ♦ A 8 5 2 ♣ 8

South: ♠ K Q 10 5 ♥ Q J 8 ♦ Q 9 6 ♣ Q J 10

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	1 ♥	1 NT	Dbl
2 ♣	2 ♦	Pass	4 ♥

What a slaughter if East had not taken the opponents "off the hook" with his bid of diamonds. This deal was in a match point pair duplicate, and South was straining for tricky results when he made that No Trump bid. North, thinking his partner had made a pure psychic, tried to rescue him, and East was afraid the not-vulnerable opponents would get out with a cheap sacrifice.

East, however, made good use of the information South's bid gave him. He won the spade K lead with the A, finessed the diamond J, scored the K, took in the club tops and ruffed the club 7, setting up the 9, scored the diamond A for a spade discard and then, having counted South for four spades and three of everything else, made him take the spade J with the Q.

So doing, he gave South a chance to make a bad mistake, and he made it—a lead of the heart Q. East won with the A, finessed the heart 9, dropped South's Q with the K, and finished with the heart 5 and club 9.

Having taken all but one trick, he had the top score on the deal, and South was bottom. He could have taken a second trick positively by merely returning a spade when he was in the lead with the Q. His trump holding was a positive trick unless he led the suit himself.

Your Week-End Lesson

Are you familiar with the provisions of the new Laws of Contract Bridge on the following matters connected with scoring:

1. Agreeing on the result of a deal before scoring it?
2. How many should keep score?
3. Who is the winner of the rubber—the side that won two games, or the side which scored the greater total?
4. Redress for a call or play made relying on an incorrect score?
5. Correction of errors in the score?

Fire, Frostbite Worry Bomber Crew

OTTAWA, Aug. 6 (CP)—Almost roasted in a burning Halifax bomber and then frost-bitten a few hours later—that's the experience of the crew of FO. "Gord" Bennett of Winnipeg when Canada's Goose Squadron helped administer an aerial knockout to the Ruhr coal centre of Gelsenkirchen.

The R.C.A.F. told today in a press release from London how the four-motored bomber, previously damaged by flak, was struck by eight incendiaries from another Allied aircraft flying at a higher altitude just as bombs were being dropped. Four of the incendiaries started a blaze that took 15 minutes to extinguish.

Flying with FO. Bennett, who received the Distinguished Flying Cross for his part in the raid, were four other Canadians:—

The navigator, PO. Bill Baker of Ottawa; the bomb-aimer, Sgt. Gus Davies of Halifax; the mid-upper gunner, Sgt. Vern Joel of Vancouver, and the tail-gunner, Sgt. Jim Frame of Senate, Sask.

Limped Home

Limping home with holes in the aircraft large enough to fall through, minus lights, petrol guages, electrical system, heat or hydraulics, Bennett set the Halifax down on an aerodrome in Southern England. After the blaze, the bomber flew through dense, freezing cloud, all the crewmen suffered from frost bite.

"We got hit by flak going in to the target and it rendered our hydraulics unserviceable," said 23-year-old pilot, credited with seven operational trips. "Just as we were letting our bombs go there was a crashing noise. Later I learned we had been hit by incendiaries from above.

Didn't Explode.

"Four of them struck the centre of the aircraft, starting the fire. Another one whizzed right by my feet on an angle and over the navigator's head. It bounced off his table and destroyed his maps and charts. Luckily it didn't explode.

"Another incendiary crashed into our port wing and jammed the lateral controy. It made it awfully tough to do turns and banks."

The young pilot dived the aircraft from 20,000 to 14,000 feet to extinguish the fires on the outside but three crew members, two Englishmen and the bomb-aimer, Davies, fought the inner blaze with extinguishers for 15 minutes—"and it seemed like 15 years."

Every time the fliers touched the side of the aircraft they received shocks from short circuits and when the R.A.F. wireless operator attempted to repair the lightng system his hair was singed by a streak of blue flame.

Will Probably Form New Government

Lieut.-Col. George Drew, leader of the Ontario Progressive Conservative Party, was heartily congratulated by his wife after his party won a slight majority over the C.C.F. Party in the election which saw the Liberal Party swept from power.

"As you all know, the Lancaster bomber is the most powerful air weapon in use today. In my opinion, it has been the greatest contributing factor toward putting Germany on the defensive. Undoubtedly it is the greatest weapon of destruction that Canada has produced in this war," he declared.

"This is not a case of one Lancaster bomber. It is the first of a regular and constantly accelerating stream of heavy bombers that in a steady and relentless procession will cross the oceans to contribute to the destruction of Germany."

Breadner Voices Pride

"The Royal Canadian Air Force is proud indeed to take over the first Canadian-built Lancaster,' declared Air Marshal L. S. Breadner, chief of the air staff. "This aircraft is our own in a very special manner and we shall follow her adventures and accomplishments with the closest interest and attention.

Mrs. Mary Tucker, representing women workers of the plant, and James Wark, a fellow-worker, both declared the workers intended to keep on producing Lancasters as fast as they could.

Mrs. Power, formally christening the plane, pulled a ribbon, allowed it to let go, and the champagne bottle, specially manufactured so that it would break on the plexiglass nose, was shattered. "I christen you 'The Ruhr Express,'" the Minister's wife said.

Following the ceremony, the big machine was taxied down to the runway and after a brief pause for final adjustments, took off. It circled and dived at the crowd for some time and then, coming in very low, dropped a dummy bomb. Then it dipped wings in a final salute and roared into the east.

The Lancaster is an armed and armored "battleship of the air." It is a four-engined, midwing monoplane of all-metal skin construction, twin fins and rudders, and retractable undercarriage.

Wing Span of 102 Feet.

Immensity of the machine is hard to realize, but the wing span is 102 feet, it is more than 69 feet long and 20 feet high. The pilot is actually 18 feet off the ground when he is at his post. The wheels, with enormous tires, are five feet six inches in diameter.

The big machine is equipped with tremendous power. It has four engines, each of 1,250 horsepower. tI fairly bristles with armament. There are 10 Browning aircraft machine guns mounted on four hydraulically operated turrets, located in the nose, tail, mid-top and mid-belly. There are four guns in the tail, fed by long ammunition tracks running along the fuselage. Each of the other turrets mounts two guns. The rear turret can be swung to any position, and the airmen claimed the machine has "no blind spots."

Empty, the plane weighs 35,000 pounds and it can carry a bomb load of 15,800 pounds. The bomb compartment, a marvel of complexity, is 33 feet long, closed by two doors curved to follow the line of the fuselage. They can be opened hydraulicly in five seconds.

their action had been followed in Stuttgart and Berlin factories. Promises of increased rations and the presence of Nazi Elite Guard members in the factories failed to deter them, the newspaper said.

The collapse of Mussolini and his Fascist regime has struck German morale with the weight of a "political Stalingrad," whose final effects on the Axis may be much more important than has yet been indicated, said Die Weltwoche.

Secret Weapon.

Dispatches to Swiss newspapers told how the German propaganda ministry was left practically "gasping for breath" at the collapse of the Mussolini Government. The best it could do, reported Die Weltwoche, was to tell the German people to "rely with confidence in their own strength," assuring them that "only weapons are decisive."

But just as in Italy—especially in the minds of the younger Germans—Mussolini's own fall was difficult to grasp.

In sharp contrast to the wave of jitters enveloping Berlin was the carefree attitude of Londoners who to-day are singing their way along with a new hit tune, "I'm Going to Get Lit Up When the Lights Go Up in London." The Government promised modifications in the blackout as conditions may warrant.

Both Goebbels and Reichsmarshal Herman Goering were reported in Hamburg to-day. Before he left Berlin Goebbels made a final attempt to allay the fears of the Berliners with assurances that Berlin anti-aircraft defences have been strengthened and that the Reich high command is preparing massive counter air blows against Britain. Goebbels gave no indications when the counter air offensive would be launched, but promised that German military experts would utilize a new secret weapon on which they are now working.

Donald of the R.A.F., reputed to be one of the greatest R.A.F. authorities on instrument flying.

No. 1 I.F.S. is still under construction, but training has been under way for more than two months.

Act As Instructors.

With the output of trained instructors anticipated from the Deseronto School, it is proposed to set up "beam approach" flights at all twin-engine service flying training schools across Canada, so that bomber pilots graduating under the Comomnwealth Air Training Plan will be well grounded in this newly-developed method of "homing" and controlled "let down" while they are still in the training stage.

"Beam" flying was brought to its present stage of perfection after trouble with Nazi "intruder" aircraft which used to wait over British airdromes and pick off, by the lights on the landing field, air craft returning from raids over Europe.

Commercial airlines for some years have used radio beams to guide aircraft between airports. The R.A.F. however, has developed a radio technique for combining accuracy of direction with knowledge of position over the air drome, so pilots can come in for a safe landing even when they can't see the ground until they are within a few score feet of it.

The Deseronto station has the first "beam" in Canada. On days when aircraft at other fields in Canada were chained to the ground by low-hanging clouds and fog, aircraft were flying at Deseronto. They've flown every day and five nights a week since the station opened in April. Icing is the only flying hazard they fear, for it renders aircraft unserviceable and is apt to freeze over the instrument apertures.

4 By-Elections Slated For Next Monday

OTTAWA, Aug. 7.—(CP).—House of Commons representation in four ridings will be settled Monday when voting takes place in the Quebec constituencies of Montreal Cartier and Stanstead, in Selkirk, Man., and in Humboldt, Sask.

All the ridings were formerly held by members of the Liberal Party which is fighting to hold them, against C.C.F. candidates in every riding and against a number of others who raise the total of candidates to 13.

The Progressive Conservative Party is not offering candiates in any of the ridings.

The new-formed Bloc Populaire—the party of Maxime Raymond, sitting member for Beauharnois-Laprairie who left the Liberal ranks in protest over Government war policy and preaches "Canada First" in relation to fighting overseas, has candidates in both Quebec contests.

The Social Credit Party is endorsing the candidature of an Independent in Selkirk.

The by-elections will provide a test of Federal electoral sentiment in two widely separated but strategic centres of the Dominion and the campaigns have aroused much interest, particularly in view of the results of Wednesday's voting in the Ontario Provincial elections.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King has remained aloof from the by-elections, but his Ministers have been campaigning steadily, especially in the Quebec contests.

Five in Cartier.

Cartier, which has been represented by members of the Jewish faith since 1917, will continue that tradition if it returns Lazarus Phillips, the official Liberal candidate. He has four opponents — Davis Lewis, C.C.F., youthful secretary of that party's national committee; Fred Rose, Labor-Progressive; Paul Masse, Bloc Populaire, and Moses Miller, Independent.

The seat was vacated by the death of Peter Bercovitch, K.C. For many years it was held for the Liberal Party by the late Sam Jacobs.

In Stanstead the vacancy was caused through the unseating of the Liberal member, R. G. Davidson, by a Supreme Court decision that his election in 1940 had involved activities by his workers which violated the Elections Act.

Mr. Davidson is the official Liberal candidate. He is opposed by Pierre Thomas of Magog, C.C.F., and Armand Choquette, Bloc Populaire.

Three candidates seek the Humboldt seat, two of them members of the Saskatchewan Legislature—Frank S. Krenn of Bruno, Liberal, and Joseph W. Burton of Humboldt, C.C.F. The third candidate is Theodore Langdenhoff, Social Credit.

A three-way battle in Selkirk is being fought by C. E. Fillmore, Liberal, William Bryce, C.C.F., and Miss Salome Halldorson, Social Credit.

Miss Halldorson is the only woman candidate. She said that although endorsed by the Social Credit Party she is bound to no organization and will be Independent if elected.

The Humboldt vacancy was created by the death of the Liberal member, Dr. H. R. Fleming, and in Selkirk the vacancy was created nearly a year ago by the appointment of former War Services Minister Thorson as president of the Exchequer Court of Canada.

Norwegian Sailor Awarded War Medal

MONTREAL, Aug. 7—(CP).—A 25-year-old second mate of a Norwegian tanker was today awarded the Norwegian War Medal and the St. Olav Medal for bravery at sea. His name was withheld for security reasons.

The officer said his ship was shelled and set afire by two German U-boats while crossing the Atlantic. All but two of the lifeboats were destroyed by shell-fire and one of them drifted away from the ship.

Jumping over the side, the officer retrieved the boat after swimming more than 500 yards in his heavy lifesaving suit and brought it back to rescue 18 of his shipmates.

France's Gold Safe In Allied Hands

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

FORT-DE-FRANCE, Martinique, Aug. 7 (AP). — Despite repeated orders from the Vichy Government to sink some $285,000,000 in gold coin stored in Fort Desaix's casemates, France's greatest single cache of wealth is safe in Allied hands.

Officials recently found messages from Vichy in Government House ordering Admiral Robert to resist with force and foreign intervention or internal uprising and to sink the gold and scuttle the French warships and merchantmen in Fort-de-France's harbor. The orders were sent on an average of once every three days.

Plans for sinking the gold in the event of foreign attack had been completed. The 8,766 boxes of metal were to be loaded aboard one of the ships and taken to sea at a point known for its great depth. Here, where the sea is too deep for successful diving and retrievement, the gold was to be dumped overboard and the ship itself scuttled.

Stored in Fort

With Col. Pierre de Chevigne, member of the French delegation from Washington and Interim Chief of the Island's police and military establishments, leading the way, a guard of honor greeted our inspection party at the fort's gateway. The Colonel led the way toward the gold-studded casements holding the coin from the Banque de France.

The containers, each holding about $32,000 in coins of various countries, resemble so many boxes in a shoestore.

About two months ago the United States naval observer, Captain A. S. Hickey, and Marcel Malige, the Consul, inspected the vaults to ascertain the presence of the gold.

The American officials were satisfied the gold was still there, and so reported to Washington.

Plenipotentiary Henru - Etienne Hoppenot, Col. De Chevigne and Admiral Lambert, Free French naval officer, likewise are satisfied the gold is still there. The future use and location of the French gold is still undecided; presumably, though, it could be used to underwrite purchases of arms and munitions in the United States.

Soviet Tanks Near Kharkov City

Both Armies Rush In Fresh Reserves

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Aug. 9—(AP)—Russian tank forces crashing back toward the gates of Kharkov from the north have encountered stubborn resistance from fresh German reserves rushed into the battles raging near Dolzhik, 15 miles northwest of that big industrial centre of the Ukraine, front line dispatches said today.

Soviet infantry was reported, however, to be moving up through the path of German wreckage left by their big armored units, and to be mopping up and consolidating their gains in preparation for renewed advances.

The capture of Bogodukhov, a railway town, and Bolshaya Pisarevka and Tarasovka, all northwest of Kharkov on the upper reaches of the Vorskla river, was considered to have reduced German chances of rushing further reinforcements into that area.

In capturing Krasnopolye, another column of the Russian forces driving in from the north had driven to within 21 miles of Sumy, rich Ukrainian agriculture centre which lies about 80 miles northwest of Kharkov.

Bogodukhov's falls also severed the second of two rail lines linking Kharkov with Bryansk, rail juncture 250 miles northwest of Kharkov also threatened by Soviet columns crashing westward from fallen Orel.

West of Kromi the southern wing of the Russian forces advancing on Bryansk killed more than 1,000 Germans and took a large number of Prisoners and war material.

Although the Russian communique made it clear that the major operations were directed against Bryansk and Kharkov, both important Nazi bases, there was much activity in the Voroshilovgrad area and in the Donets basin sector around Izyum.

Red Army aircraft operating around Izyum attacked Nazi supply trains and motor convoys, smashing 400 motor trucks and three trains, forcing the Germans to halt all traffic on the line.

Germany Fears Multiple Thrust

BERNE, Switzerland, Aug. 9.—(AP).—Berlin dispatches said today that German fears of a multiple Allied invasion and recognition of the Allied determination to carry the war to a decisive end had prompted the recent urgent meetings between Nazi party and army leaders.

The Berlin correspondent of the Basler Nachrichten wrote that Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels told the conferees that the Allies planned to "force Germany to her knees by a massive general thrust from all sides."

The correspondent said Nazi hopes of ending the war by a favorable compromise had been dashed by the failure of Premier Pietro Badoglio to gain an acceptable Italian armistice.

German morale was one of the urgent matters discussed at the Berlin conference, the correspondent wrote. He said many pictures of the conference had been published in the newspapers and also pictures of Marshal Hermann Goering visiting Hamburg in an effort to convince Germany that big plans were being made.

A Serious Charge

NAPANEE, Aug. 9—(CP).—Dr. A. J. Wilson, editor of the United Church Observer, speaking here Sunday, said that Sunday School attendance has declined so rapidly in North America in the last 10 years that today one-third of the juvenile population have never attended church.

Week Of Victory Boosts British Morale

LONDON, Aug. 9.—(AP).—One of the best and brightest weeks of the whole war for the United Nations ended Saturday night in an atmosphere of buoyancy which caused many responsible Britons to speculate cautiously that the spring of 1944 might see Germany beaten.

The habit of conservatism driven into the people by weary months and years is still strong, however, and nobody had any idea of ignoring the likelihood that blood must yet run and work must go on at the full energy of the nation.

Nevertheless, it is a sunny, hopeful hour.

It was a week of victory around the world arena—Orel, Belgorod, Pacific seas—and a week of unprecedented anxieties for the Axis in Europe.

Italy was in travail: The Continent and Britain were swept with nervous whispers of half-hidden difficulties in Germany, with speculation going so far as to suggest the possibility that German military men might throw Hitler out and attempt to set up some Nazi sequel to the new Italian regime of Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio.

Men in Britain, and elsewhere, remembered the fateful days of August, 1918, inexact though the parallel may have been.

Commenting on the Red Army's recapture of Belgorod, the Times said "It can now be seen that Aug. 4, 1943, like Aug. 8 1918 was a black day for the German Army," and the newspaper added that "all battles now in progress represent a deadly grind from which the Germans can see no prospect of relief."

Aug. 8, 1918, was the day the Allies began their great offensive in Picardy east of Amiens after the Germans' summer offensive had been checked.

Bulgaria Wavering

Many Britons recount that this August, as in August, 1918, sees U-boat warfare in the bag, that the Axis satellite Bulgaria now, as then, is wavering, and that as the Allied victories in August and September, 1918, paved the way for Bulgaria's plea for an armistice, so they are paving the way now for Italian surrender.

Britons recall that the successive surrenders of Germany's 1918 helpers — Bulgaria, Turkey and Austria—were soon followed by a German armistice.

They do not predict such a swift movement of events in this war, but one man in a most responsible position told me:

"Peace may well be on us before we are ready with the machinery to handle its problems. But, of course, it may also be a long way off."

Another, saying he thought the defeat of Germany this year was a possibility, added: "However, we ought to be ready for anything."

EXTRA!

LONDON—Three formations of Allied planes were heard roaring over the Channel toward France late today resuming the air offensive which in the past 48 hours hammered Milan, Turin and Genoa in a drive to break Italy's will to resist.

Hitler Fired Says Story From Berlin

Goering Endowed With New Power Generals Rule Now

By CHARLES S. FOLTZ
Associated Press Staff Writer

MADRID, Aug. 9 — (AP)—Press dispatches reaching Spain from Berlin yesterday said that "powers of great magnitude" have been given to Reichmarshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering following a meeting of Nazi party chiefs and army leaders.

News of the meeting at Hitler's headquarters, announced by Berlin during the week-end, lent color to various reports current in Spain that army is taking over conduct of German affairs in preparation for a long defensive war.

Although, these reports say, Hitler remains as a figurehead leader, the real rulers of Germany are Goering, and Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz, commander-in-chief of the navy.

German reports reaching Spain indicate the Germany Army considers it necessary to retain the Nazi party as a facade behind which it can operate without causing an upheaval within the country.

This view, it was said, was prompted by recent disorders in Italy, which jettisoned the Fascist party when the military dictatorship of Marshal Pietro Badoglio took over. German leaders are reported to believe that if Italy withdraws from the war it will be the result of administrative chaos as much as a public clamor for peace.

It was understood that Goering was chosen as the Nazi representative in the new set-up because he has long been aware of the army's views and holds the confidence of

Incredible Tale Told By Sailor

SEATTLE, Aug. 9 (AP)—A. J. W. Evans, 41, one of the three known survivors of the torpedoing of a Japanese troopship said to have been crammed with 2,000 British and Canadian prisoners from Hong Kong, yesterday told a Seattle Times interviewer of well-nigh incredible 'black hole" horrors in the Nipponese vessel.

On one detail he maintained tight secrecy—the route by which he and his two companions escaped from the China coast to Chungking. Evans said he was the only American and the only civilian among the 2,000 prisoners. The fate of the remainder is a mystery. Dispatches have carried Japanese reports that 900 Canadian and British army and Navy personnel were saved but no list of names was ever released.

Evans said that during the voyage the prisoners were herded below decks like animals, and had to fight their way through heavy hatch covers after the craft began to settle. Evans said he reached the China coast four hours after the sinking.

Says Badoglio Faces More Trouble

By THOMAS HAWKINS
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERNE, Aug. 9—(AP)—The ambiguous assertion that Premier Pietro Badoglio now is studying the problem of "how to conduct the war to an honorable conclusion was offered by the Italian press today as an explanation of the policies of the two-week-old Rome government.

Dispatches to the Tribune de Geneve said the explanation was printed in a number of Rome papers on the heels of the Allied breakthrough in Eastern Sicily and the renewal of massed air raids on Northern Italy.

Meanwhile, advices from Italy indicated, underground political parties agitating for peace are emerging into the open despite a ban on their activities.

The Swiss newspaper Volksrecht, quoting dispatches from the frontier, said the Italian Socialist party was appealing to workers, farmers and middle class intellectuals to join in a general strike to force an end to Italy's participation in the war and abolish the monarchy.

Condemns Leader

The Volksrecht said the appeal was contained in a resolution printed in an Italian Socialist newspaper condemning premier Badoglio because "behind the phantom of military symbols the real organisms of the Fascist dictatorship have been retained and even strengthened," and describing the new Italian government as "Fascist without Mussolini."

(Madrid dispatches said reports from Rome yesterday told of fresh peace disturbances in Bari and declared that Italian troops had refused to obey when ordered to fire into a crowd of demonstrators. The troops were reported to have been marched to their barracks and replaced by others who broke up the demonstration.

(Stockholm advices said that while rigid censorship continued to govern neutral correspondents in Italy, information reaching Swedish newspapers through private channels seemed to indicate a new crisis in Italian affairs is brewing.

The Italian newspaper Corriere Della Sera announced that Babuscio Rizzi, former chief of cabinet at Chigi palace, was named charge d'affaires at the Vatican succeeding Count Galeazzo Ciano, son-in-law of Benito Mussolini.

F.D.R. Enjoys Fishing In Ontario

Catches Black Bass On Light Rod First Holiday Here

Canadian Press Correspondent
By BERGE JARNEL

LITTLE CURRENT, Ont., Aug. 9 — (CP). —President Roosevelt spent a one-week fishing holiday at Manitoulin Island, the largest inland island in the world and one of Canada's most popular peacetime holiday resorts, it was disclosed today. It was the first time he holidayed in Canada anywhere but at his summer home at Campobello, N.B.

North country natives respected the President's desire for quiet and privacy but buzzed with interest in the 10-car private train in which he and his party travelled from the United States through Ontario to Birch Island in the Georgian Bay area. In his first afternoon's fishing the President caught five black bass with a light trout rod but as yet no further reports on his catches have leaked out.

Special Track Built

Although the President's train was at Birch Island station, nine miles north of this Manitoulin island town, he was actually not on an island at all. Birch Island, one of the most attractive spots in the Manitoulin district, is separated from the mainland only by a small unnamed stream and is also known as La Cloche Peninsula.

Special tracks and a platform had been built at Birch Island station to accomodate the special train. From its windows the President and his party had a view of the island-studded north channel with La Cloche Mountains in the background.

Waters about Birch Island — Whitefish Channel, McGregor Bay and the North Channel —abound in such fish as bass, pickerel, northern pike, muskelonge and trout.

When it became generally known in the area that the President's train had stopped at the picturesque Indian village of Birch Island Station, all realized his desire for privacy and no attempt was made to call any attention to the occasion.

Members of the U.S. Army, U.S. police officials, and the R.C.M.P. made their headquarters at the Mansion House here in Little Current.

Donald MacKenzie, well-known Little Current guide, acted as the guide for the President on his fishing outings with the assistance of Ernest St. Pierre of McGregor Bay.

Sailors from the U.S. coastguard cutter Wilmette accompanied the President on his fishing trips, along with the guides. Cliff Bradley of Little Current acted as pilot for the cutter, while Oscar Rossel was in charge of the boats for the party and J. Trimmer spent a day with his launch.

MacKenzie recalled that when he was introduced to the President, the latter greeted him with cheery smile and a firm handclasp.

Eighth Army Moves Up 9 Miles Through Etna Defences Americans Try Sea Attack

By DANIEL DE LUCE—Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Aug. 9 — (AP). —Allied armies slashed great chunks from German defence lines across the Sicilian bridgehead in week-end assaults and the Allied right wing was poised today within 42 airline miles of Messina. The British 8th Army swept through Acireale, a port only 42 miles by air and less than 50 miles by road from Messina, in a nine-mile drive up the east coast from Catania and also captured San Maria de Licodia, high on the southern slopes of Mount Etna, where British armored charges knocked out Nazi tanks.

Detachments of the U.S. 7th Army, starting the attack from the sea behind the Germans' strong positions on the north coast of Sicily, captured San Fratello and San Agata, the latter but 50 miles from the Axis escape port.

Another American force seized Cesaro in an eight-mile advance from the captured inland citadel of Troina.

The amphibious and ground operations were coupled with aerial blows at railways, roads and bridges in southern Italy, fresh and heavy raids on the Nazi communications centre at Randazzo and attacks on enemy shipping.

Without stating whether the enemy was still attempting to reinforce divisions in Sicily or was pursuing a salvage operation, the communique said "enemy troops and shipping in the Messina Strait were attacked throughout last night by our light bombers."

Cut To 60 Miles.

Allied ground lines from San Agata to Acireale through San Fratello, Cesaro, Bronte, Aderno, and San Miaria di Licodia were cut to a length of little more than 60 miles. It is but 22 miles from San Agata to the northwest slope of Mount Etna, where Allied troops are closing upon Randazzo.

Americans outsmarted the fierce German defenders of San Agata and San Fratello by the sea-borne flank attack. The amphibious manoeuvre via the Tyrrhenian Sea completely surprised the strong fortified garrisons.

The Americans landed unopposed in the enemy rear, captured 300 Germans and drove off others who were moving west as reinforcements.

Fall Back Fast.

Sicily Doomed After Catania Fall

Allied forces drove forward all along the line in Sicily following the capture of bitterly-contested Catania. The Americans in the north moved toward Messina (1) and Bronte (2). Canadians were driving on Adrano (3) after taking Paterno (4). Catania (5) fell to the British Eighth army in a furious attack which routed the German Goering division. The Axis' last chance to delay Sicily's fall vanished. They have now captured Acireale.

Improved Location Methods Winning War On U-Boats

OTTAWA, Aug. 9—(CP).—Success of the war against submarines is "very largely due" to improved methods of location, Sir John Anderson, Lord President of the Council in the British Government, said today at a press conference here.

Sir John, who presides over Cabinet committees concerned with the organization of science for war and with home-front war activities, came to the United States on business relating to the collaboration of scientists and is visiting Ottawa to meet a number of British scientists carrying on their work here.

In radio location, he said, Britain has been and still is ahead of the Germans. Had it not been for the development of that technique before the war the German air attack on Brtiain might have had different consequences.

Sir John said the best protection against gas attack is to be prepared for retaliation.

"We are quite determined to keep ourselves in a position to retaliate effectively if gas is used."

Some Shortages.

Britain's rationing system has worked smoothly and with few complaints, considering what it has been necessary to do do with it; but definite shortages of certain commodities—including foods—were to be anticipated in the future. Continued control and a careful system of distribution would be necessary.

Britain was not able to accumulate any stocks of food, fuel or other supplies. Supplies for the relief of territories freed from the enemy would have to come from the

Normandie Ship Righed Again

By FRANK LOWE

NEW YORK, Aug. 9—(AP).—The fire that swept and capsized the Normandie transformed a $60,000,000 luxury liner into a United States navy classroom, and the lessons learned while salvaging her now are benefitting British and Canadian as well as American seamen wherever those Allied navies fight.

Capt. W. A. Sullivan, officer in charge of salvage in the navy, had long wanted a salvage school. But because of lack of funds and the difficulty of finding a suitable site, nothing was done about it until that February night in 1942 when the Normandie, gutted by flames, rolled onto her side on the Hudson River floor.

It was a tailored-to-order salvage school. As soon as skilled divers and other workers began to clamber over the sunken ship, Sullivan began to mix with them sailors who wished to learn the salvage business.

Prussian War Lords Push Hitler Out

Unconfirmed Reports Indicate Der Feuhrer's Sun Is Setting

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst.

Reports that a politico-military conference of German leaders has decided on a military dictatorship which will relegate Hitler to the position of figurehead, while unconfirmed and therefore to be accepted with reserve, are of world-wide interest.

The rapid decline of Axis fortunes certainly presages a military regime in the Reich. This column long ago pointed out that the Prussian war lords were most likely to take matters out of Hitler's hands when the Axis finally was crowded into a corner by the Allies.

German gangsterism springs from the generations-old Prussianism — one of the greatest evils the world has known. That's the putrid matter from which the morbid growth of Nazism, or Hitlerism, has drawn its nourishment, and from which many other criminal schemes against civilization have sprung.

The Prussian military machine—always plotting for conquests of aggression—has supported Hitler because it saw in him a powerful leadership. It has fostered his ego, and pushed him forward as a world-beater. So long as he kept his grip and was going places, Prussianism was willing to let him break trail, but it always has been a foregone conclusion that the Fuehrer would mean little to the militarists once he had ceased to be useful.

The reports have it that the Prussian generals are planning a long war of defence. It's said that Field Marshal Hermann Goering, Hitler's second in commond, has been vested with great powers and is to act as liaison between the generals and the Fuehrer, who is to be allowed to carry on nominally with his Nazi party so as to prevent the political chaos which Mussolini's collapse has caused in Italy.

Last Ditch Stand

While we must treat this unconfirmed report gingerly, it makes sense. We are fighting this war to exterminate Hitlerism, and other other forms of gangsterism, and that certainly means Prussian militarism. Therefore we must expect this most powerful of all militaristic organization to make a last-ditch stand, for it knows it won't get another chance as it did after the last war when the Allies got soft-hearted and failed to exact punishment for war guilt.

So far as Goering is concerned, next to Hitler he has been the outstanding personality in Germany. He has had a great popular following. The rank and file of of German people had a real liking for "Hermann" as they always called him.

I believe that no man can take Hitler's place, and that once his dictatorship collapses, the whole structure of Nazism will go to pieces rapidly. Goering perhaps could do better than anyone else in trying to fill his master's shoes, but "Hermann" is no Messiah.

Woodsman Fled To Avoid Questioning

GREENVILLE, Me., Aug. 9—(AP)—A bewhiskered, French-Canadian woodsman was shot and fatally wounded on a wilderness woods trail Sunday by one of a posse seeking him for questioning concerning the slaying of Wesley P. Porter June 3.

Just before he died in a Greenville hospital, the man told an interpreter, Deputy Sheriff David Knowlton said, that his name was Alphonse Maurine of St. Duphile, Que., and he was 35 years old

Chub Foster, a guide and camp-owner at Mattagamon, near Webster Lake where Porter, a 46-year-old Patten guide, was shot to death June 3, fired the shot that ended the search.

W. Earle Bradbury, Maine's chief fish and game warden, said Porter's 16-year-old son, Clinton, was with Foster on a trail between Clear Lake and Fort Musquacook when the man stepped from the woods into the trail.

"For a few moments," said Bradbury, "the man didn't see Foster, toward whom he was walking. Suddenly he looked up and seeing Foster pulled up his shotgun and swung toward Foster. Foster let him have it in the leg in self defence."

The wounded man was flown to a hospital here in one of several state and civil air patrol planes aiding in the search and died late Sunday.

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

Canadian Headquarters in Sicily, Aug. 7—(Delayed)—(CP Cable.)—Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery, commander of Britain's 8th Army, declared to-day: "The Germans in Sicily are doomed. The Boche's days are numbered here."

The General made the statement to Canadian war correspondents following a conference with Maj.-Gen. Guy Simonds, commander of the Canadian 1st Division which has been incorporated into Gen. Montgomery's 8th Army.

After poring over maps and aerial photographs with Gen. Simonds, apparently drawing up further moves to bring down the curtain on the Sicilian operation, Gen. Montgomery told the correspondents:

"The general situation, I think, is excellent. As I said before, the Germans in Sicily are doomed. The Boche's days are numbered here. I don't know how long, but they are for it."

This was third interview with Gen. Montgomery in Sicily and he was in higher spirits than ever. He greeted us warmly again, chatting informally for 15 minutes while sitting in a chair under an almond tree with Gen. Simonds.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Aug. 9—(AP).—British forces have seized Acireale, nine miles north of Catania on the east coast, and American troops have captured San Agata, on the Sicilian north coast 50 miles west of Messina, it was announced today.

San Fratello was also overrun by the United States 7th Army in the north coastal push, wiping out German efforts to establish a defensive anchor at that point some five miles southwest of San Agata, it was disclosed.

These gains in the coastal sectors came as British, Canadian and American forces were closing a trap on fleeing German forces in the central region at the strategic road junction ot Randazzo northwest of Mount Etna.

Capture of the port of Acireale placed the right wing of the 8th Army 42 airline miles from Messina.

(The Monday Italian communique said that "fierce fighting" was raging without let-up in Sicily and that Allied naval and air forces again had bombed coastal routes of Sicily and Calabria, on the southern Italian mainland.

(The Italian report said that two Allied destroyers had been hit in Sicilian waters by German planes.)

Units of the 8th Army, of which the Canadian 1st Division is a part, after capturing Biancavilla, Aderno and Bronte in a northward advance through Etna's western foothills during the week-end, were within artillery range of the Troina-Randazzo highway, main escape avenue for enemy troops falling back before an American onslaught east of Troina.

Should the British and Canadian soldiers cut this highway, only impassable mountain trails would remain to the enemy.

(Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent, reported last night in a delayed dispatch from Sicily that a joint Canadian Division and British 78th Division drive hammered home near the plateau city of Aderno broke the Mount Etna defence line dead in the centre. He added that following that attack there was "a subdued atmosphere of victory" around the Canadian headquarters as the success of the thrust was a triumphant climax to a Canadian advance of some 150 miles from the coast.

Edmontons Lead

(Spearheading the audacious attack, said Munro, were the Loyal Edmontons who, after carrying the burden for five days, were supported by the Seaforth Highlanders of Canada. Later the Royal 22nd Regiment of Quebec and the 48th Highlanders threw their weight into the struggle, and in the mopping up stages fresh units of the Royal Canadian Regiment, the Carleton and Yorks and

Danger Now Past MacArthur Says

By WILLIAM F. BONI
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, the Southwest Pacific, Aug. 9 — (AP). — Gen. Douglas MacArthur said today Japan has used her fullest resource of concentrated attack on the Pacific fronts, "has failed, and is now on a defensive."

"The margin was close but it was conclusive," the commander-in-chief of Allied forces in the South and Southwest Pacific said in a statement expressing supreme confidence in final victory.

The statement that Allied victories "have been decisive of the final result" gained added significance from the words of General MacArthur's spokesman, who said he would interpret it as meaning that "the final outcome of the war in the Pacific now is clear."

Commenting informally on the the war's progress in his sphere if command, Gen. MacArthur said, "We are doing what we can with what we have. Our resources are still limited but the result of our modest but continuous successes in the campaign has been cumulative to the point of being vital.

Means Defeat

"A measure of their potentiality can be obtained by imagining the picture to have been reversed, with the enemy capturing Guadalcanal and besieging Port Moresby, rather than we in possession of Munda and at the gates of Salamaua.

"Such a contrast would have meant defeat for us in the war for the Pacific."

Gen. MacArthur's statement was

Gasoline Blankets Halifax Harbor

HALIFAX, Aug. 9 (CP).— Some of the shipping in outer Halifax harbor and waterfront property were threatened Thursday after 1,000 barrels of high-test gasoline leaked into the harbor.

Precautions against outbreak of fire were successful and general publication of the occurrence was permitted to-day after the danger had passed.

The leakage was attributed to opening of a valve or seacock in error while a tanker was being unloaded. More than 40,000 gallons of gasoline covered a section of the harbor, creating threat of fire if a lighted cigaret or match were dropped from a vessel or wharf.

Police and others kept a close watch on the floating fuel and a constant patrol of the danger zone was made utnil wind and tide carried the gasoline out to sea after much of it had evaporated.

During the danger period, shipping was barred from the waters affected.

Demand for an investigation into the leakage was made by Acting Mayor J. E. Ahern.

2 Men Stabbed During Picnics

DELHI, Ont., Aug. 9 — (CP). — Two men were stabbed here on Sunday at two different picnics and one of them is in serious condition in Simcoe Hospital.

Frank Springman, 36, a Delhi tobacco worker, has stab wounds in the chest, abdomen and left arm allegedly inflicted by Jak Tropp, 48, R.R. 1, St. Williams. Tropp was lodged in the county jail at Simcoe by Provincial Police.

William Prokopetz of Teeterville received a four-inch gash on the neck from a knife said to have been wielded by Joe Lehan of the Simcoe district. Prokopetz was also treated in Delhi for scratches and bruises to his face. Police intimated that charges would be laid against the alleged assailant and a companion, John Todka, of Teeterville.

Springman was stabbed at a fight at a Hungarian picnic two and a half miles west of Delhi on No. 3 Highway.

Prokopetz received his injuriets at a Polish picnic on Sunday afternoon between Windham Centre and Waterford.

The President's private car came to Little Current each day for the guide, police and other officials and then brought them back to town each night.

Although it was a holiday, the President was kept busy and was in constant touch with the shore by radio and telephone. The guide was asked to be ready at 11 a.m. each day, but it was usually 3:00 or 3:30 p.m. before he was ready for fishing.

(An official announcement from Washington to-day said the President was accompanied by his Chief of Staff, Admiral William D. Leahy; his naval aide, Rear-Admiral William Wilson Brown; his military aide, Maj.-Gen. Edwin M. Watson; his personal physician, Rear-Admiral R. McIntire; James Byrnes, Director of the Office of War Mobilization ;and Harry Hopkins, chairman of the Anglo-American Munitions Assignment Board.)

munique of Aug. 8 said one cruiser and two destroyers were definitely sunk and the fourth vessel "probably so," in a battle which started shortly before midnight of Aug. 6 and, it added, the United States forces sustained no losses.)

From the bridge deck and the direction platform above, I had an unopposed view of the entire battle in the narrow gulf between strong Japanese bases on Kolombangara and Vella Lavella Islands.

I saw the Nipponese cruiser, a three stacker with an airplane hoist, explode soon after it was hit by torpedoes and shells from our ships in the waters northwest of Munda airfield on New Georgia Island which is now in American hands.

The cruiser, standing broadside to us, first caught fire in her bow from torpedoes, and when our gun batteries opened up on her I saw additional fire break out followed by a terrifying explosion.

The blast sent flames thousands of feet in the air, enabling me to take down notes as if under a hundred watt lamp.

His grip lethally loosened, the enemy's northern troops fell back and may not attempt to make another stand short of Capo D'Orlando, which juts into the sea 10 miles northeast of San Agata.

Randazzo, smothered by continual bombings but still the central anchorage of the enemy's remaining Sicilian defence line, was menaced by Allied columns converging from the west and south, the nearest less than 10 miles away.

Everywhere the enemy was reported withdrawing farther into the bridgehead. The "general squeezing out" process by the Allies continued at a steady pace.

The fact the Allies control the coastal waters and can repeat the American outflanking feat obviously caused grave alarm to the German command.

More than half of the base of Mount Etna is in Allied hands.

British columns moving up the east coast were less than 20 miles from Taormina, the terminus of the enemy's inland road on the north side of Mount Etna which has been regularly bombarded by British warships.

Face Three Prongs

Survivors of the German Army in Sicily now are threatened by thrusts from three sectors, all aimed toward Messina.

The enemy's northern flank has only two poor lateral roads available for communications. The enemy's centre is menaced by the converging Allied drives from Cesaro and Bronte. The British east coast push threatens to cut behind the Germans at Taormina.

The Germans are still fighting savagely. Prisoners' reports indicate they are resigned to the hopeless struggle in Sicily in order to give Hitler "time to prepare other plans."

During the week-end sweeps by Allied air forces, two small vessels were sunk off Southern Italy Saturday night, the communique said, and seven enemy air craft were shot down.

Two Allied planes were reported missing.

Randazzo's capitulation may be expected to be the next important Allied success. Heavy concentrations of Canadian and American artillery and the Allied bomber fleets are available to crush enemy resistance there.

youths were quick to catch on. Soon they were handling a full share of the job, and passed their examination as first class salvage men.

Then Capt. Sullivan expanded. He established a big salvage pier alongside the Normandie, stocking it with all the miscellaneous equipment that is needed to raise sunken vessels. He also started additional classes for officers.

More than 250 skilled salvage men were developed in this way for the United States Navy, as well as 150 officers.

Today they are raising ships in the harbors of Sicily and North Africa and on the sea roads approaching Britain. They took part in the mammoth job of raising the warships sunk at Pearl Harbor, and followed the troops deeper into the Pacific as the Allied advance spread among the islands there.

Capt. Sullivan himself now is a commodore in charge of salvage operations in the Mediterranean.

And, even though the Normandie now has begun moving to a vertical position, classes are still being held and lessons learned at the pier where she burned. Four hundred men and 40 officers are there, at present under Capt. B. E. Manseau.

Canadian Units Mopping Up Around Etna

By ROSS MUNRO.
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE BRITISH 8TH ARMY AT ADRANO, Aug. 7 (Delayed) — (CP). — Eighth Army formations are pursuing the retreating Germans north of Adrano along a road riddled with bomb craters and mined by the enemy, following up the fall of the town to-day.

The road winds around the base of towering Mount Etna to Bronte, 12 miles from here.

(Allied Headquarters in North Africa announced on Sunday that Bronte as well as Adrano had fallen.)

By demolitions and mines the enemy is trying desperately to delay the pursuit and obtain time to clear out completely from the Etna line, split in two by the Canadian-British drive on Adrano.

Combed With Shells.

The Adrano break-through now is complete, with all the enemy forces driven out of the area. British infantry entered the devastated city at 3:30 a.m. following an artillery barrage that combed the town with shells. During the day they were pressing north as far as possible with the Canadians still on the left flank consolidating their positions around the Simeto Valley and with the West Nova Scotias, the Carleton and York Regiment of New Brunswick, and the Royal 22nd Regiment of Quebec prodding out ahead of the Canadian positions.

At the height of the evacuation from London, he said, about 1,000,000 people had moved out. Many of them now are back in the city and the Government is not discouraging their return.

Big Lancasters Damage Italian Cities

LONDON, Aug. 9.—(CP).—Large areas of Milan, Turin and Genoa—cities that contain two-thirds of Ital's war industry—were reported in ruins to-day under the hammer blows of Britain-based Lancasters of the R.A.F. which blasted all three Saturday night.

The triple attack was the heaviest since Italy was warned more than a week ago by Gen. Dwight Eisenhower that the Allied air assault would be resumed and intensified because of Premier Pietro Badoglio's resistance to peace moves.

The weather was good and the Air Ministry said "well concentrated" attacks were carried out on war factories at Milan and Turin and on shipping facilities and yards at Genoa.

The Italian High Command admitted in a Rome broadcast that "damage was considerable, mainly in the central quarters of Milan and Turin. The Fiat automobile and engine works and the Italian Royal arsenal are locatetd in Turin.

Resistance Light.

Resistance to the night raiders was described as slight. Few enemy fighters appeared, and anti-aircraft fire, which Rome claimed accounted for the two bombers lost, simmered down to almost nothing during the course of the hour-long raid.

Wheat Yield Estimated On Prairies

The Searle Grain Company of Winnipeg says reports from 870 crop correspondents, based on their observations of the crops around Aug. 3, indicate that wheat in the Prairie Provinces may give a yield of 275,723,000 bushels, an average of 16.5 bushels to the acre, oats 399,954,000 bushels, an average of 33.9 bushels to the acre; barley 220,715,000 bushels, an average of 27.9 bushels to the acre; rye 7,152,000 bushels, an average of 14.4 bushels to the acre, and flax 20,258,000 bushels, an average of 7.3 bushels to the acre.

"In considering this estimate," it adds, "it is to be borne in mind that the crops this year are about two weeks late, and on the average will not mature ready for cutting until around Aug. 20. Good rains in the next two weeks can increase, or further drought can decrease these estimates. The rains of this growing season do not appear in Alberta and Saskatchewan to warrant these crop estimates; the comparatively high estimated yields per acre are undoubtedly the result of the most generous amount of moisture stored in the soil from the good rains of last fall, and the excellent precipitation of the summer before which was stored on summerfallow."

R.A.F. Boys Night Raiding Turin Find Trip Rather Monotonous

By MOLLIE McKEE

LONDON, Aug. 9 —Main complaint next morning was sandwiches froze and they could have done with more excitement to relieve monotony considering the distance they had flown to find it. Otherwise it was mentioned just as another "Long Trip." Newspaper headlines in afternoon editions called it a "most successful raid on armament and railway centres at Turin."

About nine o'clock the evening before, the Group Captain remarked "You can get a good night's sleep." We didn't say anything more but he knew I knew, the raid was on Italy. That is the only trip that allows time for sleep, while waiting for planes to come back.

Great black, four-engined Lancasters had their bomb cases open as we strolled by dispersal points. We could see 8,000, 4,000 and 1,000 pounders, boxes of hundreds of incendiaries, smaller iron-bound bundles of lighter explosives lining the underside of the bellies of aircraft. Yellow-painted iron ladders were set up to open doorways in the sides, ground crews had done their work and gone.

Down in Crew Rooms, dozens of young men were busy with their gear. Mae Wests were being flung out over lettuces and onions, that grow in neat rows in little gardens the boys have planted, near low, long huts that face landing fields.

"Hey, Shorty, have you seen my boots?" one yelled as we passed. Shorty had. He threw them out of the door. Big leather footgear lined with fur fell just beside a crate on which another crew had neatly arranged their night's rations in individual piles.

Sergeant From Toronto

In each was a small tin of orange juice, "the California kind," the arranger, a tall red-headed sergeant in full gear explained, turning a tin around to show the American trade mark. He was Fred Sharrard from Close avenue, Toronto, he told me as he carefully set a bar of chocolate and package of clear candies on top of each can. Square bundles of sandwiches were piled at the back.

"Cheese, darn it," Sherrard remarked. "What does it matter, they'll freeze, anyway and you can't have meat every time," a voice chided from behind. It appeared the pilot, Bill Eager, Ferndale avenue, Winnipeg, rather likes cheese.

Boys were gathering round; a cocky little Welshman was pushing Canadians to the front, hugely enjoying their embarrassment at being questioned and having their names put down.

British, Australian, Scottish and Welsh, all chipped in though, when it came to the subject of Bill's plane: "K for King." Seventy trips to the Continent is a record—they said—and K was making her seventieth trip that night. It was Bill's eleventh "do."

As joking petered jerkily into half silence, the adjutant's voice rallied conversation. It appeared Sharrard had got into difficulties with local police by riding a bicycle at night without lights.

"Dangerous," the adjutant expostulated, "most dangerous!" We all laughed.

"Canadians in Here"

"Hey, there's Canadians in here" Tommy called out, and I got inside to meet PO. Ward Parsons of Cayuga, Sgt. Lyle Thompson of Winchester Springs, near Ottawa, and PO. H Farmer of Stratford. Sgt. Freeman Toole of Arcola, Sask., Parsons' gunner, helped me out, and the busses drove away.

There was still a little group near one of the huts. The squadron leader looked at his watch as several airmen came up. "Did you ever leave anything behind?" I asked him. "Sure," he answered, "I left my parachute behind on my first trip, and was I scared."

Sgt. Stan Leonard of Fermanagh Avenue, Toronto, and Sgt. Cliff Baker of Massey Street, Toronto, were two of his crew. I noticed both wore beautifully washed and ironed silk scarfs under their jackets. "One of the things Mom gave me; I always wear it on Ops," Leonard said.

They were still circling above us as we walked of, three little WAAF'S and I, to their mess for the night.

We didn't go to bed for quite a long time. We sat by the fire. The adjutant and the chaplain came in for cups of tea and we talked of everyday things. We didn't mention the raid. I thought it just a friendly visit. I did not know till next day one girl had lost her fiancee three nights before, one had a husband out on the raid from another station, and one had a brother in a plane we saw go.

Return Journey.

After early breakfast we went up to the control room to see the boys come back. Their planes and taking-off times were listed in chalk on blackboards, wtih lines and spaces to be filled in with times of their returns. Only one space was filled when we arrived; an "Early Return" had run short of petrol and come home by a quick route. But against "Bar C" was chalked in red "attacked."

"We heard that from him when he was halfway home," was the explanation. "We haven't heard from him since.

Three came down at other stations, short of petrol, and phoned in.

Only One Unfilled Space.

Two hours later the only space unfilled when I left the control room was oppsite "Bar C" with the ominous notification "attacked."

"Those lads in Sicily will be seeing the Alps the other way up," Urquhart remarked. "Those mountains sure looked pretty in the moonlight. But it was a long trip."

"Yes," said the little Welshman beside him. "It was a long trip but it was a good Prang."

The official communique backed him up. "Last night," it reads, "a strong force of aircraft of Bomber Command attacked objectives in Turin. The long flight was made in bad weather, but over Turin the sky was clear and the attack was heavy and concentrated."

Believe Nazis Ready To Occupy Hungary

ANKARA, Aug. 9 (AP) — The first steps toward total Nazi occupation of Hungary were believed to be under way today, following reports that Germans were increasing their garrisons in that country under the ruse of sending troops through Hungary enroute to Greece.

The Germans, it was reported, have maintained steady pressure on the government of Premier Nicholas Kallay to send troops into other Balkan countries to replace the Italians, but the Hungarians have refused the request even in the face of open threats that their own country will be occupied.

An official statement indicated that the Hungarian government has no intention of submitting to German demands that it send troops out of the country to meet a possible Allied invading army.

It was believed here to be just another step on the part of a cautious Hungarian government to assure the Allies that she is doing as little as possible to help the Axis war effort.

COBOURG

Mayor Appeals For Support Of Business Men

COBOURG, Aug. 9 (ENS)—Mayor J. D. Burnet of Cobourg addressed the week-end meeting of the Rotary club, making an appeal for the wholehearted co-operation of Cobourg business and professional men in the bringing of a proposed new industry to Cobourg. He again explained all the circumstances leading up to a request by the company for the town to make them an industrial proposition by July 31 last.

His Worship stated that a further five acres of land would be required, at a cost of an extra $500, to round out the area upon which an option had previously been obtained, and this would bring the total cost of land to $3,500. Previously, a number of merchants had signified their willingness to donate $30 each toward a fund to purchase the necessary land for presentation to the company with which Mayor Burnet has been negotiating, and which has its headquarters in Montreal.

Explaining why he had brought the proposition before the local business and professional men the week before the election, thereby drawing down upon himself some criticism, the mayor said that he had been requested to put the town's proposition with another town on the St. Lawrence river.

Took a Chance

Mayor Burnet said there were two courses open to him. He could have kept the company's request to himself, perhaps endangering the town's chances of getting the proposed new factory, which it was explained before would employ about 175 men, or he could bring the matter before the public, and take a chance upon being criticized as trying to attract votes. He declared he had taken what he considered the only honorable stand in his position as mayor of the town.

Going back to the question of why such a prominent firm (its financial standing has been vouched for by Walter Johnson, Bank of Commerce manager), should require the land to be given to it, Mayor Burnet stated that was not the essential thing about the deal. The thing the company is interested in, he thought, is the feeling in the town, as to whether there would be wholehearted support for the company in Cobourg.

His Worship read a copy of a letter mailed by him to the reeve of Hamilton township on July 20, putting before him the request that a vote be taken to give the proposed new firm certain tax concessions on its buildings if the deal goes through.

Things Moving

Dealing with the "industrial prospect" which was announced as in view at municipal election time in December, the mayor stated that that deal is still very much alive, and might yet transpire, if certain priorities, etc., can be arranged.

In asking endorsation of business men present, the mayor asked "for a little more faith in the men who have been asked to lead the municipal government," and suggested that they not jump to conclusions.

Rotary President Reuben Freeman thanked the mayor for explaining the industrial proposition.

Mess Room Chatter Of Canada's Airmen

By FOSTER BARCLAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN BRITAIN, Aug. 9—(CP) —Sqdn. Ldr. Walter Edwin Edser, a Canadian in the R.A.F., has set a Flying Fortress endurance record as a member of the costal command's Fortress Squadron which has rescued more than 100 airmen from the Atlantic in six months.

Edser, whose wife lives at New Westminster, B.C., established the record-length of which is a military secret—when the squadron maintained a "shuttle service" over a group of lifeboats from a ship torpedoed 500 miles at sea. The fortress provided protection until the men were picked up by another ship.

German night raiders better watch out for Sqn. Ldr. A. G. Lawrence, D.F.C. of Brandon, Man., who has knocked bombers from the sky every time he has come within gun range. He has four to his credit, the last one a Dornier 217, destroyed 10 miles off the east coast of Britain.

"We made two sighting that tmie," said Lawrence, a night fighter pilot. "We sighted the first one about one a.m. flying high directly over the coast. It saw us too and beat it out of there.

'After we sighted a DO 217 crossing our bow. We came round on its stern and it immediately started to dive and climb and make hard turns to port and starboard. We got in a burst from our cannons at about 500 feet without any apparent result. Then with our second burst there was a huge flash from the starboard engine. It seemed to blow up with a hell of a blast that settled down to a steady glow."

Wing Cmdr. Lloyd V. Chadburn of Aurora, Ont., leader of a Canadian Spitfire Wing, and Flt. Lt. Jack Rae (760 Spanida Ave.) Toronto, teamed up in a neat bit of co-operation to destroy an ME 109 near the Netherlands Coast.

The Canadian wing and an R.A.F. squadron were escorting torpedo-carrying Beaufighters on an excursion which took them through heavy coastal flak to attack a Nazi convoy. Several German fighters were patrolling above the convoy and as the Beaufighters went down to release their "fish" the fighters went after the Germans.

Squadrons led by Sqdn. Ldr. Geoff Northcott of Minnedosa, Man., and Sqdn. Ldr. Frank Grant of Brockville, Ont., and the R.A.F. squadron sandwiched the Germans among them and they bounced from one squadron to the other in frantic efforts to escape. Four of them were shot down.

During the melee Chadburn opened up at short range on an ME 109 and at the same moment Rae, on the enemy's tail, poured cannon and machine-gun fire into the fighter. Hits were scored around the engine and the German crashed.

Farmer Grows Big Wheat Crop

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 9. — (ENS).—An exceptionally large yield of wheat has been reported from T. P. O'Rourke's Willowdale farm in Seymour Township, 4 miles west of here. The field was planted last fall and a week ago the crop was threshed and yielded 204 bushels from four acres or an average of 51 bushels to the acre.

The wheat was Dawson Golden Chaff and Mr. O'Rourke is one of the pioneers in growing this type of grain in the district, so much of it will again be used as seed. The grain averaged nearly five feet when it stood in the field and according to Mr. O'Rourke it required three balls of twine to tie up four acres.

Dawson's Golden Chaff is classed as a heavy yielding wheat and is regarded as outstanding cereal grain since it will oven roast more evenly than other varieties. Mr. O'Rourke began growing this type of grain four years ago after being introduced to it by Gordon Hancock the former Corn Crop Competition inspector for the county. Golden Chaff from the parent strain of this crop took second prize for Northumberland and Durham at the Canadian National Exhibition in 1937.

Revising The B.N.A. Act

A large section of the press has written approvingly of Premier King's action in refusing to communicate to the British Government the protest of the Quebec Legislature against the postponement of the decennial Distribution Bill. Mr. King said: "Your attitude shows that you wish to have a matter of purely Canadian concern decided by the Parliament of Great Britain; whereas I upheld, and will continue to uphold, the right of the Canadian people to decide the matter in question, for themselves, through their own duly-elected representatives in their own Parliament". This has brought loud cheers from the short-sighted, as any apparent blow struck for Canadian autonomy is bound to do; we see a danger in it.

The necessity for a power which is able to protect a people against its duly-elected representatives is sometimes a most necessary thing, as Bernard Shaw has ably set forth in his play The Apple Cart. That power in England resides in the Crown; in a drastic situation the King can always exercise his veto on legislation which he thinks has been railroaded through Parliament and which he thinks is against the best interests of the people. Such action on the part of a modern monarch would provoke a revolution, but that might be necessary under some circumstances. For although we believe that Parliament truly represents the people in a million cases, there is always apt to be the one extra case in which it merely represents a group of men who have gained great power and have bent lesser men to their will.

This danger has been set out by the editor of Saturday Night in a most effective example. Suppose, he says, that Canada were to fall into the hands of a conscriptionist National Government, and suppose that such a Government decided to make enlistment in the armed forces the basis of representation, instead of the present basis of population. Where should we be then? Such a thing is improbable, but it is not impossible.

Appeal to the British Government is a formality. But there are cases in which a group of outsiders might be able to protect us against evil forces in our own midst when we ourselves were powerless. If the British North America Act is to be revised, we should be strongly opposed to any tampering with this formality which might some day prove our salvation.

Fools And Duels

Canadian journalism deals exclusively in words and ideas; in the Argentine they have a more dangerous method of settling arguments. On Friday last the editor of the newspaper Cabildo fought a duel with Diamante Taborda, the former chairman of a Congressional Committee for investigating anti-Argentine activities; the editor won.

Taborda had been attacked by three Buenos Aires newspapers, and he replied with an open letter telling the editors what he thought of them, their newspapers, and the policies which they advocated. And so the editor of one of the papers, Diaz Vieyra, challenged Taborda to a duel and wounded him in the right forearm (his sword-arm) within thirty seconds of the beginning of the fight. They used double-edged pointed swords.

There is a romantic quality about such shenanigans which is appealing, and after all it is not so long since Canadian editors went in for duelling, though they used pistols. But on the whole we are glad that duelling is dead, here on the northland. Duelling is perhaps the stupidest way of settling a quarrel that ingenious mankind has ever evolved.

In the first place, duels were almost always fought over points of "honour". If a man insulted you, you were constrained to call him out to the duelling-ground and demand "satisfaction". But "satisfaction" was the one thing which you could never be sure of getting, for the outcome of the duel depended entirely on whether your opponent was a better shot, or swordsman, than yourself. Obviously a man who is a poor shot is quite as likely to be insulted as anyone else, and he he is almost certain to lose in any duel which he foolishly demands. The notion that a man must be capable of physically defending himself against all comers, or else live a dishonoured life if too ridiculous for discussion. And it must be pointed out that, in the palmy days of duelling, many a man was forced to defend the honour of his fiancee or his wife, unless he wished to be branded as a cad and a poltroon, and as some ladies were very careless of their honour he was put in an extremely awkward position.

Duelling reached its lowest point in France, at the end of the last century, when many men who could not shoot at all insisted on engaging in duels. They met, in the presence of an umpire, a physician, and seconds; they timorously fired their guns in the air, and unless a bystander was winged, or a crow shot, no one was any the worse. But honour had been avenged. What a world!

British-Chinese Relations

For some months relations between Britain and China have been unsatisfactory. It cannot justly be said that relations have been strained, but there has been coolness, and it is reported to have arisen because the Chinese think that the British under-estimate the importance of the Pacific war. There has been more than one indication of disharmony. When Madame Chiang Kai-shek visited this continent recently she was also invited to visit Britain; there is even a report that she received a personal invitation from Queen Elizabeth to do so. But Madame Chiang did not reply until she was specifically requested to do so by the British Embassy in Washington. We can hardly believe that Madame Chiang is so silly as to snub an ally in wartime, but that is the report.

Recently, also, Lin Yutang has published a book called Between Tears and Laughter in which he rates the Allies roundly for what he regards as their neglect of the Pacific war theatre. He says that the Chinese are ready to fight the British for Hong-Kong, if that should be necessary. He lays most of the sorrows of modern China on the shoulders of Mr. Churchill, whom he does not like. Now we have never had a very high opinion of Lin Yutang; he has made his living for some years by selling watered-down and sweetened Oriental philosophy to English readers, and he has assumed an air of superiority to the West which makes his readers wonder why he ever left the East. He cannot be regarded as an official Chinese spokesman, but his action in publishing a book designed to stir up trouble among the United Nations shows that his Oriental philosophy has not yet taught him how to keep from putting his foot in it.

The sympathy of the Western world for China has been amply demonstrated, but the Chinese, like the other United Nations, must trust the plan which our leaders have worked out for proceeding with the war. If that plan calls for the destruction of Hitler before the destruction of Japan they must not assume that they are being slighted.

Two recent events may sweeten their thoughts. Mr. Churchill has presided over a meting of the Pacific war council in London; that does not look as though he had forgotten the Japanese. And a strong rumour is circulating that the Prime Minister and Mr. Roosevelt are preparing for another meeting, which may well mean speeding up the pace of the war. Perhaps the assault on the Japs will come as early as next year. If the Chinese have elected to join the United Nations they must respect the union, and not nibble at it.

A rumour says that Hitler has sent Mussolini to Russia to take full charge of his Eastern Front. Pass the salt!

Few of us can enjoy a laugh at our own expense—and particularly around the first of the month.

Perhaps Mussolini thinks that the rioting in Italy is because he has been fired.

Britain is to have an "eat-more-eels" campaign. Don't tell us that the British are down at 'eels.

It looks as though that march which began at El Alamein won't be too long in reaching the River Po.

"What Are Italians Thinking?" asks a contemporary. Sir, If Italians thought, they would not be in the mess they are in today. And, in greater or less degree, that goes for all of us.

The National Safety Council announces that in the first six months of 1943 the number of deaths from traffic fell to a new low of 10,030. Soon civilian life will be as safe as war.

Farming News and Views

By HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

A DRIVE through some parts of Ontario just now doesn't show a very promising picture. There are a lot of poor crops and very badly saved hay. I drove up to Clappison's Corners, then on to Galt. A good deal of wheat was in stook and there would be no difficulty in driving a wagon through the field to load them. They were not only rather scarce, but the straw stood straight in the sheaves as though no great weight of grain was causing the heads to bow. The cattle on pasture had plenty to eat, though much of it was too coarse and rank.

After going through Kitchener the crops were very disappointing. Some of the land there is rather light, but it is well tilled and usually the crops are quite good. I didn't see a good field of wheat or a good crop of growing corn until near Baden, and then it was only the odd field. On to Stratford and St. Mary's there was evidence of the poorest spring crops I have seen on that good land. Fields of barley showed short straw, a thin stand and not much promise of grain or straw.

Farmers in Perth were still struggling with their hay and the rain had beat them to it. One farmer I visited near St. Mary's was running a field of badly damaged hay, the timothy in it being too ripe, through a cutting box and blowing it into a mow. He said the cattle might pick it over a bit, but likely it would mostly be used for bedding. It might come in handy for that as he would be very short of straw and he likes to keep his cattle clean and dry.

FARMERS reported a good deal of rust, as dampness and fog had encouraged this scourge. The corn crop was also very backward. There had been great difficulty in getting it planted and there were very few corn growing days, as it likes hot dry weather. The few days before I saw it, July 28th, had been fine and I was told it really had begun to make progress so they hoped for some ensilage yet. The chance for many well filled cobs on a good deal of it are very slim, and corn in that district is not going to furnish the much needed feed it generally does.

SINCE writing the above paragraphs we have had a week of very fine weather. Fairly hot at times, but a fair breeze and fine to get work done. It was corn weather and should add to the fodder for next winter. However, the 2nd of August brought rain which was really needed, but like most rainfalls this year it kept it up all day on August 4th, but turned cool.

Some fields of mixed timothy were left too long, but can be cut for seed, and grass seed of any kind should be worth money next spring. We had a good chance to get into the English market with alfalfa and other seeds, but it was rather overlooked. If the Government is going to ship small seeds east this winter they better get a judge of these seeds to do the buying. A grain buyer may be all right for his job, but he is not the sort of man who makes purchases of small seeds to ship from the West to Ontario. This job was not very well done during the past year, and too much was exported to the United States. It is so simple to do some things right that it is a pity not to.

WHERE there has been no attacks of Hessian fly it is a good plan to get fall wheat seeded reasonably early. If you can manage to get the other work ahead the 12th of August is not too early in many districts. You can pasture it if it gets too proud and it makes excellent eating for either dairy or beef cattle. The farmers in Alberta who grow cover crop on their summer fallows are sowing it much earlier than they once did. They try to get it in as early after August first as possible, and it is the greatest fall feed for fattening cattle yet discovered in the West. It takes some fertility out of the soil, of course, but that is more than compensated for by the fertility the cattle drop while grazing on it. The cattle also firm the land and leave it in fine condition to be ploughed in early spring for wheat. It gives a better crop of wheat than bare summer fallow and cattle can feed off it until well into winter as the November frosts do not have much effect on it. Wheat, oats, barley and mixed grain have all been tried for cover crop, but oats has proven to be much the best.

A GOOD many fields of strawberries and early vegetables in parts of California and Oregon have been ploughed under and in some cases the fields were thrown open and the public invited to strip them of the fruit and vegetables. This calls attention again to the difficulty in the distribution of perishabe food crops. The growing of crops is not more important than getting them to the consumer at a fair price. There is a very large area in the United States where fruit growing is the main occupation of the farmers and frequently presents a problem not easy of solution unless definite marketing arrangements have been made. Just now the whole world is engaged in a death struggle, and many lanes of commerce are completely blocked. In countries with such distances as United States and Canada have within their own boundaries, the transportation of food makes a heavy drain on shipping facilities.

There will have to be a greater amount of fixing price ceilings as the war continues. Cantaloupe are selling retail in Toronto at 45c each and this sort of thing car only lead to demands for higher wages, or higher cost of living bonuses. A six-quart basket of field green peas brought 95c retail the other day in Toronto stores. The peas were of very inferior quality and I am doubtful if many people would be foolish enough to buy them. It has been quite difficult to get any first-rate potatoes here unless you went out into the country and had some one dig them.

I READ a very significant item in an English farm weekly the other day with regard to the work done by Italian prisoners on English farms. It said: 'Italian prisoners vary as farm hands. Some of them are good, some are not so good, some lazy, some a pest....just as one comes across all these varieties among those who are neither Italians nor prisoners.

"A farmer was telling me the other day about a really good one. This fellow dug drains, cleaned ditches, and did all manner of dirty and heavy work, without a grumble from first to last.

"One night my friend remarked to him that he seemed to enjoy his work. For a time the Italian fished about in his mind for the right word. Then he said: 'Me respec' you.' With that he walked away.

"Not a bad footnote on discipline if you ask me."

This is the best solution of that age old problem of the master and the man.

HOW TO TORTURE YOUR WIFE

The Big-Hearted George Plan

(LONDON ECONOMIST)

SIR,—Numerous schemes have been broached for the revival of the export trade after the war, and a common feature of such schemes is the proposal for joint action either by individual industries or by the community at large to facilitate selling abroad at special and attractively low prices. A recent article in The Times demonstrated that, from the national point of view, it may well be profitable to sell exports at lower than total cost, or even lower than out-of-pocket cost.

The trouble about such proposals is the selfishness and untrustworthiness of foreigners. They are prone to thwart such schemes by slapping on tariffs, quotas and other restrictions with calous indifference and suddenness.

Posdering this problem I have evolved the following solution: suggest that there should be a League of Voluntary Dumpees at home and I am proud to offer myself as a foundling member. Members will be pledged to accept goods and services at, say, 20 per cent. below the markt price. To show my bona fides in the matter, I hereby formally enter a subscription to the first post-war year issue of The Economist at 20 per cent. below the then full subscription price. I also give my full address below so that any producers can engage to supply me after the war on similar terms.

I hope I shall not be overwhelmed with messages of thanks and congratulations, with flattering references to my self-sacrifice. I am now getting to the age when I no longer get satisfaction and pleasure out of paying full top prices, and it is people in my position who can afford to assume the burden of cut rates.

Needless to say my services are at the disposal of His Majesty's Government for the compilation of a White Paper on this scheme. With the Beveridge, Keynes and what I may modestly call the Big-Hearted George Plan, I think the programme of post-war reconstruction would be complete. Since I understand the primary effect of a title is to bring about a 25 per cent. surcharge on hotel and other bills, I cannot consistently with membership in the League accept recognition through the Honors List. I appreciate, however, that taxation represents the purchase of goods and services supplied by the state, and I am agreeable that trade facilities of the League should be open to the Government, and to make this clear I am prepared to accept a 20 per cent. rebate on all my taxes, and from all trading services such as the post office. I have the honor to be yours faithfully,

GEORGE L. SCHWARTZ.

We Reckon By the "Koolinda"

TIME is not reckoned by the calendar in Northwest Australia. There life is a long vacuum, and the years are "wets" and the months are "Koolindas." "This house was built four 'wets' ago," a station master will say; or "I saw him in Derby three 'Koolindas' ago." The wet is the continuous monsoon downpour of the summer season that cuts every homestead off from communication with the outside world. The Koolinda is the state government's mail steamer that plies five thosand miles of coast line twelve times a year. To the men and women exiled in nine or ten Northwest ports that do not appear on many maps and the residents of the empty spaces beyond them, the Koolinda brings all the necessities of life, from flour and potatos to wedding rings and brides. The Koolinda has carried almost every person on the electoral rolls and quite a few who are not....She is the only regular caller at some of the ports and the ony sea traveler north of Derby. She is a ship of two thousand tons and with twelve hundred horsepower to help her fight the big tides and willie-willies; she makes a big-monthly run fifteen hundred miles to Darwin and is the only thing in the Northwest, Christmas included, that has never been known to be late. Regularly once a month on the date scheduled for her arrival, a wisp of smoke appears and a whistle sounds offshore. The news goes round by wireless, by telephone, by smoke signal, and by "mulgawire"—the grapevine of the Northwest—and by the time the Koolinda is alongside the jetty the entire population is out to meet her. Even the bagmen, the swaggies, who spend most of their time sleeping under baobab trees wake up once a month to watch the trucks go by on their way to the dock. The day the ship is in port is a festival day; everyone comes to receive letters and greetings from friends thousands of miles away to open parcels to eat fresh fruit from the ship's refrigerators, to dance under electric fans to music from her wireless, to exchange gossip... in a country without a newspaper, and to drink the only cool drinks obtainable north of 28 degrees. Towns that have been blown down from hurricanes are rebuilt from the Koolinda's hold. Her principal cargo consists of wool, gold, cattle, peanuts, pearls, and hides. Her passengers range from baronets to blackfellows, with many old bushmen who have lived on nothing but flour, tea and bully beef for years.—From "Australian Frontier," by Ernestine Hill. Not Merely A Writer

I HAVE spent most of my life in that very old country, China. One would have said when I was a child there that nothing could ever change. Customs were fixed, so that I suppose more people did the same thing in the same way than ever has happened anywhere else before. Everyone was married according to the same rules and regulations, weddings were almost always exactly the same, family customs were much the same in every family, and even the furniture was arranged according to the same pattern in every house. You could always tell when you went into any room which was the seat of honor, and which was the second seat of honor, and if you were the child you knew which chair to choose and how to sit upon it—not straight in the middle if elders were present, but on the edge sidewise, as though you scarcely deserved to sit at all. You knew how to behave before old, and servants knew how to behave before their masters, and women knew how to behave before men. The forms were all fixed, and so it had been for centures. . . .

And yet today, within half a lifetime, China has changed. Without the bloody revolution which Russia has had, there has been a real revolution in China which has affected the lives of a quarter of the world's people. Ancestor worship has lost its powers, family customs are flexible where once they were inflexible . . . women, once almost totally illiterate, now go to school as they like, for all the government schools are co-educational from the lowest grades to the last years in university, and the old system of education, almost entirely private, has given way to a widespread system of public education. The government has been changed from a loose decentralized form of democracy to a federal form which resembles our own in plan if not yet in fulfillment. Old country roads and narrow streets have been made into motor roads and over an amazingly wide area you can travel by public bus. I can remember the first railroad inland from Shanghai, and I am not yet very old. And even eight years ago you could travel in China by air, north and south, east and west. There has been a great change in China within a very short time, a revolution of the most far-reaching nature, and yet the world has scarcely been aware of it. . . .

How could it happen? It did happen, and it could because of one thing—the inherent flexibility of the Chinese mind. . . . Five hundred years before Christ, Confucius taught China the supreme value of the individual, and to the individual his duty to his family, to his state, and to the world. And then Lao-tse taught China that there are many roads leading to the Great Right, and that man must not quarrel with any of them, but he must listen to the variety of opinions that men have and even amuse himself with the variety. Tolerance and mental flexibility became thus a part of the Chinese nature through the ages, taught by the wise men to the people.

Tolerance and flexibility, and add to the a belief in the common man, wherever he found under heaven, and you have the Chinese mind.—From "American Unity and Asia," by Pearl S. Buck. (New York: John Day.)

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

AND God spake all these words, saying, I am the Lord thy God, which have brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage. (Ex. 20: 1, 2.)

And ye shall serve the Lord your God, and he shall bless thy bread, and thy water; and I will take sickness away from the midst of thee. (Ex. 23: 25.)

Heal me, O Lord, and I shall be healed; save me, and I shall be saved: for thou art my praise. (Jer. 17: 14.)

And Jesus went about all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every disease among the people. But when he saw the multitudes, he was moved with compassion on them, because they fainted, and were scattered abroad, as sheep having no shepherd.

Then saith he unto his disciples, The harvest truly is plenteous, but the labourers are few; pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he will send forth labourers into his harvest. (Matt. 9: 35, 38.)

And when he had called unto him his twelve disciples, he gave them power against unclean spirits, to cast them out, and to heal all manner of sickness, and all manner of disease. (Matt. 10: 1.)

Unconsidered Trifles

"Excuse me, constable," said the meek-looking little man, "but I've been waiting here for my wife for over half an hour. Would you be good enough to order me to move on?"

"Now that I've told you about my past, do you want to marry me?"

"Sure."

"I suppose you'll expect me to live it down?"

"No! I'll expect you to live up to it."

He—Women can never keep a secret.

She—Yes, they can. I have kept my age a secret ever since I was 25.

He—But one day you will let it out.

She—No, if I can keep a secret for eight years I can go on keeping it.

A distinguished lawyer, in impoverished circumstances, once took a judge to see his magnificently furnished house:

Lawyer (with a complacent look about)—Don't you think that I deserve great credit for this?

Judge—Yes, and you appear to have got it.

The minister of the old Kirk asked a fisherman if he know the First Commandment.

"Aye, but that's a teaser," said the fisherman.

"Well, do you know the Second?"

"You've got me again," replied the fisherman; "but can you tell me this: How many hooks are on my fishing line?"

The minister was unable to answer.

"Well, minister," said the fisherman, "it's like this: Every man tae his trade."

Price Control And Rationing Information

The Women's Regional Advisory Committee, Consumer Branch, Central Ontario, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, answers questions put to this paper regarding price control and ration regulations.

Q.—Threshing time is here again. Do we get extra sugar for cooking?

A.—Yes. Rural dwellers who take on temporary help may obtain additional supplies of rationed commodities. You should apply for these extra rations at your local ration board office stating (a) the specific nature of the work, (b) the number of workers, (c) the number of days they will be employed, and (d) the number of meals to be served. Applications for less than a total of 12 meals will not be considered.

Q.—I recently paid 74c for a tin of lobster and thought this rather high as the most I have ever paid for lobster is 60c. Is lobster not affected by price control?

A.—Tinned fish is not under a ceiling, although the wholesale and retail mark-ups are controlled.

Q.—When will we be getting our new ration books?

A.—Ration Book No. 3 will be distributed by the local ration boards the week of August 23.

Q.—Has my grocer any right to tear out coupons from my ration book which are no longer good or have not been used?

A.—Definitely not! Unused coupons should be destroyed by the holder of the ration book. While void coupons are worthless to the consumer, they are still valid for the retailer in purchasing his replacement stocks....Unless these are destroyed, storekeepers will be able to buy supplies to which they are not entitled and the purpose of rationing will be defeated.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, August 10

AN AUSPICIOUS time for establishing ways and means for the achievement of projects of major importance, according to lunar and mutual aspects. It should be a stimulating and expansive influence, with promise of operations of outstanding significance, in business or financial activities, yet there may be decidedly menacing situations also. There may be trickery and fraud, with shrewd contracts and agreements, which may bewilder and perplex. The judgments should be based on logic and sound principles and clear thinking rather than emotional or impulsive conduct. Surprising success should crown straight policies.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may be on the eve of a year of excellent opportunity for attaining advanced goals both in business and in personal popularity and prestige. It should be a most encouraging and expansive opening, with honors, preferment and public recognition for sound and worthy projects. But all may be negatived by bad reasoning, want of sound policies and principles, and by entanglements of a debatable nature. Treachery, fraud and collusion, especially with papers or contracts might have sinister and sorrowful denouements. The mental grasp of situations is not wholly dependable. Be cautious and alert to schemes.

A child born on this day may have much talent and ambition, probably to shine in the public eye, but it may become entangled with questionable and suspicious associates.

DOROTHY DIX

ALL SIGNS FAIL IN MARRIAGES OF GOOD SONS AS IN WEATHER

Using Head Instead of Heart Often Creates Difficulties Permanently Injuring Careers.

One of the difficulties about using your head instead of your heart in picking out a husband or wife is that there are no reliable, never-fail standards to go by. It is a case of where all signs fail in dry weather, as country folks say. For people have the defects of their good qualities, and in marriage we often find that the virtues of our mates are harder to stand than their faults. Hence it is about as safe to pick out a life partner with our emotions as it is with our brains.

As an example of this, take the such-a-good son and such-a-devoted daughter tests, who are popularly supposed to be the safest matrimonial bets and to guarantee the domestic felicity of those who are lucky enough to get them. Heaven only knows how many mothers have tried to sell their sons the idea of marrying some unglamorous girl because she was so good to her mother, and spent her evenings taking care of her little brothers and sisters instead of stepping out to places of amusement, as the little cuties they dated did.

Millions of Girls Married "Good Sons"

And millions of girls have given up the youths who fired their fancies to marry men they felt were safe because they have been told so often that a good son makes a good husband that they have come to accept it as gospel truth.

Now filial devotion in moderation is an admirable characteristic in both sons and daughters, and much to be commended, but in excess it does more to unfit either a man or a woman for marriage than any known vice. Hence when John and Mary get a reputation for being a model son and daughter and have blue ribbons tied on them for their performances, those who are contemplating marrying them had better stop and prayerfully consider whether they are of the stuff of which martyrs are made, and if they are willing to be sacrificed, along with John and Mary, on their family altars.

For that is what will happen to them. They will always run a poor second to mother. Their husbands and wives will not be intentionally unkind to them, but they will never feel that they have any rights or privileges that are to be considered in comparison with mother's, and they will be expected to joyfully spend their lives in ministering to mother's pleasure and comfort and burning incense at her feet. All of which may be an act of piety on the part of the son or daughter, but certainly doesn't add up to a gay and merry married life for the in-laws.

Mother's Tears Caused Men to Stay Single

All of us know many old bachelors who never married because they were such good sons that they gave up the girls they were in love with, and all thoughts of having children and homes of their own, because mother cried every time they even spoke of marriage.

And we know plenty of other good sons who ruthlessly sacrifice their wives and children to the family fetish. They have to live crowded up in a two-by-four flat or cheap bungalow because mother can't bear to leave the big old house in which she has lived for so many years. And, no matter how hard they work, or how much they pinch the pennies, they can never get ahead because mother always has to have a trip, or she gets a kick out of discussing with the doctor her imaginary ailments.

And the devoted daughter is an even worse risk as a wife than the devoted son, for once let a girl acquire a bad case of family complex and she ceases to be human. She becomes a doormat for not only her mother, but her sisters and brothers to walk over and kick about.

If she marries, her husband is not only not first with her, he is at the tail end of her family group. She never thinks about making him happy. She takes for granted he can desire no greater bliss than just to do things for dear mother and the girls and boys. She never wants to be alone with him. She keeps the house that he supports packed with her family, no matter how Papa's long-winded stories bore him, or how he loathes listening to mother's symptoms, or how much a pack of adolescents gets on his nerves.

She turns her husband into a slave who toils to support her family and for which he never even gets so much as a word of appreciation from his wife, because she doesn't realize that he doesn't consider it a privilege to work for her people.

When the good son and devoted daughter do not marry, it is because their Guardian Angels are working overtime protecting some boy and girl.

Haegg Sets New Outdoor Mark

CINCINNATI, Aug. 9 — (AP) — Gunder Haegg thundered over the quarter-mile course at Withrow Stadium Saturday night for a new American outdoor record for the two-mile run. He was timed at 8:51.3, bettering the mark he set at Los Angeles by 2 and 3-10 seconds.

The gaunt Swede was not first across the finish line, however. Little Bob Berger, high school student of Bay Village, Ohio, with a 440-yard handicap to work on, broke the tape in 8:49.7.

Bill Hulse was third, although he was given a 100-yard handicap, and Gil Dodds, Boston divinity student, who started from scratch with Gunder, came in last.

In setting the new American outdoor record, Haegg, who is a fireman in his native village of Gavle. Sweden, failed to break the fastest American two-mile run which was hung up by Greg. Rice, barrel-chested ex-Notre Dame star, who ran the distance indoors in Chicago in 8:51.1.

Dodds broke in front of Haegg at the starter's gun and the swift Swede was content to let him hold in front for two laps. At this point Gunder started to move. He kept driving to pass Hulse on the sixth lap.

The full lap given Berger was too much even for Haegg to overcome and he fleshed past the finish about 10 yards behind the short-strided high school runner.

This was Haegg's last American start in the two-mile event. He had expressed little hope he would be able to smash the world record for the event—a record he set himself in Sweden when he ran the distance in 8:47.8.

His final run in the United States will be made Wednesday at Randall's Island, N.Y., when he will compete in the mile run against Dodds, Hulse and three others.

Sunday Dates Gum Up Hockey Program

KINGSTON, Aug. 9 — Difference over Sunday playing dates was the real reason why Cleveland and Buffalo did not enter the National Hockey League, and why the American Hockey League will continue in business next winter, according to Al Sutphin, boss of Cleveland Barons, who arrived here this week to spend a vacation at his summer residence on Bill Cooks St. Lawrence River farm. Sutphin said in an interview that arrangements had been practically completed for the Barons and Bisons to enter the N.H.L., and the American League to disband for the duration, but Buffalo could not get more than three Sunday dates for the schedule and decided to decline the promotion.

Sutphin said it was one of the most difficult decisions he ever made when he decided to remain loyal to his American League associates by not going up alone into the N.H.L., although it was his ambition to give Cleveland an N.H.L. team. When Buffalo decided to remain in the American League, Sutphin said he had to stick with the friends who helped finance and build the American League.

Wants Independence

While he expressed regret at not being an owner of an N.H.L. team, he said he is convinced that after the war the American League would be almost on a par with the N.H.L., and in the future the two leagueh would meet in playoffs like the world series of baseball. Sutphin wants all players in the American League to be the property of clubs in the circuit and not subject to call by the N.H.L. The American League has lost patronage and prestige by losing players to the N.H.L. during important playoff games. If the American League teams are independent of the N.H.L. Sutphin figures the minor pro circuit would soon be in a class with the N.H.L.

Sutphin did not explain what the American League teams would use for players next winter, but apparently there are enough to carry on a six-team circuit, and he said there was a chance that gasoline restrictions would be changed and Hershey would be permitted to return. Hershey dropped out last winter when pleasure driving was banned.

Fell by Wayside

The Cleveland boss said he considered the other teams that attempted to operate in the N.H.L. and dropped into the discard of professional play. Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Ottawa, St. Louis, Montreal Maroons and New York Americans were all members of the N.H.L., but failed to keep step with the leaders and were dropped completely out of pro hockey. Cleveland has too much at stake to risk such a danger. Sutphin is sure of his hockey empire in the American League, but a team in the N.H.L. at any time, and particularly the present, is a risky venture.

Had Cleveland and Buffalo joined the N.H.L., the American League would have been forced to disband not only for the duration but perhaps forever as a professional circuit. Jacobs lost about $100,000 before he started making money in Buffalo, and if Cleveland quit the American League Buffalo would be almost stranded.

Cleveland would have been welcomed by the N.H.L. as an added attraction, as Cleveland, like Toronto, makes a specialty of Saturday night games, while most of the other clubs want Sunday play. Cleveland is on a convenient stop on the circuit from Chicago, Boston and Montreal, and Cleveland has a rink big enough to support an N.H.L. club.

Kingston's Loss

With the American League operating, both Bill and Bun Cook will return as managers, Bill with the Barons and Bun with Providence, which means that Bun Cook will not be in charge of Kingston senior next winter as he had suggested. There was a plan that Bun Cook would help Kingston hockey next winter if he was not going back to the job as Providence manager-coach. but that is all out now.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Comes blue Monday and back to the grind again with a busy-looking sport calendar for the week tossed out in front of your scribe, including a softball playoff game every night this week and a wrestling show on the cards as well. Tonight the City League play-off series gets under way with a battle at Riverside Park between the Genelecs, who finished in top spot in the league race after successfully breaking a three-cornered tie, and the Switchgear team, pilot by Murph Chambers, who wound up in the fourth slot. This semi-final bracket will be a best three-of-five affair, while in the other semi-final, Soldiers and 4th Battery, will also clash in a similar round with the first game tomorrow night. Tonight's tussle should provide plenty of interest. The Switchgear team happen to have been one of the few clubs that have beaten the Genelecs this season, and they would give a lot to turn the trick three more times this week. Gene Reynolds or Bert Harrison will probably get the call to do the Switchgear pitching, while it looks like Ronnie Akers in the hurling spot for the league leaders. It should be an air-tight argument all the way and will draw a big playoff crowd.

* * * * * *

Tomorrow night the other semi-final bracket starts with the Soldiers and 4th Battery clashing. While the latter have succeeded in defeating the Military Training Centre on both occasions the two clubs have met this season, they start on even terms in this playoff clash. On paper and on the season's performance, outside of the fact that the Gunners happened to nose out the Harry Morgan's club twice, the two outfits are well matched, and the opening game of the semi-final series looks like an even-money affair. Just what pitcher the Soldiers will start has not been intimated from the Training Centre. They have Tom Parsons, Johnnie Walker and Jack Wilson all fit and ready for the crucial test. The Battery will probably rely on Dave Wilson, who held the Soldiers to five hits the last time out. All the Battery regulars who were absent on holidays last week will, of course, be back in action in tomorrow night's game. Soldiers, too, should be at full strength and the game shapes up like a real thriller.

* * * * * *

They're In Again

Frank Tunney's Merry Monarchs of Maul will be back in action at the Brock Street Summer Gardens tonight, and judging by the events of the last couple of melees anything is liable to happen, and probably will. If the customers persist in mixing into the battling and using their footwear for ammunition, it might be as well for Chief Newhall's finely trained constabulary to stand by for a riot call. Anyway the Palermo Panther, John Katan, who failed to appear last week for his main bout engagement with Earl McCready, will be on the job, and the fans are looking forward to a stormy battle between the powerful Katan and the smooth-working McCready, who knows the last word in the wrestling code, and in spite of the strength and battling ability of his opponent, is likely to give the Panther a few lessons before the tussle terminates. McCready has a host of friends here, and if Katan cuts loose with anything that is not strictly cricket the crowd will be calling for his head on a charger. There should be plenty of tobasco in the other bouts on the card, too, for battling Toar Morgan, the fighting Marine, hooks up with the pompous Greek grappler, George Tofalos, and there is not likely to be anything tame about that encounter, while in the first bout the popular Joe Miaich of Brantford, who has never given Peterborough fans a dull show, will stack up against the rowdy Dick Hogan. Altogether it shapes up as one of the liveliest cards of the season and will probably draw a huge crowd.

* * * * * *

The entry of Dick Borthwick, professional at the Oakdale Country Club, Toronto, and of his brother, Hugh Borthwick, unattached, is the advance guard of a long list of professional shotmakers who will visit Peterborough on Saturday and Sunday, August 21 and 22, in the 54-hole medal play tourney of the Kawartha Golf and Country Club. All professional golf association tournaments have been shelved for the duration, so that it is expected that the cream of the professional players will take advantage of the chance to compete for the $250 prize money offered in connection with the local competition. In addition it has been arranged to hold the annual meeting of the P.G.A. here on this occasion, so that there will be an added incentive for the attendance of professional golf stars. There will be an amateur handicap tournament as another feature of what is confidently expected to be one of the biggest golf competitions ever staged here.

The Old Guard

With a somewhat surprisingly easy win over Toronto Tip Tops, the London Army club Saturday won the National Congress baseball championship. The highly-touted Toronto club, most of whose players performed here week before last in the exhibition softball game with the local All-Star City League club, never had a chance in the final game. From a local standpoint the feature of the competition was the appearance of the Kingston team, eliminated in the first round. A lot of memories were aroused by a glance down the Kingston line-up with such players as Vinnie McQuaid, Bob Elliott, Jim Corkey, Jakey Quinn and Mickey Compeau still wearing the monkey suits. Just where that ancient squad got the priority for the wheel-chairs they must have used is a mystery to the writer. Those Ponies, most of whom were creaking at the joints the last time they played here, and that, my friends, was not yesterday, are like Old Man River. They just go rolling along, although nobody knows how. At that they are quite a bunch of baseball celebrities, and they must certainly love the game to keep at it so long, especially in these days when amateur pay-rolls are of necessity anemic.

* * * * * *

Doings in the big league over the week-end only served to confirm the general opinion that the stage is all set already for the World Series of 1943. The St. Louis Nationals knocked off the Pittsburg Pirates twice Sunday and now lead their nearest rivals by a margin of 13 games. The Brooklyn Dodgers, heading for the cellar a whole lot faster than a ton of coal is these days, were beaten by the Boston Braves for their tenth loss in a row. They ceased, long since, to be serious contenders for the National League pennant. Meanwhile in the American loop the New York Yanks went merrily along, winning a single game Saturday and a double-header Sunday, all from the A's, and they are now so far ahead of the league race that the only thing of interest is who will finish second. In both loops it looks like a case of merely playing out the string for the rest of the season, for so long as the Cards and the Yanks keep out of train wrecks they are in. It's not a condition that will help financially, but class will tell, and apparently the New Yorkers and the St. Louis club have a monopoly of the commodity.

* * * * * *

Sporting Chile Con Carne: Nobody regretted the fiasco last Friday night more than the officers of the City Softball League....The fact that the biggest crowd of the season turned out to see a makshift Battery team meet Genelecs for the right to take first place made the whole thing a headache to Norm. Lewis, Fred Scates and company. The missing Battery players, holidaying last week, had planned to come in Wednesday night, but rain interfered and the boys declined to shorten their holiday by making the long trip Friday....There will be no senior girls' playoff games this week owing to the fact that the Aircraft girls are having a week's holidays....There is no particular hurry anyway as the Peterborough winners have been given a bye in the provincial playdowns right into the finals....Games in the girls' loop this week call for Electrics to meet Brintons at the Bowl tonight and the Brintons and Johnson Motors to meet Wednesday night....These are regular league games—not playoffs....The setup for the intermediate final series will be announced shortly.

Two Borthwicks Enter Kawartha Play

Dick Borthwick, professional at the Oakdale Golf Club, Toronto, and his brother Hugh Borthwick, unattached, were the first entries in the Kawartha 54 hole medal play tournament, August 21 and 22.

While there are no more P.G.A. tournaments until after the war, the P.G.A. must, nevertheless hold their annual meetings. The directors of the Kawartha Golf and Country Club have turned the facilities of the Club over to the P.G.A. for the week of the 21st and 22nd and their regular meeting and executive meeting will be held in Peter-

In conjunction with this, a 54 hole medal play tournament has been arranged, and $250.00 prize money offered the pros to shoot at. There will be three prizes offered the amateurs in each of three flights, according to handicaps.

This will be the largest and most important golf tournament ever held in Peterborough district, and will attract golfers and spectators from miles around. A large amateur entry is expected from Toronto and district, and the fact that the P.G.A. meetings are to be held at the same time, assures a large enry of pros. The par 71, 6565-yard Kawartha course will be in perfect condition for this match, and the rolling fairways and sloping greens promises to give the best of the golfers plenty of trouble.

The entire proceeds from this tournament will go to the Milk for Britain Fund, sponsored by the Kinsmens Clubs of Canada.

Wartime Derby Has Record Entry

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP).—The largest field in the 18 years of the Hambletonian is in prospect for Wednesday when the cream of the sport's three-year-old trotters line up for the Buggy Whip Derby at Empire City— the fourth stop for the turf classic since it was inaugurated in Syracuse in 1926.

Transferred from Goshen, its home since 1930, to the Westchester County track because of wartime transportation problems, the $40,000 stake is expected to attract 15 trotters headed by three speedy sons of Volomite — Bill Strang's Volo Song, Joseph F. Burke's Phonograph and rMs. James B. Johnson's Worthy Boy.

Bill Cane, sponsor of the race, wouldn't be surprised if 30,000 or more fans taxed the capacity of the track, built originally for trotters and pacers. If that many are on hand, the crowd will surpass those that saw the stake over his Goshen track in past years when its renewal was a signal for New Yorkers to go rural for one day.

As for the race itself, it's difficult to vision any horse except an offspring of Volomite taking down the winner's share with the possible exception of Austin Hanover, for whom the late C. H. Wilkinson of Logansville, Ind., paid $15,000 last spring. Horsemen, however, are not looking for any record times since the track of Empire has not proved fast for harness horses. Austin Hanover is the son of Mr. McElwyn.

Sprints To Top In East

Apache, four-year-old black colt owned by William Woodward, finally has hit the high niche predicted for him prior to the 1942 Kentucky Derby when he was the eastern hope to win the Blue Grass classic and then failed dismally. Apache, handicap champ in the east today, has won several stakes events on New York tracks and may emerge as a worthy contender for Count Fleet when that three-year-old begins to run against the older horses.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

With Byron Nelson setting the pace, the Ryder Cup defenders, captained by Craig Wood, captured the two-day golf tournament 8½ to 3½ from Walter Hagen's challengers and when it was all over, late Sunday, at Detroit, the sum of $35,000 was available for the American Red Cross.

The crucial test was Nelson's 4-and-3 win over Willie Goggin, with the former turning in six under par for the required 33 holes. This was the first time, too, that Nelson had been victorious in Ryder play, although a prominent veteran of the game. Nelson's victorious teammates comprised Harold (Jug) McSpaden, Sgt. Vic Ghezzi, Lloyd Mangrum, Al Watrous and Craig Wood. For the losing side, one of the match winners was Lawson Little who chalked up his first Ryder success by whipping Gene Sarazen 6 and 4 while another winning challenger was Melvin (Chick) Harbert who was six under par in his defeat of Jimmy Demaret of Detroit, 4 and 3.

In last year's domestic play for the Ryder trophy, abandoned internationally for the duration, Wood's team held off Hagen's squad 10 points to five. For the war years, two U.S. teams have continued to compete for the cup and thus far $85,000 has been raised all told for war charities, including this year's $35,000.

At Saratoga's transplanted meet at Belmont track Saturday, which saw $2,000,000 in wagering, Lochinvar, a long shot at $16.80, romped home in the Merchants and Citizen's Handicap to earn $12,200, doing the mile and three-sixteenths in 1:55, a new track record. Market Wise and Shut out were withdrawn from the race.

Suspension Ends

Eddie Rocaro, Kentucky jockey and one of the turf's best, will ride again, commencing Sept. 19, when his year's suspension by the Jockey Club, New York, will beover. Rocaro was set down a week after he had been charged with rough riding in a race at Aqueduct.

A pupil of Luis Firgo, once famed as the Wild Bull of the Pampas, Heavyweight Abel Cestac easily won his fight with Feliciano Brizuela at Buenos Aires, Sunday, sending his opponent to the floor twice. Cestac and Firpo will shortly arrive in the United States for bouts.

Colby Hanover, the four-year-old which was badly beaten in the 1942 Hambletonian, was the winner of the $2,500 Derby consolation trot on closing day of Grand Circuit racing at Old Orchard Beach, Me., taking the last two heats after breaking in the first start. Seven races on the card required 19 heats.

Ingersol In Cellar

The Inter County Senior baseball race closed Saturday for the Ingersoll Combines with a 4-1 loss on the home diamond to the Galt Terriers. The scheduled season came to an end with Ingersoll in the cellar, the team having been defeated in every game throughout the campaign.

In an International Lawn Bowling tournament at Hamilton, six Canadian rinks earned a 150-109 win over representatives of the eastern division of the American Lawn Bowling Association Saturday. The visiting players came from points from Boston to Milwaukee, Wis.

While London Army squelched Toronto Tip Tops 10-0 in the trophy final of the National Baseball Congress Canadian championship at Toronto Saturday, Hamilton Co-ops administered a 6-3 defeat to Montreal R.C.A.F. in the consolation round at Hamilton.

RUDY YORK SEEKING HOME RUN RECORD FOR AUGUST, NOW HAS 5

Detroit Player Has 18 Homers Already This Season

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Rudy York, whose home run bat has revived unexpectedly, may set a major league record by hitting 19 or more round-trippers this month.

The husky Detroit first baseman socked three homers yesterday in leading Tigers to a double win over the Chicago White Sox. The circuit clouts gave him the major league leadership with 18, but more important, they gave him a total of five for the first week of August.

It was six years ago, in August 1937, that York walloped 18 homers for a major league mark that still stands. If he continues to connect for five homers in each of the remaining three weeks of August he is certain to break his own record.

York's booming bat, which whacked 21 homers last year and 27 in 1941, backed up superlative pitching from Virgil Trucks and Tommy Bridges as Detroit tied the White Sox for third place. York hit two of his homers in the first game while Trucks beat the Sox, 8-2, limiting them to six hits. His third round-tripper came in the second game as Bridges twirled a four-hit 3-0 shutout. Altogether York drove in five runs for the day and boosted his season R.B.I. to 64, despite a humble .266 average.

The first place New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals each swept a doubleheader to further increase their leads in the American and National Leagues.

The Yankees, with Spud Chandler twirling a five-hitter for his 14th win of the year and, in addition, lacing out a home run, walloped Philadelphia Athletics, 7-1, but had to come from behind to win the second game, 8-4, in 10 innings. The Bronx Bombers now move on to St. Louis with a three-game winning streak and a nine-game lead.

Pirates Lose 2

The Cardinals stretched their lead to 13 games by beating the second place Pittsburg Pirates twice, 8-6 and 5-2.

Cincinnati moved within half a game of the Pirates by splitting a twin bill with Chicago Cubs. The Cubs took the opener, 4-3, as Hi Bithorn came to Claude Passeau's rescue to stop a late Red rally. A big seven-run outburst in the fifth gave Cincinnati the nightcap, 10-7, for Bucky Walters' third straight win and eighth of the season.

The fading Brooklyn Dodgers took it on the chin for the 10th straight time when Elmer Nieman doubled Tommy Holmes home in the ninth inning to give the Boston Braves a 5-4 victory. Brooklyn now has lost 15 of 18 games.

Cleveland pulled to within half a game of Detroit and White Sox by beating St. Louis Browns twice, 6-5 in 14 innings and 5-2 behind Jim Bagby's five-hit pitching for his 12th win of the year. Chubby Dean, who relieved Mel Harder in the 10th, singled home Jeff Heath with the winning run in the 14th inning of the opener. Bobo Newsom started for the Browns in the nightcap and gave up a three-run homer to Heath in the first inning. The Browns played the second game without making an assist for a Major League record. The previous record of one was held by several clubs.

Washington divided a bargain bill with Boston Red Sox. Jake Early batted in three runs with a homer and double as the Senators took the opener, 4-3. The Sox won the nightcap by the same score as Rookie George "Pinky" Woods outpitched Milo Candini.

The Phillies swept a four-game series from New York Giants by winning both ends of a double-header, 5-1 and 8-2, thus regaining sixth place.

Hull Volants Beat Canadiens

HULL, Que., Aug. 9 — (CP). — Holding Royal Canadiens to eight hits over seven innings, Lefty Barbaro pitched Bob Guertin's Hull Volants to a 5-4 triumph over the league-leading Canadiens in the opener of an Interprovincial Baseball League double-header Sunday.

In the nightcap, Ordnance, bolstered by the addition of several former Air Force players, trounced the Airmen 9-2 behind the pitching of Jim Sherwood and Andy Broder.

The two games, last of the season, made no difference in the league standings, with Canadiens leading, Hull second, and Ordnance third. Air Force is out of the playoffs, which begin next Sunday with Ordnance and Hull meeting in the first game of a best-of-three semi-final series.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Aug. 9—(CP)—Noting that Jeff Nicklin, former Winnipeg Blue Bombers football ace, has arrived overseas again with Canadian paratroopers, Eddie (Winnipeg Free Press) Armstrong comments: "The first time the Jeffer went over he was a lieutenant . . . This time he docked as a major . . . one more trip for the big fellow—and who knows?" . . . The father of Bobby Managoff, Montreal version of world wrestling champ, collapsed from the excitement during a bout while seconding his son. Probably poppa hadn't heard who was supposed to win that one—and was the strain ever terrible.

Quip of the Week

Alan Rose of the Brantford Expositor was relieved when rain brought a touch of green back to Brant County golf courses. What with the labor shortage, some clubs had let fairways and greens slip badly. A wisecracker referred to one club as "letting nature take its course." . . . The Toronto Star comments on the Charlie Bagnato-Ken Lindsay fight billed in Vancouver Aug. 19: "Keep ducking Charlie, old boy."

Grid Grunts:

Annis Stukus has been ousted as coach of Toronto Oakwood Indians in the Ontario Rugby Football Union. Earl Selkirk, the former Argo halfback, will coach the backfield and Ralph Adamson will drill the line. Big Stuke's plans for this fall are not yet clear but, if he doesn't remain as Indian quarterback, it's likely he'll wear a Balmy Beach uniform . . . Wayne Sheley, the former South Dakotan whose crisp forward passes were the only offensive threat of Winnipeg's national title bid last fall, now has a commission as a physical instructor in the U.S. Navy.

Incidentally

Bill Westwick of the Ottawa Journal relays a rumor that Billy Taylor, Toronto Leafs centre, may play hockey in Ottawa next winter with the Army. . . . Doug Vaughan of the Windsor Star says he still has reason to believe Cleveland and Buffalo will be in the National Hockey League next winter. "If nothing else," writes Doug, "the shortage of manpower will probably be sufficient reason to cause the American League to suspend operations for the duration of the war." . . . Ralph (Highpockets) McCabe, the Belleville, Ont., pitcher who started the International Baseball league season with Toronto, then was sent down to Albany, now is back in Toronto—this time with the Army.

Montreal's Tom Sunkel Blanks Jersey City 2 to 0

(By The Associated Press)

It wasn't more than two weeks ago that Tom Sunkel, now pitching for Montreal Royals of the International League, threatened to give up baseball but today he probably is happy that he didn't.

Sunkel sulked when sent down to the Jersey City club by the parent New York Giants and then was shunted to the Royals.

But that was all forgotten yesterday when he emerged the victor over the Jersey City Club, 2-0, although his former mates clubbed him for six blows while his new friends found Crip Polli for only a pair of hits.

The former major leaguer won out when Jersey City erred three times in the sixth frame and the miscues helped manufacture a pair of runs.

Montreal also won the first game, 5-4, with Hal Gregg the winning pitcher.

Newark Takes 2

Newark took a pair from Rochester, 8-2 and 5-1; Syracuse mastered Buffalo twice, 6-3 and 3-2 and Toronto annexed both games from Baltimore, 3-1 and 10-7.

Home runs were numerous as the Bears completed their long home stay with their twin triumph. They didn't get any in the first fray as Walt Dubiel coasted into the ninth with prospects of his sixth shutout. That was ruined when Joe Mack and Earl Naylor homered for the Wings in the final frame.

All Bear runs in the nightcap, however, came on four-masters. Russ Derby and Steve Roser each got one with the bases empty while Frank Silvanic's came with two mates on.

The home run also was the favorite weapon of Syracuse Chiefs as they chalked up their twin triumphs at Buffalo. Frank Keller got one in each game and Hank Sauer one in the first. All the Bisons tallies in the two tilts came on circuit smashes.

Toronto defeated El Klieman in its first tussle with Baltimore but virtually the entire Oriole staff saw service in the second struggle.

Panther Katan Early For Match

Those of you wrestling fans who saw that big heavyweight wrestler strolling around Peterborough streets today, no doubt quickly recognized him as John Katan the Palermo Panther. But there were at least a few people who saw the big boy and without knowing who he was immediately started asking questions about the six foot two inch, two hundred and thirty-five pounder. One of the things about Katan, besides being one of the most effective wrestlers on this or any other continent, is that you don't have to look twice to realize you are looking at a wrestler. Katan is such a big upstanding fellow with tremendous neck and arms and two well-rounded cauliflower ears, that the minute he appears on the street he gathers a crowd of autograph-hunters.

On the other hand Earl McCready who wrestles him here tonight in the main attraction at the Brock Arena, is directly opposite in everything except size. Where Katan's face is hard and calloused from punishment received in mats all over the world, McCready's countenance could be that of a school-teacher or minister. Indeed school teaching was Earl's former occupation before the roar of the crowd and the consciousness of his incomparable mat science turned him to professional wrestling.

Today McCready still teaches Sunday School in Aurora and in fact likes to occasionally deliver from the pulpit. Probably it would be hard to find two more direct opposites in likes or temperaments than Katan and McCready. Yet they meet on the Arena mat tonight, well-matched as to wrestling powers, each with an iron determination not to give in until the other is soundly beaten. It's a bout we wouldn't miss.

Slammin' Sammy Snead won the Canadian Open Golf Championship for the third time in a row two years ago today at Toronto's Lambton course. He shot a one-under par 69, in the final round for a 274 total to pull away from Bob Gray of Toronto who had held him even for the first 54 holes.

Salvage Men Right Normandie Ship

By FRANK LOWE

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(CP).—The youthful United States Navy lieutenant hunched over the rail of the pier, pointed into the harbor, and said, "Isn't she a sorry sight." And the Normandie, a $60,000,000 ship that in peacetime was termed the most beautiful afloat with her plowshare bow, sweeping hull and streamlined, gleaming superstructure, was that and more.

he former North Atlantic speedster, now the U.S.S. Lafayette, floated to-day—at least temporarily—for the first time in 18 months. But the one-time marine beauty has rather gone to seed; she is as shocking a sight as a queen on a drunk.

Gone is her gleaming superstructure, as are her three slanting, jaunty funnels. Her once broad, gleaming decks are covered with catwalks and coated with rust and patches.

She was refloated at high tide at 4.30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, after having rested on her side in the North River since Feb. 9, 1942.

Salvage engineers said, however, there was a chance that the former French luxury tliner might again become mud-lodged as the tide receded. Meanwhile, they stopped the 93 pumps that had been heaving water from the hull as she was drawn slowly from the river bottom.

Former Beauties Hidden.

It was said that the giant ship, which sank after a fire 18 months ago when the United States Navy had nearly completed a $20,000,000 job of converting her into a troopship, had not reached the 45-degree angle required to float her to a point where she could be turned around. The angle was given as 49 degrees from vertical.

Lone traces of her former beauty are only hinted at in the battered, smoke and rust-blackened hulk that is gradualy becoming a ship again. Not even dirt and river mud can hide those fluid hull lines and the breath-taking sweep of her bow.

There is a big diference, too, in the way people get aboard the ship. No canopied gangplanks with lights and attendants are around. Instead, shaky planks lead from the pier and end in gaping holes in the Normandie's side.

Inside, the change is even more noticeable. Where once luxury fittings gleamed softly, rust and muck are the only decorations. In cabins and companionways formerly filled with immaculately groomed passengers and fragrant with perfume, grimy men sweat in the August heat.

People Line Pier

Just occasionally does a bit of the ship's former glory remain. Here and there from the floor a bit of chipped tile sparkles, by some chance having escaped the general coating of grime. Or on a smoke-blackened bulkhead a colored mosaic will momentarily reflect the light of a workman's torch.

But navy men say the U.S.S. Lafayette will sail again, as a troop transport, if she is refitted before the war ends. Today, as she lifted off the floor of the river and moved slightly to the pull of the river, she seemed anxious to return to the salty highways.

And the Old Queen is still the super-showman of the North Atlantic. After a brief but glamorous career as a blue ribbon holder, she retired from the luxury trade spectacularly, and now, beginning life anew, she is still the main acquatic attraction. People by the hundreds today lined the pier where she is being refloated.

Canadians In Sicily

The first Italian general captured by the Canadians after landing in Sicily was General Achille D'Havil, whose headquarters for the 206th Coastal Division was at Modica. Here, Major R. Malone, General D'Havil, an interpreter and Major-General Guy Granville Simonds, LEFT to RIGHT, discuss the terms of surrender on the outskirts of Modica. General D'Havil insisted on the interpreter making it known to General Simonds that, in the last war, he had been decorated with the M.C. by the Duke of Connaught, a former Governor-General of Canada.

With columns of British infantry I got into Adrano at 10 a.m. to-day (Saturday).

The city was practically flattened. For days it has been a principal target of the Allied air forces and shelled for hours on end. In many of the blitzed cities of England I never saw anything like this. It was as bad as the centre of Coventry and parts of the City of London.

Here is full evidence of the power the Allied Air Force in the Mediterranean can muster. The civilians of Adrano had long since taken to the hills, but the enemy garrison tried to hold out. The bodies of enemy solders lay on the sidewalks and alleys where they tried in vain to escape the bombs and shells.

Pocked With Craters

I did not see a building in the part of the town through which I passed that had not been hit. The slope leading into the town was hummocked by giant craters. The orchards on the hillside were blown to pieces. Whole blocks in the town were laid flat.

The streets reeked with the smell of death.

For me this devastation was a terrible warning to the Italian cities of what will descend on them if Italy continues to resist.

There were some Canadians in Adrano and by a shattered row of buildings on the main street, which looked as if it had been shaken by an earthquake, I met Ptes. Gordon Macdonald of Toronto and Bill Brown and Hank Lord both of Montreal. They were gazing pop-eyed at the damage.

British infantry, trucks, Bren-carriers and guns were milling through the town. The infantry was getting a breather in a battered park and I talked with officers and men whom I had known in Tunisia last winter. They were among the troops that fought at Long Stop Hill and for them this was an easy victory by comparison. (The Germans held Long Stop Hill for weeks against Allied attacks during the Tunisian campaign.)

The British soldiers gave full-hearted credit to the Canadian push through the mountains on their flank. One officer said :"The Canadians made this victory for they bore the lion's share of the burden."

"Promised Land"

The British troops said they were not opposed in the entry into the town. The Germans pulled out under bombing and shelling, and fled to the north. In half an hour at Adrano I saw enough wreckage to last me for the rest of the war. I drove back along a twisting road into the green Simeto Valley. This valley, stretching out at the foot of the shell-pitted escarpment leading to Adrano, was a promised land for our troops.

Here were pools of cool, green water, streams splashing down the crags, orange orchards, vineyards and patches of ripe tomatoes and cucumbers. After the dust of the Enna Road and the smells of 20 Sicilian towns with their dirt and filth, and campaigning for weeks without enough water to keep clean, this was a paradise. The troops bathed in the bubbling Simeto River and lolled naked in horse-troughs and irrigation ditches. They washed the stains of the Sicilian roads from their bodies. It practically made new men of them. It was as good as three days' rest. Breaking the Etna line and capturing the fertile area has had more advantages than strictly military ones.

All the time around Adrano I fully expected the Germans would shell the area for plenty of troops and vehicles were moving on the roads, but not a shot was fired. The Germans were withdrawing completely from the broken line. Allied planes kept patrol over the area. In many other towns entered by the Canadians the German practice had been to harry the soldiers with mortar fire and shells, but here they simply folded up.

coupled with a communique which told of a 63-ton bombing attack on enemy positions on Kolombangara Island, above New Georgia in the Central Solomons. No enemy planes were encountered.

The General also sent Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr., chief of the South Pacific forces, a message paying tribute to the officers and men of a fleet task force which sank a Japanese cruiser and two destroyers and possibly three in Vella Gulf, northwest of Kolombangara Friday night. The United States forces came through without loss.

Today's communique told of two heavy bombers bombing an 8,500-ton freighter-transport, a destroyer and a small cargo ship 300 miles northeast of New Ireland. Results could not be determined.

In contrast, in the last big raid on Turin on July 12 the R.A.F. lost 13 planes.

(Enormous fires visible from Chiasso on the Swiss-Italian frontier indicated that the attack was Milan's heaviest of the war. The fires burned all night and billowing clouds of smoke still rose over the city more than 24 hours later, Swiss advices said.)

While the heavy bombers were attacking the three northern Italy cities, R.A.F. Mosquito bombers smacked the Rhineland and night fighters shot up air fields and rail targets in France.

Sweeping over in two waves, the first at rooftop height, R.A.F. Bostons slammed bombs into the naval stores depot at Rennes, France, yesterday. One flier said bombs fell among sheds, barracks and large buildings and the target was "well and truly plastered."

German planes, apparently busy elsewhere, have been absent from Britain's skies since July 31. While there have been longer lulls, the previous ones were forced by weather. But that is not the case this time.

Canadians Break

the West Nova Scotias appeared, he said.)

Allied airmen who have pounded Randazzo almost without let-up said the road junction was virtually paralyzed with traffic moving away from the scene of battle.

Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's troops made few contacts with the enemy anywhere along the British and Canadian sectors Saturday and Saturday night and Noland Norgaard, Associated Press war correspondent, reported from the front line yesterday that "it appeared likely the Germans were intent primarily on disengaging their troops and getting them back to the Messina bridgehead without risking a major stand."

The Germans themselves strengthened this belief. A Berlin broadcast said "in some sectors our troops, without enemy interference disengaged themselves to occupy new positions prepared in advance."

In an interview with Munro Gen. Montgomery declared "the general situation, I think, is excellent.'

Germans Doomed.

"As I said before," the General added, "the Germans in Sicily are doomed. The Boche's days are numbered here."

Of the Canadian troops serving with the 8th Army, the General said they now are "veteran soldiers of the 8th Army." He termed the Canadian advance from the Pachino Beaches to Mount Etna in the heart of Sicily "simply wonderful... quite amazing."

Earlier, at Allied Headquarters, the General said of the Canadians:

"The Canadian Division tarvelled farther in Sicily and fought longer than any division of the 8th Army. They have had the hardest work of any division because they were always on the outter circles of the advance, with the most frightfully physical conditions and ground to contend with."

An advance force of the 8th Army swept into Bronte early yesterday without a struggle as the Germans withdrew to a new line north of the town and below the Troina-Randazzo road.

This advance followed the fall of Aderno before dawn Saturday. A creeping artillery barrage against positions there was one of the heaviest employed by the Allies in the Mediterranean area.

Approximately 180 25-pounders and other artillery broke loose with an awesome roar at midnight, continued with only one lull for three hours. Infantry advancing behind the barrage found virtually none of the enemy alive.

Spoil Party

(Canadian gunners, Munro said, believe their shells broke up a birthday party and at the same time killed a Nazi commander whose death possibly contributed to the fall of Aderno.

(The German commander, he said, Lt.-Col. Von Carnap, was celebrating his birthday at the German headquarters when the Canadian gunners pumped some shells into it, killing the officer. His death, Munro said, "threw the Nazis into a temporary quandary in that sector," and it is believed helped in the final successful assault.)

Increasing concentrations of small craft in the narrow Strait of Messina between northeastern Sicily and the toe of the Italian mainland indicate the Germans are thinking seriously of getting out.

Headquarters announced yesterday great fleets of bombers and fighters swung over the Strait some 50 times the day before to bomb and shoot up barges and ferries attempting to evacuate secondary elements of the beaten Axis forces.

General Montgomery Greets His Canadian Troops In Sicily

General Sir Bernard Montgomery, commander of the British Eighth Army, is greeted by Canadian troops on his arrival in Sicily. This group of soldiers represents all of Canada's provinces. General Montgomery said: "Canadians were terrific on the beaches and on the attack inland" in Sicily.

the military leaders.

Army Supreme

If German reports here are accurate, the army's power now extends to press, production, civil rationing foreign affairs and transport. It was said that the army has long been convinced that it would have to take full control of Germany if the country were forced to fight a defensive war.

Since Hitler was reported left as the nominal head of state under the new set up, the transition apparently has not proved difficult and was not likely to cause repercussions like those which followed the resignation of Mussolini in Italy.

The reported developments in Germany were characterized in London as a "desperate" German attempt to "win the peace even though the war is lost."

The London Sunday dispatch warned that a military dictatorship would have the full consent of Nazi party chiefs. "The Nazis would just go underground and re-emerge later," the paper said.

Other London comment expressed the view that the shift was nothing more than an attempt to shove the Nazi party and Hitler into the background in an effort to gain better terms after the inevitable defeat.

MARMORA

Early Settlers Story Told In Cemetery

MARMORA, Aug. 9 — (ENS).—An interesting picture of the early inhabitants of the district and the events which constituted the news of that day are recorded in Greenwood cemetery, formerly known as O'Hara's cemetery, which though small originally, has grown and faces more expansion.

Many a hundred years' old stone is still standing erect presenting curious inscriptions to the visitor. The oldest stone discovered had this little story: "In memory of Mary, wife of William Adams, who died December 25, 1863, aged 52 years, a native of Ireland."

Many sons and daughters of the old country have been resting in this little cemetery over a long period of time. One inscription records the death of a 3-year-old boy by the name of Latimer on September 28, 1837. Among others are Walter Gray, who died May 18, 1846, a native of Scotland, William McKenzie, who was drowned in Moira Lake in 1859, Kenneth Cameron, who died June 25, 1845.

Most interesting of all, the graves is that of Robert Donald Dickie. It has a stone of obelisk design made of Scottish granite and is 6 feet high. This is the man after whom Dickie Lake in the north eastern corner of Lake township is named. The inscription reads:

"Erected by John Dickie in Aberdeenshire N.B., to commemorate the tragic death of his son, Robert Donald Dickie, born July 18, 1825, who was robbed and murdered in his own house January 10, 1859, by Samuel Peter Rock, one of his own servants, who was tried and convicted of the robbery and murder and executed June 13, 1859."

It is said that Rock, who was arrested not long after committing the crime, in the course of his flight stopped at the home of the late Benjamin Savinder (grandfather of Constable W. D. Savinder of Marmora) who lived in the same part of Hastings county, and borrowed some boots from the old settler without giving himself away.

WEEKLY WARTIME NUTRITION HINTS

Martha Logan, Swift's famed home economist, whose weekly, wartime cooking column is a regular feature of this page. Look for these valuable hints each Monday

by Martha Logan

Broiled Dinners

Broiling and pan-broiling fit neatly into the warm weather food picture

No one wants to spend hot hours in the kitchen these days, so now's the time to plan easily prepared meals with a come-on flavour that will satisfy the family, yet leave time for outdoor activities.

If broiling brings to your mind only luscious pictures of a thick beef steak, remember that lots of class C meats as well as some unrationed meats readily lend themselves to broiling!

Many an exclusive restaurant menu used to list—even in the days of plenty—"de luxe chopped steak." And this featured entree can just as well be prepared in your own kitchen.

One coupon's worth of ground beef or lamb mixed with a pinch of herbs or chopped onion shaped into flat cakes makes a delicious meal for four people. Serve with broiled tomato slices or mushrooms and a quick cooking green vegetable.

Calf or lamb liver, veal or lamb kidney or par-boiled sliced sweetbreads brushed with soft fat are all meals well worth trying. For a big party a mixture of any or all of these three plus lamb cutlets, tomatoes and mushrooms gives you a ration-thrifty but impressive "English Mixed Grill."

WARTIME BROILING

For broiled meats (whether oven-broiled or pan-broiled) the basic rule of meat cookery should be followed: slow cooking to avoid shrinkage. So keep the heat down and do not overcook.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

ARRIVES IN BRITAIN.

A cable was received on Thursday by Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Edwards, Hastings, Ont., telling of the safe arrival overseas of their son, Gunner Walter Edwards.

THE USUAL RESULT

Everett Richardson and Max Redmond, both of whom pleaded guilty to the charge, were fined $10 and $2.50 costs by Magistrate E. A. Gee in police court this morning on a charge of being drunk. Archie Barbeau, similarly charged, asked for a week's adjournment, and his request was granted.

WANT AIRMEN.

The R.C.A.F. Mobile Recruiting Unit will be in Peterborough at the Y.M.C.A. on Tuesday and they are interested in getting both airmen and airwomen. It was recently announced by the Government that the services have been greatly depleted of personnel and it is hoped that recruiting will pick up from now on.

COLLIDE AT INTERSECTION

Automobiles driven by Thos. Kelly, R.R. 4, Lakefield, and A. Neill, 417 Stewa[rt s]treet, were damaged late Saturday afternoon when they collided at the intersection of Charlotte and Aylmer streets. Kelly was driving west on Charlotte street and Neill south on Aylmer street. Headlights and fenders on Neill's car and the right front fender of the other machine were damaged. Constable C. J. McGillen, who investigated the accident, ordered Neill's car off the road.

CIGARETTE ASHES THE CAUSE

Hot ashes from a cigarette falling on the arm of a child passenger was the cause of an accident in which a car driven by Robert M. Hanscom, 149 Morrow street, collided with a parked car on Charlotte street. Hanscom's child was in the front seat of the car and the ashes incident caused the driver to momentarily lose control of the vehicle with the result that it came into contact with a parked automobile, owned by Thomas E. Nurse, R.R. 1, Omemee.

NAVAL RECRUITS.

Twenty-four applications for enlistment in the Royal Canadian Navy have been received in this district since the recruiting office began taking enlistments here on Thursday. The unit parading in town Friday was composed mostly of men who have been in the service less than a month. It is only one of five units which paraded at different places in the province.

GETS ADJOURNMENT

Howard Innis, who was allowed out of police court last Wednesday on a drunk charge after he had intimated that he wanted a chance to poll his vote, appeared before Magistrate Gee this morning to answer to the charge. He did not say whether he had used his ballot successfully or not, but did put in a plea for another adjournment, and it worked. He will be back next Monday.

Visiting Home

Major R. J. Bolton, who is now attached to the Pacific Command, is home on furlough. In June, 1942, he went on active service with the Rangers, where he was second in command. Then he was made a general staff officer of the 8th Division in December, 1942, and from there did service with the American Army.

Eastern Group Would Join Otonabee

The salvage drive in Otonabee realized $110.14 as reported by W. W. Dawson at the meeting of the council last week.

Deputy-reeve Reid and Mr. Dawson were appointed to investigate complaints regarding the Keene wharf, and report at the next meeting.

Reeve Mather and Mrs. McIntyre were instructed to enquire into the details of assessment of the properties in the city, along the canal road, which wish to transfer to the township.

This motion refers to a little agitation over on the southeast border of the city, an area which many citizens probably assume as being already in the township. Residents along the road extending north from Downer's Corners have been suggesting they might as well be an actual and municipal part of Otonabee as to be a neglected corner of the city.

It is understood that the city would be willing to part with that section across the river and immediately north of No. 7 highway, but no definite pronouncement has been made.

1943 Rate Struck.

The township tax rate for this year was set at 4.11 mills on a motion by Mr. Dawson, seconded by Mr. McIntyre.

Moved by Mr. Spears, seconded by Mr. Dawson that the following accounts be paid: Wm. Comrie $3.15, G. S. Taylor $8.00, Otonabee Telephone System $350.00, Miss Nellie Douglas $57.00, Whillier & Co. $33.87, Commercial Press $35.36, Wm. Wood $1.00, Henry Borland $30.00, Wm. Drummond $2.00.

Road Accounts.

Fred Nelson $81.65, Chas. Elliott $2.00, G. S. Taylor $38.85, Can. Oil Co. $44.75, Peterborough Welding $22.75, Bruce Parker $109.48, Alex Graham $12.80, J. D. Adams Co. $682.95, Elmer Davis $22.50, Ira Clark $34.24, Archie Patterson $1.00, Gardiner Thompson 80c, Harry Short $1.00, Gordon Hall $1.50, Twp. of North Monaghan $25.27, G. W. Peterboro Native W. F. Connal Retired

MONTREAL, Aug. 9—W. F. Connal, chief mechanical engineer, Canadian National Railways, has retired under the company's pension regulations, according to an announcement made today by E. R. Battley, chief of motive power and car equipment. Mr. Battley also announced that Mr. Connal's successor is Frank Williams, now mechanical engineer in charge of shop methods, stationed at Montreal.

W. F. CONNAL

Mr. Connal has participated in the progress of locomotive design, particularly since 1923, when the era of greater and more efficient power began on the Canadian National Railways. His studies and suggestions concerning the steam stream have aided in the development of the Northern type locomotives by reducing the loss of pressure between boiler and cylinders with consequent increase of power and more economical coal consumption. While this is extremely technical to the layman, it is exceedingly important in railway transportation particularly in wartime, when heavy freights require powerful dependable locomotives.

Mr. Connal was born at Peterborough, Ontario. In 1897 he graduated from McGill University with the degree of B.Sc., and his first position was as a draftsman for the B.C. Electric Railway Company, at Vancouver. Two years later he returned eastwards, and during a period of seven years occupied various shop and engineering positions in Cleveland, Chicago, Philadelphia, Sharon, Pa., and New York. In 1910 he increased his experience by undertaking construction work on the National Transcontinental in the neighborhood of Cochrane, Ont. His recollections of Northern Ontario before the laying of steel stress temperatures rising to 100 degrees in summer and dropping to 55 below in winter. "You can be quite comfortable in a tent in sub-zero temperatures," Mr. Connal says.

In 1919, Mr. Connal was appointed mechanical engineer for the Canadian National Railways at Toronto, and in 1923, was transferred to Montreal. In 1940 he became chief mechanical engineer of the System.

Mr. Connal, a student of all forms of railway traction has faith in the steam locomotive. "For long haul traffic the steam locomotive provides the most economical power unit," he said, adding "The Canadian National was one of the pionees in Diesel-electric locomotives, and we use a large number for switching purposes for which they are useful and economical. The Diesel-electric has excellent features and doubtless changes will take place, but for main-line traffic units the initial outlay is large, and steam will hold its own for some time to come."

Sailor Wrecks Car Shorts Power Line

Entering a written plea of guilty to a charge of careless driving, Michael Watson, a member of the R.C.N.V.R., was fined $5 and $2.50 costs by Magistrate Gee in police court today.

Provincial Traffic Officer L. A. McClure, who laid the charge following an accident on Highway 7, just west of the city limits, stated that the driver had fallen asleep at the wheel, and as a result the car had gone out of control, left the highway and wedged between a Hydro pole and a culvert.

The vehicle was damaged considerably and there was a brilliant display of fireworks for some time, caused by the shorting of the power line as a result of the crash.

Pair Auto Rugs Make $13 For War Victims

Some time ago, Gordon Shier, manager of the local branch of the Metropolitan Stores kindly donated a pair of light automobile rugs to the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund for the purpose of raising money to help the victims of air raids over Britain, through the Lord Mayor's National Air Raid Distress Fund in London, England, to which all money's raised here are transmitted by direct cable.

Seeking an outlet for this purpose, the secretary of the fund asked the Post Office staff to give a helping hand, to which they readily acceded, with the result that the nice sum of $13.00 is listed in today's receipts through their efforts, giving these boys yet another credit for the many assists they have given the fund.

The draw for this was made on Saturday morning by R. L. Dobbin, who drew ticket Number 651 out of the hat, which gave the prize to W. A. Atkinson, native of Pittsburg, but popularly known as the Mayor of Buckhorn, where he spends a large proportion of his time, and has become one of the best known residents in that place.

Personal Giving

There is something attached to a personal gift which stamps it in a class all by itself, and the fund has a small circle of regular helpers who come into this class, and take an individual interest which encourages those responsible in this particular effort of the city and district to help alleviate the sufferings of air raid victims in Britain.

Today's list is supported by one who has given more times than the usual number of fingers and thumbs an ordinary person is possessed of under the name of "J.D." for the regular amount of $2.00, and the secretary of the fund hopes shortly to have a day or so of entirely personal gifts to give the fund a boost.

Tropical Fish

In and out of the season, many tall true and other fairy tales are told of fishing exploits in this part of the world but a chance to see the real stuff in tropical members of the finny tribe is being offered in this city for the first time in the market hall this coming Wednesday afternoon and evening, when the Peterborough Aquarium Society are uniting with the Eastern Ontario Gladiolus Society to have an exhibition and show, from which the entire net proceeds will come to the fund.

Then if you are interested in the production of the beautiful gladiolus flower, here you will see them at their best, and should you have specimens of your own, no matter whether you are connected with the society or not, you are most welcome to enter them in this show without even the payment of an entry fee, and if they win a prize you will secure an award, which again gives a helping hand to the war effort through the giving of war savings stamps in quite a number of cases.

Tickets are now on sale, and will be available at the show for a draw on five good prizes in connection with this event, which will be made by His Worship Mayor Hamilton that evening in the hall.

Those wishing particulars in regard to the Gladiolus portion of the show, should get in touch with H. B. Ball at 161 Park street north, telephone No. 9102, and C. H. Bacon at 697 Ross street, telephone No. 9021, will be very glad to furnish details in regard to the aquarium portion of the show.

Peterborough Boys Help Recruiting

The group was headed by Sub-Lieut. Michael Watson, and directly behind him are two Peterborough boys, Arnold (Dude) Brady, LEFT, and Gordon (Spike) Matthews, RIGHT. There were four other groups assisting recruiting units in other parts of the province.

Big Car Wrecked When Driver Dodges Horses

Despite an objection from defence counsel, Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., Magistrate E. A. Gee in police court this morning allowed Provincial Constable L. A. McClure to state that in an interview he had with the accused following an accident on the Burleigh Falls-Apsley section of Highway 28 on the night of July 3, Robert Wilson, Burleigh Township, had admitted that he knew his horses were out that night.

Wilson was charged with allowing his horses to run at large on the highway, contrary to the Highway Improvement Act, and pleaded not guilty.

James Reid, driver for the Ferguson Bus Line, testified that on the night of July 3 he was driving from Bancroft to Peterborough.

"I broke over a hill on the highway, 12 miles south of Apsley," the witness said, "and there were two horses on the road. I tried to avoid hitting them, took to the shoulder of the road, and then went into the ditch. The car upset, doing a complete roll. It was badly damaged."

Reid said that his home was in the neighborhood of the accident, and that he had recognized the horses as belonging to Robert Wilson. He stated that he knew the animals and identified them.

Got Owner Up

Provincial Traffic Officer L. A. McClure swore that after investigating the accident he had gone to the home of Robert Wilson, shortly before 2 o'clock Sunday morning, and had aroused the accused, who had come down to the door with a lantern. On being informed of the accident, Wilson, the officer said, had admitted that he knew his horses were out. A neighbor had telephoned him to that effect and he had been spending some time looking for the animals, but had been unsuccessful.

Walter Ferguson, owner of the vehicle involved in the accident, testified that he had paid $500 for the car.

Mr. Gordon intimated that he proposed to call some defence evidence and the court adjourned for luncheon.

Only 5 Houses For 50 Applicants

Only five of the temporary dwellings built by Wartime Housing Limited are unoccupied, and the demand for their accomodation is indicated by a list of forty-five applications.

The five vacant houses are in the last block to be erected on the High street flats in the area opposite the west ends of New Romaine and Lundy's Lane.

By the first part of September when families, contemplating moving in or making some shift for the winter, begin to survey the available accomodation, it is expected that probably fifty additional houses could be rented.

In spite of all the investment by Wartime Housing Limited, as a subsidiary of the Federal Government, for the families of workers in Peterborough's factories engaged in production of war materials, the demand for houses continues here. Part of it is believed to arise from marriages of young people making homes for themselves in wartime, but the rest indicates the late arrival of newcomers to the city who apparently are still able to find employment in Peterborough.

Curtin Promises Money

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 9—(CP)—Prime Minister Curtin in an election speech yesterday pledged his party if re-elected would find all the money needed in peace-time as well as in wartime to find employment for everybody.

War—25 Years Ago

By The Canadian Press

August 9, 1918— Rapid progress made by the Franco-British armies in the Battle of Amiens, with French troops capturing Pierrepont and advancing to Arvillers. South of the Somme river, the Canadians, Austraians and French took Maharicourt.

130 Sea Cadets Welcomed

Several hundred of the relatives and friends of Peterborough's Sea Cadets crowded the platform of the C.N.R. station to greet the young naval novices on their arrival home Saturday night from two weeks' training at Princess Alice Camp at Minnicog Island, Georgian Bay.

Lieut. S. J. Longhurst, senior officer of the local cadets, said that he and the other officers who attended the camp were proud of their Peterborough boys.

"Their discipline was splendid, and although they had no shipboard training since they were organized here a few months ago, they gave a good account of themselves in every phase of their work. We were convinced our boys were even better than those from Welland and St. Catharines where they have had Sea Cadets for twenty and fifteen years.

H.R.H. Princess Alice officially opened the camp last Thursday, and of the seven officers selected for the ceremonial five were from the Peterborough corps."

Reveille sounded each morning at 6.30, and the day's program began with a swim, even if it was chilly at times. Breakfast was at 7.15 o'clock, and the long day of training and sports ended with lights out at 10 p.m.

Butter, sugar and jam was plentiful and without restriction of official rationing at home. Many of the boys were so hungry at meal time that they sent their plates back for two or three helpings. Incidentally, the food item for each boy was 75 cents a day, just about double the rate of cost in the navy.

Three private yachts that were placed at the disposal of the camp, representing a total value of $250,000, were used for shipboard drill and the practical experience in nautical routine

NICE PRIZE

Mrs. M. W. Booher of Niagara Falls, N.Y., who has been holidaying at Shearer's cottage in Buckhorn landed a beautiful fish which weighed 22 pounds. Leonard Ireland was acting as guide for her when she caught the fish in Buckhorn Lake.

Mrs. H. Girard Committed On Fraud Count

On a charge of attempting to obtain money under false pretences, arising out of a claim for insurance following the destruction of a Norwood residence by fire, Mrs. Helen Girard of Peterborough was committed for trial by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning.

Evidence for the Crown had been given at a previous session and Magistrate Langley, who is starting his vacation, was on hand this morning to dispose of the case.

The arrangement had been to bail Mrs. Girard for trial, but no bondsmen were present, and as a consequence the court committed the accused after Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., who appeared for her, had stated that Mrs. Girard did not popose to make any statement and that the defence would call no evidence.

Try To End Deadlock

MONTREAL, Aug. 9—(CP)—Union officials said last night that officers of the International Association of Machinists (A.F.L.) plan to visit Ottawa today to seek a means of breaking the deadlock which has caused a strike of 20,000 aircraft workers in three Montreal district plants.

Husky Workers Scarce Mellis Reports

Efforts to find the labor necessary to make possible reopening of the 1,500-barrel capacity flour mill at the Quaker Oats are being steadily pursued, it was stated today by W. H. L. Mellis, local manager of Selective Service, but he added that little headway had been made to date and prospects for putting the mill in operation in the near future were not promising.

"The job requires strong, husky men," Mr. Mellis said, "men who can lift and carry 140-lb. bags of flour for hours each day, and such men are nearly impossible to obtain. To date we have located only two men who will do out of the 75 needed for operation of the mill. These men are employed now in other departments of the Quaker Oats plant."

Emphasizing the difficulties attending procurement of labor needed in cases like these, Mr. Mellis pointed out that there was today a province-wide labor shortage for essential jobs of from 30 to 40 thousand workers.

He mentioned the possible use of farm labor on a temporary basis after cold weather comes, but added that there again a further difficulty cropped up. "Present regulations will not allow of a farmer being given a permit to work in an urban centre of over 5,000 population," Mr. Mellis said.

LAWN BOWLING

Besires our regular schedule games, we have three important events coming up during the next ten days.

The first one is the ladies' open 'trebles tournament' set for Wednesday, Aug. 11th at 1.30 p.m. There is no use elaborating on this tournament, as the notice has been posted for some time and the ladies know all about it.

The next big event will take place on Friday evening of this week sharp (very sharp) at seven o'clock. It is for men's doubles. Choose your own partner. Three twelve-end games to be played and the fee is $2.00 per pair. The committee is asking that the entries be in by Thursday night, so, if possible, we can publish the draw in Friday's issue of the Peterborough Examiner. Please note that 7 o'clock is the hour and not 7.30 or 7.45. This can be done if the boys will co-operate and of the committee will stand by their guns.

On Friday night ten local pairs drove up to Lindsay to play in their twilight doubles. All were there by 7 o'clock and all on time. Get the point?

And the third big tournament is the open mixed rinks for the beautiful 'Ovaltine' trophy to be held on Wednesday, Aug. 18th, and while we have not all the details about this tournament, as yet, still it is not too soon to get your rink together.

How about a little activity regarding the 'Globe' doubles, for both sections? It's time someone was doing something. And then there's the play-off, in the ladies' section for the Denne trophy. Remember the bowling season is getting shorter every day.

Don't leave everything off till September. The nights are very cool and quite often the greens are very damp.

Gordon Brydson Beats Quebec Pro

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que., Aug. 9 —(CP)—Bob Gray of Scarboro' and Gordon Brydson of Mississauga won a 36-hole best-ball match here during the week-end, defeating Montreal Islesmere's Stan Horne and Jules Huot of Royal, Quebec.

The Ontario pro's were ahead both days, outshooting Horne and Huot Saturday, 65 to 68 on the best ball, and taking a 66 to their opponents' 68 Sunday for a five-stroke margin over the 36 holes.

Gray and Brydson were well teamed, with Gray turning in a fine and sometimes spectacular performance over the Seigniory Club's difficult, par 71 layout. Brydson, always a consistent player, proved a perfect teammate for him.

A large gallery contributed about $200 to the Canadian Red Cross to watch the match.

Leaflets Fall With RAF Bombs

BERNE, Switzerland, Aug. 9. — (AP). — The Swiss Telegraph Agency reported today that the R.A.F. planes which raided Milan, Turin and Genoa Saturday night also dropped leaflets containing a picture of Premier Pietro Badoglio with the words: "The war continues."

On the reverse side, the agency said, was a picture of Prime Minister Churchill and a reprint of his declaration that Italy again would feel the offensive powers of the Allied air, naval and land forces because of the Badoglio regime's refusal to ask peace.

Travellers arriving in Chiasso said the principal railroad station at Genoa was badly damaged by the R.A.F.

Scenes of "indescribable panic" resulted from the fact the bombing began before the alarm sounded, one of the travellers said.

Montgomery Dubs Canadians Tops

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press War Correspondent.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Aug. 9—(CP Cable). — Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery today praised the Canadian 1st Division as "veteran soldiers of the 8th Army."

The desert warrior, commander of the five-division 8th Army—including the Canadians—in Sicily said that the Canadian advance from the Pachino beaches to Mount Etna in the heart of Sicily was "simply wonderful...quite amazing."

"The Canadian division travelled farther in Sicily and fought longer than any division of the 8th Army," he said. "They have had the hardest work of any division because they were always on the outer circle of the advance, with the most frightful physical conditions and ground to contend with.

"They've been our left wing and their performance is simply wonderful.

"It's amazing how they have done it—quite amazing.

"They came here untried in battle and cracked away at once like veterans. I'd call them veteran soldiers of the 8th Army. Their training in England has been invaluable."

In Canoe Events

MONTREAL—(CP). — Although they had been out of competition since the outbreak of war, members of the Toronto Island Canoe Club paddled to fourth place in the points standing at the 23rd annual regatta of the Otterburn Boating Club yesterday. They took three second and three third prizes.

Learn Some New Words to Enlarge Your Vocabulary

MOUNTAIN SCENE

How many of you have viewed a scene comparable in beauty to the one above of the mountains, and all you can think of to say, is a prosaic "what a lovely scene of mountains."

There's no need to go speechless just because you haven't got the right word to say. What you should do is brush up on your vocabulary—learn some new words to describe things instead of all the old trite ways. People get so tired of hearing you use the same word over and over again.

There is a charm and distinction in good diction that we all appreciate. Slovenliness in the use of words reflects the same discredit on a speaker or writer as slovenliness in appearance. It suggests an untidy mind and lack of taste.

Many words are confused because of their similarity of sound. Think and study so you won't make this mistake.

Our 32-page booklet will help you improve your vocabulary and acquire poise and self-confidence in your speech—definite assets in business and social life.

For your copy of HOW TO IMPROVE YOUR VOCABULARY send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

HOW YOU SHOULD SCORE

BESIDES prescribing the number of points allowed for various developments during a game, the new Laws of Contract Bridge cover very clearly and thoroughly the conditions governing correct scoring, under the following regulations:

1. The number of tricks won by each side should be determined and agreed before the cards are mixed together. Points to be scored (as per the official scoring table) should be announced and recorded forthwith.

2. A scorer should announce all scores before recording them. One or more players keep score. If but one side keeps score, both sides are equally responsible to see that the score for each hand is correctly entered. It is recommended that a score be kept for each side, and that a player desiring to consult the score look at the one his side is keeping.

3. At the end of the rubber, the trick and premium points of each side are added; the side with the larger total is deemed to have won the rubber, irrespective of the number of games, (if any) which it has won; and the difference between the totals represents the number of points won.

4. Irrespective of the number of players keeping score, or of the side which was responsible for the error, neither side has any redress for a call or play made relying on a score which is subject to correction as provided in the next section.

5. An error or omission in the score of a hand, either proven before the cards have been mixed together, or subsequently admitted by both sides, may be corrected at any time before the rubber score is agreed; except that, after the first call is made in the next hand, an agreed trick score may never be corrected if its correction would change the trick score of the current game in any way, or would deprive a side of a game or allot one to it. (This does not prevent a correction in score which would (a) rectify an error made in entering an agreed trick score; or (b) eliminate an undertrick premium scored in the belief that a contract has been defeated; or (c) score an undertrick premium omitted in the belief that a contract has been fulfilled; or (d) alter the trick score of a previous game, if the alteration does not change the outcome of that game.)

6. An error in addition or subtraction may be corrected at any time before the game breaks up, except that a correction adversely affecting a player may be made only before his departure.

7. Scores made as the result of hands played with an imperfect pack are not affected by the discovery after the cards have been mixed together.

Evacuate People From Smolensk Russians Hear

MOSCOW, Aug. 9 (AP).—Information received from Russian Guerillas behind German lines today said the Nazis were carrying out a general civilian exacuation of the Smolensk region.

Smolensk, 220 miles west of Moscow and probably the most important German base in all Russia, would be endangered by complete deflation of the Orel salient to the southeast as the Russians already hold positions less than 50 miles to the northeast between Yartsevo and Vyazma.

The information from the partisans said the Germans were moving the population to the population to the west and also taking away all metal and other potential war materials, even the tin roofs of houses.

Axis Merchant Ships Hit Hard By Allied Navies

LONDON, Aug. 9 (CP)— During the 46 months of the war up to June 30, a total of 9,045,683 gross tons of German and Italian shipping were captured, sunk or damaged by surface ships, submarines, aircraft or mines of the Allied navies, the Admiralty announced today.

The totals do not include losses inflicted by the Russian navy and airforce.

The announcement said also that total German and Italian merchant sunk or damaged had increased by more than 2,863,00 tons during the past year.

Reign Of Terror Ends With The Capture Of Catania

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent

With the British 8th Army in Catania, Aug. 7—(Deayed)—(AP).—The dapper Marquis of San Giulia, mayor of Catania, and the scion of a proud old Sicilian family, said to-day that "for a month we have had a reign of terror."

He stood in the office of the prefect of police and told the story of his town under German rule and Allied bombing.

Only a few moments before, he had conferred with the British brigadier commanding the troops who had just chased the Nazis through the town and beyond.

The Allied air raids had sent four-fifths of Catania's 250,000 people fleeing to the countryside weeks ago. The remaining 50,000, consisting largely of the city's poorest residents, stayed behind. Of them, he said, approximately 2,000 had been killed in raids since July 15.

Much Looting.

Survivors looted. British troops, pursuing the Germans, had no time to intervene and the Catania police still decked out in their gaudy Fascist-type uniforms—were slow in arriving at trouble spots.

The Marquis said that the Germans earlier had taken bedding and furniture from homes to sell elsewhere. Then he told of an incident two weeks ago at nearby Mascalucia, when the Germans attemptel to commandeer 14 mules and the Sicilians refused to give up the animals.

The Germans, he said, tried to persuade the mule owners with machine- guns and Italian troops intervened, armed with tommy-guns and grenades. Three Germans and one Italian was killed and others were wounded.

Originally the Germans sent only airplane reinforcements to Sicily, the Marquis continued, but after the fall of Tunisia ground troops began pouring in and made no secret of their belief that "they were the master."

The Marquis declared that he was "convinced that the Germans know they are going to lose the war."

The Mayor, who was Italy's Foreign Minister at the outbreak of the First Great War, concluded by telling us that the Germans dynamited some of Catania's buildings before withdrawing in the night, and had left the post office rigged up with mines and booby traps.

We rode back to the business district. The police had been given back their carbines and they carefully patrolled a street where almost every store was now stripped.

Whatever police were in the neighborhood avoided intervention when looters broke into the Fascist headquarters, but the shabby people wanted nothing of the takings there. Two boys rushed into the street with their arms loaded with dress swords, apparently intended for party parades, and began distributing them to embarrassed British troops who were passing.

They dumped into the gutter a boxful of German and Italian medals.

Widespread Raids Hit Mannheim And Ludwigshafen

LONDON, Aug. 10 — (CP) — Big formations of R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. heavy bombers blasted Mannheim and Ludwigshafen last night while speedy Mosquitos attacked targets in the industrial Ruhr Valley, the Air Ministry announced today.

Flying on the big raid were squadrons from the Canadian bomber group. Nine bombers, two of them Canadian, were lost during the night's operations.

R.A.F. fighters attacked enemy airfields and railways in France and the low countries, shooting down two enemy aircraft, a communique said.

Large fires were reported set in Mannheim and Ludwigshafen, twin towns situated on opposite banks of the Rhine near its junction with the Neckar, 43 miles southwest of Frankfort.

Together the two towns form an important armament centre.

Vital War Plants

Great factories there turn out tanks, motor vehicles, Diesel engines and high explosives. The towns, which have a combined population of about 350,000 in normal times, represent the second largest inland port in Europe.

Last night's attack was the 57th raid on the Mannheim-Ludwigshafen area, which was last hit on April 16.

It was the first time the heavy bombers of the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. had been over Germany since the

Allied Fliers Dominate Sicily

By DANIEL DE LUCE

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Aug. 10—(AP).—Hundreds of Allied aircraft engaged in bombing and strafing sweeps over Sicily, Sardinia, Messina Strait and the toe of Italy saw exactly 15 enemy planes yesterday.

Heavy bombers tangled up the crossroads in the Messina area, R.A.F. and Canadian Wellingtons went after landing craft on the Messina beaches and caused fires at Paradiso, and other raiders sank six small ships off Milazzo on Sicily's north coast.

Tactical air force assaults caused traffic jams at Fioresta and Novara in the Sicilian tip.

Medium bombers, hitting at the Catanzaro area on the Italian toe for the third straight day, badly damaged a railway bridge, highway bridge, railway yards and a repair shop.

Fighters, stabbing at the tip of Italy, straffed six small boats and about 50 German soldiers, destroyed a locomotive and damaged two others, wrecked radio installations at Cape Spartivento and Galati and raided the areas of Roccela, Locri and Sidi Marino.

It was disclosed that American fighters caused an ammunition train of 30 cars to explode near Milazzo Sunday. Fighter bombers the same day destroyed 18 vehicles and damaged 60 and put four locomotives out of action. Fighters also hit 20 small barges, destroying four, in patrols over Messina Strait.

Seaforths Rout Germans With Grenades

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN SICILY, Aug. 8—(Delayed)—(CP Cable).—The Seaforth Highlanders of Canada, a Vancouver regiment, and a Canadian tank unit climaxed some of the fiercest fighting in Sicily by routing stubborn German defenders from an important ridge in close-quarter battle in the brilliant operation that led to the fall of Aderno.

The fight was featured by exchanges of hand grenades.

The Seaforths advance, under a Vancouver Lieutenant-Colonel, carried them to high ground near the key city of Aderno and dominating the Simeto River. There was fighting for nearly every inch of the 15-mile way.

The Seaforths began their big push from the Regalbuto area Aug. 3 and the battalion was taken in trucks to a point near the Salso River which flows north of the Regalbuto-Aderno main road to join the Simeto in front of Aderno.

Fight At Night.

This country was a pile of mountains and hills. Maj.-Gen. Guy Simonds, commander of the Canadian 1st Division, decided on a break through the mountains on Aderno rather than follow the main road.

During the night of August 3-4 the Seaforths, advancing afoot, crossed the Salso, aiming to push east six miles to Troina, then the objective of the American 7th Army. Luck was with the Seaforths, for the Nazis shelled the area before the Highlanders crossed.

Halfway between the Salso and Troina Rivers the Seaforths advance guard was fired on from a hill called Tamburino. Despite heavy fire, they wiped out the enemy machine-gun posts. This attack was made in darkness.

By coincidence the Edmontons attacked Tamburino from the rear at the same time and the units met on top of the crest. There were a few hectic moments as they identified each other as Canadians.

Not stopping in their advance, the Seaforths pressed forward to attack a 1,000-foot ridge overlooking the Troina River and covering the Troina-Aderno Road, then used extensively by the Germans.

Crack Para troops.

The company worked in on the Germans who were crack paratroopers fighting as infantry. It was a man-to-man fight practically all the way to the Simeto and at times the enemy was superior in numbers.

Then tanks came up to fire on the last enemy positions on a toothlike pinnacle jutting from the top of the ridge. There was a final heated infantry fight on the crest and by 11 a.m. the Seaforths possessed their objective.

The armored cars went within 300 yards of the objective, moving over the brown rocky slope without being fired on. The Germans tried to trap the Canadians by holding their fire until the infantry came up.

Meanwhile the Seaforths riding forward on Tanks, clinging to turrets, guns and hulls, advanced for two miles. As they were getting off the tanks for an assault the Germans began to fire. This did not dismay the Canadians, the leading

Smolensk, Bryansk And Kharkov Newest Objectives

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Aug. 10—(AP)—The fast-rolling Soviet offensive mounted speed today as Russian troops surpassed the westernmost point reached during last winter's campaign and hammered forward along a wide front reaching to within 12 miles of Kharkov.

While one column was within 12 mles of Kharkov to the north another was 30 miles west of the city, a third was 20 miles away and a fourth was driving south after crossing the western bank of the Northern Donets and was within 25 miles of the big Ukrainian centre.

(The Berlin radio reported heavy fighting in the Kharkov area and also said the Russians had launched an offensive to the north in the direction of Smolensk.)

The Soviet forces also were stepping up their assaults in the drive on the big German base at Bryansk, 250 miles to the north of Kharkov. The spearhead of the Red Army there had covered one-third of the 75-mile distance between Orel, the German base which fell last week, and Bryansk.

Sweep 100 Villages.

The Kharkov assault resulted in the capture of more than 100 villages, the Russian communique said. Indications that the German forces were retreating in some disorder were seen in the Russian report of the capture of 212 tanks, 139 guns of various calibres, 96 mortars, 323 machine-guns, 618 motor trucks, 30 radio transmitters, 11 supply and munitions dumps, 315 loaded railroad cars, and 900 horse-drawn carts.

Among the important towns seized in the Kharkov sector weret the railroad town of Trosoyanets, Slatino, 12 miles north of the city, and Niiktovka, 30 miles to the north-west.

The speed of the Russian advance on Kharkov presented a definite danger of entrapment to the thousands of Nazi troops occupying the base, the communique indicated. The Soviet Air Force ranged behind the lines hammering at German rail communications upon which the garrison would be forced to rely for with withdrawal.

Wreck Railways.

The Red Army hammered steadily at the railroads in its advance on Bryansk, where the Russian Air Force bombed the junction town of Unecha, south-west of Bryansk, in an apparent effort to smash a feeder line.

Kidnapped Baby Found Alive And Well

ALBANY, Ore., Aug. 10.—(AP).—Tiny Edith Judith Gurney, kidnapped from the Albany hospital last Tuesday, was found alive and healthy last night, and police today investigated the bizarre story of a 26-year-old army wife charged with the abduction.

District Attorney Harlow Weinrick said the woman, Mrs. Catherine Wright, fooled her husband, a young couple living with her and neighbours through nine months of feigned pregnancy, then appeared at home last Tuesday with a two-day-old baby.

She confessed to a child-stealing charge, Weinrick said, but only after her story of giving birth to the child in the Albany Hospital had been refuted by nurses and doctors who said she had been a patient and by a doctors' examination which Weinrick said proved she had not borne a child within five years.

There was evidence of an earlier birth, but Weinrick did not disclose what had happened to that child. Neighbours said Mrs. Wright had no child at home until last Tuesday.

At the hospital the baby was identified from footprints. In the right home police found a hospital bracelet, used to identify babies. It bore the name, "Gurney."

Judith, eight ounces heavier than when she disappeared, was restored to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Gurney, who had pleaded by press and radio for the kidnapper to give up the tot.

FDR-Churchill Will Meet Soon

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(CP). — The New York Times said to-day reports are current in Washington that another meeting between Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt im imminent. The story mentioned that these reports said "Canada would be an appropriate setting for the sixth Churchill-Roosevelt meeting."

Lending credence to these reports, the newspaper said, was the fact that when Mr. Churchill left Mr. Roosevelt following their last meeting in May it was said they hoped to see each other every 90 days.

Natural topics for discussion at the sixth meeting, the Times said, would be the war's progress and especially the plight of Italy.

Urge Allies Bomb Rome Again

Badoglia Shows No Signs Of Seeking Peace

LONDON, Aug. 10 — (CP).— A demand that Rome be bombed again was sounded in the British press to-day as the Sicilian campaign moved rapidly toward a climax with Premier Pietro Badoglio's government showing no sign of heeding Allied surrender demands.

Urging a repetition of the July 19 bombing of Rome, the London Daily Express declared that "we should remind 1,000,000 Italians in their capital that their need to force a decision from Badoglio is still more pressing than ours."

This expression of opinion coincided with a Rome broadcast indicating that, for the moment at least, Badoglio had no intention of cutting his ties with Hitler.

"To expect that Italy should desert Germany at this crucial moment of the war and trade her national honor as an escape from fighting is an insult," said the broadcast, which was recorded by the Ministry of Information.

"Mussolini's downfall was a political and not a military event," the broadcast added. "From the military point of view it enhanced Italy's will to resist. The fall of the Fascist government enabled Italians to face the facts as they are, and the facts are not so bad that nothing can be done to retrieve the situation.

Must Fight On

"The fact that a great part of Sicily is in the hands of the enemy is no reason for throwing up the sponge. The last battle in this war is a long way away yet."

Sections of the London press, meanwhile, joined in urging that, the next British-American move—both politically and militarily — be closely co-ordinated with the Russian drive on the eastern front and warned that Axis propagandists are trying desperately to drive a wedge between the three powers.

The London News Chronicle asserted that the Allies had "failed to establish a unity of outlook" and said there "is needed that full and frank exchange of views between Premier Stalin, President Roosevelt and our own Prime Minister about which Germany is so nervous."

The Daily Herald said "there must be set up without delay new machinery, a political council of the United Nations to settle in advance as far as possible such issues as have been raised by the North African and Italian campaign".

BERNE, Switzerland, Aug. 10. — (AP).—Agitation to bring about a country-wide general strike in Italy and force the Badoglio government to make peace with the Allies continued to-day as troops patrolled strike-ridden industrial areas in the north.

Use of troops was reported by the Swiss Telegraphic Agency in dispatches from the Swiss border town of Chiasso, which said the strikes intensifned in volume following heavy R.A.F. raids on Genoa, Turin and Milan Saturday night.

Steady Advance Continues Beyond Bronte, Troina; Allied Navies Shell Coast

By RELMAN MORIN—Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Aug. 10 —(AP).—Allied ground forces made progress everywhere along the front in Sicily, Allied Headquarters announced to-day, as heavy Allied naval units rained torrents of shells on the enemy's exposed coastal positions. Royal Navy destroyers shelled the coastal road and railway at Riposto, north of Acireale and nine miles south of Taormina on the east coast, after blasting at similar targets at Taromina.

Announcing that American soldiers captured 1,500 German prisoners in landing behind the lines near Cape Orlando Sunday night—a feat which resulted in the fall of the enemy's northern coastal anchor positions at San Fratello and San Agata — a naval communique said heavy United States warships continued to batter a way for the 7th Army.

The progress of the troops spearing toward the Messina tip was officially described as "slow and steady" with the enemy resorting to "every device to hold up the relentless advance of our forces."

However, the Germans' position "daily becomes more difficult," the communique said, despite heavy demolitions, rugged country and lack of roads which interfere with swift Allied movement.

The British 8th Army was described as making considerable progress in "closing around Mount Etna," advancing up the coastal shelf between that giant landmark and the sea, and pushing on beyond Bronte on the road west of the mountain toward Randazzo. British and Canadian troops were reported less than seven miles from Randazzo, communications hub of the enemy's position.

Gap Closes

Flanking patrols of Britons and Americans were said to have closed the gap between the two armies in that sector where the Americans had pushed past Cesaro to within 10 miles of Randazzo.

The American raiding party which landed in the Germans' rear at Torrenova, just west of Cape Orlando, has succeeded in making contact with the main body of Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton's 7th Army, it was stated.

This amphibious force, besides capturing 1,500 prisoners, destroyed important military installations and its operation was officially described as "highly successful."

The Normandie Rises Again

The U.S. Lafayette, formerly the luxury liner Normandie, has risen from its watery grave with such rapidity that new numbers are being painted on the measuring tape. She has risen way above the number already on the ship. One of the greatest feats in salvage work is near completion and the Lafayette after 18 months of being submerged in the mud of the Hudson River is about to float on the river's top.

Four Japanese Strongholds Fired By Allied Bombers

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, The Southwest Pacific, Aug. 10 (AP).—Allied bombers ranged the whole length of the southwest Pacific battle area yesterday, dropping 224 tons of bombs on four Japanese strongholds—Vila, Salumaua, Bairoko and Amboina.

There was no attempt at interception by enemy planes.

The heaviest bombloads were released on Salamaua and Vila, presumably the next major objectives of a two-pronged thrust directed at the great enemy base of Rabaul, New Britain.

Successive flights of heavy bombers roared over Salamaua, dropping 103 tons of bombs in 40 minutes. Heavy anti-aircraft fire met the first waves but when the last left the target area the airdrome, the town and harbor of this northwestern New Guinea base were obscured by clouds of smoke from fires and explosions, a headquarters communique said.

Heavies teamed with medium bombers, under a fighter cover, in two attacks on Vila airdrome, dropping 63 tons of bombs and setting large fires. It was the heaviest bombing attack yet made on the Kolombangara Island airfield, one of the enemy's few remaining strongpoints in the central Solomons.

Across Kula Gulf, torpedo and dive bombers smashed 22 tons of bombs upon much-battered Bairoko harbor, 10 miles north of Munda. Results were not reported.

Two thousand miles westward, bombers "in strength," the communique said, carried out a night assault on Amboina.

The Turtle Helped

DELTA, Ont., Aug. 10 — (CP).—Bruce Phelps lost his wallet when his canoe capsized and he had little hope of having it returned, but a young girl, Hilda Halladay, found it and returned it the following day. She said she was attracted to it by a small turtle which had climbed up on it and used it as a raft as it floated downstream.

Ontario Cabinet Meeting Today

TORONTO, Aug. 10 — (CP).—The Ontario Cabinet, under Premier Harry Nixon, will hold its final meeting today and it is expected that an announcement will be made concerning the resignation of the government.

The Liberal Party was defeated last Wednesday in the Ontario election, with only 14 members being returned. Lt. Col. George A. Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, heads the largest group with 38 members while E. B. Jolliffe, C.C.F. leader, has 34 members elected to the Legislature.

Col. Drew also is expected back in Toronto from a brief week-end fishing trip.

Some sources said the change in government may not take place until next week, although it was believed the Liberal Cabinet would submit its resignation to Lieutenant Governor Albert Matthews.

Mr. Jolliffe Monday inspected the Opposition quarters at the Legislative Building and said the C.C.F. members elected to the legislature would meet in Toronto toward the end of the month.

By-Elections Favor C.C.F.

Coldwell Says People Ready To Clean House

HUMBOLDT, Sask., Aug. 30. — (CP).—M. J. Coldwell, National C.C.F. leader, said in statement here to-day that the election of C.C.F. members in the Federal by-elections of Selkirk and Humboldt constituencies yesterday "further emphasizes the determination of the Canadian people to end the control of this country by monopolistic finance."

"Following the splendid snowing of the C.C.F. in Ontario, the results of the by-election in Humboldt and Selkirk are exceptionally encouraging," he said.

"They emphasize the determination of the Canadian people to end the control of this country by monopolistic finance. They are votes of confidence in our movement and our policies and efforts for the plain people of Canada.

"We shall go forward with renewed confidence and courage in our work of preparing foundations for the better Canada to which our men and women in uniform will, I hope, return victoriously 'ere long."

Japanese Cruelty Sets New Records

Veneer Of Civilization Shrouds Savage, Barbaric Natures

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

A west coast reader has written to reprove me, courteously and in sorrow rather than in anger, for referring to the Japanese as "barbarians" and "savages."

He says (1) that these terms are unsuitable, and (2) that they are unworthy of the columnist. Having lived among the Japanese for 43 years, he has found them cultured, courteous and democratic. They will return to democracy when they get out from under the military dictators who now hold them down.

Well, I hasten to admit that it isn't good form to toss opprobrium about loosely. Obviously, too, 73,000,000 Japanese can't all be bad. Further, a news analyst isn't permitted to have any emotions when he is writing.

I still feel, however, that the vast majority of the Japanese are savages at heart. It's easy enough to teach a savage to use a knife and fork, but that doesn't change his instincts.

I have before me a despatch from J. Norman Lodge, Associated Press war correspondent on New Georgia Island out in the Pacific. He records a report made by Lieut. Nicholas T. Kliebert about the manner in which Japanese soldiers bayoneted helpless wounded soldiers to death. In one instance five of the savages (?) propped a wounded man against a tree and took turns bayoneting him.

Worse Than Indians.

"They cut one of the poor lads from the top of his head to his feet," says the lieutenant, "meanwhile laughing deliriously. Then they shot him through the head."

On March 10, 1942, the British Government indicted Japan for barbarities at Hong Kong paralleling those during the sacking of Nanking in 1937. Foreign Secretary Eden told the House of Commons that the Japanese forces occupying Hong Kong committed such horrors as the bayoneting of 50 helpless, bound officers and soldiers, and the indiscriminate raping and murder of Asiatic and European women.

Of course, one instance of that sort, or 10, shouldn't condemn an entire country. But that's the pattern of the whole Nipponese fabric. It may be said that the Japanese soldiers are merely carrying out orders, for the purpose of terrifying enemy people. That's not good enough, however, for no civilized soldier would execute an order of that sort.

Strikes By stealth

One of the outstanding characteristics of the savage is that he strikes by stealth. The Japanese struck at Pearl Harbor while two of their emissaries talked peace in Washington.

From Emperor Hirohito, who places his seal of approval on such acts, down to the soldier who rapes the woman and then bayonets her the Japanese have savage instincts, despite their veneer of civilization. I'm one of those who believe that human nature can be changed. On that basis the nature of the Nipponese can be changed—in the course of generations.

Women Enlist For Security

Girls Want To Make Certain Homes Safe

MONTREAL, Aug. 10.— (CP).—Lt.-Col. Joan B. Kennedy of the C.W.A.C. in an address yesterday admitted women's place was in the home — but said she frist must make sure she has a home to stay in.

She spoke at a luncheon attended by members of the Montreal branch of the Canadian Women's Press Club and representatives of the three women's services, who were guests of the Canadian Steamship Lines on board the S.S. Quebec.

Ever since inauguration of the women's services criticism has been heard on all sides about women in uniform, Col. Kennedy said.

"We know our place is in the home, and there are titmes when we wish to heaven we were there, but I'm glad that so many Canadian women are taking their share of responsibility for protecting their homes. The sooner we get into this, the sooner it will be over and we can get back to the things we want to do."

LIBERAL PARTY LOSES FOUR SEATS IN EAST-WEST BY-ELECTIONS

C.C.F. Takes 2 Western Seats Quebec Ridings Switch To Labor and Bloc Populaire

By The Canadian Press

Four Federal seat formerly held by Liberal members of Parliament went to opposition candidates in by-election voting yesterday — two in Western Canada to C.C.F. standardbearers, one in Quebec to a Bloc Populaire representative and the fourth, also in Quebec, to a Labor Progressive. The voting left the standing in the House of Commons at: Liberals, 170; Liberal Progressives, 3; Liberal Independents, 3; Progressive Conservatives, 39; C.C.F., 11; Social Credit, 10; Bloc Populaire, 4; Independents, 3; Unity, 1; Labor Progressive, 1.

With no Progressive Conservative candidate contesting any of the seats, the Liberals went down to defeat to Fred Rose, Labor Progressive candidate in Montreal Cartier, and to Armand Choquette, Bloc Populaire candidate, in Stanstead, Que.

Unsuccessful in both Quebec ridings, the C.C.F. emerged victorious in the two western constituencies, where William Bryce, C.C.F., defeated both Liberal and Social Credit candidates in Selkirk, Man., and Joseph W. Burton, C.C.F. candidate, was elected in Humboldt, Sask.

In both Western ridings the Social Credit party did not obtain a thousand votes, and in all four ridings, the soldier vote was confined to those servicemen able to vote in their home ridings.

While Prime Minister Mackenzie King remained aloof from the by-election campaigns, several of his Cabinet Ministers had been campaigning steadily in the four constituencies, especially in the Quebec ridings.

No comment was made in Ottawa by Liberal leaders following announcement of election results, but in Montreal, Maxime Aymond, leader of the newly-formed Bloc Populaire and member of parliament for Beauharnois-Laprairie, said that "Quebec has repudiated the war policy of Mr. King in such a fashion that the present government has no longer the right to speak in its name."

The Liberal defeat in the four by-elections follows by only a few days the defeat of the Ontario Liberal Government in last Wednesday's Provincial general election.

Fred Rose, running as a Labor-Progressive, was elected in Montreal Cartier, in a closely-contested five-way fight. Close behind him came the Bloc Populaire nominee, Paul Masse, with Liberal Lazarus Phillips and David Lewis of the C.C.F. trailing, followed far back by Independent Moses Miller.

Armand Choquette was the victor in another closely - contested campaign in Stanstead, with Liberal R. G. Davidson, close behind and Pierre Thomas, C. C. F. far behind.

Practically all Cartier's 164 polls had reported before the election of Mr. Rose was certain. Final results gave him 5,784 votes, with Mr. Masse collecting 5,462, Mr. Phillips 4,129 and Mr. Lewis, National Secretary of the C. C. F., 3,302 Moses Miller lost his deposit with 107 votes.

The result was in doubt until close to the end in Stanstead also, with the final results showing Mr. Choquette ahead with 6,702 votes in the 66 polls, compared with 5,390 for Mr. Davidson and Mr. Thomas last with 248.

The Humboldt and Selkirk seats were both formerly represented by Liberal members.

With some isolated polls to hear from in both constituencies, returning officers' reports early today showed:

Humboldt:

Burton, 8,432; Frank S. Krenn, Liberal, 5082, and Theodore Langdenhoff, Social Credit, 220.

Selkirk:

Bryce, 8,762; C. F. Fillmore, Liberal, 3,402, and Miss Salome Halldorson, Social Credit, 809.

2 Peterboro Men Are Casualties

Pte. Donald McPherson, son of Mrs. A. McPherson and the late Dr. McPherson, 483 Water street, has been reported wounded in Sicily and the cable stated that the extent and cause of his injuries are not yet known.

Enlisting right from Collegiate, Pte. McPherson has been with the Hastings-Prince Edward unit since 1940 and his brother, Douglas, recently received his wings from the R.C.A.F. at Hagersville.

Another Peterborough boy in the Hastings-Prince Edward unit has also been reported wounded in action, presumably in Sicily. He is Pte. Norman Richard Bugg, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Bugg, 358 Aylmer street.

Pte. Bugg enlisted three years ago and has been with the regiment almost since its beginning for active service. He was employed at Porter S. White's on Charlotte street, before joining the Army. The cable stated that the extent of his wounds had not yet been ascertained.

Wasting Coal An Offence

OTTAWA, Aug. 10 — (CP). — Muntions Minister Howe said here last night that an Order-in-Council will be passed which will make it an offense to waste coal or heat and that the order will apply to every one — householders as well as commercial and industrial users.

In an address over the national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, Mr. Howe said that under the Order-in-Council maximum temperatures will be established for industrial plants and commercial and other buildings, the temperature to vary according to the need.

"For example," he said, "less heat will be permitted in theatres auditoriums and other public buildings where warm clothing can be worn. When the type of building is not in use, the temperature will be reduced drastically.

"Temperatures in schools will be dropped sharply as soon as school is out. The same will apply to office buildings after working hours. These are only a few of the measures which must be taken if we are to reduce the consumption of coal in industrial plants and commercial and other buildings."

Industry Co-operating

The Minister said certain industries have already made considerable headway in conserving coal, and it is estimated that through these measures more than 100,000 tons have been saved.

To achieve the purpose of the order a nation-wide conservation program will be launched with the object of saving at least 20 per cent of the coal which was burned last year.

"This means," said Mr. Howe, "that if you burned five tons last year we will expect you to burn four tons this year." There are several ways in which this can be done. Among them are the improvement of insulation, the cleaning of pipes and furnaces, and better-fitting windows and doors, especially storm sashes.

The Minister said the Government will ask owners of commercial buildings and industrial plants to appoint special coal wardens, whose duty it will be to see that every possible conservation measure is taken.

"We will expect the owners of commercial buildings and industrial plants to see to it that equipment used for the generation and transmission of heat is maintained in first-class condition."

No increase in production can provide for all the Dominion's heating needs, and consumption of coal must be reduced. At present coal reserves are "very much below" those of a year ago, while the need is greatly in excess of that of last year.

Urge Allies

Military intervention succeeded in halting the walkouts in Genoa, the dispatches said, and work was resumed on "regular schedule" after drastic measures were put into effect. German troops stationed in the area helped extinguish fires which followed the raid,, the Gazetta Del Popolo was quoted as saying.

The renewed air raids, however, spurred strike activities as well as underground political opposition to the government, whose failure to respond to peace demands has raised public resentment to new heights, reports stated.

A Rome dispatch to the Tribune De Geve, however, said that Italy has "no choice" but to stay in the war, and that if Italy succeeds with German aid in holding Allied troops for a time, "events could take place which would offer unspecified possibilities for Italy to get out of the present situation."

Indian Army Poised For Big Drive

That the Indian army would play a major part in the recapture of British Malaya and the Dutch East Indies from the Japanese and that Burma would before long prominently in the news were predictions made to the Peterborough Rotary Club Monday by E. H. Banks, press representative of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who was the guest speaker at the weekly luncheon.

Mr. Banks, who lived many years in the Far East, said that India now has an army of 1,500,000 well-trained and well-equipped soldiers, a completely mechanized force, and he declared that when the time came to start the re-taking of Malaya the army in India would be a major factor.

As for Burma, the speaker said that that country was destined to figure prominently in the news when the proper time came. Its recapture was necessary to re-open the Burma Road and start again a stream of supplies for China, and it was also necessary as a jumping-off spot for the attack on the Japanese in the Malaya. Mr. Banks predicted that the capture of Burma would require combined air, sea and land operations with the first operation the conquering of the coast line and the second the taking over of the rivers and streams which formed the chief arteries of transportation.

Orderly Retreat

The speaker paid a tribute to the army who had made a stubborn five-month retreat through Burma, one of the most gallant operations in the history of the Empire. "It sustained heavy casualties" said Mr. Banks, "but the prolonged stand made by the army saved India."

The speaker said we were inclined to over-emphasize the victories of the Axis forces and overlook their mistakes. The Japs, he said, failed to take Ceylon and above all had made a serious mistake in failing to take Madagascar. Had that island been captured by the enemy Australia would have been in a most serious plight with convoys travelling around the Cape subject to attack.

Emphasizing the loss sustained by the British Empire when British Malaya fell into the hands of the Japanese, Mr. Banks stated that Malaya and Sumatra had 87 per cent of the world's rubber and 65 per cent of the world's tin. He predicted that when the country was re-captured it would again come back into British hands. He was convinced that Britain had a right to expect that the country would be returned when the war was over.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian T. B. McArthur while the motion of thanks was moved by Rotarian R. F. Downey. President M. H. Riddle was in the chair.

Meantime it's vital that we recognize what sort of people we are up against. We have a bitter job to do, and that is to render them so utterly impotent in the military sense that they won't in a hundred years be able to arm themselves again to commit aggression.

And when this war is over we shall have fought in vain if such criminals as Hirohito and Tojo and Hitler and Mussolini — and their captains — aren't brought to book for their sins.

Steady Advance

Meanwhile the Allied Air Fleets were declared to have enjoyed "Absolute air supremacy yesterday, not only over Sicily and the Messina Strait but well into the toe of Italy."

Both the strategic and tactical air forces concentrated on bombing and strafing the enemy along his avenues of escape.

Heavy bombers paced the Allied air smashes with heavy wallops at the Messina outlet, where virtually all enemy motor transport from base to front must pass.

Dominates Air

For the fifth straight night R.A.F. and Canadian Wellington's attacked landing craft on the Messina beaches, bombed coastal installations and caused a large explosion and fires at Paradiso.

The Italian toe's rail and road communications were repeatedly smashed by raids in the neighborhood of Catanzaro and Angitola for the third successive day. R.A.F. Liberators and Halifaxes again thundered over San Giovanni by night.

Six small ships were sunk off the north coast of Sicily near Milazzo.

The narrow enemy roads of the Sicilian bridgeheads were raked by relays of American fighters and bombers attacking at windshield height. They destroyed 16 vehicles and damaged more than 20 in soaring attacks in the Barcellona area east of Cape Orlando, where the Germans were preparing to make a stand against the Americans. Barcellona is 23 miles east of Cape Orlando and 17 miles from Messina.

Fighter-bombers also maintained their savage raids on the Randazzo area where they piled wreckage upon wreckage in an effort to block that filter point for enemy transport.

Seaforth Rout

tanks immediately attacked the German positions.

The enemy had no anti-tank guns, illustrating how completely the surprise was achieved. There were anti-tank guns all along the main road from Regalbuto to Aderno, where the Canadian push was awaited but never came.

Hurled Grenades.

The enemy shelled and mortared the Canadians but the two Seaforth companies with tanks thundering around them stormed towards the top of the ridge. It was some of the fiercest fighting in Sicily and went on for hours.

Finally in midafternoon in torrid heat and dust the Seaforths closed with the Germans and there was a bloody exchange of grenades at 30 and 40 yards. The Seaforths hurled Mills bombs and the enemy replied with stick grenades, that looked like potato mashers, and some small hand grenades.

But the Seaforths, tossing in their grenades as if in a ball game, unflinchingly pressed the attack. With one last volley of grenades the Seaforths gained the broad portion of the ridge at about four o'clock.

"The Seaforths shot hell out of the enemy here and routed a large number of them after inflicting heavy casualties," said the Colonel.

"I think that in the final close-in fighting it was the superiority of our hand grenades that did the job."

Last Ditch Stand Slows Allies

Sicilian Battle Reveals Bitter Fighting

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 10—(AP).— Allied troops made slow and steady progress along the entire Sicilian front yesterday, Allied Headquarters announced to-day, but heavy Axis resistance and lack of roads were said to be slowing the advance.

The Allied communique said the retreating Axis army was resorting to heavy demolitions and other devices to retard the Allied drive toward Messina.

The British 8th Army was making considerable progress in its drive to circle Mount Etna and has passed Bronte on the road to Randazzo, the bulletin said.

Using Goums.

American troops, assisted by the French Moroccan Goums, are pressing eastward along the Tyrrhenian seacoast road in company with the amphibious force which landed in the Axis rear at San Agata yesterday, the bulletin reported. Enemy resistance was described as "desperate."

The Allied forces were letting go with their heaviest punches and letting the groggy, reeling Axis forces have everything in the book— sea-borne bombardment, air and ground attack and heavy artillery fire—on a 24-hour schedule in an effort to squeeze the enemy into quick submission in the small remaining portion of the island.

Near Randazzo.

The 8th Army's Canadian troops who took the mountain town of Bronte late on Sunday were reported to be only seven miles from Randazzo, an important highway junction at the northern base of Mount Etna. Randazzo has received considerable attention from both the Allied Air Force and the heavy artillery.

In the American sector the German rearguard dug in at Cape Orlando, just 43 miles from Messina and some 10 miles north-east of San Agata, near which American infantry slipped ashore behind the German lines to trap an unestimated number of enemy troops and erase the heavily-fortified position.

(The Italian communique, recorded by the Associated Press from a Rome broadcast, admitted "the enemy offensive in Sicily continues to develop with powerful support of air and naval forces. In spite of tenacious resistance of Italian and German troops, some positions had to be evacuated under the violent attack of enemy armored units."

(The communique claimed Axis planes hit two Allied cruisers and four other ships with torpedoes and bombs off Sicily and sank three steamers off Augusta.)

Becomes a Race.

Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent at the front said the 8th Army has been advancing steadily since the fall of Aderno, key to the defence of the Mount Etna line, and declared the Sicilian campaign was turning into a race between the British 8th Army and the Americans for the honor of reach-

Huge Airliner Lost Dec. 20 Has Been Found

VANCOUVER, Aug. 10.—(CP). — The Canadian Pacific Airliner carrying 13 persons which disappeared on the night of Dec. 20 a short time before it was to have landed in Vancouver from Prince George, has been sighted high on a mountain side in the rugged country 74 miles southeast of Vancouver.

Chief Pilot Don Patry, of C.P.A., who has been making regular search flights, spotted the big machine resting at about 7,000 feet altitude a few miles southeast of Agassiz, which is 70 miles east of Vancouver.

E. R. R. Field, C.P.A. superintendent, Vancouver, who made the announcement, said the plane was disclosed to view when the heavy snow which covered it melted.

A police party is making its way to the scene on foot.

Many of the 10 passengers were on their way to Vancouver to spend Christmas with relatives. The crew consisted of Pilot Ernest Hubicek of Edmonton, Co-Pilot Bill Holland of Hamilton, Ont., and Stewardess Edna Young of Edmonton. Kubicek and Holland were well known bush pilots and Holland had just completed two years' service with the R.A.F. Ferry Command.

Last word from the plane came by radio when the ship was only 11 minutes flying time from Vancouver airport. This message estimated the arrival time in Vancouver and made no mention of any trouble. The airport called to give landing instructions, but there was no reply.

CAMPBELLFORD

Rotary Motto Idea For Peace

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 10 (ENS)—The spirit of friendship as demonstrated by Rotarians and adherence to the motto 'service above self' may play a more important part in ensuring the future peace of the world than any decisions reached at the peace table. That was the opinion expresed by O. N. Newton of Trenton who was guest speaker at the Campbellford Rotary Club on Monday.

Mr. Newton, who heads the publicity and information committee in the Trenton club gave members an interesting talk on youth service week conducted by Rotarians of that town and explained how it had been merged with a hobby fair which attracted 500 entries. The speaker outlined various phases of the week's program which had included a sports day, oratorical contest, music festival and wound up with a youth Sunday at the churches which brought out three times the normal attendance in young people.

Mr. Newton emphasized the importance of the work done by clubs among crippled children but was of the opinion this activity was regarded more of an individual club enterprise than as specific policy of Rotary. He advocated making it a more important part of the program with every club laying aside a certain amount of money for this work each year.

Rotarian A. K. Loucks moved a vote of thanks to the speaker and guests at the meeting included LAC Art Abernethy of Campbellford; Messrs. Albert Farrar and Harold Newton of Trenton.

Foolish Optimism

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 9.—(AP).—Navy Secretary Frank Knox today labelled as "foolish optimism" the belief that the war will end this year.

CAMPBELLFORD

Utilities Expects To Have Surplus

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 10. — (ENS).—As monthly receipts continue to exceed those of last year the Utilities Commission is looking forward to carrying over a record surplus when 1943 ends. This was indicated at the August meeting of the Commission held here Monday night when Chairman J. O. Benor disclosed receipts for the seven months ending July 31 were well above those for the same period a year ago.

Evidence of what was termed the "more prosperous position of users" came from Manager P. C. Denyes who said that the Utilities had actually collected $72.35 more than they had billed for last month and arrears were down from $2,086 a year ago to $1,973 at the end of the last billing period.

It was revealed that a claim for a new water boiler at the residence of J. C. Birmingham on Ranney street had been paid by the insurance company, which had carried the Utilities liability policy. The manager explained the residence was at the end of the water main and when the valve had been opened to provide water for the town steam roller the sudden back pressure when it was turned off had caused the boiler to burst. The claim amounted to $34.

COBOURG

House Thieves Up For Sentence

COBOURG, Aug. 10—(ENS).—Arrested in Port Hope two weeks ago after they had broken into two homes near Dale, Raymond Robbins and Nick Crinkovich of Port Colborne appeared before the magistrate yesterday and pleaded guilty to two charges of breaking and entering. They were remanded until Saturday for sentence.

Chief Gordon Hardy of Port Hope and Provincial Constable David Adair of Cobourg arrested the two after a call had been received from the home of Allan Meadows, resident near Dale. It was revealed that the two accused had called at the home of Mr. Meadows to enquire the way to Toronto. Later when Mrs. Meadows came in from the garden she noticed that the dog was growling and she saw a man dash from the house. She fastened the screen door and phoned the police. On coming from the phone she saw that the screen door was again open and assumed that the second man had been in the house and had fled while she was phoning. She was able to give a good description of the two and was able to identify them later when police rounded them up.

In addition to the break-in at the Meadows home, the two admitted that they had entered the house of Mrs. Addie Boughen where a bracelet was stolen. Mrs. Boughen identified the bracelet.

COBOURG

Cabbage Raisers Having Luck With New Crop

COBOURG, Aug. 10—(ENS)—Last spring when Northumberland County farmers were asked to grow three or four hundred acres of cabbage for dehydration purposes, there was some concern regarding the successful achievement of the objective.

Some 60 growers met in the office of the county agricultural representative early in May and devoted an evening to a discussion of cabbage culture methods under the direction of C. L. Thomson, vegetable specialist of the Horticultural Department of the Ontario College of Agriculture.

Recently Mr. Thomson visited Northumberland again and was taken by R. C. Banbury, county agricultural representative, to see some of the larger growers and their crops. W. A. Hogle of Campbellford, it was found, had by far the largest acreage in the county and may be the largest in eastern Ontario. He set 115,000 cabbage plants in a 15-acre area. Much of this is grown in a 1,000-tree, four-year-old orchard of alternated McIntosh and Greening apples.

The crop varied according to time of planting but the leaf growth was excellent, possibly due to the fact that he was the only grower who had dusted twice with the mixture of one part arsenate of lead and three to five parts of hydrated lime. This control of the green cabbage worm, which causes much damage by eating large holes in the leaves, enables the plant to make greater growth.

Plant With Drill

Gordon Thorne and Son on the Brighton-Campbellford road, were found to have particularly good cabbage. In the Colborne area some excellent fields were seen. The one on the farm of Mr. Frank Roddy was of interest in that the seed was planted directly into the field with a turnip drill and the plants thinned out. This stand was good but the price of seed must be balanced against the transplanting difficulties, which, with the present scarciy, is a considerable factor. On the other hand, the survey revealed, some fields in transplanting may require a third replacement and water is desirable unless weather conditions are fairly moist.

The cabbage acreage of Messrs. Bell and Hayes of Colborne promised a particularly good yield. Near Brighton some good fields are growing and those of Sidney Tinson and Morley Simpson, were interesting. Most of the fields were set in the last few days of June and the first week of July and in their five weeks of growth the top is remarkable. In some fields the turnip asphid is causing some trouble and can be controlled with a nicotine-sulphate spray. The use of a starter with water when transplanting was shown to be a very desirable thing.

GORE'S LANDING

Muskie Jumps In With Anglers

GORE'S LANDING, Aug. 10. — (ENS).— A five-pound muskie, which jumped over the gunwale into their boat, was brought into Herald's Camp by two excited fishermen on Sunday morning.

Pte. P. G. McKay of Canadian Army Trade School, Hamilton, and Adam Stasnik, 14 Birch Ave., Mt. Dennis, went to the north point of Sheep Island and anchored on Sunday. The fish were elusive and only a few perch nibbled away their stock of worms.

Finally, short of bait, Pte. McKay left a perch about 4 inches long dangling from the hook. Idly playing the fish up and down through the water, a 'lunge saw it and raced for the perch. Grabbing it, the muskie went under the boat. Tension on the line turned the 'lunge in its course. It jumped with the fish in its mouth and landed over the gunwale into the boat.

The fish was despatched with the only weapon at hand—an empty pop bottle.

His SCIATICA has Never Returned

"I've finished with sciatica," says Mr. Faulkner. He's probably right, too. It's four years since he last had it. What did he take for it? Let him tell you:—

"For 18 months I suffered with chronic sciatica and rheumatic pains," he writes, "and was unable to walk without the aid of a cane. But after taking Kruschen Salts for a short time, I was able to throw away the cane. It is now 4 years since this happened, and I have had no return of the complaint, and have not lost a day from work. I shall never be without Kruschen Salts as they are worth their weight in gold. You can use this letter as you please, as I can honestly recomment Kruschen Salts to any sufferer."—C. Faulkner.

The shooting pain of sciatica is often due to needle-pointed uric acid crystals piercing the sheath of the great sciatic nerve. Two of the ingredient salts in Kruschen help dissolve uric acid crystals. Other salts in Kruschen help Nature to expel these dissolved crystals through the natural channels. Still other salts in Kruschen prevent uric acid and other body poisons from forming again. That is why Kruschen sometimes succeeds where other treatments have failed.

Your nearest drug store has Kruschen Salts. 25c and 75c.

Triumvirate In Germany?

There are persistent rumours from neutral sources that Adolf Hitler has been shorn of his great powers as German dictator, and has been succeeded by a triumvirate made up of Reichmarshal Hermann Goering, Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel and Grand Admira' Karl Doenitz. The powers placed in Goering's hands are described by the Spanish press as of "enormous magnitude".

If these rumours have any basis in fact the news is good indeed. In order to keep up morale at home the Germans will retain Hitler as a figurehead, for they have recently seen the disintegration of Italy under the news that Mussolini had fallen. But the deposition of the dictator in fact, and the substitution of a triumvirate, looks very much as though the Germans realized that the jig was up, and were preparing themselves for a final stand. It has been predicted for many months that when the showdown came the Germans would get rid of Hitler and would substitute a military government for him. The retention of Hitler and the Nazi party is understandable; to repudiate them now would be to turn Germany into a chaos. But the assumption has always been that when her final hour came Germany would trust her High Command either to pull her out of the hole, or to get the best possible terms of peace.

The Germans know which way the wind is blowing, and they know their ability to stand against the wind far better than we do. Their summer campaign in Russia has been a failure, and although they are still strong on the Eastern front the Russians are pushing ahead inexorably. The Sicilian campaign has been a fiasco, and the Germans may suffer a minor Dunkirk in the Straits of Messina. The Badoglio government is shilly-shallying between total surrender and the terrible assault which it knows will come if Italy offers resistance to the Allies. Germany may well set her house in order for a final struggle.

The choice of Goering to head the government would be a politic one. He is reputed to have the affection and trust of the German people, and he is also a man of more compromising, practical and accommodating temperament than Hitler. According to rumour, his associates are the heads of the other two armed forces, so that the triumvirate includes the military heads of the nation, two men of the supposedly wily and politically astute General Staff, and the one Nazi leader who won a good word from foreign diplomats before war broke out. If this rumour should be proved true, the United Nations may take it as a sign that Germany feels that the last battle is near. And terrible as that battle may be, we have no doubt who will win it.

Haile Selassie's Summing-Up

There has been some rather irresponsible discussion of what should be done with the dictators after the war in a section of the press, arising from President Roosevelt's declaration that they should not go unscathed. And for some time it has been a popular joke to say that when Mussolini was captured he should be given to the Ethiopians for the punishment which was coming to him; the assumption, apparently, being that the race which he despoiled would treat him to a display of the most savage African vengeance. But the popular North American notion of the Ethiopians as a rabble of screaming savages is not supported by fact. When he was asked recently whether his country would ask for permission to deal with Mussolini, the Emperor of Ethiopia, Haile Selassie, spoke thus:

> ...However important it is that Mussolini should be punished, this is only the negative aspect of re-establishing the principles of international justice. Ethiopia is less interested in vengeance for the past than in justice for the future. It is much more important to Ethiopia to be given the opportunity to share in the building and maintaining of international institutions that will prevent the rise of political bullies trampling on the rights of small nations.

These words, from the ruler of a cruelly wronged people, have the unmistakeable ring of nobility.

The Emperor is right. When the war is over we must not permit the peace settlement to waste too much time in vengeance. Undoubtedly the ringleaders of the Fascist and Nazi regimes must be found and punished for their crimes by some process of law. But the important job is to build the peace so firmly that it will not merely be a breeder of new wars. Haile Selassie has summed up the matter with a sagacity and foresight which any statesman might envy.

Local Wood Situation

Wood will be scarce in Peterborough during the coming winter and the City Council is taking steps to procure a supply in order to stave off actual hardship among those who use wood entirely to heat their homes. As we understand the matter, it is the Council's intention to advertise in some of the smaller newspapers in the county for wood which can be brought to the city.

This is a good move, but is it enough? Not much time is left for felling, cutting and hauling wood, and quick action will be needed to get good results. Would it be possible to send a man who knows the wood business through the county to see what there is to be had, and to use his powers of persuasion to get it for the city? This would seem to be the most decisive course, and the one most likely to bring good results. The city, we are sure, would not grudge the comparatively small cost of the buyer's travels if he were able to avert a serious lack of wood next winter.

High School Age Voters

The State of Georgia, we observe, has extended the vote to all its citizens who have reached 18 years of age. Perhaps it is right to do so. If young people are expected to fight for their country at 18, they may reasonably expect to have a voice in the way that country is governed. Mrs. Roosevelt has said, "If they're old enough to fight, they're old enough to vote", and although there is a difference between the function of a soldier and the function of a vote — no one, for instance, would say, "If he's old enough to fight he's old enough to b. President" —there is enough justice in her assertion to permit the eighteen-year-olds to press their claim.

There is nothing especially sacrosanct about the age of twenty-one; it is the age at which, in our law, a youth becomes responsible for his own actions entirely, but it is an arbitrary figure, set for convenience. During the last war Great Britain extended the vote to members of the armed forces who had reached the age of 19. In Japan no one may vote until he is 25, and in Russia the right to vote comes at eighteen.

But here in Canada our problem is not to lower the voting age in order to oblige a host of eager young citizens, but to induce those who already have the vote to use it. At the recent election about half the voters took the trouble to go to the polls. And although a great commotion has been made about those soldiers overseas who did not receive proxies, we have had no figures yet—and do not expect that they will be forthcoming — which will tell us how many soldiers received proxy forms and did not trouble to use them. The notion that all the soldiers abroad were clamouring for a vote was a pipe-dream. The plain truth is that a great number of possible voters in Canada do not care enough about public affairs to make use of their franchise.

How the voters are to be lured to the polls we cannot say. Perhaps the Dominion should adopt the tactics of the movie-houses, and offer a set of china as a return for each vote polled.

NOTE AND COMMENT

If two men exchange dollar bills each has only one dollar; but if they exchange ideas each is the richer by an idea.

Ann Sheridan was elected by Canadian soldiers as "the girl from whom we would most like to have a blood transfusion".

A lot of people who were surprised when Hitler joined Mussolini the first time won't even blink when next he does it.

Now we know why the Russians chose the hammer and sickle for their insignia. Those that they don't smack down, they mow down.

A strike in a Philadelphia iron works was called off when the union president addressed his comrades thus: "All of us have sons, brothers, husbands, and other relatives in the service. The work we do is vital to them. If you walked out now you'd be going back on them. Do you think we'll be able to face the boys if we go out?" That sort of talk, from a union leader, is downright subversive!

The Dominion Sells A Pup

By B. K. SANDWELL
(Saturday Night)

I GATHER that the Dominion Government is still selling annuity contracts to ill-informed Canadian investors who have not realized that much of what they get in exchange for their capital payment will be taken away from them by what is improperly called income tax. This appears to me to be little less than an attempt on the part of the Crown to obtain money under false pretences; and I have no hesitation in saying that my advice to anybody living within reach of the Canadian income tax collectors is to have nothing to do with any annuity of any kind whatsoever. This includes all life insurance policies which offer periodic payments during the whole life of the payee beginning with a certain event, namely the death of the insured or his attainment of a certain age; wherever possible within the terms of the contract these should be converted into a fixed number of capital payments, in which case only the interest element and not the capital repayment is taxable. If this conversion can be made now, it should be made even if the annuity has already become payable; the government itself refuses to recapitalize an annuity when once it has sold it, but if I am not mistaken most life insurance companies are a trifle more elastic.

Saturday Night has been provided with copies of correspondence between the Government Annuities Branch of the Department of Labor and Mr. W. A. Werden of Mimico, Ont., who was so ill-advised as to purchase annuities from the branch on May 15 and August 14, 1942. Being purchased later than June, 1940, when the Income Tax Act was amended these annuities are classified as income on investment for purposes of taxation and are wholly subject to taxation at the current rates. When he discovered this, or rather when it was drawn to his attention by the Inspector of Income Tax, Mr. Werden applied to the branch for the conversion of the annuities into war bonds, subject of course to a reduction of the amount on account of the payments already received. He was informed that "we are not permitted to cancel an annuity contract when once it is in force."

HE was also informed that the Minister of Finance when defending in the House of Commons the policy of taxing the whole of the annuity payments indicated "that when one buys an annuity it is an exchange of a fund for a flow, that one disposes of the capital and takes in return income." This is a very interesting concept, but it involves the concealed assumption that the unfortunate annuitant has not only disposed of his capital but has destroyed it.

In no other form of investment is capital destroyed by being invested. In all other forms of investment the investor receives income while abstaining from the use of his capital and ultimately gets his capital back. In all other investments where the nature of the investment is such that there will come a time when there is no more capital left, the taxing authority expressly realizes this condition, and allows a portion of the annual receipts to pass untaxed into the hands of the capital owner. Thus in mining companies an allowance is made for the progressive exhaustion of the mine, and in the case of rented real estate allowance is made for the progressive deterioration of the structure. Only the man who has parted with a thousand dollars to purchase an annuity, and who after the last annuity payment will have no single cent of his thousand dollars left to leave to his heirs, is subjected to income tax not alone on that part of the payments to him which is merely the interest on his capital, but also on that larger part which is simply the return of his capital in successive instalments.

THE actuarial principle of the annuity is perfectly well understood by all who have anything to do with it. Unfortunately those who have something to do with it in government offices are in the Labor Department and the Insurance Department and not the Finance Department. The principle is simply the reverse of life insurance. In both cases the probable average duration of life is well known from an enormous mass of experience. In life insurance a fund is gradually accumulated by the company or government selling the insurance, at a rate sufficient to insure the payment of a certain sum to all the contributors at death. In annuities, the fund is made up of single payments sufficiently large to insure that it shall be able to pay to all the contributors a certain specified amount per year until their death. While the fund is in the hands of the company or government it earns interest; that interest is the only real income involved in the whole business. Its amount is easily ascertainable for purposes of taxation, but in the case of life insurance nobody has suggested that even this portion of the payments should be taxed, and indeed it is so small a part of the whole that it would be hardly worth while to attempt to distinguish it. On principle, nobody could object to the taxation of the interest element in annuity payments, but what the Government is doing is to tax both the interest element and the repayments of capital.

The reason why so little protest has been raised about this treatment of annuities is probably the fact that the great majority of the annuities which are entirely inconvertible, such as the Government's annuities, are held by persons who have no other income and are consequently exempt in any case to the extent of $660 and are only taxed at a very low rate on the excess. Those who are seriously victimized are the individuals—widows or elderly men—who have annuities as part of the investment of a considerable total fund of capital. Some of these are being taxed at the rate of 60 or 70 per cent. on what is nothing more nor less than a return to them of their own money.

This applies particularly to annuitants under wills, and every testator whose will at present makes provision for an anuity payment to any beneficiary should immediately add a codicil stating that if the Dominion Government is still taxing annuities at the time of his death this arrangement is to be cancelled and another non-taxable form of payment substituted.

IT should be added here that annuity contracts entered into prior to May 26, 1932, are exempt up to $5,000 per annum, and those between that date and June 25, 1940, to the extent of $1,200. All those entered into since June 25, 1940, are fully taxable. But annual payments for a fixed number of years, involving no life contingency, are taxable only on the interest element.

As for Mr. Werden, it is perfectly obvious that no sane individual would have done what he did, on May 15 and August 14, 1942, after the 1940 amendment, if he had known what he was doing. Furthermore a government which would sell him this pup without mentioning the fact that it had already tied a string to it with a view of yanking it back was in my opinion performing an act of a decidedly shady ethical character. I feel very strongly that in view of what Mr. Ilsley's department has done, Mr. Mitchell's department ought to change its ruling and give Mr. Werden back his money. After all, it will cost Mr. Mitchell's department nothing but a little bookkeeping, and what Mr. Ilsley's department will lose by it is something that it should never have had.

Cuba Is a Many-Sided Gem

COLOUR is what you will remember of the Cuban countryside; the country people have a flair for using brilliant hues around their abodes in a manner that aids and abets Nature's not inconsiderable efforts. Overhead the laurel trees meet in an unending cool arch of green; tall palms rear their feather-duster heads proudly. Bougainvillea shrubs cling tenaciously to doorway and old fences; everywhere one looks the "golden shower" vine cascades in a dazzle of orange. There are flowering white jasmine with tiny star-shaped blossoms, trumpet vine, pink-flowered oleander and hedges of vibrant red mar pacifico along the roadside. The brilliance of the landscape must put the village homes on their mettle. Even the humblest palm-thatched bohio is filled with tins of vines and blooms hanging on the walls, festooned over doorways and windows, fastened wherever possible. Equal to their love of color is the country people's fetish for plants. Simple cottages have their setting in the centre of carefully tended gardens thick with shamrocky Japanese grass, luxuriantly abloom....

Notice the clothes of the country people, the highly starched, tightly fitting guayaberas of the men, the bright frocks of the women. Vivid shades are chosen and pastels barred because, the story goes, colours like green or white blend too easily with the surrounding landscape....

Only lack of space prevents us from listing all the captivating spots in Cuba. There are Cienfuegos on the shores of the Caribbean, with one of the finest natural harbours in the world; Trinidad, the oldest city on the island, now being converted into a national shrine; Baracoa, the first capital of the country; countless towns and villages that provide entertainment for the visitor. Go as far as you can. Each place is individual and arresting, absorbing different from the last. Each, in its own right, gives evidence of the agricultural, industrial, and social versatility of the country; each is a new facet in the many-sided gem that is Cuba. — From "Havana Manana—A Guide to Cuba and the Cubans," by Consuelo Hermer and Marjorie May. (New York: Random House.)

So Many Great Painters

ONE should visualize well the Paris of the sixties. Perhaps not since the golden days of the Venetian school, when Giorgione and Titian and Tintoretto (and an obscure student to be known later as El Greco) were within call of one another, had a single city harboured so many great painters. There were, in addition to that incomparable student group, the two youthful innovators, stirred by the call to realism but taking the first timid step into the region beyond realism, Manet and Whistler. There was the decorator Puvis de Chavannes. There was the master of realism himself, Courbet. More remarkable and sometimes forgotten, there were still living the master of the French classicists, Ingres, and the master of the romanticists, Delacroix, and those three true independents of the mid-century, Corot, Millet, and Daumier. In a slightly lower range (and suburban) were Daubigny, Dupre, and Diaz.

Side by side with the leaders of the elder revolutions, side by side with the creative innovators, a third group painted in Paris: the conservatives, the academics, the safe and obedient painters, the upholders of sanity in art. Their names tend to escape later generations, but in the early eighteen-sixties Couture and Fromentin, Bouguereau and Cabanel, Meissonier and Tryon, were the winners of honours and the overwhelming favourites of critics and public. They form the solid phalanx of orthodoxy against which the revolutionaries shatter themselves; until one day, no one knows how, a rebel pierces the front, establishes a new centre for a new orthodoxy, and in turn shapes a new phalanx.—From "The Story of Modern Art," by Sheldon Cheney. (New York: Viking.)

The Love of Men for Books

IT is essential that the collecting of books come within the bounds of an exact science. Knowledge of facts is as fundamental in book-collecting as in mathematics. In both instances, one is either right or wrong. Far too many errors have been committed already under the guise of bibliography to permit of many more, but one can hardly be expected to confine his collecting endeavors to such rules as may be proposed by any who have a selfish interest in seeing the popular trend of collecting sway from one subject or one author to another. Of course, fashions have always existed in book-collecting and always will. In one year the journals and catalogues will be filled with praise of Eighteenth Century Literature at another time, in earnest exhortation of Modern Authors or the Elizabethan Dramatists. It is earnestly hoped that the embryo collector will not attempt to follow the fashions in the game or what for the moment seems the most popular subject or author, but rather that he will follow the dictates of his own heart. Most of all, the collector must read the books that he buys, although there are many who will take exception to this statement. This last he is bound to do if he remains indifferent to the popular trend. In the end, if he sticks to his own pre-conceived plan, he will have a library of value to others as well as to himself, and at the same time he will know the comforting sensation of having assembled and, in effect, created a collection of books that quite possibly is not duplicated. Such a library is bound to be unique if it bears evidence of the owner's personality as reflected in his taste and judgment. The sincere collector who is honest with himself, therefore, will not be distracted by any expression of popular fancy. He will continue on his own sweet way and as the months and years go on, he will be amazed at the extent to which his collection has grown and the value it has acquired.

While there are records of the activities of book collectors from the time of Petrarch (1304-1373) who was a forerunner of Aldus Manutius in the origin and evolution of books, it is rather surprising that there is such a scarcity of literature regarding a subject which has so completely held the interests of men throughout past centuries down to the present time. One astonishing characteristic of book-collecting is its steady cumulative growth. Regardless of war, plague, economic change or the most disastrous events that history chronicles, the love of men for books and the acquisitive instinct that impels them to buy and preserve books and to pass them on to those who follow after is an outstanding redeeming factor in a world that has suffered much since its creation. The perennial interest of men in books has probably done more than religion or any other present or inherited grace to excuse the civilization of our predecessors.

Nations war against one another; a conquering emperor proclaims that all books must be destroyed lest they put strange thoughts into the minds of his latest subjects and thus endanger his new throne. His edict becomes law, but back in the Middle Ages we have glimpses of monks, the only learned men of their time, feverishly walling up in some remote part of their subterranean cloisters what small portion of their slim stock of books they can hide before soldiers put into effect the king's word.—

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

HEARKEN unto me, my people; and give ear unto me, O my nation: for a law shall proceed from me, and I will make my judgment to rest for a light of the people.

My righteousness is near; my salvation is gone forth, and mine arms shall judge the people; the isles shall wait upon me, and on mine arm shall they trust....

Hearken unto me, ye that know righteousness, the people in whose heart is my law. (Isa. 51: 4, 5, 7.)

Break forth into joy, sing together, ye waste places of Jerusalem: for the Lord hath comforted his people, he hath redeemed Jerusalem.

The Lord hath made bare his holy arm in the eyes of all the nations; and all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation of our God. (Isa. 52: 9, 10.)

Blessed are the poor in spirit: for their's is the kingdom of heaven.

Blessed are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted....

Blessed are the merciful: for they shall obtain mercy.

Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God. (Matt. 5: 3, 4, 7, 8.)

Unconsidered Trifles

"Morning, Brown, How's everything at home?"
"The wife's well, thank you."

A certain "best seller" novelist was walking with a friend when they passed a house on which a tablet had recently been fixed to commemorate the fact that a poet once lived there.

"I wonder what they'll put over my door when I die?" said the novelist, musingly.

"House to let," replied his friend, promptly.

"Gus," said Bill as he caught up with Gus on the way back to camp, "are all the rest of the boys out of the woods yet?"

"Yes," said Gus.

"All six of them?"

"Yep," answered Gus, "they're all safe."

"Then," said Bill, his chest swelling, "I've shot a deer."

A local preacher was asked to preach at a chapel about six miles from his home. Taking his wife with him, they reached the chapel at black-out time, the wife entering by the main door and her husband by the vestry door. A deacon found the lady a seat and brought her a hymn book. After the service he again went to her in a friendly manner and said, "I hope we shall have the pleasure of seeing you here again. We have some very nice services here, but," he added in an undertone, "it isn't very often we get such a duffer in the pulpit as the one we've had tonight."

The bus was starting in the midst of a torrent of rain, when the conductor put his head inside and inquired: "Will any gentleman get outside and oblige a lady?"

"She can come inside and sit on my knee, if she likes," said a passenger, jocularly, and, to his great surprise, in bounced a buxom woman who forthwith appropriated the offered knee.

After a time the man got into a conversation with his burden, and asked her where she was going. On hearing her destination, he exclaimed, "Bless me, that's my house!"

"Yes, sir," replied the woman, blushing. "I'm the new cook!"

Miss Grace Tucker Works Among Jap Internees in B.C.

Miss Grace Tucker, after five years away from the city, is now spending a three months' leave of absence from her work among the Japanese in British Columbia, in Peterborough. A one-time employee of the Examiner, Miss Tucker worked up to a year ago since leaving the city, with the Anglican Mission Board in British Columbia.

Some years ago, under the auspices of the Board, she spent three years in Japan, studying the language and customs of the country, first spending a year at a language school in Tokyo, and then studying in different parts of Japan. She then returned, nine years ago, to her work in Canada, which consisted of the establishment and management of kindergartens, English classes and children's clubs for native and Canadian-born Japanese in Canada's Pacific coast province.

Miss Tucker found her work deeply interesting. Asked if the Japanese were responsive, she said that they were eager and quick to learn and showed great perseverance in mastering difficulties.

Moved Away

A year ago, however, all the Japanese, nationals and Canadian-born alike, were moved away from the Pacific coast, at least 100 miles inland. Many of the Japanese left voluntarily, some moving to inland cities, others going onto farms. A number are doing remarkably well on sugar-beet farms in Alberta.

Those who did not go voluntarily were interned in camps at various places throughout the Dominion. Seven thousand of them were interned in camps in the Slocan Valley, 1,800 feet up in the Rockies, and of these 300 were sent to Slocan city, a ghost town in the valley, where Miss Tucker is now doing welfare work among them on behalf of the British Columbia Security Commission.

Miss Tucker said that many of the Japanese were resentful at their internment. "They feel that racial prejudice has as much to do with their treatment as the fact that Canada and Japan are at war, and the young people in particular do not feel that their treatment has been in accordance with the idea of democracy which they have learned at school. They feel very badly about the fact that even Canadian-born Japanese are not allowed to enter the armed services."

Lovely Gardens

Miss Tucker said that when they first went to Slocan city there was very little work, and most of the people were on relief. Now, however, the government has begun a lumber project which will employ a large number of men. Although the country round the town is barren, said Miss Tucker, they have already established beautiful gardens.

Before any other work was done, the town had to be rebuilt and made fit for human habitation. High up in the Rockies the winters are cold, with a great deal of snow, and part of the new population of Slocan city was, like some Canadian soldiers, still under canvas in the Rockies when the first snow fell.

Guide Leaders To Train At Brockville

There is hardly a girl who does not want to be a Girl Guide. The uniform, the badges, the mysterious-looking names and the group service projects lure her, yet she is often deprived of these experiences because of lack of leadership in her community.

There are many fine, capable women scattered through this province who are needed to further the cause of Girl Guiding and who are ready to serve. Yet ability and willingness are not enough. Understanding of the fundamentals of the movement are necessary. The most attractive way to gain this understanding is through a Training School run by experienced Guides. One of these will be available for Eastern Ontario Guiders this summer.

Beginning September 1 a week of training will be given at Maitland, five miles east of Brockville. Guiders will enjoy seven days of fellowship in a cottage overlooking the beautiful St. Lawrence River. The cost will be only five dollars.

Training will be given in all branches of Guide and Brownie work including program planning, folk dancing and singing, story telling, psychology, handcrafts, nature, Brownie Magic, test work, citizenship, company and pack management, ceremonials and physical development. French training will be a specialty. There will be discussion groups when mutual problems can be cleared up.

If you have a pack or company, or if you would like to have one, try to attend this school. The opportunity may not be yours again.

C W A C Girl Finds England Has Plenty of Excitement

By Pte. Charmian Sansom, CWAC

The other night I stood on a cliff on the Cornish coast, watching the sun sinking into its bed of pink and mauve clouds. Above, the gulls wheeled and soared in the wind, and below the sea dashed itself against the rocky shore. The only reminder of war, was the trim silhouette of an aircraft against the evening sky.

Pte. Charmian Sansom

Dad and I had been fortunate enough to be able to spend a week's leave together and he couldn't have picked a more wildly beautiful spot.

I was amazed to find that the accent of the Cornish people is more like that of Canadians than any other I have heard in England. During one of our rambles, we had a chat with a very friendly farmer who might have lived in Ontario all his life to judge from his speech.

The village nearby was quite fascinating. The streets were so narrow that when a bus came by, I felt quite sure that it would scrape the houses on either side. The houses are nearly all whitewashed, which gives the village a very clean appearance. Dad was looking for a barber, but his search was fruitless. The barber, they told us, had joined up, and now, if you wanted a haircut, you had to wait until Thursday night, when a barber came around from another town! I saw my first thatched roof, and heard my first cuckoo here.

But enough about Cornwall.

English Ignore the Shells

I must tell you about my visit to Folkestone. On a clear day you can see the coast of occupied France from this south-east coast town. In peace-time, it must have been beautiful and gay, but now its gardens are neglected, its houses battered, and its parks mutilated by trenches and bomb craters. Grass is growing up between the pavements.

During the night I was there, two shells landed in the area fired by guns on the French coast. We went to view the damage the next day. One shell had landed in the middle of a road leaving a huge crater, and breaking windows and scarring houses for some distance around. The other had come down in a garden doing no damage.

There was a little boy making mud-pies in the crater it had left.

Hardly a day goes by that this coast-town has not at least one "Alert." But the people who stay on, doggedly refusing to leave their homes for a safer place, remain cheerful and philosophic through it all. The English are wonderful people!

The most thrilling thing I have to tell you about though, is the recent investiture at Buckingham Palace, where I watched men from all parts of the British Empire being decorated by the Queen in recognition of their services.

Close to the Queen

I was lucky enough to have a place directly in front of Her Majesty, who looked so beautiful that I was completely spell-bound, and also amazed, for this enchanting and yet completely regal little Queen, had a smile and a few words for each of the 211 men and women she decorated.

The first to come before her was Wing Commander Gibson, nicknamed "Dam-buster," who received his V.C. for his unparalleled gallantry and courage. Then came men and women from all corners of the free world, and I was proud to see many Canadians among them.

Never a dull moment in London! I was having lunch in a restaurant the other day, when I noticed a man sitting at a nearby table. The waitress assured me that it was Ian Hunter, the movie actor.

I could hardly wait to tell my room-mates about it. "Hmph" scoffed Cpl. Cecilia Fleming of Ottawa, "That's nothing. The other night when I went to see the play 'The Watch On the Rhine,' Winston Churchill and his wife and daughter sat two rows in front of me!" You just can't win!

Hospital Needs More Graduate Nurses

Due to the large number of graduate nurses who are enlisting in the armed forces, Nicholls Hospital, as well as others across the country, have been crippled by a lack of graduate nurses and have now arranged an 8-hour day so that married and retired nurses who have other duties, but want to make some contribution to the war effort, can carry on general floor duty.

At the present time there is a mother with seven children, who lives on a farm, but who is a registered nurse, and she is giving a good deal of her time to help keep the hospital functioning. She also has a son overseas. The nursing classes are the same as for several years past, but since the opening of the new wing the staff has never had the required number of graduate nurses doing floor duty.

Women can do day or night work and if there are some who cannot take on the 8-hour duty, the hospital is willing to take them on 4-hour shifts.

War Plants Try To Make Women More Contented

OTTAWA, Aug. 10 (CP).— Most Canadian war plants have taken their own steps to make life easier for their women workers, Munitions Department officials said today.

They have found effective a system of appointing a "counsellor" —the title may vary in different plants—who has the job of finding out reasons for persistent absenteeism among women workers and providing a cure.

Officials cited the case of one young woman who frequently was absent from illness and the young woman hesitated to be away from the house all day. The counsellor located a neighbor who was prepared to keep an eye on the house, and the young woman could go to work with a free mind.

For mothers working in war plants, arrangements have been made by Federal and Provincial governments for day nurseries in Montreal and Toronto. In small centres many war plants have encouraged community organizations which perform similar work.

No centralized organization has been established for dealing with problems of women war workers as a whole since, officials said, the problems of individual communities differ. In some, stores might close early and arrangements might have to be made with merchants to see that some kept open for housewives who work late shifts.

Officials said experience had demonstrated the importance of having beauty parlors installed in war plants.

DOROTHY DIX

HOLDING MAN WHOSE LOVE HAS GONE IS WORSE THAN DIVORCE

Wife Would Do Better By Self and Children to Give In Before Strain Wrecks Lives.

DEAR MISS DIX—My husband and I are around 32 years of age and have been married for 12 years. We have two children, a boy 10 years old and a girl 7. We were devoted to one another and our home and children until about a year ago when he began going out with another woman.

Thinking this a passing fancy, I appealed to him for the sake of the children to give up this other woman, but he told me that he no longer loved me and that he was in love with this other woman, and he begged me to give him a divorce. I refused as I am still very much in love with him and want to keep him for myself, as well as for the sake of our children. I thought in time he would get over this other woman, but he does not. He refuses my affection and is nervous and strained at home. Cross to the children and acts as if he hates me. Says he cannot stand for me to even touch him.

Am I doing the right thing by refusing to give him a divorce and forcing him to live with me and the children when he tells me continually that he does not love me and that he does love this other woman?

N. J. K.

Holding Man By Law Alone Is Horrible

ANSWER—No, I think you are doing a wrong and foolish thing in forcing your husband to live with you when he feels the way he does about you. I am very much opposed to divorce if it can possibly be avoided, but there are times and circumstances in which it is as necessary as the surgeon's knife that cuts away a cancerous growth.

You are accomplishing no good by holding your husband by the legal chains that bind him to you. You cannot bring him back to you that way because every day he hates you more and more because you stand between him and the happiness he craves. And surely you can find no happiness in being daily associated with one whose resentment is so great against you that he cannot even bear your touch. To hold a man's body after his heart and his soul have gone from you seems to me as horrible a thing as it would be to drag around a rotting corpse.

Undoubtedly the children suffer in every divorce because they need the love and care of both a father and a mother and the security of a home in which to grow up, but for children to have the ideal home background and rearing depends upon the mother and father loving each other and getting along in peace with each other.

No greater misfortune can befall youngsters than to be reared in a home like yours, where the atmosphere is poisoned with hate; where the father and mother are enemies, and where the home is a place of continual strife. Better no home at all than such a home. Better one parent and peace and love than two who hurl bitter criminations and recriminations against each other.

I think that you will be much happier if you accept the fact that your husband has ceased to love you and does love another woman, and give him his divorce and let him marry her. Do it before he is so wrecked with the strain that he is under now that he will be unable to provide for the children. You are young enough to make another life for yourself, and it will be a better one than this in which you are torn by the struggle to get back what you have lost and can never regain. There is great peace in finality.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX — Several years ago I left my husband and little daughter to live with a married man because he promised to look after me. I took it that he intended marriage, but I was so much in love I didn't pin him down to any definite promises. He has made no move to divorce his wife. He has recently bought her a lovely home, while I have to be satisfied with an apartment.

Now what I would like to know is this: Does he even intend to divorce his wife and marry me? Three years is a long time to wait for him to make up his mind. How can I bring things to a showdown? Another thing that worries me is: What does my daughter think of me? She is at a boarding school and only comes to see me occasionally. What does she tell her friends when they ask her why her mother does not live with her?

My only hope is to make Jack divorce his wife and marry me. Then I could make a home for my little daughter. Won't you tell me frankly just where I stand?

MUCH WORRIED.

Price of Illicit Love Must Be Paid

ANSWER—That's easy. You stand nowhere. Just on air. A few kisses, a little love-making, some pretty presents, some good times, with perhaps a few cocktails too many, don't give a woman any claim, moral or legal, on a man who she knew was married when she left her husband and child for him.

Even when he was persuading you to come and share a love nest with him this man did not promise to divorce his wife and marry you. He didn't deceive you about that. If you were foolish enough to think he would do so, it was because of your own wishful thinking. Now there isn't the remotest chance of his ever marrying you.

Three years is a long time for liaison to last. Yours is probably about over, and the more you insist upon the man divorcing his wife and marrying you and buying you a fine home, the sooner it will end, and you will find that even the doors of the love nest can be closed upon you.

As to what your daughter thinks of you, you must know the answer to that yourself. She is ashamed of you, and she tells her school mates a thousand lies when they question her about her mother.

Those who dance must pay the piper. And the price is high when we come to settle the bill.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I have been dating two girls. One of them thinks I should either marry her now, or stop seeing her. She doesn't know much about cooking or sewing. But the other girl is a fine cook and makes all of her own clothes. Which is the best bet?

JOHN.

ANSWER—If you have no preference in the matter, take the cook and seamstress. A man's heart may change, but he is always sure to have an appetite. Also, it is a great comfort to always have your buttons on and your socks darned.

SPORTS — DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

One of the largest softball crowds of the season is expected at Riverside Park tonight when the 4th Battery and Military Training Centre clubs will meet in the first game of their best-of-five semi-final playoff series. The two games the outfits have staged this summer have been among the best on the schedule, with the Battery coming home in front by a narrow margin in both contests, anc the fans are expecting another battle of the same calibre tonight, with both teams at full strength and ready for the crucial test. The Soldiers always have a big following and their supporters will all be on hand on this occasion, ready to root their favorites on to victory. The Battery team also have their followers and the vocal support is likely to be the loudest of the season. The Gunners have all their players back ready for action, and the camp team also reports a full roster, so there should be plenty of action from the first ball to the final out. The game will start sharp at 7 o'clock. It looks like Wilson and Starr as the battery for the Artillerymen and Wilson, Walker or Parsons and Taylor for Manager Harry Morgan's squad. The second game in the series will be played Thursday and the third is scheduled for Saturday evening.

The opening playoff game in the City Softball League Monday night was washed out, and as a result the Genelecs and Switchgear will have to wait until Wednesday night to open their best of five semi-final series. It is hoped that conditions will be OK then as the league cannot afford to have many postponed games if it is to complete its lengthy playoff setup in time for the winners to enter the Ontario playdowns. Genelecs, who finished the loop in first place, will be favorites to get out in front in this series by grabbing off the first game of the round with the Switchgear. However, Manager Murph Chambers' athletes cannot see it that way. They point out that they managed to hang a trimming on the Genelecs in one of the two games the clubs have staged this season, and they say they see no reason why they should not repeat the feat Wednesday night. At all events it should be quite a battle. Manager Chambers has Gene Reynold and Bert Harrison ready for action on the pitching mound, and he also has Lionel Holmes, who might be a surprise starter. Manager Ted Johnston is expected to lead off with Ronnie Akers, although Terry Woods has been pitching nice ball recently and is sure to figure in the series. Tomorrow night's game will start sharp at 7 o'clock.

Colts Finish On Top

Oshawa Colts, who won the Intermediate softball honors last season, are having themselves another good year. They wound up the Oshawa City League regular schedule the other night with a 10 to 1 win over Oshawa Laundry, finishing in first place without losing a game. Now they are awaiting the league playoffs and the Ontario series to follow. The Colts with most of last year's players with the exception of Catcher Ronnie Nelson, have won six games and tied two this season, and neither of their opponents in the Oshawa loops has been able to take a decision over them. The veteran pitcher, Preem Whitely, is twirling as effectively as ever, and he has a pitching mate, the clever Dean McLaughlin, giving the Colts two ace pitchers. They undoubtedly will win the league playoffs and emerge into provincial competition, which means that there is going to be some tough opposition ahead for whichever team happens to win the Peterborough title and the right to enter the Ontario playdowns.

* * * * * *

Speaking of their final victory in the regular schedule, the Oshawa Times-Gazette says: Oshawa Colts went through their 1943 Intermediate "A" softball schedule undefeated. Last night at Alexandra Park, in their final league fixture, they turned back Oshawa Laundry 10-0 in a snappy game that was played in just a little over the full hour. Colts will now sit back and wait for Oshawa Laundry and Oshawa Merchants to battle it out for the right to enter the 4-out-of-7 game final series. "Preem" Whiteley was in good form last night as he turned back the "Cleaners" in impressive style, allowing only four hits and one run. The orphan tally was a homer, a smashing liner that sailed over Trewin's head, in right field, to give Albert Samanski his team's only run of the night, in the second inning. In the third frame, "Yank" Rogers poled a long one into deep centre, but O'Reilly's fast fielding held Rogers at third base and he failed to get home. The only other hits collected by Oshawa Laundry were a single by Prince in the fifth frame and Meulmeuster's double in the seventh. Meulmeuster was tagged out trying to steal third base. Besides allowing only four hits and one run, Whiteley struck out seven batters and the outfielders had little to do. "Wib" Hall at third base and "Lefty" Thomson at first, took care of the brunt of the work.

A Real Argument

The battle between Earl McCready and John Katan, both former holders of the British Empire wrestling championship and present contenders for the same crown, made Monday night's Tunney grappling circus one of the best of the current series. The two big fellows, both of whom know what it is all about, staged a real battle and honors were about even. Each of them took a fall, McCready getting the first in 21 minutes and the Panther coming back with the second in 12 minutes. Then the pair battled for the rest of the hour without settling the argument, and both were strong and full of fight when the timer's bell ended the warfare for the night. So close was the contest that a return bout between the two would be a natural, particularly if the one-hour time limit were to be abolished and the battlers given ninety minutes to decide the question of which is the better man. Both men are strong, courageous and skilful, and they are so evenly matched that an hour is scarcely long enough to settle the argument. This column is inclined to the belief that Promoter Tnney will see the situation in the same light and will re-match the two rivals and give them an hour and a half to decide which of this pair of potent mat artists is the better performer.

Montreal is planning to establish hockey nurseries in the schools of the metropolis next winter, and the youngsters will not only be given an opportunity to play the game, but will receive coaching in hockey fundamentals. The head of the Montreal playground department is planning the opening of more than 100 rinks, and it is hoped to interest the schools in the establishment of hockey cushions in the school yards with the children themselves taking over the job of maintaining the rinks. There is no doubt that the Montreal playgrounds authorities are on firm footing in this move to educate young hockey players. It is the kind of thing that we wish we could announce as part of Peterborough's civic policy. The present situation here in that regard is something this column hates to think about. Certainly the development of youngsters in hockey has virtually ceased here. With no rink available and no junior team for several seasons, the city league and south-end leagues ceasing to operate and a general indifference on the part of the public to the whole thing, the outlook for hockey here is about as dark as it could possibly be. The one sure thing about the situation is that Peterborough is facing lean years so far as Canada's national winter game is concerned.

Hogan-Maich Match Pleases Crowd

Two powerful contenders for the coveted British Empire wrestling crown battled an hour on even terms in Frank Tunney's weekly grappling show at the Brock Street Summer Gardens Monday night when Earl McCready, Aurora farmer and John Katan, the Palermo Panther had to be satisfied with a fall each after sixty minutes' to-h wrestling.

The two rivals staged a real argument and the draw was fair to both of them. Katan, none too clean in his methods gave the clever McCready plenty to worry about especially by his effective use of the hold he calls the unconscious chin lock. To the fans it looked suspiciously like a strangle ho'd and McCready complained along the same line without getting anywhere with Referee Bert Maxwell.

Katan used the grip to even up the match after McCready had smartly taken the first fall with one of his favorite killers, the flying scissors, expertly applied and perfectly timed. That fall came after 21 minutes of spirited wrestling. Th- -anther got back on even terms with his chin lock fall in 12 minutes and then the pair battled for the balance on the hour with honors even, although McCready came close to stowing the bout away hen he clapped a rocking chair cradle hold on his big opponent and took him for a merry ride. Katan finally managed to reach the safety of the ropes to get out of the jam.

It was a fine tussle between two very strong and very capable grap- the public favorite and Katan's plers. McCready, of course, was unorthodox methods aroused the ire of the fans but that did not seem to bother the Panther very much. He set his own pace and let the boos fall where they might. Incidentally there was an amusing incident half way through the bout when after McCready had tossed Katan out through the ropes, a small boy sitting in the front row of the ringside seats, planted a kick on the back porch of the Panther's trunks. Katan glowered at his young assailant, pulled him out of his seat by one leg and then grabbed the youngster's rain coat and carried it back into the ring with him. The boy calmly climbed up the stairs, seized the wrestler's bathrobe and tossed it on to the floor of the arena.

Katan Attacks First

In the opening minutes of the bout Katan carried the attack. He was counting largely on his head holds and chin grips to do the trick for him and he had McCready in difficulties more than once. Finally however the Aurora grappler turned the tables by clapping a hammerlock on the Panther and Katan didn't like that one little bit although he finally broke the hold. Honors were fairly even for the next few minutes until McCready got an opportunity as he

Charged With Spying

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP).— Roberto Lanas Vallecillia, 35, native of Colombia employed by the United States Office of the Co-Ordinator of Inter-American Affairs was arrested Saturday on charges of espionage.

Haegg Suggests New Training

NEW YORK, Aug. 10 (AP)—Gunder Haegg's suggestion that United States milers would show a distinct improvement if they adopted his informal, rustic style of training already has brought results.

Bill Hulse, whose 4.06 mile at Cleveland 10 days ago wiped the names of Cunningham, Bonthron, Venzke and Les MacMitchell off American record books, spent his recent two-week vacation romping over the hills and dales near his home in Passaic, N.J.

That's what changed him from a so-so runner to an oh-oh star, says the 22-year-old research chemist who spent most of his collegiate career as MacMitchell's shadow at New York University.

Even now that he is back at work, Hulse gets up every morning at five for a sprint through the park before reporting for duty.

That's to keep him in shape for Haegg's farewell appearance. The two and Gil Dodds, Boston divinity student, race Wednesday evening at Randall's Island with Arne Anderssons 4:02.6-mile clocking as their immediate objective.

The young chemist probably is the tallest man to have made the select circle of milers, towering six feet two and a half inches high. He lopes through his stints with a stride that measures eight feet, in contrast to the eight-foot six-inch step of Haegg. The latter is five-eleven.

Sport Shorts From Britain

By ALAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 10 — (CP) — Knight's Daughter, a royal filly which once all but reached the auction block through a lack of promise, bids fair to emerge as Britain's best two-year-old of the season.

Giving 10 pounds to all but one rival up Newmarket way, the Daughter romped to her third successive triumph in winning the five-furlong Balsham Stakes for the King. If it hadn't been for the temperamental filly, His Majesty's stables would show no victories this year.

Lord Derby's Booby Trap, who provided one of the biggest upsets of the Derby by finishing last in the large field, finally won a race. He took an apprentice handicap affair at Newmarket. Optimists who took another chance on Booby Trap after his dismal Derby display were pleasantly shocked when bookmakers paid off at 10-1.

Incidentally, the one-day race meet, featuring eight races, started at 11:30 in the morning.

The latest acquisition to riding ranks is, no kidding, Donald Goose. A 14-year-old stable boy, he rode in a Newmarket apprentice race but didn't finish in the money. Trainer Harvey Leader, one of Britain's best, believes young Goose has the makings of a good jockey.

About Dogs: Things like this just aren't done in rationed Britain, so a trainer who fed racing greyhounds with fresh milk was fined $900. A milkman was fined $28 for supplying the milk and charging an excessive price.

The days when favorites for greyhound Derbys had police guards and top-notch racers were rushed about the country by automobile to compete in big events ceased when the first air-raid siren wailed. Nowadays even the most valuable dogs travel in the baggage coach of trains with only a boy or girl to look after them.

Take Arnold Johnston for instance. At the age of 15, he's kennelman for Trainer Sidney Orton. When he made his first trip out of London recently with two dogs valued at more than $13,000 he first had to get his mother's permission!

Boxing Bits: Jake Kilrain of Glasgow, former British welterweight champion, was punched into submission by Pat O'Connor, rising young Eire middleweight, in a London bout. The referee stopped the fight in the sixth round with Kilrain on his knees.

Deputizing for Cpl. Harry Hurst of Montreal, classy Montrealer who was unable to get leave, Jimmy Bray of Liverpool was knocked out in the last minute of a bout with Harry Lazar of London. Bray was ahead on points when his chin collided with a right hook.

Yank Out At Home In Winning Game

Johnson of the New York Yanks is tagged by Cleveland catcher, Rosar, when he tried to score for the Yanks on Teammate Russo's single to right field, in a recent game in New York. The Indians were scalped by the Yanks to the tune of 11 to 1.

Blix Donnelly Of Rochester Gets 6th Win In Month

(By The Associated Press)

It is no consolation to the remaining members in the International League, but Sylvester (Blix) Donnelly of Rochester Red Wings is back on the warpath.

The big right-handed speedball artist began the season as though the Shaughnessy circuit was to be his own personal oyster but then didn't appear in the lineup for almost a six-week period. Since July 2, however, he's been doing some of the better pitching for Manager Pepper Martin's crew and last night chalked up his sixth win in a month.

This time Syracuse was the victim—4-1—with Donnelly giving the Chiefs only five hits for his fourth triumph over them this year. He struck out four.

Since July 2 Donnelly has started 10 times, won six, lost three and was batted from the hill once before being involved in the decision.

That's still a far cry from the record of 21 triumphs he hurled for Martin's Sacramento champions in the Pacific Coast League last year when he had an earned run average of 2.84.

He won out last night when the Wings concentrated their attack and counted all their runs in the third frame, two scores coming on Earl Naylor's home run.

Buffalo Wins

The Buffalo-Newark contest, only other game played in the International League yesterday, looked as if it were going to be a 2-0 shutout for Mike Roscoe but the Bears pushed across one run in the eighth and then tallied another in the ninth to send Roscoe to the showers.

Buffalo, however, punched out the winning marker in the 3-2 game in their last turn at bat when Mayo Smith ended a batting slump by hitting a single to open the Bison half of the frame and was brought around on a sacrifice, a walk and another single. Otto Denning got Buffalo's first two runs with a homer and also contributed the sacrifice in the making of the deciding tally.

Toronto Golfer Wins Tourney

MONTREAL, Aug. 10 (CP)—Bob Gray, former Scarboro, Ont., pro, yesterday won the Quebec Victory Bond golf playoff when he shot a par 70 to edge out Gerry Proulx of Montreal by one stroke.

In third place was Rudolph Huot of Montreal with a 75, followed by Phil Farley of Toronto, only amateur entered, with 78, and Red McKenzie of Montreal also posted a 78. All five tied with scores of 149 on Friday.

Huot looked like a winner on the outgoing nine, but faded coming home when he lost his putting touch. Gray played a brilliant game throughout, finishing the first nine with a par 36 and posting a 34 for the home nine. Farley had trouble on the greens, but managed to keep up with the leaders until ragged putting put him eight strokes off the pace.

Fritzie KO's Sgt. Kid McCoy

PITTSBURG, Aug. 10 — (AP) — Fritzie Zivic, rubber-legged, flattened-nose, former welterweight king, beat Sgt. Kid McCoy last night by a technical knockout in the fourth round, the referee ending the scheduled 10-rounder after the soldier had been floored twice. Zivic weighed 149½ and McCoy 153.

The contest, 171st for Zivic in 13 years, was fairly even until Fritzie suddenly shifted his left-hand attack upon McCoy's stomach to right-hand hooks to the jaw near the end of the third.

McCoy, who held Zivic to a draw 18 months ago in New York, drew blood with a left jab to the mouth in the fourth. He missed an uppercut, and Fritzie caught him flush with a left hook. Then a terrific right dropped the Kid for eight counts. McCoy tried to slug it out, but fell again, getting up at 10, when the contest was halted.

The fight attracted about 7,500 fans to Forbes Field.

Zivic is to meet Lightweight Champion Bob Montgomery in Philadelphia August 23 in a non-title bout.

Miracle Team Needed To Start Drive

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sport Writer

The major leagues need a miracle team right now.

The baseball standings today show St. Louis Cardinals in front of the National League by 13 games and New York Yankees on top of the American League by nine. Practically everyone is taking for granted that the pennant races are over and this seems to be a fair assumption.

But it was just about this time last year that the Cardinals began their amazing drive to overhaul the Brooklyn Dodgers and go on to beat the Yankees in the World Series.

On this date a year ago the Redbirds were nine games back in second place, but starting Aug. 11 they won 11 of their next 12 games and never let up the pressure. They showed what still could be accomplished in the remaining two months of the present season if there was any challenger of the 1942 Cardinals' calibre around.

In the National League this year the Dodgers, of course, already are out of the running and neither the second-place Pittsburgh Pirates nor the third-place Cincinnati Reds are manned strong enough for a sustained drive even if the Cardinals should crack—which would be the biggest miracle of all.

The distance between first and second in the American League is not so great and Washington Senators have surged back into second place by winning nine of 11 games. Chicago, Detroit and Cleveland all are closer to the Yanks than the second-place Pirates are to the Cardinals. But all of them have had earlier chances to make their bids and have failed.

Opportunity will be knocking for the last time as the teams embark on another intersection series this week, starting with a pair of games in the American League—new York at St. Louis, today and Boston at Chicago tonight.

All clubs were idle yesterday.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Aug. 10 — (CP) — A conglomeration of comparatively useless information this week has disillusioned us. Snapshots had been one of those who ventured three kopeks (or a part thereof) across the board a couple of times a year in hopes of getting a share of the fortunes reputedly won at race tracks. Now we are told that chances of winning are slimmer than meat on a twice-picked sparerib.

First of all we learned through Jim Coleman of the Toronto Globe and Mail that Phineas T. Barnum did not originate the wisecrack that "there's a sucker born every minute." After considerable research Jimmy has discovered that the phrase was born from the tongue of Mike McDonald, a Chicago gambler. And, what is worse, the phrase is a model of conservatism. Says Jimmy: "The birthrate of the United States in 1940 was 2,360,399. There are 1,440 minutes in a day and 365 days in a year. This means that there are 525,600 minutes in year...Therefore, in the United States alone actually 4.46 suckers are born every minute. In other words we assume that every live-born child sooner or later will visit a race track."

Then came Johnny Park of the Vancouver Province, an expert on racing matters. Johnny asked 300 of Vancouver's "better known race players" if they were winner or loser on betting transactions during the first 21 days of the British Columbia racing season. Only two were paying expenses.

Trying to figure this out, we found the Dominion Government takes a five per cent cut from each pari-mutuel bet. The provincial cut varies but in most provinces it is around five per cent. The track takes a graduated cut between three and seven per cent. Therefore an average of about 15 per cent. comes off the take in in each race.

On the surface, it's hard to realize why the lads rush back the next day with more dough. Johnny Park explains it this way: The race punter will never admit he is using poor judgment or that the government and track percentage cause his losses. "He'll figure out that he was touted off at least two winners."

Guides Say President Roosevelt Rates Title Of "Regular Fellow"

Written for The Canadian Press
By WILLIAM HOGLE
(of the Sudbury Star).

BIRCH ISLAND STATION, Ont., Aug. 10 — (CP). — President Roosevelt of the United States fished and fed last week from Northern Ontario waters in the vicinity of this picturesque Indian village nine miles north of Little Current on Manitoulin Island.

Most distinguished angler ever to gaff a wall-eye in McGregor Bay or haul a small-mouth black bass from Whitefish Bay, the President enjoyed phenomenal luck and has indicated that he will return to this area again.

"He said he was coming back to Birch Island to fish again" probably next year, asid Donald MacKenie of Little Current, who acted as chief guide for the President on his fishing trips.

Ate the Fish.

"Mr. Roosevelt said he ate most of the fish he caught—he loves a real fish fry—and he also had several treats of fresh Manitoulin Island blueberries," added Charles R. Bradley, Little Current tugboat captain, who was attached to the Presidential party as official pilot.

"Even Falla (the President's black cocker spaniel) took a liking to our blueberries."

For one full week the President holidayed at the Birch Island retreat in East Algoma, living aboard his special train on a C.P.R. siding at the water's edge, and for affairs of state and formal occasion he was "officially" lost to the world during his days on Canadian soil.

Strict censorship up to to-day prevented the use of a word about the unprecedented trip—about his plans for departure from Washington on July 31, his passage from Niagara Falls to Sudbury (with every railroad crossing guarded and every switch spiked to guard against accident or design of his life), his arrival at Birch Island on August 1 and his return to American soil last week-end.

Landed Large Bass

While ostensibly a fishing and vacation outing for the President it was much more than that. The president was exhilarated by landing a 5½ pound "wall-eye" (pickerel) a four pound, 2 ounce black bass, a four pounder and many other good sized black bass. The president enjoyed eating the fish he caught and the fresh Manitoulin blueberries, and he carried home with him a bit of Canadian sunshine.

"This is the first tan I've acquired this summer," he said to Donald McKenzie. "I had though I might burn on an outing like this."

Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of staff to the commander-in-chief, tough, astute, grizzled seadog, one-time chief of naval operations and one time U.S. emissary to Vichy France, was one of the President's fishing companions.

Slim, slight, James F. "Jimmy" Byrnes, war time economic czar of the U.S. and former associate justice of the Supreme Court, cast a pearl spoon in McGregor Bay one afternoon while the President munched ham sandwiches with "hot mustard" and talked in a low monotone.

Tall, gaunt, Harry Hopkins, the presidential alter ego, was the third boon campaign of the "vacation" period.

There were others—Navy Admirals and Army Generals—and Miss Grace Tully and Mrs. James Brady—but the presence of the three leading figures of military, economic and civil affairs with the President indicated more than "holiday conversations," possibly the formulating of new external policies: Probably the shaping of new internal plans.

History may record a domestic undertaking of no mean proportions, or a foreign project of momentous consequence to all Allied nations, which was conceived on the bosom of a little island bay in Canada while "Bill" or "Jimmy" or "Hoppy" played a fighting black bass.

A Real Guy.

Many incidents can be written of the famous visit, but the most interesting is the fact that three well known men of the locale selected for the vacation—Donald McKenzie and Charles R. Bradley, of Little Current, and William "Gus" McGregor, chief of the Indian reservation of Whitefish Falls—were as close to President Roosevelt on his fishing expedition as were his three principal government advisors.

What military plans or strategy may have been made only the men concerned and the wind and waves of the Northern Ontario fastnesses know, and they are not telling.

What the President said to "Cap" Bradley while he was in the distinguished company, the many remarks to Donald McKenzie, chief fishing guide, and to William McGregor, who found the best holes in McGregor Bay for the Presidential party, may be told. All three are agreed that President Roosevelt is a "real guy."

"He was as democratic as the name of his party" observed Captain Bradley, who knows every rock and rill in the waters of the north channel and many of the watercourses of South Sudbury and East Algoma.

"He was very interested in knowing the depth of the waters, the sources and the rock formations along the shore line" Mr. Bradley continued. "He said he was familiar with the nickel industry, when I mentioned that, and seemed to be familiar with the geology of the district."

"The President was as chatty and informal as any man I have ever guided over these fishing grounds," declared Donald McKenzie, who knows the fishing waters of Whitefish Bay and the Bay of Islands thoroughly.

Champion Fisherman

"He hauled in the biggest pickerel and the biggest black bass caught, and he was as proud of his strike as any fisherman I have ever seen." Mr. McKenzie said the President used only a pearl spoon and a smaller hook in all his fishing, although he tried different sizes of hooks and spoons. His tackle was carried in a sheet metal box about five feet long and about 10 inches square, and included several different steel and split bamboo fishing rods, reels, lures, etc.

"We caught probably five to 10 pickerel and pike during the week, and more than 100 black bass, most of them small mouthed," the light-framed Scotsman estimated. "That was for the party as a whole, which included three or four fishermen every time we went out. But I think the President caught one third of all those landed.

"He seemed mighty satisfied with the fishing and his holiday, and he said he was counting on coming back to Birch Island again," Mr. McKenzie continued, in recounting some of the remembered phrases of his different "talks' with the President.

"You certainly know the fishing holes for these beauties," the President complimented Chief McGregor. "If I get a few more like this maybe I'll have one left when I get back to Washington to prove to the press boys there that I really was on a fishing jaunt."

Always Guarded

On the fishing excursions, which constituted practically his only public appearance while staying at Birch Island, the President was under constant guard but this did not seme to interfere with results. The President did his fishing from a good sized "whaleboat" which came from the U.S.S. Willmetter, a coastguard cutter which formed part of the official guard.

Commander J. M. Ross, of the "Willmette," with two or three secret service men preceded the presidential launch in another speed boat, while a third motor boat loaded with secret service men and R.C.M.P. trailed the important launch. During the fishing three and four outboard motors, containing two or three of the cpecial guards, circled the spot at a distance while the two main launches stayed on the "alert" nearby.

The President himself lived aboard the special train during the entire trip, leaving it only for fishing, and a special ramp was built from his car to the waters edge of Whitefish Bay over which he was wheeled to the launch. The only motor drive taken was on Friday when it was too windy to go fishing. The party drove northerly to Tobermory Hill and southerly to below McGregors Bay where, from a high hill, the President had a fair view of Manitoulin island and the countryside.

ing Messina first.

"It is becoming increasingly apparent," Munro wrote, "that the Canadian-British triumph at Aderno was a crippling blow. The enenmy intended to stand on the Mount Etna Line for weeks but was outguessed, out-manoeuvred, surprised and beaten as Canadian and British troops flooded into the Simeto Valley....the only thing that seemed to be holding up the pursuit were craters and demolitions on the road and a comparatively small rearguard holding out in pillboxes and machine-gun posts on the outskirts of Bronte."

Bringing this Canadian-British squeeze play to a successful conclusion, Munro said, were the Seaforth Highlanders of Canada who, supported by a Canadian tank unit, climaxed a two-day, 15-mile fighting advance by capturing the high ground dominating the Simeto River and menacing Aderno.

Leading the action, he said, was a 35-year-old Vancouver Lieutenant-Colonel who formerly was in the lumber business. Commanders in the mountain attack on Aderno were: Majors Budge Bell Irving and Jim Blair and Capt. E. W. Thomas, all of Vancouver, and Capt. W. G. Harris, of Armstrong, B.C.

Also receiving particular mention for their work in this attack, Munro added, were the Royal 22nd Regiment of Quebec and the Loyal Edmonton Regiment which went through the mountains and did "an excellent job and finished their task despite terrible conditions and the weariness of the troops."

The ferocity of the attack these regiments led against Aderno was recorded in a dispatch from L. S. B. Shapiro, war correspondent for the Montreal Gazette.

(He described the scene there after the Allied entry as "a nightmare frozen suddenly into reality ... No building stood that was not smashed beyond repair. No streets were recognizable as such until bulldosers had grunted their way through the mountains of rubble.)

Americans on the inner end of the line had smashed resistance at Cesaro and were also racing toward a junction with the 8th Army at Randazzo. From that point the forces could move eastward to Taormina on the coast or choose any or all of several roads which fan out to the north toward Cape Orlando, Cape Calava, or Cape Milazzo, now objectives of the American coastal advance.

Make Good Time

British troops on the extreme right flank of the Allied line were making good time in their advance up the narrow strip between Mount Etna and the coast.

They had stormed into and out of Acireale north of Catania and were moving steadily toward Taormina.

(The Algiers Radio reported last night in a broadcast recorded by The Associated Press that the column was nine miles from Riposto, half-way between Catania and Taormina. This would place it approximately 46 miles from Messina.)

While the land forces were methodically wiping out the last remaining Axis strongholds on the island, units of the Allied fleet not engaged in supporting land operations and air forces were maintaining a steady patrol of the sea approaches to the island to take care that the Axis neither received aid from the mainland of Italy nor was permitted to evacuate any of its beater army.

Taking part in this aerial patrolling and bombing, Louis V. Hunter, Canadian Press war correspondent, reported last night are Wellington bombers of the R.C.A.F. Sunday night, he wrote, "Wellingtons of a Canadian squadron bombed the beaches near Messina for eight hours .. .. they also bombed beaches in the neighborhood of Cape Pelaro .. .. .. and near San Giovanni, both on toe of Italy, across from Sicily."

Hunter added, "Canadian airmen played a major role in the North Africa air forces' intense attack on enemy positions and roads in northeast Sicily."

night of Aug. 2, when they made their last smashing attack on Hamburg. In the interim, however, Mosquito bombers attacked targets in the Ruhr and Rhineland last Wednesday night and also hammered the Rhineland last Saurday night while the R.A.F.'s heavy bombers were over Milan, Turin and Genoa in Northern Italy.

DNB, German news agency in a broadcast from Berlin recorded by The Associated Press, admitted that the R.A.F. raid on Mannheim caused "considerable damage" and that the "population suffered loss." The broadcast added the claim that 13 planes were shot down.

Fighter planes which participated in sweeps over Western Europe last night atacked the German airdrome at St. Didier in France and shot up railway targets near Abbeville, the Air Ministry News Service reported.

2 Fighters Down

One German fighter was reported shot down over Belgium by an R.A.F. wing commander who already had 15 enemy planes to his credit, while another was destroyed over Northern France.

Britain, meanwhile, enjoyed another raid free night.

The number of planes which participated in the Mannheim-Ludwigshafen raid was not immediately disclosed, the Air Ministry merely describing the attack as heavy. Residents on the British east coast, however, reported that great formations of planes were seen heading eastward across the English Channel just before midnight and said the moonlit sky "seemed full of them."

Preceding the night raids British fighters carried out patrols over Northern France last evening, shooting down seven enemy aircraft in dogfights. Three of the British planes, one of them Canadian, failed to return from these sweeps.

RC.A.F. fighters were also on intruder operations during the night, an R.C.A.F. communique announced today, attacking airfields and railways in France. One enemy aircraft fell to the Canadians, the communique added.

Wasting Coal

Consequently, more coal must be produced and less used, "otherwise will be several million tons short during coming winter." Normally, Caanda burns about 30,000,000 tons of coal in a year, about half of which is mined in Canada.

"During 1943," Mr. Howe said, "we expect to burn 47,000,000 tons, more than half as much again as we burn in a normal year. Our coal requirements have become greater each year since the war began."

In the past three years, the Dominion's imports from the United States have doubled, but it is not thought that Canada will be able to import as much hard coal from United States sources as in former years.

The military establishments which have been established in Canada since war began and the operation of the Royal Canadian Navy and the munitions program all have increased coal consumption while the railways account for almost a third of the coal that is used in Canada.

Commercial and other essential needs have increased greatly because of the shortage of ful oil for heating purposes. The Government," the Minister said, "will do its part to see that the householders do not freeze. But whether it will be possible to provide enough coal to maintain comfortable temperatures will depend on the householder himself and the industrial and commercial user.

"In this emergency we must all realize that it is a crime to waste coal....we will help you with your conservation plan, but the conservation program can succeed only with your active assistance.

"....I appeal to you to act tomorrow — do not wait until the heating season begins, for then it will be too late. In this way.... you can help your Government to distribute the coal supply so that no one will suffer from a lack of heat during the winter months."

The Germans were resisting the Bryansk advance stubbornly, and were paying heavily in manpower. In fighting at Shakovo, Nazi prisoners said, the 253rd Infantry Division last 50 per cent of strength and the Russians claimed that the German losses were in excess of 3,500 men.

The Moscow radio in a broadheard in London, said two Red Army generals had been killed in the fighting at Belgorod and Orel. They were identified as General Apensenko, 51, formerly with the Russian Far Eastern forces, who was killed at Belgorod, and Maj.-Gen. Gurtyev, one of the heroes of Stalingrad, who died in the fighting at Orel.

Try To Break Strike

MONTREAL, Aug. 10 — (CP). — Paul Fournier, president of the Montreal Trades and Labor Council, said in a statement yesterday his organization was attempting to arrange a meeting with Prime Minister Mackenzie King to ask that he intervene in the six-day strike of some 20,000 aircraft workers in Montreal.

HE'S OVER TOO

Cpl. Bernard M. Kearney, R.C.A. S.C., whose wife was formerly Mary Tobin, has cabled of his safe arrival overseas. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kearney Ross street, and prior to enlisting he worked in the transportation Department of the C.G.E.

SPECIAL MEETING

Mayor Hamilton has called for Thursday evening a special meeting of the council. An extra meeting during the summer months seems extraordinary. Usually municipal business in the dog days is light. It is understood that the recent application of Nicholls Hospital trustees for financial assistance in buying an new ironing machine is one subject that may be disposed of.

RATIONING HURTS.

Followers of fowl suppers are going to face a famine this fall because of tea, sugar and coffee rationing, and lawn socials too are feeling the pinch. The immacalate Conception Church social on Thursday night has dispensed with the supper and are just having a lunch booth, and it is reliably reported that many churches will not have their usual fowl suppers at all this autumn.

ILLEGAL POSSESSION CHARGED

Carmen Coons of Lakefield entered a plea of not guilty when he was charged in police court before Justices of the Peace Vincent Eastwood and Sergt. G. T. Puffer this morning with illegal possession of liuor. "I don't know anything about the beer in my car" he told the court. "It was not mine." Coons was allowed to go on adjournment to appear Wednesday morning. The charge followed the discovery of another man and a girl in Coons' car, along with several bottles of beer, according to the police report. Constable G. A. Edmison happened along and noticed the incident and the charge followed.

George Kelly and James Findlay, who entered pleas of guilty, were fined $10 and $2.50 costs when they appeared before Justices of the Peace Vincent Eastwood and Sergt. Gordon T. A GOOD CROP.

Choke-cherries are hanging in luscious red and black clusters on bushes throughout the country, producing one of the best crops in years. Many people plan on making jelly from choke-cherries and apples, claiming this is a delicacy possible under existing sugar rationing.

ESCAPES DROWNING

Jim Ferguson, 19, who lives on Edinburgh street, had a narrow escape in a canoe on Chemong Lake at 12:30 a.m. Monday morning. Paddling by himself, his canoe capsized and he was thrown in the water, unable to swim. He called for help and was heard by cottagers ashore, a number of whom put out in boats and picked him up in the nick of time.

Police Battle Woman, 2 Men At CNR Station

According to the police department, all the wrestling in Peterborough Monday night was not done at Frank Tunney's weekly show at the Summer Gardens. There was a lot of it at the C.N.R. station as well.

Constables John Morrow and G. A. Edmison were called to the station in answer to a complaint and arrested William Davis, David A. Stevens and Mrs. Jean Judd on charges of creating a disturbance. The two officers, the report states, had quite a battle on their hands, particularly with Stevens and Mrs. Judd, who are brother and sister. They finally had to handcuff the youth and drag the young woman to the police cruiser.

All three were charged in police court this morning with being drunk and were remanded until Wednesday by Justices of the Peace Vincent Eastwood and Sergt. G. T. Puffer.

They pleaded not guilty and Stevens explained that he was about to take the train for Kingston to report for military duty, as he had enlisted a few days ago. Davis, stating that he had only had a pint of beer and one glass, declared that he was not drunk and that he had merely gone to the station to see Stevens off.

500 Expected At Poultry Sessions Here

Twenty thousand copies of the program of the district poultry conference to be held in Peterborough on Wednesday, August 18, have been distributed throughout the counties of Northumberland, Durham, Prince Edward, Hastings, Victoria, Ontario and Peterborough.

Morning and afternoon sessions will be held in the Collegiate Auditorium with basket lunch at noon on the lawn of Confederation Square.

This conference has been arranged in co-operation with the poultry industry committee of Ontario for the purpose of assisting producers in getting the best results from their work and investment.

It is expected that probably five hundred poultrymen from the seven counties will attend this Peterborough meeting. Problems of the industry will be discussed by the leading poultry authorities in Canada, including Dr. W. R. Graham of Burlington, who is recognized as an outstanding leader for years in the poultry world of both Canada and the United States; Dr. F. N. Marcellus, head of the Poultry Department of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph; Prof. E. S. Snyder of the Poultry Husbandry Department, O.A.C.; N. S. Schultz, one of Canada's largest poultry producers.

E. D. Bonyman, chief market poultry inspector of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa; W. A. Brown, chief of the Poultry Services, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa; George Robertson, Dominion poultry husbandman, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa; A. F. Curran, district poultry products inspector; Dr. H. C. Weaver, poultry pathology laboratory, the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Producers are invited to submit questions up to 1 p.m. for replies during the answer hour beginning at 4 p.m.

Ernest C. Braund is chairman of the management committee in charge of arrangements; Robert M. Pierson is chairman of the program committee; and J. G. Wharry heads the publicity committee.

Parker Family Total $1,087 For War Victims

From an individual standpoint, the work that Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Parker of Route 1, Norwood, have done to alleviate the sufferings of the victims of air raids over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund, stands out as a shining example of what can be accomplished when one has an objective for good of others before them, and go actively to work on its behalf.

Altogether there are only five sources from which the fund has received donations to the fund, which in themselves have each passed the thousand dollar mark, and this happens to be one of them and being confined to the activities of only two people, it stands out all the more prominently in the records of the fund.

The latest effort was another supplying of the regular market stall last Saturday by Mrs. Parker with the majority of the garden produce which was offered for sale, and it takes a fair amount of that to produce the sum of $5.60 which is registered in her name to-day, among which is 50 cents which was donated by Mrs. Nixon who lives in the same district as Mrs. Parker.

A bouquet of flowers and some beans from Miss M. Rodney's garden supplemented the produce which was brought in from Norwood, and should any others care to assist in a similar manner next Saturday, they will find Mrs. Parker again at the stall, making the fourth week in a row she has taken charge of this one activity on behalf of the fund.

Sold Tickets, Too.

Not to be outdone by his lady, Mr. Parker took fifty tickets to help along the gladiolus and aquarium show to be held this Wednesday, and sold them all, the returns from which will appear in due course when this event is fully reported, but suffice it to say, their joint activities on behalf of the British air raid victims has now risen to the impressive total of $1,087.15, a remarkable achievement for two people whose geographical situation is not such that they are contstantly in touch with a great many people.

The personal element of the givings to the fund is recorded to-day with a contribution under the heading of "I.H.N. per W.K.L." this also being a repeat of money given on former occasions in the same manner; and from the Peterborough Pet Stock Store on Charlotte Street comes $1.10, being the result of the sale of a few packets of seed, and the contents of one of fund's penny boxes located in that store.

Free Door Prizes.

An extra attraction has been added to the many others at the gladiolus and aquarium show to be held this Wednesday afternoon and evening when all those who attend will be given a free ticket allowing them a chance on two more prizes, the first of which will be an aquarium of fish and the other some very choice gladiolus bulbs. The Market Hall will be open to the general public at 1:30 p.m. and the show will be continuous from then to the end of the event itself.

The general public, besides all exhibitors, are given a cordial welcome to be on hand to witness the judging, and there is still time for entries to be made, as the closing time for these is set at 12 noon on Wednesday when all exhibits must be in their places. There is no entry fee, and all may enter irrespective of whether they belong to either of the two societies or not. For details regarding the gladiolus section, telephone H. B. Ball at 9102, and for the aquarium section call C. H. Bacon at 9021.

Highway Car Crash Upsets One Vehicle

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Jones, Rubidge street, suffered fractured ribs and bruises when their car rolled over three times after a collision at the intersection of the boundary road and the 9th line of Dummer road, a mile north of Norwood, Sunday night.

Jones was driving west along the boundary road and Charles Frederick of Norwood north on the 9th line. At the intersection, according to Provincial Constable Archie Grayling of Havelock who investigated the crash, Frederick's car collided with the rear bumper of the other car which rolled over three times.

Frederick escaped unhurt, and his car also came through the accident practically undamaged.

Drunk Driving Count Follows Mishap

Arrested by Constable John Morrow on Charlotte street Monday night, after his car had collided with a Hydro pole, William Russell, R.R. 11, Peterborough, faced a charge of drunken driving when he was arraigned before Justices of the Peace Vincent Eastwood and Sergt. G. T. Puffer in police court today.

According to Constable Morrow's report the officer was patrolling his beat when he noticed Russell's car with a badly crumpled rear fender resting against a Hydro pole. Russell, the officer reported, was working with a jack at the rear of the machine and attempted to drive off as the officer appeared on the scene. Constable Morrow placed the man under arrest.

This morning Russell was remanded until Wednesday without being asked to plead.

Relief Drops During Year

The number of persons receiving relief last month was 91 as compared with 152 in July a year ago, as reported at the meeting of the welfare committee Monday, with Alderman Glover presiding.

At the same time the per capita disbursement of assistance was up from $5.75 last year to $9.06 in July. Each person on Welfare Officer Metheral's list received last month $3.31 more than in the corresponding month a year ago.

While the number of persons had declined from 152 to 91, the month's cost was only slightly less than a year ago, $874.10 as against $824.90 in July this year.

Total expenditure by the committee to the end of July was $10,451.65, but contributions by the Ontario Government and the Ontario Medical Association amounted to $3,753.30, leaving $6,698.35 paid from the city treasury.

The city's welfare appropriation for the year is $15,000, and the credit left for five months is $6,851.65.

Ohio Lady Gets 25-lb. Muskie

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Ratchford of Canton, O., guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dunkerley at Casement Island, Stoney Lake, were leaving for home today with a twenty-five pound lunge which Mrs. Ratchford caught Sunday morning.

The big muskie was packed in ice and on its way by express, a prize to be displayed to friends in Cantonas evidence of the fishing in old Stoney Lake.

Mrs. Ratchford gets full credit for the hooking of this big fellow, but it is altogether likely that her husband had a hand in its landing after a twenty-minute battle. The Canton visitors were delighted with their vacation. This was their second trip into Kawarthadom, and the luck of fishing repaid them with the biggest fish caught in Stoney Lake this season.

English Export Paper

LONDON, Aug. 10—(CP Cable).—For the first time since January 21, 1941, yesterday's issue of the Daily worker could be exported from Britain. Lifting of the ban on export of the paper took effect yesterday, ending a long controversy in which numerous sections of the British public argued the question whether it should be allowed abroad.

Officers, NCO's Hauled From Beds Given Blanket Toss By Rangers

A lot of tired soldiers arriving back in Peterborough Sunday night disembarked from their train at 8:40 p.m. and hurried to the Armouries to dispose of baggage and equipment before dispersing to their homes and returning to the routine life of ordinary citizens.

They were officers and men of the Prince of Wales Rangers (R.F.) who have just concluded a two weeks' camp at Connaught Ranges, near Ottawa.

Drawn up for final assembly at the Armouries, after Company C had provided a baggage detail at the station and the remainder of the battalion had assisted with unloading at headquarters, their commanding officer, Lieut.-Col. M. H. Park, V.D., expressed approval of the spirit of all and satisfaction at the amount of vital training absorbed by the battalion in its two weeks away from home.

Two welcome announcements climaxed the proceedings as the weary soldiers prepared to be dismised and let warm thoughts of home and the bed in it run through their minds. It was announced that on Tuesday there would be a pay parade for all those who participated in the camp, and further, that no more parades would be called for a period of three weeks. Then the order of dismissal was given, the ranks broke up and everybody went home.

Everybody, that is, but a gallant party of volunteers under command of Major V. M. Eastwood, M.C., who were not to arrive back until Monday morning at 3 a.m. These men stayed at camp after the others had departed in order to store away the damp canvas not dry enough to pack at the hour the battalion was scheduled to leave for home. This rear party comprised: Major Eastwood, G.M.S. Chapman, C.S.M. Miller, L.-Cpl. Howson, Pte. Kelly, Pte. Wellman, Pte. Barry, Pte. Hagadoran, Boy Peters, Boy Dunn and Boy Anderson.

"In general, it was the best camp we have ever had," Col. Parks said. "Demonstrations by brigade headquarters were excellent and very realistic, marksmanship and range scores of battalion members showed much improvement, and the spirit and interest of the men was maintained at high pitch throughout the training period. There was very little sickness, and food and sanitary conditions were very good."

Dummy Attack

Prominent among the demonstrations put on by brigade headquarters for the troops in training at Connaught Ranges was an exhibition of a platoon in attack. In this demonstration aircraft were represented by small balloons released in sets of three and fired at overhead by attackers armed with rifle and Bren gun. Very few balloons escaped the marksmanship of this platoon, which put its heart in its performance and made the instruction a very realistic show.

The modern system of coaching and practice acquired by firing on the local range earlier in the summer proved their value at Connaught Ranges. Battalion marksmanship was of a high order, and no man who had not previously been coached was allowed to shoot on the range. Revolver practice and practice with the Reising submachine gun were held by the officers.

Particular interest was shown by all Rangers in the various night schemes. In one of these an attacking party led by Major J. P. McGrath, M.M., marched by compass bearing to a point where it took up positions to stage a surprise offensive over rising, rough ground against a defending party well-entrenched in strong positions. On another night, chosen perhaps with malice aforethought for its almost impenetrable darkness, the battalion was divided into 10 sections, each with a leader, and started off to find its way around a triangular course over difficult terrain with no guiding light beyond a man's skill in taking compass bearings. Prizes were awarded the sections returning nearest to the finish line and in the shortest time, and Lieuts. L. W. Copp and G. Langhorne, leaders of their sections, divided a prize of cigarettes as the high-honor men of the evening. They landed no further than 16 yards from the finish mark.

Sports Program

Attention was paid to competitive sports, and on a day set aside for inter-unit challenges between all sections of the camp, the following group of stalwarts represented the Rangers in the tug-of-war: Maj. Eastwood, Maj. McGrath, C.S.M. Kennedy, R.Q.M.S. Chapman, Pay Sgt. Huggins, Pte. Amos and Pte. Andrews. A grenade-throwing contest was staged by the battalion and all hands marvelled at the wonderful technique and remarkable accuracy of C.Q.M.S. Mihaud, who is a veteran of the Great War. Pte. Reid won second prize in this event.

Arrangements were made for battalion members to get leaves to go into Ottawa, and a sight-seeing tour of the capital was participated in by a large number. To the young lads especially this was a real thrill. Entertainment was provided by the district canteen services, movies were shown almost every night, and often the men sat around in the evening and indulged in story-telling and sing-songs.

Tossed in Blankets

The Rangers were the first battalion in the whole camp to get all their stores into ordnance and clean up their lines Sunday morning. This they did with a right good will, musing fondly over the fun they had had the night before.

In the deep quiet of the night battalion members roused themselves from slumber and held an unscheduled blanket-tossing parade that took the mighty non-coms and omnipotent officers completely by surprise. Beginning with the regimental sergeant major, they went on down the line raising considerable havoc and bouncing every officer they could lay their hands on. No one was exempted, and justice was executed on all. Lieut. Graham Eastwood, thinking to escape his punishment, took cover in the ice-box, but was dragged, cowering, from his cold refuge. A very respectful, but equally insistent request was made upon all officers to turn out. It is asserted on the authority of usally reliable sorces that Major McGrath was the hardest to toss.

As an anti-climax to the fortnight's proceedings, it was stated Monday by R.S.M. Harold Chate that quite a number of knives, forks and spoons are missing from the battalion stores. A desperate search has been instituted, but the missing cutlery is still missing. Sgt. Chate is sympathetic to the human tendencies of souvenir-hunters, but reluctantly declares that if this engaging habit is responsible for the disappearance of his hardware, everybody must come across, because the knives, forks and spoons are Government property.

Tire Blows Out Ditches Toronto Car

Two men received minor injuries and an automobile was considerably damaged when a tire blew out on a car on Highway 7, five miles west of Norwood Monday night.

As a result of the blowout the driver, Thomas Gordon, Toronto, lost control of his machine and it hurtled off the highway into the ditch, where it rolled over and came to rest on its top with the four wheels in the air. The automobile suffered a lot of damage as a result of the crash.

Gordon, however, escaped with minor cuts and bruises, and a passenger, Girard Lajoie of Montreal, whom Gordon was giving a ride, got off with a cut on his wrist.

Provincial Constable Archie Grayling of Havelock investigated the accident.

Pte. Albert Maudsley Wounded In Sicily

Another Sicilian casualty has been reported in the person of Pte. Albert Edward Maudsley, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Maudsley, 489 Park street. The nature and extent of his wounds have not yet been ascertained.

He is serving with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment and has been overseas since 1941. Up to the time of his enlistment he was employed at Fannings Laundry. His brother Earl, 22, has been overseas with the Engineers since March of 1940, and his father, Pte. William Maudsley, is serving with the Veterans Guard as Montieth.

Wallace Barton Said Missing

Wing Commander Wallace Barton, D.F.C., of the R.A.F., a former Peterborough boy whose mother, Mrs. Albert Barton, resides in Guelph, has been reported missing.

He was born and educated here and became interested in the R.A.F. while still at college and joined up in 1937, and at the outbreak of the war he held the rank of flying officer. He won the D.F.C. for his work during the evacuation at Dunkerque and returned to Canada on compassionate leave.

Since the Battle for France, Wing Cmdr. Barton has seen a great deal of action, and in 1942 at the age of 24 he was promoted to the rank of wing commander.

He is a member of a fighting family, for an older brother, also an R.A.F. officer, was killed in 1939 in a crash, and he has several relatives also serving. His father died since the outbreak of the war.

WING CMDR. W. BARTON

Sgt. Innes Overseas

A cable has been received by Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Innes, 480 Bolivar Street, stating that their son, Sgt. Eric Innes, R.C.A.F., has arrived safely overseas. He was employed at the C.G.E. before he enlisted in May, 1942.

Burleigh Man Fined For Horses At Large

After hearing evidence for the defence at an afternoon session of police court Monday Magistrate E. A. Gee registered a conviction against Robert Wilson, Burleigh township farmer, who was charged with allowing horses to run at large on the Burleigh Falls-Apsley section of Highway 28.

The charge against Wilson had been laid by Provincial Traffic Officer L. A. McClure, following an accident in which a car had been ditched and badly damaged when the driver, James Reid, tried to swerve to avoid hitting two horses on the highway.

Called by defense counsel, Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., Wilson took the witness box at the afternoon session and said that at 4 o'clock in the afternoon he had put his horses in a pasture field near his house and had closed the bars on the gate. Afterward he had heard that the horses were out and he had spent some time trying to find them.

Wilson said that the Lean property adjoined his, and his horses could get into that property from where he had left them. There was a gate leading from the Lean land to the highway and in answer to a question from the magistrate Wilson admitted that he had not gone to see whether that gate was barred or not.

Magistrate Gee found the accused guilty and imposed a fine of $5 and costs, the latter amounting to $18.50.

Dalliday, 7th Canadian Field Regiment, overseas. Also surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Walter Belleghem of Peterborough and Mrs. E. Pettifer of Toronto, and two brothers, Harold Knapman of Picton and John Knapman of Toronto.

Stores Forward Petitions To Close Early

Two petitions for early closing on Saturday nights, one from the retailers of men's clothing and the other from barbers, were reported to the Police Commission yesterday as being substantially signed, and will be returned to the city council with official confirmation.

Barbers are asking for closing at 8 p.m. Saturday and evenings before holidays, and men's wear dealers are planning to end their week on Saturday at 6 o'clock.

The report to the Commission was forwarded by Chief Constable Newhall and City Clerk Outram, following routine procedure preparatory to requests for amendments to the present bylaws affecting the two groups of petitioners.

Such petitions are received by the council and are referred to Chief Newhall for verification of the signatures. It then remains for City Clerk Outram to ascertain whether the petitions are signed by at least three-quarters of the shops in each group.

Check On Radio

The Commission appointed John Clarke, radio technician, to assume charge of the maintenance of the police radio equipment at a salary of $300 a year. Mr. Clarke and Stewart Daniel recently completed a thorough renovation of the two-way radio apparatus of the police department.

In his police appointment Mr. Clarke will be required to keep the radio equipment in working order by at least weekly examination and adjustment.

County Prisoners

The Commission with Judge Smoke presiding decided to take no action on the city council's proposal as suggested by Alderman Gordon that overnight detention of county prisoners be transferred to the jail instead of continuing the present use of the cells at the police station.

Enquiry by correspondence as to the practice in other cities in Peterborough's population category obtained the information they follow the present local practice. Kingston, Oshawa, Belleville and St. Catharines were four of the cities from whom replies were received. All of them permit use of the city police department cells for detention of county prisoners over night and until they are brought before a magistrate the following morning.

The council decided not to alter this local police practice.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, August 11.

While there may be excellent prospects of reaching high place and security, probably through the intervention or friendly aid of those in influence and accepted position, yet several factors are at work to make imperative the use of personal harmony, amiability and good grace. Elders and associates, or institutions might be easily alienated. Placate these and safeguard all intimate relationships.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may marshal their forces and best abilities and resources for the attainment of high objectives, especially if this be in direction of public office, community service or other lofty ambition.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

(By The Canadian Press)

Empire City track, within sound of New York's Broadway, will be Goshen, N.Y., Wednesday—in name if not in atmosphere—with the holding of the 1943 Hambletonian. The Grand Circuit classic has been brought to the big city because of war-time difficulties.

The Hambletonian, named after the famous horse whose remains were interred at Goshen, has been held at the historic spot since 1930 and the crowds each year had ranged up to 40,000. The purse for the inaugural running at Syracuse in 1926 was $73,000 but with 15 starters this time the money will be around $40,000. The popular favorite is Volo Song and two contenders, Phonograph and Worthy Boy, are blood relatives. The Hambletonian record of 2:01½ was set by Shirley Hanover some years back and the best time this season by any of the three name horses was 2:02¾, made by Phonograph in the championship Stallion Stakes at North Randall, Ohio.

There will be a Gotham touch to the 1943 classic and the Ladies Aid will not be rushing with preparations for fried chicken dinners country style. But the mutuel handle is expected to be heavy when the city folks watch 70-year-old Ben White guide Volo Song around the Oval in an effort to score his fourth Hambletonian win.

Kay Byrne of Rye, N.Y., and Catherine Fox of Glen Ridge, N.J., both scored two-below-par 74's in the qualifying round yesterday of the Women's Eastern Amateur Golf championships at the Evanston, Ill., golf club, leading the parade of 32 qualifiers.

Brooklyn Dodgers lost no time in grabbing a 22-year-old outfielder even though it was only for a month. Eugene Hermansky, who batted .341 for Olean in the Pony League in 1941, was released from the U.S. Coast Guard to enter the aviation wing of the Navy in a month's time. The Bums signed him up for the month.

In his 1943 turf debut, Alsab tried hard yesterday at Pawtucket, R.I., but the best he could get was third in the $5,000 Pawtucket Handicap, opening feature at Narragansett Park. J. B. Hatfield's Cherrydale led from start to finish for his fifth straight win.

He Isn't Dead

A report at New York that Jimmy Slattery, world's light-heavyweight champion in 1930, had died at Kings County Hospital was exaggerated. The real ex-champ, all the while, was busily engaged as an iron-worker in his home town, Buffalo.

President Branch Rickey of the Brooklyn Nationals took the rap from critical fans yesterday for the Dodgers' long slump but declared that, unfortunately, it had been necessary because he was engaged in rebuilding the team.

A 17-year-old high school boy of Passaic, N.J., who batted .490 with the school team for which he played shortstop, signed a contract with the New York Giants, it was announced last night. The youth, Dick Lajeskie, said he had agreed to accept a $10,000 bonus for signing. His father is Charlie Lajeskie, first baseman with Boston Braves in 1926.

Horses Plentiful For 14-Day Race Meet

TORONTO, Aug. 10—P. G. Demetre, managing director of Stamford Park, estimates 400 horses will be stabled on the grounds or in the vicinity when the 14-day meeting of the Belleville Driving and Athletic Association at Niagara Falls, Ont., gets under way Saturday, Aug. 21.

Practically all the stables seen in action at Hamilton will be flying their silks at the popular Niagara Falls oval. Among them will be such outfits as Garden City Stable, Charles Hemstead, Fred Schelke, MacDonald Stable, C. George McCullagh, Cosgrave Stable, Medway Stable, M. Fishman, A. J. Halliwell, Chris Stable, Spring Brook Stable, Mrs. T. Stevenson, Mrs. J. Bedame, W. G. Campbell, Paul B. Codd, Groton Stable, Riverdale Stable, J. E. Frowde Seagram, and Rose Mountain Stable.

Hogan-Maich

came off the ropes to launch a flying scissors and pinned Katan's shoulders to the mat.

The wrestlers returned to the ring ahead of the referee and Katan was about to stage a Pearl Harbor attack upon his opponent when the crowd shouted a warning and Katan gave up the idea as he saw that McCready was all set for the assault. However the Palermo mat artist showed that he didn't need to use such methods to even up the argument for he started in to work on McCready with a series of head holds. Earl got out of one cleverly with a quickly applied neck scissors that Katan had a lot of difficulty breaking. When he did get loose he came back with a series of chin locks that weakened McCready and he was finally able to drop him for the fall after 12 minutes.

McCready's rocking chair cradle hold featured the final battling. He rolled Katan around the ring half a dozen times like a merry-go-round and it looked to be all over but the shouting until Katan managed to save his scalp by reaching the ropes. Both men were out of the ring soon ofter, McCready tossing Katan out first and then following him. Katan got back first and refusing to let opponent come through the ropes tried to count him out. McCready solved that problem by grabbing the Panther by the leg and pulling him out of the ring again.

A Rowdy Bout

Housepainter Hogan who acts and looks more like a bird who would haunt a house rather than paint one and Jumping Joe Maich staged a semi-final that was a riot. It ended in a draw after 30 minutes of concentrated rough-house. Hogan a mat rogue of the deepest dye trotted out all of his mean tricks and the fans would have cheerfully seen him drawn and quartered. Maich, always a favorite, had every man, woman and child in the place rooting for him and he was no panty waist either in his methods. The two did about everything but pry loose the steps into the ring and hit each other with them. Rabbit punches, kicking, pile-driving and everything else went and Referee Bert Maxwell had his hands full. Several times he was in the thick of the argument and once Hogan grabbed the official by the hair and tossed him for a total loss. It was a half hour of near-murder and fans lapped it up. Hogan protested vehemently at the draw decision and for some time refused to leave the ring, remaining to argue loud and long with Referee Maxwell.

Toar Morgan, popular marine had too much moxy for George Tofalos the Grunting Greek in the opening bout on the card. Morgan took the fall in 15 minutes, softening up the noisy Greek with a series of rabbit punches and then flopping him with a body slam and spread for the kill. Prior to the fall the Marine who was a head taller than his opponent had Tofalos tied up like a pretzel most of the time. He was easily the better man.

Fred Scates did the announcing and timing and Bert Maxwell of Toronto refereed all three bouts.

Top Ranking Officers Torpedoed By Japs

By WILLIAM HIPPLE
Associated Press War Correspondent

U.S. Headquarters in the South Pacific, Aug. 10 (AP).—Three top-ranking officers directing the United States offensive in the Central Solmons narrowly escaped disaster at the outset of the campaign, June 30, it was disclosed to-day.

Lt.-Gen. Millar F. Harmon, commanding United States' army forces in the South Pacific, and Rear Admirals R. K. Turner and T. S. Wilkinson, jointly commanding amphibious operations in the South Pacific, were aboard an unidentified ship which was torperoed and sunk by a Japanese submarine near Pendova Island, near New Georgia.

Gen. Harmon and the two Admirals were not injured. A destroyer came alongisde and took them off before the ship sank.

Identification of Harmon, Wilkinson and Turner as commanders of army and amphibious navy operations under Admiral William F. Halsey in the current campaign has not been disclosed before.

Your Dreams May Tell Secrets About Yourself

Should He Ignore His Dream?

"Lucky that was just a dream," he thinks, "or I'd lose my job."

But he's wrong. No dream is "just a dream." Often it reveals something in yourself that you never knew — and perhaps should know.

You, too, may have dreamed that you FORGOT to go to work. You looked at the clock and it said 5 p.m.! That dream, coming from the secret storehouse of your mind, may mean that you're trying to evade some responsibility. Or you fear that inefficiency (in life itself) is causing you to fail.

Dreams, you see, can really help when you take them to heart. You may dream of stains, inkspots, because you're feeling guilty about something. Thinking out what it might relieve you greatly.

Instead of lightly dismissing these dreams, use them to help solve your problems. Our 32-page booklet gives the scientific explanations for several dreams—flying, falling off a cliff, running from wild animals and other typical dream situations. Tells why some dreams are "prophetic."

For your copy of THE MEANING OF DREAMS send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

MAKE THE VITAL PLAY

CONCENTRATING on what is absolutely essential to the success of your contract, if you can figure out what is, will pay you handsome dividends in the long run. Many a player sees a number of plays which may contribute to the desired result, but does not realize that one of them is absolutely necessary, whereas the others come under the head of superfluities. So his trying of the unnecessary move causes him to fumble the vital one.

After West opened the heart Q to the K, South decided to ruff a club loser, and try to discard his heart by setting up a diamond. So he at once led the club 4 from dummy, and let East hold it with the Q. A heart return knocked out the dummy's A, and declarer's goose was cooked. He played to the club A, scored the diamond K and A, ruffed the club 9 with the spade 7, ruffed a diamond with the spade 6, setting up two diamonds because the suit divided, but still could not use them. There was no use going to dummy with a trump to play them while East still had a trump for ruffing, so he scored four trumps and had to give up a heart at the end.

Keen analysis would have shown South that, after one heart top was out of dummy, the only chance for his contract was to find the diamonds divided evenly and to set them up before the other heart top was knocked out as a re-entry. Sure the opponents would whack at the heart again if they got the lead, he should not have let them get it until the diamonds were set up.

After taking the first heart trick, he should have scored his two diamond tops, then the spade A, K and Q, ruffed the diamond 7 with the spade 6, scored the spade J, led to the heart A, taken the remaining two diamonds for discards of one club and a heart, led to the club A and then given up a trick with his final club. Concentrating on the crux of the hand would have made his contract for him.

Salvage Expert Assists Navy

OTTAWA, Aug. 10 — (CP). — In the salvage and towing business up and down the British Columbia coastline he was known as "Bill" Dolmage. Now it's Lt.-Cmdr. W. G. Dolmage, R.C.N.V.R., of Vancouver, and he's putting his peacetime experience to good use with the Royal Navy in one of the most unique occupations of the war.

The Royal Canadian Navy told to-day in a press release how in less than two years he has helped send 100 stranded or disabled ships back to sea, including a Nazi U-boat which fell into British hands.

Lt.-Cmdr. Dolmage, 37, joined up in September, 1940, on the understanding that he would be posted to overseas duty.

He asked for action, and he got it.

Posted to Iceland, he was so busy in his first year—when merchant ship sinkings were high and his repair men kept constantly on the job—that he had exactly one day's leave. He worked Easter, Christmas, New Year's, and all the regular holidays.

His salvage score now stands at 26 wrecked or stranded ships back at sea, and 75 repaired. After a spot of foreign service leave in Canada, he's ready to take his place as a salvage expert on the invasion front.

HOW TO RELIEVE PILE TORTURE
QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I.D.A. or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore, tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use is highly recommended, and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money.—(Advt.)

MARMORA, Aug. 10 — (ENS)—Details of how he was wounded are contained in a letter receeived by Mrs. Bruce Wright from her son, Pte. Robert Wright, on Saturday. The letter, sent by air mail July 21 from North Africa.

"I just got off my bike when a shell hit the gas tank and it went up in flames. I've just found out the Germans are playing for keeps. I lost all my kit but what clothes I had on my back. As I was leaving in the ambulance I gave my revolver to one of my corporals.

"I was sent from dressing station to dressing station. When they operated on my arm they took off my shirt, boots, socks, wrist watch and paybook and all I had on was my drill boots when I came to, and that's all I've still got. When the nurses saw me they asked me if I was turning Arab—no boots and the sand was hot. I was talking to one of the reporters to-day. He was asking all about the battle."

C.C.F. Tells Labor To Avoid Any Company Unions

KIRKLAND LAKE, Aug. 10 — (CP).—"There is no place for the company union, join your established trade union," was the message delivered by three newly - elected C.C.F. members of the Ontario Legislature at a mass meeting of Kirkland Lake miners held Sunday night for the purpose of swelling the ranks of local 240, Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers' Union (C.I.O.) The union is opposing the application of workmen's councils at the local mines for certification as collective bargaining agents for the miners.

The C.C.F. members who addressed the meeting were W. J. Grummett, South Cochrane; Robert Carlin, Sudbury, and C. H. Taylor, Temiskaming.

In every instance they stated they, as C.C.F. representatives, would first be answerable to, and take their direction from the local C.C.F. clubs and the local trade unions.

They declared themselves bound to the trade unions and answerable to them for their conduct in the Ontario Legislature in relation to the formation of, and application of proper legislation "with teeth in it," that would enable the workers to "gain their rights." C. H. Taylor, Temiskaming, termed local mine managers "wooden-heads" for their failure to negotiate with local 240.

The three C.C.F. members elect appealed to the miners, and the trade unions, to send "many delegations" to Queen's Park in order that the C.C.F. party would be kept advised of their needs.

Mr. Carlin said the miners and smelter workers in Sudbury were now organized 10,000 strong behind the Sudbury branch of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers' Union and would soon seek certification as the bargaining agent for the mine workers in that area. He stated that soon, a similar appeal would be made covering the 20 gold mines in this area with the view of naming local 240, Kirkland Lake, and local 241, Timmins, as bargaining agents for the miners in the gold areas.
